ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Eugene Hale has been elected Senator from Maine. An agricultural convention will be held in Mansfield, Ohio, January 25 and 26. Six men lost their lives by the explosion of a boiler in a puddle mill at Allentown, Pa., last week. A million or more of Russian peasants are on the verge of starvation, owing to a partial failure of the crops last year. There were five persons hanged last Thursday in this country—two in Pennsylvania, two in New Jersey and one in Oregon. Frank N. Brown, aged 21, was shot by his father, in Williamsburg, N. Y., while protecting his mother from the latter's violence. The ship Indian Chief, from Middleborough, England, for Yokohama, has been wrecked near the entrance to the Thames river. Eighteen persons were drowned. Near Coffeyville, Kansas, on New Year's day, Miss Henrietta Bailey and Charles Dilley, who were to be married in a few days, committed suicide by taking strychnine. The remains of some unknown man were found scattered along the Pennsylvania road, near Scranton, Pennsylvania, to Leamington Place, a distance of eleven miles, Wednesday morning. David Matlin, of Stark County, Ohio, while sleighing the other night, was so badly frozen that his legs had been amputated, and it is thought that his hands will have to be taken off. Omar D. Conger, the new Republican Senator from Michigan, is an Ohio man, and a graduate of the Western Reserve College. He has, however, resided in Michigan thirty-two years. The jury in the trial of Mrs. Brown, at Indianapolis, for the murder of her husband, returned a verdict Thursday afternoon of murder in the first degree and a sentence of imprisonment in the Woman's Reformatory for life. The determined efforts of a dog saved the lives of a man and his wife, occupants of a burning building, at Chicago, yesterday morning. The faithful brute burst into their bedroom and awoke them from their slumbers. Senator Pendleton is of the opinion that the "Democrats have recovered from their late defeat almost entirely." Is it so? Mr. Pendleton is as sanguine as the Irishman who pronounced for a sum of money to be taken from a workman out of a paltry five dollars, would defend the public treasury, had he an opportunity. Good evening, sir. "For a Summer Horse." From the Detroit Free Press. The blacksmith shops at the head of Griswold street had scarcely opened their doors yesterday morning when a colored man appeared with a sum of money and a horse which had been taken from a workman by turns on the slippery snow. He horses ever lived over 100 years this one had that figure. His hair was long, one eye was closed, and he had so many lumps that it seemed useless to look for a sound leg. "What a fine horse!" began the owner, after he had taken from the man about what it will cost to shoe his horse. "Two dollars," was the prompt reply. "For de land's sake!" but he riz up to dat pitch? I'll have to dwell on dat for a few minits." He dwelt. He walked around his steed, looked him over carefully and then said to the smith: "Now, see hyar. If you war me wouldn't you sort of keep his beast for a summer, as an extra winter haulin' on a hand sled?" "I would." "Dat's what I war finkin' bout, and I guess I'll save him over till April and call myself a hoss frew dew winter. Seems like 'stravagance goin' by gibes for me and shes fur him all at once." "No, no, no, Philander—none of your pullin' up heetchin' posts 'round yer!" "A Story That Won't Keep." It may be a little early for a Fourth of July story, but the following, regarding a Harvard student, is too good to keep. He had returned to his native village to spend the Fourth, and, among other things, he had taken for a winter haulin' on a hand sled. "Why, how do you dew?" he heard him to be college down in Boston. "John modestly admitted the fact, and he tried to explain it." "The answer came low, but distinct: 'Can you tell me better when I know if you have kept your word? Have you found her for me? If not, how dare you come near me?' 'Ah!' with rising passion, 'you haven't! I see it in your eyes! I tell you, I've killed my man before now, and I'll have no trifling! Do you hear? Dead men tell no tales, they say, but it falls! He stood up and said: 'Go away!' and the madman sank down upon the floor in the most abject terror. He saw with his disordered vision sights not visible to us." "Suddenly his mood changed, and he started up eagerly. 'Have you seen my pretty Evelyn, whom I drove out into the night? Ah, she was mated to a bird of prey, and he tore her happiness into shreds, just as I will pull you limb from limb!' 'With a wild cry he sprang forward, but the keeper was too quick for him, and he found the door shut and bolted in his face. 'He turned to me: 'Isn't he terror, Doctor?' 'But that name—Evelyn—had roused a train of thought in my brain that shut out the keeper's words. 'It was Louis Beauchamp. At last I held the key to the mystery which had brighted that young wife's happiness. He was undoubtedly mad even at that early period. 'I left directions with the keeper

Sunday Reading.

"I see the world," said good old John Newton nearly a hundred years ago, "two heaps, one of misery, the other of happiness. It is but little I can do to take from the one heap and add to the other, but let me do what I can. If a child has lost a halfpenny, and if by giving it another I can give him a penny, I feel that I am doing something. I would gladly do a greater thing if I could, but let me do this little thing." In all this, John Newton was just following his Master, who "went about doing good." Let us all seek to have the same spirit in us.

Who is this young girl, so gently following the poor lame boy down the steps at the Sabbath school door? We do not know. But we think we know something about her. "By their fruits ye shall know them," and we know her by her fruit. She has the opportunity, and she is doing a little deed of kindness; so we are sure she has a kind heart within. That is the root, and this is the fruit.

Perhaps there are some of our readers (are you one of them?) who never did a kindness to anybody in their lives. They think of no one but self—their own pleasure, their own profit. But there are others, we know, who try, like John Newton, to be always taking a bit from the one heap and adding it to the other. Among their brothers and sisters at home—among their companions at school—wherever they go—they are always trying to be of use, and to show kindness to others.

Which of the two kinds of boys and girls is the happier? Which is the most like Christ? "It's all aimed!" The ruin of a Sunday school—at least for one of its members—was thus pathetically announced by him to a missionary of the American Sunday School Union in North Carolina. This may prove some other teacher guilty of such a ruin.

It is not an easy matter to arrange for profitable employment on the farm during winter beyond the immediate care of stock. The chief object will be to get everything out of the way which will take up time and interfere with the active labors when spring opens.

Winter Farm Work. It is not an easy matter to arrange for profitable employment on the farm during winter beyond the immediate care of stock. The chief object will be to get everything out of the way which will take up time and interfere with the active labors when spring opens.

Prayer is the great remedy against anger, for it must suppose in some degree removed before we pray, and then it is more likely it will be finished when the prayer is done. We must lay aside the act of anger as a preparation to prayer; so that if a man, to cure his anger, resolves to address himself to God in prayer, it is first necessary that by his own observation and diligence he lay the anger aside, before his prayer can be fit to be presented; and when we so pray, and so endeavor, we have all the blessings of prayer which God hath promised to it to be our security for success.

What numberless perplexities, and difficulties, and dangers shall we escape by having our conversation in heaven; and thereby making God our Refuge and Strength! Many cares and temptations under which we now sink will at once vanish, and away, if we considered ourselves as citizens of Heaven, and if our only joy was that our names are written there. But how can we expect that heaven should be our portion hereafter, unless our heart and our treasure are there now?

Every man's own besetting sin is the tempter. You love God; you walk upon the sea; the swellings of this world are under your feet.
