Alumni Secretary's Column

ROBERT B. BROWN

As I have indicated from time to time in this column, the nature of my work has changed considerably since the first few months of my administration of the Alumni Secretary's office. This, of course, has been brought about by the special and unusual demands of the war-time program.

Fortunately, before December 7, 1941, I had succeeded in getting the Alumni Office pretty well set up, with the result that, notwithstanding the many interruptions and calls for time and effort from other directions, in the meantime, alumni matters have moved along much as we had planned them.

With the transportation situation as it is, and with more than enough to do here at the college as Dean of Students in the liberal arts college, and as Assistant to the President in administrative matters, I have thought that it was unwise to attempt much traveling. I did make one trip east in late February, and met at annual dinner meetings with the alumni groups in New York, Philadelphia, and Pittsburgh. Since then I have attended meetings at Akron and Cleveland. All of these meetings were enjoyable, to say the least, and I hope, helpful to the alumni in understanding what is going on at Kenyon, and some of the problems which have confronted us in connection with the meteorological training program.

On April 1st, President Chalmers and I attended the annual dinner meeting in Chicago, and on April 2nd, I was present at the annual meeting in Detroit.

1943 Alumni Fund Campaign Set For May 22nd Through June 19th

The Alumni Secretary announces that the 1943 campaign for alumni funds will begin on May 22nd and wind up on June 19th. During that month, Kenyon alumni everywhere will be asked to make their annual contribution, to assist the college through its second year of war program.

Last year saw the first organized effort of this kind on behalf of the college, when the alumni turned in a total of $11,691.52 to the two funds. This year we must do better. And if the 80 per cent who did not contribute last year will do so this year to the extent of their ability, the result should be satisfactory.

The need is greater than ever. Kenyon has been fortunate thus far in two respects. First, through the energy and resourcefulness of its Admissions Department, student enrollment in the liberal arts college has held up remarkably well, with approximately 200 men enrolled at the end of the winter term in March. Second, the pre-meteorological training unit of the Army Air Forces, which was planned last fall, jointly by President Chalmers, Dean Hoag, and the faculty, is now in full swing with some two hundred enlisted men, and approximately thirty-five 17-year-old civilians enrolled, under the supervision of nine non-commissioned officers of the United States Army, and two commissioned officers.

However, this picture will rapidly change. Fifty-two men from the liberal arts college left at the end of the winter term on March 23rd, in accordance with the announcement of the Army Enlisted Reserve Corps that such men would receive call to active duty within two weeks after the close of the term. Several others left under the draft or for other reasons. At the end of the spring term, in June, the college will lose between 90 and 100 men to the Naval Enlisted Reserve. Thus, when the summer term opens in early July, the liberal arts college will consist only of the few men who are deferred for pre-medical or pre-scientific training, those who are ineligible for military service, and those who have entered college at under eighteen years of age for one or two or three terms of college work before they are called to one branch of the service or the other.

The College estimates that the enrollment for the summer term will not be over 75 men. Another group will come in in September, but in all probability it will be a small one, and will consist of 17-year-olds who have neared the completion of their high school work and boys ineligible for service.

The Army Air Forces Training Detachment is financed, of course, by the Government, but only on a reasonably adequate scale. The College is not permitted to make one cent of profit on this operation. Hence, that considerable part of college expense, including administration, instruction and maintenance, which is not needed in pre-meteorological school, must be carried, as always, by the revenue from students and to a small extent by income from endowments.

As is the case in any "business," satisfactory financial operation depends upon satisfactory volume. At Kenyon, it requires the income from 230 students to break even in normal years, even when operations are carried on as economically as possible. The only way in

Alumni President Proposes Kenyon Conference in June

ALAN G.
GOLDSMITH

A few of us have been privileged to hear President Chalmers talk about the future of liberal education in this country and about Kenyon's place in education. Some of us have been thinking about this for a long time. Others, I fear, do not yet realize that post-war education will, perhaps more than any single factor, determine in what kind of a world our children will live. When Hitler gained control of the youth of Germany he had the country in the hollow of his hand. After we shatter his ideology, what will we do to educate for true democracy?

If the people of this country or any other country look upon education purely as a means for fitting a young man for some specialized job which will bring him in the dollars and cents for material existence, then, indeed, it is no wonder that the world is now plunged into one of the most disastrous world wars in history. A prominent clergyman said the other day that the most difficult problem in his work was to counteract ignorance on the part of the great mass of the people of the underlying causes of this war and of our struggle to root out these causes. Highly specialized technical training will not produce in this country leaders who will preserve those institutions which have made it great, and through whom the people are inspired to maintain those ideals which made them great. True, we will need technicians, we will need specialists, and we will need them badly. But, more than any single thing, we will need men educated in the spiritual, cultural, ethical as well as the material life of the people of this earth, their aims, aspirations and needs, if our civilization is to survive, and if our children are to escape another Armageddon.

It is in the liberal arts colleges that such men are educated. If they need specialized training they acquire it elsewhere. Here they learn to know the forces which have lifted civilization to astounding peaks or have crushed it into centuries of barbarism. It is these

PLEA FOR LIBERAL EDUCATION

The plea for the preservation of liberal education made by Dr. Gordon Keith Chalmers, president of Kenyon College, may sound today like faint whistling against the wind of technology which the war has blown up, but it is a call that America must heed.

No one denies the need for technical training to meet the exigencies of conflict. Many persons concerned with keeping the flame of culture alive, however, fear the current tendency to ignore the liberal arts completely. They are disturbed by the threat that this trend will continue after the war to the neglect of what Dr. Chalmers calls the ethical values and their legal and social counterparts.

Should this state of affairs go on when there no longer is an imperative necessity for it, then, indeed, the risk of losing sight of the great intangible forces which have built democracy in America and elsewhere is alarming. A generation of engineers, interested only in the immediate, circumscribed problems of their sciences, would be reared. The ground would be prepared for the application of the laws of the exact sciences to political and social life. Yet, given the intangible, variable elements that always form part of human relationships this cannot be done without bringing that regimentation which every free man fears.

Dr. Chalmers has spoken well in warning of these dangers. Kenyon is performing a public service in insisting on the maintenance of its liberal arts courses. The long-range importance of this policy and the fundamental truths of Dr. Chalmers' talk will become increasingly apparent as the nation reverts to conditions of peace after victory. —Editorial, Cleveland Plain Dealer, March 14, 1943.

things that leaders have had to learn who did not have the opportunity for that which we casually refer to as a liberal education.

It is for us of Kenyon, which has ever maintained the tradition of building for spiritual and cultural leadership, to plan for the future of education towards this goal, and for Kenyon's part in it. It will be for us to maintain what our forerunners established, a free college in a free land. An extraordinarily high proportion of Kenyon men is in uniform today. Those of us who remain must safeguard and preserve this education for them and their children.

Many of us plan to gather on the Hill in June, on the two days after Commencement, to hear of plans for liberal education for the future, and to propound our views of Kenyon's place and Kenyon's leadership. We will remember the happy days of the past as we see old faces, but this meeting should band us together in the greater aim, the maintenance of Kenyon as a standard bearer for education in the unknown world of the future.

ALAN G. GOLDSMITH.

LETTER FROM DR. REEVES

William Peters Reeves

Inability to do anything to help defeat the enemies of our country leaves a professor-emeritus in no enviable state of mind. If I were professoring I should use the SAT. EVE. POST as textbook, and make sure that every man in the class got the full significance of such an article as Rawlings's account of Lt. Comdr. Alderman and Lt. Earle Gardner. With such men the very fibre of the nation we can face the future with confidence. Kenyon men will measure up to those standards if they have the chance.

I can at least report that discussion on the Hill seems to me to be less academic than that relayed from Washington.

T. Catesby Jones, Prominent Attorney, Is Elected Trustee

President Chalmers has announced the election of Mr. T. Catesby Jones to membership on the Board of Trustees in its mid-winter meeting in Gambier on March 20, 1943. Mr. Jones, a member of the firm of Bingham, Englar, Jones and Houston, is one of the leading maritime lawyers in this country. He is a graduate of the University of Virginia and of the University of Virginia Law School, and has the distinction of honorary election to membership to Phi Beta Kappa at that University.

Mrs. Jones is a daughter of the late Bishop Francis Key Brooke, whose family is celebrated in the Brooke windows in the west transept of the College Chapel. Mr. Jones will bring to the Board of Trustees not only the acumen of an accomplished lawyer and man of affairs, but an earnest concern for education and loyal interest in Kenyon's welfare.

The President's Column

GORDON K.
CHALMERS

To the Alumni,

In times of peace and plenty college alumni may safely take for granted the nature and policies of their college and confine their energies to reunions, contributions to the alumni fund, and advice to the president about the Collegian, fraternities and the football team. In time of war and impending poverty the concern of those who love their college is different. Many American colleges are likely to change character, go bankrupt, or simply grow weary and surrender in this decade.

The threat is not directly against the incorporated institutions themselves, with their lawns, dormitories and libraries, but against their historic function, liberal learning. About six hundred colleges are now busy, or soon will be, with the new Army and Navy specialized training programs. Their supporters may have feared that they would close, and behold, they are still going! But what will be done in most of them under Army and Navy auspices is not "college"; that is, it is not the education for which they were founded.

For many, the courses are at best freshman and high school work. At Kenyon and the other weather colleges the scientific work is in fact advanced college work, but one must bear in mind that its purpose is single and practical: the training in the shortest possible time of a weather officer.

The import of the condition of the six hundred training colleges is obscured by the fact that during the past few decades many colleges have deviated pretty far from their original purposes. The diversion has been something more than the mere translation into modern terms of the ancient principles, it has constituted a change in the principles themselves.

It is true that a certain amount of liberal education continues at Kenyon, and we are determined to maintain it throughout the war, side by side with the intensive technical training program which we are conducting for the Air Force.

Nonetheless, Kenyon men now face two great issues: The revival of extensive and vigorous liberal studies in Gambier when the war is over; and the redefinition of liberal studies and reassertion of faith in them on the part of thinking men the country over.

Both problems are fraught with peculiar difficulties. America in recent years has enlarged its faith in technology; with the war training programs of the Army and Navy the easy argument that "practical" courses are use-

EIGHTEEN AWARDED DEGREES AT SECOND WAR-TIME COMMENCEMENT

Degrees were awarded to eighteen men at the second special war-time commencement which was held in the Speech Building on Saturday afternoon, March 20th.

There was an academic procession of the Faculties of the Liberal Arts College and the Pre-meteorological Training School and the traditional ceremony of conferring degrees in Latin was carried out.

Count Carlo Sforza, LL.D., sometime Foreign Minister of Italy, now in this country as president of the Free Italy Movement, delivered the commencement address. Count Sforza visited the College last year as a lecturer on the Guggenheim foundation.

"After Tunisia, what?" This is the question Count Sforza answered in his Commencement address.

"It is," he said, "almost more a psychological and moral problem than a military one; that is why it is natural to study it in an institution like Kenyon College.

"North Africa being only a step on the way to Europe, where to go next? American armies may land in France, in Yugoslavia, in Greece. But all these nations are outside the Axis. A landing in Italy would mean to enter into the very flesh of the Axis; and the fact would have a tremendous moral repercussion in Germany and even in Japan.

"But the fact is: to land in France or in the Balkans means only military problems. To land in Italy is also a most serious moral problem. You may make of it a marvellous success; but it may also be a dismal failure.

"Beware of people, even important people, I read of them, who say 'The Italians are hungry; it is enough to arrive with shiploads of food; they will be with us.'

"Dangerous mistake. If you do not want to fail, you must land in Italy with two great moral messages: 1—An Italian message making it clear to the Italians that if they revolt against fascism they will at the same time serve the honor and integrity of Italy and not stab her in the back. 2—A European message telling the Italians and other great European peoples the law of the future, which is: inter-ful will become well-nigh universal. What has the truly liberal spirit to say to the contrary? What is the simple, positive faith of an educated man?

I should welcome comments on these mighty questions. In view of the war tempo in Kenyon, I cannot promise to answer them by mail, but the comments might well provide the basis of the conference at Commencement in June which has been proposed.

FACULTY CHANGES

President Chalmers announced, early in February, the appointment of Mrs. George Drew Hocking as Visiting Assistant Professor of Psychology, for the Winter term, and of Mr. Charles F. McKinley as Part-time Instructor in English and Administrative Assistant. They are additions to the faculty of the Liberal Arts College. Mrs. Hocking, a graduate of Mills College in California, received her degree of Doctor of Philosophy from Johns Hopkins University and has served as an assistant professor at Mills College. Mr. McKinley received his A. B. degree from Kenyon College in 1940 and last year taught at Monson Academy, Monson, Massachusetts.

President Chalmers also announced the appointments that have been made to the faculty of the Army Air Corps Pre-meteorology School.

Dr. Sergio de Benedetti has been appointed Visiting Professor of Physics. Professor de Benedetti received his Ph.D. in Physics from the University of Florence and comes to Kenyon from Swarthmore, Pennsylvania, where he has been engaged in cosmic ray research at the Bartol Research Foundation of the Franklin Institute and has served as instructor in radio engineering for the Signal Corps of the United States Army at Swarthmore College.

Mr. E. Allen Cook, Jr., who has been serving as a mathematical scientist in the Naval Ordnance Laboratory at the Navy Yard at Washington, D. C., has been appointed Visiting Assistant Professor of Physics.

Mrs. William F. Kahrl of Mt. Vernon, Ohio, who graduated with First Class Honors from Royal Holloway College of the University of London, and served as instructor in the department of Applied Mathematics in that university, has been appointed Visiting Instructor in Mathematics, as have Mr. F. Harshman Miller and Mr. John W. Holmes. Mr. Miller is a graduate of Kenyon in the class of 1939, and Mr. Holmes is a recent graduate of Harvard.

Announcement was also made of the appointment of three Kenyon men as Assistants in the Departments of Physics and Mathematics. Mr. Thomas Stevenson Smith is Assistant in Physics, and Mr. Kenneth E. Burke, and Mr. Groff Collet are serving as Assistants in Mathematics.

Dr. Nancy Cole has been appointed Assistant Professor of Mathematics. Professor Cole is a graduate of Vassar College, and received her degree of Doctor of Philosophy from Radcliffe College. She has taught at Vassar, Radcliffe, and Sweetbrier Colleges, and at Harvard University.

Dr. Arthur B. Cozzens has been appointed Visiting Associate Professor of Geography for

Library Given Thomas Paine Books

The Kenyon College Library has lately received a rather unusual gift of a fine set of The Life and Writings of Thomas Paine, in ten volumes. The set of books, handsomely bound and illustrated, is the gift of Jack W. Vrieze, a member of the class of 1946.

OBITUARIES

Since the publication of the last issue of the Alumni Bulletin, notice has been received by this office of the deaths of the following men. We extend our sympathy to their families and friends.

Robert J. French, '28 died February 1st in a Philadelphia hospital, after an illness of a few days. He was a native of Toledo, Ohio, and after his graduation from Kenyon, where he starred in football, he was with the Toledo Times and later the Detroit Free Press. In 1939 he joined the staff of the Philadelphia Inquirer as executive sports editor. He is survived by his widow and a two-year-old daughter.

Dr. John Ernest Carhartt, '14, Bexley '15, D.D., '39, for the past twelve years rector of St. Peter's Church in Ashtabula, died of a heart ailment January 25th. During the World War he was a chaplain in the Army. He was also past national chaplain of the Army-Navy Union. After the war he was a field representative of Washington Cathedral and later rector of St. Alban's Church in Cleveland.

Charles R. Cary, '96, died at his home, Chambersburg, Pennsylvania, on March 16th.

The Reverend Francis McIlwain, '01, Bex. '04, who completed a quarter century as rector at St. John's Episcopal Church at Cuyahoga Falls, in January, died at Akron City hospital on March 19th. He is survived by his widow, one son, and three daughters.

COLLEGE INFIRMARY BUSY

The new College Infirmary, located in the remodeled Douglass House, had its formal opening with the beginning of an epidemic of German measles, on February 8th, and a report of the six weeks' period from that time until March 19th shows a more than modest need for such service in Gambier.

Mrs. Anne Jopling Lester, who is serving as matron of the infirmary, reports that in the first six weeks of operation, she has cared for 139 bed-patients, 75 of whom were students of the regular College and 64 were soldiers, who needed treatment for minor illnesses. In that time, the records show that 1450 meals have been served, and that outside of doctor's hours, 280 treatments have been given to patients who were not confined to bed.

Mrs. Edward E. Camp is on duty each day to assist with treatments and Mrs. Robert B. Brown has helped with the preparation and serving of meals.

Alumni Meetings

The Association of the East held its annual dinner meeting at the Princeton Club in New York City on February 25th, and was attended by about forty Kenyon alumni, President Chalmers of the College, the Alumni Secretary, and several guests. While the attendance was somewhat smaller than usual, with very few of the younger alumni present, it was an enthusiastic and thoroughly enjoyable affair. Alan Goldsmith, '11, president of the local association and also president of the National Association, presided and read communications from a number of the members now serving their country in one or the other of the armed forces. Professor Ladd Haystead, Mr. Goldsmith's guest, a late staff sergeant of the United States Army, recently returned from the Pacific, gave an interesting talk on our men in the service in that part of the world, and particularly of their need for entertainment, letters from home, and books. The Alumni Secretary gave an account of affairs on the Hill, and President Chalmers spoke eloquently on the future of liberal education and the future of Kenyon College.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: The Rt. Rev. James P. DeWolf, '17, Bishop of Long Island, president; R. E. Morton, '16, vice-president; K. E. Bennett, '30, secretary-treasurer; and Alan Goldsmith, '11, Fred Clark, '13 and Howard G. Fishback, Jr., '21, as representatives on the Alumni Council.

In Philadelphia Friday evening, February 26th, the Association of Philadelphia held its annual dinner meeting at the University Club, where a small but loyal and enthusiastic group greeted the Alumni Secretary to hear about the war-time program of the College.

There was much good singing and good fellowship, and by acclamation, the present officers of the association were retained for another year: Matthew F. Maury, '04, as president; John F. Arndt, '21, secretary-treasurer; and the Rev. John Quincy Martin, '28, as representative on the Alumni Council. Among those present, in addition to the officers, were Bishop McKinstry, '18, Bexley '20; the Rev. William C. Munds, Bexley, '29, who has recently moved to the Philadelphia area, and the following: Frederick J. Doolittle, '94; Dean B. Hale, '04; The Rev. Percival C. Bailey, '15; David B. Arndt, '24; Lawrence S. Russell, '26; Robert N. D. Arndt, '27; the Rev. William X. Smith, '30, Bexley '32.

On Monday, March 1st, at the University Club in Pittsburgh, the Kenyon Alumni Association of Pittsburgh held its annual dinner and business meeting, with the president of the Pittsburgh Association, James W. Hamil-

ATHLETICS

"RUDY" KUTLER

The swimming team of the past season has written another glorious chapter into the athletic history of Kenyon College. For the sixth time out of the seven years we have had intercollegiate swimming our team won the Ohio Conference Championship. This is indeed a great tribute to the coaching of Chuck Imel, the spirit he instills in his men, and the way in which his men respond to the work expected of them. A great deal of work and effort is represented by this undefeated season. Coach Imel, Captain Blacka, and the entire team have our congratulations and our sincere appreciation for their magnificent accomplishments. (It is hoped that some day the Alumni Athletic Committee will find it possible to reward in some way the accomplishments of championship teams.)

Ohio Conference Meet at Oberlin, won by Kenyon, 62; second place, Oberlin, 47.

The basketball team, in winning five out of the twelve games on the schedule, did better than we had anticipated. Although the experienced men lost before the season began were sorely missed the men who were on hand to carry on did a swell job. We all love a fighter, win or lose, and our basketball players were fighters. In every game they gave a good account of themselves and thus by sheer fight won some games in which they were clearly out-classed. Captain Lynch was the outstanding man on the floor in every game we played. It was indeed a joy to watch him sink them with either hand from anywhere on the floor.

Intramural sports have flourished during the Winter term. N. L. and S. L. met in the finals for the basketball championship. This game was won by S. L. by a 22-20 score. The cross-country run to Quarry Chapel and back, with sixty-three entries was won by E. W. with M. K. second, and N. L. third. The rifle shooting tournament was won by M. L. with M. K. second. The swimming meet was won by M. L. with E. W. second, and M. K. third. The boxing tournament, in which eighty-four bouts were fought in the seven different weight classes, N. L. is in the lead with M. L. second and S. L. third. With only one term remaining before the race for the yearly trophy closes

ARMY - COLLEGE ENJOY MIXER

About 200 soldiers, students, and members of the faculty and their wives attended an Army-College Sports-Mixer which was held in Rosse Hall on Saturday night, March 13th. Rudy Kutler was in charge of plans for the affair which was intended to afford an opportunity for the members of the regular college and the pre-meteorological school to become better acquainted.

At this time the finals were held for the Commando boxing classes, and others entertainment was furnished by the guests themselves in the form of basket-shooting contests, dart-throwing, tricycle races, hog-calling, a bed-making contest for the soldiers, and a quiz bee between soldiers and students in the regular college. Refreshments were served during the evening and cigarette prizes were awarded the winners of the various contests.

The mixer was part of a program developed to offer entertainment for the trainees in the pre-meteorology school. Other diversions have been offered by an ambitious effort on the part of the Speech Department in presenting two performances each of six plays during the winter term, and by the Movie Committee which has sponsored current movies in Rosse Hall on Wednesday and Sunday nights.

BOOKSHOP REDECORATED

The Kenyon College Bookshop, which has done a thriving business since its establishment in the basement of South Ascension, in 1939, has been redecorated and its facilities improved. Its appearance has been considerably improved by a new linoleum floor and freshly painted walls and shelves. Pocket editions of popular books, and current periodicals and daily newspapers have been added to the stock.

The Bookshop, which is under the management of Mrs. Anthony D. Eastman, has handled the textbooks for the Pre-meteorology program, and to care for the increased business, the staff has been enlarged through the use of student and outside help.

practically every division has a chance to win it. Although at this time M. L., S. L., N. L., and M. K. are somewhat in the lead the race will not be decided until the last contest of the Spring term is finished.

It has been a long hard Winter for the men in physical training. Inclement weather has kept the hundred or more men in Rosse Hall more than was desirable. Thus they had a greater dose of calisthenics than men who are not under Army discipline like. However, with the coming of Spring they will move outdoors where a greater variety of activities will eliminate the medicinal aspects of the program that are so objectionable to some of the men.

Kenyon Five Bows to Lockbourne In Polio Fund Exhibition Game

Knox County basketball fans contributed $180 to the battle against infantile paralysis in the annual polio fund benefit game in Mt. Vernon, late in January.

Feature attraction was the 49-43 decision scored by the Lockbourne Air Base Fliers over the Kenyon Lords. Kenyon commanded the engagement through most of the first half of the game but allowed the winners to forge ahead, 19-18, after the intermission. High scorers for the Kenyon team were Captain Russ Lynch and last year's captain, Andy Anderson.

William Straus Changes Name

Bill Straus, who graduated in December, 1942, has changed his name to William C. Bradford, taking for his surname his father's middle name.

COLLEGE ASSEMBLIES CONTINUE

The college assemblies which were discontinued during the fall term because of conflict with class schedules, were resumed in February.

Mr. Gregory Tucker and Mr. Robert McBride, members of the faculty of Bennington College, Vermont, gave a musical program on February 4th during the assembly period, and that evening presented a formal concert in the Great Hall of the Commons.

Dr. Harry L. Shapiro, Chairman of the Department of Anthropology of the American Museum of Natural History, addressed the assembly on Tuesday, February 16th.

Mr. Philip Rhys Adams of the Columbus Art Gallery, who appeared on a program earlier in the year, was speaker for the Assembly on March 11th.

Wing Commander R. Ashley Hall of the Royal Air Force was on the Hill for three days and addressed the regular college and the members of the pre-meteorology school at an assembly on March 6th. During his stay he also conducted several informal discussions with members of faculty and student bodies.

On Tuesday, March 16th, Dr. Eleanor Bisbee, until last fall Professor of Philosophy and Psychology at Robert College, Istanbul, was the speaker for a special assembly. She spoke on Turkey and its relation to the present world crisis.

Captain Cecil Durbin, Kenyon, '38, addressed the joint assembly of the regular college and the pre-meteorology school on Thursday, March 18th. Captain Durbin who was recently given the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Flying Medal is spending a thirty day furlough with his family in Mt. Vernon. He recounted some of his experiences at Pearl Harbor, Wake Island, and Guadalcanal.

ton, '06 presiding, and Stuart W. Goldsborough, '07, looking after the arrangements. The Alumni Secretary was present to describe conditions at the College today, and the attendance, while small, was excellent for a city in which Kenyon does not yet boast a large alumni membership, and considering the large percentage of young alumni who are now in the service.

Mr. Hamilton was re-elected president of the Pittsburgh Association and Mr. Goldsborough secretary, and Mr. Hamilton as representative on the Alumni Council.

The Association of Akron met at the Akron City Club on the evening of Thursday, March 11th, with a good crowd present, for its annual meeting and to greet Alumni Secretary Brown.

The old stand-bys were out in force. There were several guests, including Mr. Ake, the father of two Kenyon men, and Charles A. Parson's, '40, who had just completed his training in the Navy Supply School at the University of Indiana. After the meeting, at which Don Mell, '21 was elected president for the coming year, and Charles Morgan secretary-treasurer, with Don Mell and Lee Vaughn as representatives on the Alumni Council, a considerable part of the meeting adjourned to a nearby pub and talked Kenyon far into the night.

The following evening, Friday, March 12th, saw the annual meeting of the Association of Northern Ohio at the City Club in Cleveland, where President Chalmers joined Secretary Brown for a delightful occasion. The crowd was a large one. There was much excellent singing, assisted by one of the guests at the piano, and after hearing about the affairs at Kenyon from the Alumni Secretary, the alumni were thrilled by President Chalmers' talk about the necessity of strengthening and maintaining liberal arts education at Kenyon as well as in our sister liberal arts colleges, now and after the war. President Chalmers' address was not only quoted in the Cleveland papers, but the Plain Dealer ran an editorial on it, which is quoted elsewhere in this issue. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Charles F. McGuire, '19, president; Alva L. Hardy, '10, vice-president; William Uhler, '26, honorary vice-president; Merrick, B. McCafferty, '23, secretary-treasurer; McGuire, Fred Palmer, Hardy, Hale Sturges, McCafferty, the Rev. Louis Brereton, and Reginald Wells, as Council members.

The Chicago Alumni Association met at the University Club in Chicago on Thursday, April 1st, where a sizeable group met to welcome President Chalmers and Alumni Secretary Brown. There was the usual hour of cocktails before dinner, and after dinner the Secretary's

BUMER-COOKSEY CONCERT

Dr. Charles T. Bumer of the Kenyon faculty and Miss Marcella Cooksey of Mount Vernon, played a two-piano concert in the Great Hall of the Commons on February 27th. It was a really distinguished performance and a musical treat for Gambier and the College. The concert marked the two-piano team's second appearance at Kenyon. Their first performance was in 1941.

The concert was sponsored by the Gambier Chapter of Bundles for America. The organization reported the sale of over 350 tickets for the concert and a net profit of more than $150. Officers of this organization are Mrs. Robert B. Brown, chairman, Mrs. C. T. Bumer, Mrs. R. D. Cahall, Mrs. Charles M. Coffin, Mrs. Forrest Eley, Mrs. E. H. Johnson, Mrs. Rudy Kutler, Mrs. Charles Shrontz, and Mrs. Paul Titus.

Six Freshmen Enroll at Mid-Term

Six new men were admitted to the liberal arts college at the winter mid-term. All are seventeen year olds, who as yet are not members of the Army or Navy Reserves. They expect to remain in the College for two or three terms, pending their reaching draft age.

Tom Armstrong and James Herald come from Parkersburg, West Virginia; Gordon Harrison from Canton, Ohio; Edward Judd from Springfield, Massachusetts; and Hilbert Hagemeister from Cleveland, Ohio. Robert Zimmerman's home is in Detroit, Michigan.

report to the alumni and an excellent talk by President Chalmers. Officers were elected for the coming year, and the meeting adjourned with The Thrill.

To the Detroit Association must go first place for having mustered the largest attendance in proportion to resident alumni this year. Not only was the meeting at the Park Avenue Hotel, Detroit, on Friday, April 2nd, well attended by Detroit alumni, but some twelve or fifteen undergraduates, home for the spring recess, helped to swell the number and added much to the interest and gaiety of the affair.

The dinner was preceded by an hour of cocktails and conviviality, and the dinner was interspersed with Kenyon songs, old and new. Colonel William H. Kite, Jr., '09, who is Executive Officer at Fort Wayne, Detroit, was present and spoke about his experiences in the Army, and the Alumni Secretary reported to the alumni on the state of the college and the war-time program.

Riley Moorehouse, '13, was elected president of the Detroit Association to succeed Dr. Fletcher Jackson, who has done such a splendid job during the past two years, and Morris Snyder was elected secretary-treasurer to succeed himself. To Mr. Snyder must go much of the credit for an unusually successful Detroit meeting.

DAVID W. BOWMAN

PUBLISHES HISTORY

David W. Bowman, '14

David W. Bowman, '14, telegraph editor of the Cincinnati Times-Star, has recently published a history of the state of Ohio, "Pathway of Progress." The book, which is intended for use as a textbook for the pre-college age, headed the list of best-sellers in the non-fiction field in Cincinnati recently.

Bowman's book is a detailed and thorough account of Ohio from its beginnings to the present day, and is well illustrated. The material is intelligently organized and should prove to be a successful text for the study of local history.

The book reproduces a picture of Ascension Hall, and under the biographical and educational sections of the book are references to Kenyon and the men who figured in its founding and later history.

DEANS APPOINTED

President Chalmers has recently announced the appointment of Robert B. Brown as Dean of Students and Dr. Gilbert T. Hoag as Dean of the Meteorological School.

Dean Hoag gave up his duties in November to accept a special appointment as Consultant to the Army Air Forces during the period of organization of the Pre-meteorological program. At that time, Secretary Brown assumed the duties of Acting Dean.

As Dean of Students in the Liberal Arts College, Mr. Brown leaves Dean Hoag free to devote his time to the administration of the Pre-meteorological School.

REVEREND L. H. DANFORTH HONORED BY PARISH IN SPECIAL SERVICE

A special service on March 14th, at the Church of the Holy Comforter, Kenilworth, Illinois, marked the completion of twenty years' service of the Reverend Leland Hobart Danforth, '20, as priest of the parish.

The Rev. Mr. Danforth has received considerable attention from both religious and secular magazines for his unusual accomplishments in adding to the beauty and interest of his church and the rectory gardens. What started as a personal collecting hobby has now grown into a poet's shrine and a pilgrimage center.

The center of interest in the rectory garden is a map of the Holy Land, laid out to scale, three inches to the mile, with all its cities, rivers, mountains, and the sites of the miracles. Stones, many of them brought from the cities themselves, mark each of the communities, Nazareth, Jerusalem, Beersheba, and the rest, and small white stones mark the sites of the miracles of New Testament times. Through narrow concrete beds, painted blue, the rivers of Palestine run into the Dead Sea.

The Rev. Leland H. Danforth, '20

A walk surrounds this map of the Holy Land, and it is paved with stones of special personal or religious interest. There are a rock from a mosque in Palestine, two tiles from Amsterdam depicting scenes from the life of Jesus, a stone from Kenyon College, and a tile from a Nuremburg stove. Among other relics in the garden are handwrought beams, cut by soldiers for the first Fort Dearborn, and given to the church by the Chicago Historical Society. There are two kettles, used in the commissary department of the Confederate Army at the siege of Vicksburg; a bench from a sailor's lakefront tavern in Old Chicago; a the Pre-meteorological program. Dr. Cozzens received a degree of Master of Science in geology and a Ph.D. degree in geography from Washington University. He has taught for eight years at the University of Illinois. He has recently been employed as specialist in Topographic Intelligence in the Europe-Africa Division in the Office of Strategic Services, in Washington, D. C.

Dr. George D. Hocking, Assistant Professor of Romance Languages at Kenyon since 1941, left the middle of this month to accept a position as Visiting Professor at the University of Chuquisaca, located at Sucre, Bolivia. Arrangements for his work there were made through the Division of Cultural Relations of the Department of State and the Bolivian government. Dr. Hocking will have courses in English Language and American Literature.

Mrs. Hocking, who served as Visiting Assistant Professor of Psychology at Kenyon during the winter term, left also to locate temporarily in Lawrence, Kansas, where her brother-in-law is President of Kansas University.

meteor which fell on Chicago in 1870; and from among Mr. Danforth's war relics, the roof cross from St. Julian's church in Rheims.

Between the rectory and the church are the cloister and the close. It is in this close that the bodies of the poet, Eugene Field, and Mrs. Field are buried. Mr. Danforth received permission from Field's family to move the body from its almost-forgotten resting place in a Chicago cemetery. When Mrs. Field died recently she was buried in the Kenilworth churchyard, at her request, beside the body of her husband.

The Rev. Mr. Danforth's third project was the Bishop's Chapel, located in the Diocesan headquarters at 65 East Huron, in Chicago. It was to this little chapel that many of the furnishings of the Quarry Chapel were removed in 1937. The original communion table used by Kenyon College serves as an altar. All the chapel furniture, the railings and shelves have been painted white, and the walls and ceiling blue, to harmonize with the blue in a painting of the Madonna which hangs over the altar.

Recently a new set of chimes was installed in the Kenilworth church for the purpose of announcing the arrival of babies in the community. The tune selected to spread the news is appropriately enough, Brahms' "Cradle Song."

POST-WAR PLANNING DISCUSSED IN KENYON SYMPOSIUM

Post-war planning in America now is essential to prevent post-war economic disaster here, representatives of business, labor and government agreed in a symposium held at Kenyon on January 29th.

Speakers were Louis Wirth, midwestern regional director of the National Resources Planning Board; Paul G. Hoffman, president of the Studebaker Corporation and a trustee of the College; and Ted F. Silvey, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio Council of the C. I. O.

While the three agreed that there must be a transition from war-time to peace-time industry, and that it can be accomplished with the wide fields open in such industries as transportation, housing, plastics, and electronics, Hoffman put the problem and possible means of solution into the most concrete and definite terms.

Mr. Hoffman defined "winning the peace" as a continued protection of the Bill of Rights to us as individuals, and relative freedom from regimentation as business men and workers. He said that it is a real task if we are to have enough jobs in private industry—it is no solution to look to the government for too many jobs; it is up to private enterprise, and private enterprise must start considering now, immediately, its post-war problems in production and marketing. "We must have the program ready the day peace comes," he said.

National regimentation and collectivism "can happen very easily," he said. "It is not going to happen as the result of plotting by a few individuals, but will come as a result of our failure to meet our responsibilities."

"I think collectivism is inevitable in this country if we have too much unemployment for too long."

"Immediately peace comes," said Mr. Hoffman, "there will be a rapid curtailment of industry which should taper off over a two-year period. In that period civilian production must be stepped up to a point well above the former peak years of 1940. To do that tapering off is the toughest assignment this country has ever tackled."

"Unless individual enterprise starts considering now the post-war problems of production and market, we won't get into them fast enough," he said.

Chairman of the Economic Advisory Board, Hoffman told of the work the group is doing now to stimulate interest among manufacturers for post-war planning and in creating an environment to promote a dynamic economy. Problems being studied are those of price control, taxation, distribution, and others which will arise when the military conflict ends. Mr. Hoffman also advocated an economy which will not just guarantee economic security but will keep the American tradition of an opportunity which would draw out "uncommon talents in the common man."

Silvey, the Labor man, expressed pleasure at finding the views of the industrialist so much in accord with his own. He outlined Labor's goal as a "full industrial democracy to match and supplement our political democracy," and declared that it was the responsibility of all to overcome the spirit of hopelessness and resignation to a post-war unemployment.

"There is no disease so terrifying as unemployment," he said. He said that unions want post-war planning, and that far sighted labor looks now and in the future to wider conditions of work and life.

"If we do not win the peace, we shall have lost the war, no matter what the military victory may have been," he said.

Professor Wirth, associate dean of economics at the University of Chicago, asserted that "If we are as unprepared for peace as we were for war, many of the fruits of victory will have been lost."

He held that government can only supplement what business, citizens and organized labor can do in preparing for the peace after the war, but "we probably can never return to the time when government can be merely a negative, policing agency."

"The new world which we hope to see emerge in America is not fundamentally different from the one we have now," he said. "It is not regimentation or dictatorship so long as people retain the right to change men in authority."

"We have seen such a demonstration in productive power of the nation (since Pearl Harbor) which exceeds the wildest dreams of the exponents of plenty," he continued. "The question is whether we can produce for peace what we produced for war—not in the same commodities but commodities which people all over the world are likely to want and are able to pay for."

"The greatest challenge to labor and industry in all history will be to see how well we can change from a war to a peace-time production."

Dr. Lorenzo Emo Married

Dr. Lorenzo Emo, Visiting Assistant Professor of Physics, and Miss Barbara Harvey Stevens of Berkeley, California, were married Saturday morning, March 20th in the Chapel of the Holy Spirit. The Reverend Thomas V. Barrett officiated for the double ring ceremony, and Dr. W. Ray Ashford served as Dr. Emo's best man.

A reception for about thirty guests was held at Cromwell House following the ceremony. Out of town guests included the bride's parents and Count Carlo Sforza, a friend of the groom.

In this issue, Alan Goldsmith, President of the Alumni Association, makes a proposal for a conference of Kenyon men at the college in June, which I strongly second. While regular alumni reunions have been abandoned for the war after careful consideration, it appears to me highly desirable that those alumni who are thinking about the post-war world, and the part which Kenyon College should play in it, should come together to discuss these things. As President Chalmers has said, liberal arts education will not survive unless those who believe in it speak out not only in defense of it, but positively in favor of it. The men who have heard the President talk on this subject have been impressed with the opportunity which Kenyon College will have to serve the nation in this respect after the war, and the more the alumni have to say about the post-war program, the more practical and effective it is apt to be. Hence, I hope that many of you will approve of the suggestion which Mr. Goldsmith makes, and plan to return in June for a day or two, not for the old form of college reunion, but to discuss seriously a problem which is near to the hearts of all of us.

President Appointed To Commission

President Chalmers has been appointed a member of the Commission on Liberal Education. The commission, recently organized by the Association of American Colleges, has taken over the work started by an older group on post-war problems.

which the Army training program has helped the college financially has been to absorb a part of the instructional budget and a very small part of the administrative and maintenance budget, and the liberal arts portion of expense remaining is far too great for the college to carry on expected enrollment without serious financial loss.

Kenyon alumni have expressed themselves too often and too forcibly to leave any doubt that they are solidly behind the Trustees and the Administration in the determination to maintain the liberal arts ideal and hence, a liberal arts college, during the war, and to assist in correcting, strengthening, and perpetuating it after the war. But if this is to be done, it must be with the generous help of the alumni and the friends of the college, and the appeal for alumni funds this year will be made for this purpose.

It is sincerely hoped that every Kenyon alumnus who values the liberal education which he received at Kenyon, and who wishes to preserve its opportunities for young men of the present and future, will heed the call when it comes.

RETURNING FROM CLASS

THE ORDERLY ROOM

FALLING IN FOR MESS

PRE-METEOROLOGY PROGRAM AT KENYON NOW IN FULL SWING

In accordance with the announcement which appeared in the January issue of the Bulletin, the United States Army Air Forces Training Detachment for pre-meteorological students got under way in February and is now running smoothly. The start was a ragged one. Due to the speed with which the program was devised, and the recruiting done, and the necessity of voluntary induction on the part of the students before appearing at Kenyon, the unit was not completed until nearly March 1st.

However, Kenyon was ready on the date set, and as the men came in in groups of from five to sixty-five, they were housed and fed and started on the very intense curriculum which they will carry through the twelve months of training.

Old Kenyon is now an Army barracks, with a notice to that effect posted on every entrance. In addition to housing the some two hundred enlisted men and nine non-commissioned officers, the building provides an orderly room and a consultation room for instructors in the two Middle Kenyon parlors, a study hall seating approximately sixty men in the East Wing Bullseye, and a recreation room in the West Wing Bullseye. All of the other facilities of the college are at the disposal of the training detachment, to the extent to which they are needed.

The detachment arises at six a.m., messes at seven, and is engaged with classes, military drill, physical education, and supervised study until nine p.m., with time out for lunch at twelve, and dinner at five o'clock. The men are free from nine o'clock in the evening until "bed check" at eleven o'clock, and from three-thirty on Saturday afternoon until eleven o'clock Sunday night. Thus it will be seen that the schedule is a heavy one, and that the meteorologists find little time for recreation and relaxation.

The detachment now looks like a real military unit. They march well, and the campus rings almost constantly with the one-two-three-four cadence and the singing of Army songs as the detachment marches to classes in squads or to mess as a unit.

There has been little opportunity thus far for the mingling of pre-meteorologists and liberal arts students, because of the difference in schedule and Army regulations. But the Commanding Officer feels that once Army routine is thoroughly established, there will be more opportunity for this, and the fraternities are planning to entertain the pre-meteorologists in small groups in their divisions periodically.

Thus, Kenyon now includes three schools: the liberal arts college, the seminary, and the pre-meteorological training school, in one plant, with one administration, and with inter-lock-

Bexley News

Dean Roach reports that an interesting communication has been received from the Church Missionary Society of London, England, concerning the Reverend Goung Heuk Diong. Mr. Diong graduated from Bexley Hall in 1921, received the B.D. degree in 1928, and the degree of S. T. D. in 1939. Last year he was appointed Bishop of Fukien. His consecration was arranged for last autumn but neither in London nor New York does anyone know whether it has taken place as yet, due to the difficulties of travel, which may have made it impossible for the requisite number of Consecrating Bishops to be present for the service, at Fuchow.

Dean Roach reports on the basis of a recent visit to the National Council in New York, that the Episcopal Church seems to be in good hands. The Rev. George A. Wieland, S.T.D., Bexley '09, is director of the Home Department. The Reverend Vernon McMaster, Bexley '15, is in the Division of Christian Education. The Reverend Almon Pepper, Bexley '24, is the Executive Secretary in the Division of Social Relations. And the Reverend Wilburn C. Campbell, Bexley '35, is the Executive Secretary of the Presiding Bishop's Committee on Laymen's Work.

According to our records, the following Bexley Alumni are in the armed services: Philip Brown, Kenyon '30, Bexley '34; William Brown, '41; Harry J. Cluver, '29; Max W. Foresman, '35; Donald G. Henning, '31; C. W. Hughes, Kenyon '27, Bexley '30; Harry M. Kellam, Kenyon '12, Bexley '14; John Knox, '39; John Q. Martin, '28; William S. Noce, Kenyon '33, Bexley '36; Paul Savanack, '25; Kenneth C. Wilson, Kenyon '34, Bexley '33; Oran C. Zaebst, '28; John L. Zimmerman, '29.

HERBERT T. PERRIN, '17

MADE BRIGADIER-GENERAL

Word has just been received from Fort Jackson, South Carolina, of the promotion of Colonel Herbert T. Perrin, '17, to the rank of Brigadier-General.

Brigadier-General Perrin's promotion climaxes nearly an entire life of soldiering. In college he earned his varsity letters in football and track, and after his graduation from Kenyon received his M.A. from Princeton.

He was commissioned a second lieutenant in 1917 and went overseas in 1918 with the 1st division of the Regular Army and was with the Army of Occupation in Germany in 1919. From 1938 to 1940, General Perrin served in the Philippines as staff officer in charge of plans and training for the Philippine Department. He then served successively with the War Department General Staff in Washington, the 76th Division, and the 106th Infantry Division of Fort Jackson, where he is now assistant division commander.

ing faculties and staffs. It is all running smoothly. Everyone on the Hill is working over-time, but each individual has the satisfaction of knowing that he is making a direct contribution to the nation in war time.

Dr. Chalmers Elected O. C. A. Head

President Chalmers was elected president of the Ohio College Association at a meeting of the organization held in Columbus, Ohio, April 3rd.

SPRING TERM OPENS WITH 147 MEN

The spring term opened on April 7th with an enrollment of 147 men. This number includes eleven freshmen who are beginning their work at Kenyon in the pre-medical or pre-engineering curricula.

An assembly was held in the auditorium of the speech building at which time Dean Brown welcomed the student body to the Hill and made various announcements regarding the status of the Naval Reserves. Lieutenant Samuel B. Cummings, former Associate Professor of Psychology who left Kenyon last summer to accept a commission in the Navy, addressed the assembly informally and called particular attention to the percentage of Kenyon men in the service who hold commissions.

Names of the new freshmen who have enrolled are: John Andrea, Canton; William D. Brand, Toledo; Courtland Hungerford, Cuyahoga Falls; John N. Meagher, Springfield, Ohio; Richard Roberts, Cuyahoga Falls; Milton Saville, Jefferson City, Missouri; Charles Shindledecker, Trenton, Michigan; William Torgerson, East Grand Rapids, Michigan; Theodore Vradelis, Middletown; James R. Ward, Canton; and Peter Wick, Ridgefield, Connecticut.

RICE AWARDED FELLOWSHIP

Philip Blair Rice, Associate Professor of Philosophy at Kenyon, was one of 64 persons awarded fellowships this year from the John Simon Guggenheim memorial foundation.

Guggenheim fellowships are granted annually to scientists, scholars, artists and creative writers in all fields who "by their previous work have shown themselves to be persons of unusual ability." The awards average $2,500.

Rice received his award for the preparation of a book on ethics and the theory of values.

Lt. Robert Legg Visits Campus

Lt. Robert H. Legg, '39, visited the Hill recently on his way east. Lt. Legg is at present junior instructor of synoptic meteorology in the Grand Rapids Weather school.

As an undergraduate, Legg was a member and officer of the Flying Club, and in 1939, winner of the National Intercollegiate Flying Championship. He at that time achieved first place in spot landing, amateur bomb dropping, and strafing contests.

After two years' study of law at Columbia University, he enlisted as a meteorological cadet, in 1941. Following receipt of his commission in the first class of cadets at M. I. T., where he also received a master's degree, Lt. Legg was appointed instructor. He left M. I. T. in December to accept the position at the Grand Rapids Meteorological School.

Reverend Phil Porter R. A. F. Chaplain

The Rev. Phil Porter, '12, Bexley '14, rector of Christ Church, Dayton, was recently made Honorary Officiating Chaplain to the members of the R. A. F. stationed in Dayton.

A considerable body of officers and men of the Royal Air Forces is in Dayton, and wanted a chaplain and church assigned to them regularly. Dr. Porter was asked to accept the position and did so, and Christ Church is the official church in Dayton of the R. A. F. Dr. Porter is the only American to hold such a position.

Alumnus is German War Prisoner

The College, in the past three years, has been in touch with Lieutenant Raymond Blanguernon, a French student of the class of 1921, at Kenyon, who has been a prisoner of war in Germany for a long time. Occasionally he has made requests for reading matter.

The most recent communication regarding Blanguernon is a letter from a brother, written in Nice in August, 1942. The brother stated that the prisoner's health was at its lowest because of his many years in the Colonies and in prison camp. An occasional parcel has been sent to him through the facilities of the Relief to Prisoners of War department of the Red Cross and through the International Committee of YMCA'S War Prisoners' Aid.

His address, according to his brother's letter is

Lieutenant Blanguernon 2010

SHARP, '42, is stationed with the United States Marine Corps at Niland, California. His engagement to Miss Marjorie Kerr of Steubenville, was recently announced. THE REVEREND JOHN MALCOLM HAIGHT, '33, until recently rector of St. Bernard's Parish, Bernardsville, New Jersey, was commissioned a lieutenant in October, 1942, and was sent to Drew Field, Tampa, Florida, where he is one of a dozen Protestant chaplains. WAR SERVICE OPPORTUNITIES

The Bureau of Naval Personnel, through the Association of American Colleges, has announced the need of men who can qualify as officers to plan, organize, administer, and teach voluntary service educational classes at outlying stations, advance bases, Naval hospitals, Naval stations and Naval districts.

To qualify for such work, applicants must be between the ages of 26 and 41, hold a degree or degrees in a specialized field of knowledge (or education), and have a good college record, both scholastically and from the point of view of extra-curricular activities. Candidates must meet Naval physical requirements. Applications should be made to the nearest Office of Naval Officer Procurement.

There is also a need for officers for the Navy Military Government Program. The requirements for this program follow. Age, 28-45. Candidates should possess one of the following: (1) Be familiar with specific foreign areas, and should possess a knowledge of the habits and customs of the peoples in such areas and of the language used. Particularly desirable is experience in the Far East, the Malay Peninsula and the South Pacific Islands, although the program is not limited to these areas; or (2) It is desirable that candidates have had previous training in one or more of the following fields—anthropology, sociology, languages, public administration, business administration, law, sanitary engineering, agriculture, statistics.

Lieutenant Carrol W. Prosser, '40, who transferred from the 107th Cavalry in February, 1942, received his pilot wings and commission last December. He is now stationed at Dover, Delaware, with the Third Anti-Submarine Squadron.

The men selected will be given an eight weeks course of indoctrination beginning May 1, 1943. Upon the completion of this course, they will be instructed in the administration of Military Government at Columbia University in a course lasting approximately a year. Upon the completion of this course, or at such time as it becomes expedient, they will be assigned to duty on the staff of Military and Naval authorities in foreign countries which may be occupied or come under the control of the United States.

The American Council of Education announces similar opportunities in the Army, open to civilians to be appointed as Civil Affairs Officers (Captain to Lieutenant Colonel) in occupied territory. The age limits are 35 to 50. College degrees are preferred but not required and knowledge of a foreign language is necessary. Applicants should have experience as head or principal officer in a governmental agency or industrial organization with administrative responsibility in one of the following fields: Public works and utilities; public safety—police or fire; fiscal—budget, tax, accounting, banking; economics—industry and commerce, natural resources, agriculture, labor; public welfare; education; public relations—radio, newspapers, or others; communications—telephone, telegraph, radio; legal; general administration.

KENYON MEN IN THE SERVICE

Kenyon is represented in almost every corner of the globe, with the Army, Navy, Air Forces and Marines. The following list is far from complete, but it is as complete as alumni records go at this date. We do not publish assignments or addresses of men in service, but letters for any alumnus, if forwarded to the Alumni Office, will be promptly forwarded to the last known address.

According to our records, Kenyon men now serving in the Armed Forces represent 18% of the Alumni Body.
