Alumni Secretary's Column

ROBERT B. BROWN

As I walked down the Middle Path this morning snow was falling in great white flakes and as I write, the campus is blanketed with white. This is a phenomenon which has occurred only once before this winter and that was two months ago. Gambier has been warm and spring-like most of the time and from the spring bird songs which I have heard from my window during the past few days it is obvious that our feathered friends have been completely misled into thinking that Spring is really here.

We are in the midst of one of those periods of moving in and out which have become so frequent since the war began. On Saturday, February 5th, the Liberal Arts College recessed for a week after, a five weeks' short term, and returned on February 14th. The men of the new basic Army unit started coming in during the week of February 3rd and should be all in and started on their nine months' course by the time the alumni read this column. On Saturday afternoon, February 12th, a commencement for the men of the Pre-Meteorological Unit is being held at which they will receive certificates from the college, in the traditional Latin, certifying to the work which they have completed here. In the meantime, the AST Area and Language Unit recessed for a week and returned to take up the last third of their course before the Army Air Force men left and after the college students returned. Thus, for a short time we are struggling with approximately 600 men on the

LAST-MINUTE NEWS

The announcement of the Secretary of War on February 19th of the reduction of Army Specialized Training in Colleges effective April 1st, will withdraw from Kenyon the 339 Army men now in training here. Thus, after that date, enrollment will be limited to the 70 liberal arts students now in residence.

The College accepts the order of the War Department without question, as a matter of course. The Liberal Arts College will carry on, and every effort will be made to increase the civilian enrollment of 17-year-olds and young men not physically fit for combat service. Alumni may be of great service to Kenyon by sending to the Admissions Department names of high school and preparatory school students in these categories.

Hill, which will settle down to about 400 before the first of March.

Your secretary has been putting in a large share of his time since February 1st analyzing the potential civilian and military status of every student in the Liberal Arts College. Late in January the whole procedure concerning civilian occupational deferments was revised and put under the National Roster of the War Manpower Commission. Under the new rules, requests for student deferment may come only from the college, which has necessitated an analysis of each individual case and the preparation of affidavits and transcripts for every

PRESIDENT CHALMERS ON VETERANS EDUCATION BILLS

Usually colleges remain on the sidelines of political controversy; discussing freely and, one hopes, with attention to the root of the matter, the major issues of government, but refusing as institutions to become embroiled. In the past dozen years, however, national events have twice confronted them with decisions involving fundamental political principle, and at the moment they face another such issue.

When the federal works projects were first proposed, privately controlled colleges had to decide whether they would ask the federal government to build buildings for them, as it proposed to do for the state and municipal universities. We in the colleges knew that the beautiful gymnasiums, union buildings, dormitories and laboratories built with federal funds for tax-supported institutions would greatly improve the ability of those colleges and universities to do a good job and thus to compete with us. Be it said to the honor of the private colleges and universities that in the face of depression deficits they resolutely refrained.

As the war approached, many in the university world announced that because the federal government had drafted away their men students it was incumbent on the Army and Navy to "save the colleges." Early in the debate, Kenyon made it clear that we held no

Alumni President's Column

ALAN G.
GOLDSMITH

This copy of the Alumni Bulletin will probably be read by Alumni all over the world. You more than any of the rest of us, are wondering to what kind of a country you will return and to what kind of a life. When you get the Alumni Bulletin you will, naturally, also think of what will happen to Kenyon when this war is over.

The following lines were written about decade after another great war which had safeguarded the unity of the country, but had left it with a tremendous problem of rehabilitation. The Kenyon Reporter, published at the Commencement of the College in June 1878, wrote as follows:

"At this time, when Kenyon is just closing her doors for the summer, it seems very appropriate to give some consideration to her prospects for the future. Kenyon College boasts a past history which is not to be excelled by many, if indeed any, colleges in the West. Her graduates have taken such positions in Church and State, and in the confidence of the people, that the Old College may well be proud of her sons. But Kenyon's work is not concluded with this. Her past is only an indication of what her future will be. As far as her ability to give a good, sound education goes, she is in a much better condition than she has ever been before. The members of the Faculty are men of wide and general learning, and true representatives of the highest type of American scholarship. While they have been here they have done their conscientious duty as teachers, and for this they receive the thanks of all friends of Kenyon.

As to the prospects for the Freshman Class for next year, we should say that they are much better than they have been for a long time. The number of young men examined, has already been as large as the number who entered last fall, and it is a well known fact that above half of the Freshmen always come to be examined in September instead of June.

On the whole Kenyon's prospects have not been as good for five years as they are today. And in conclusion we might say that, if her future is only as bright as has been her past, every alumnus will be glad to recognize in her his Alma Mater."

We all feel that a Commencement editorial which may be written ten or twelve years after this bitter war is over will even more emphasize that Kenyon, with her proud tradition and her ability for service, will again be maintaining her mission of teaching liberal arts for democracy.

BEXLEY NEWS

It is probably no news to any Kenyon alumnus that Bexley Hall has been transferred to Alexandria, Virginia, for the year in order to take advantage of the association with our sister seminary, the Virginia Theological Seminary. In any move of this nature there is both a plus and a minus. We have regretted leaving the peace and quiet of Gambier for the distractions of war-crowded Alexandria and we have missed the inspiration and fellowship of the faculty members who have remained in Gambier. On the credit side must be put the close and cordial relations we have had with the faculty and students of the Virginia Seminary. All the various adjustments necessary in any such combination have been worked out most smoothly with Dean Zabriskie and the other members of the Virginia staff and we have been made to feel completely at home.

Seven men went with us from Gambier to Alexandria. Some interesting observations can be made regarding them. Five dioceses are represented by the seven men and they come quite literally from all corners of the country, one student from Boston and another from Los Angeles. We have a Japanese priest, the Rev. Kenneth W. Nakajo studying with us and sickness has postponed the attendance of a Mexican student, postulant under Bishop Salinas. Perhaps for the first time in the history of Bexley, the married students outnumber the unmarried, four to three. Howard Graham was responsible for this new departure. His marriage to Marjorie Meyer took place December 20th at Grace Church, Sandusky, Ohio. Bishop Tucker and Don Wonders (Bex. 1916) officiated and Lawrence Tober (Bex. 1944) was best man. Howard Graham finishes in February and will take up work in the Diocese of Ohio. Of the three seniors Gordon Lind has the edge on the number of seminaries attended, four to the others' three. He will also make the longest hop after graduation, from Boston to Spokane.

The Easter Lectures will be held as usual in Gambier the week after Low Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, April 17th and 18th. Prof. Timberlake of Kenyon College (Ken. '17) will be the visiting lecturer and will speak on Religion in the Literature of 18th Century England. Last year despite the war and rationing, we had the best attendance in years. I hope that we shall have even a larger group present this year as we renew the pleasant associations of the past and look forward to the return of Bexley to the hill.

Corwin C. Roach, Dean

Greetings from Dr. Johnson

Elbe Herbert Johnson

It is a pleasure to send greetings to you, the Alumni of Kenyon College, especially at this time when opportunities for closer contacts are few.

Kenyon has undergone great temporary changes, such as the setting up of a strictly war-time curriculum and the laying aside of some things to which we undoubtedly will return. And too, there has been a curtailment of much that you remember as forming the brightest part of your life in Gambier. But if you could come back now you would find an intensity of effort here that is quite in keeping with the purposes of the hour. I think I can say, without fear of contradiction, that your college is doing a man-sized job in the present emergency, and one that should help to hasten the time when we all will be able to turn again to the pursuits of peace. Like each of you, we, who are carrying on here on the Hill, hope that what we now are doing will help the national cause.

It may be that some of the changes that have come about here will be permanent. In an altered world, after this war is over, it is probable that even Kenyon will not be quite the same as you now remember her. But you may be sure that she will emerge even greater than in the past, and more gloriously the college of your dreams and hopes.

And so I am looking forward to the day when conditions will permit and your undying Kenyon spirit will demand your frequent return to the Hill we all love. In the meantime, All Good Wishes.

The President's Column

GORDON K.
CHALMERS

A few universities have already announced the establishment of special divisions within their systems of colleges and professional schools to provide advice and where needed, special courses for demobilized men who want to complete their education after the war. Kenyon began discussions of this problem some time ago, and will undoubtedly offer its own students and any others who are eligible and accepted by the committee on admissions, the same individual advice and direction which it has provided for all students for many years. Like other institutions, we are analyzing the terms of granting academic credit for formal technical studies completed by men in uniform, though unlike many institutions we shall undoubtedly require that credit toward a Kenyon degree be limited to courses of collegiate grade.

New courses for ex-service men have not yet been organized, but one of the faculty committees is studying the possible need for these. The results of this committee's work, and any consequent faculty action, will be recorded in the Bulletin.

The liberal arts faculty, which is the body competent to define and award secular degrees, decided early in the war to make no blanket provision to give academic credit for military service. It proposed, on the other hand, to look with sympathy upon official records of studies completed under Army or Navy supervision and to be prepared to credit as much of this as, in its opinion, is of collegiate grade. In two important particulars the College faculty has already accorded academic credit for Army and Navy courses. The year's concentrated work in pre-meteorology has been evaluated at 44 credit hours against a usual 30 credit hours for the standard two-semester peace-time year. Also, many Kenyon men who left college to continue academic work as Army or Navy trainees have already transferred back to Kenyon the credit for college work taken elsewhere. Of the 47 degrees of Bachelor of Arts conferred in the past twelve months, eleven were earned in part by work in Army or Navy college courses.

We are prepared to receive and evaluate by Kenyon standards the reports of college-grade studies pursued under the Armed Services Institute and any other military auspices, and we expect at demobilization to receive many requests for this type of academic credit. It is the policy of the College on the one hand,

EASTER LECTURES

The Alumni and their friends are cordially invited to attend the Easter Lectures on April 17 and 18. One of the lecturers will be Professor Philip W. Timberlake, who has chosen for his subject: "Religion in the Literature of Eighteenth Century England."

The top floor of Bexley Hall is available for guests, and much of the second floor will be made available. It will be possible to accommodate ladies in other houses in the village and in the College. No one should refrain from coming because of doubt about accommodations.

Those unable to arrive by road will be met by College cars at the bus and railroad stations nearby.

Reservations should be made by writing to Dean Roach at Alexandria or Secretary Robert B. Brown at the College.

Added attractions, he writes, include huge mosquitoes, malaria, scorpions, centipedes, chiggers, dysentery, heat prostration, and "super de luxe athlete's foot—even in your ears." LT. ARTHUR W. School at Athens, Georgia. THE REV. JOHN K. COOLIDGE, '02, Bex. '05, left St. James Church in Piqua, Ohio in November, to become rector of All Saints Episcopal Church at Fort Lauderdale, Florida. THE REV. E. THOMAS RODDA, Bex. '36, left St. Peter's Church in Tecumseh, Michigan, for Trenton, Michigan, where he is now rector of St. Thomas Episcopal Church.

"The Season's Greetings from the South Pacific.

"I thought I had ground to cover when I was at Galion, Bucyrus and Shelby but my 'parish' now covers well over two thousand miles. It has literally kept me up in the air. In addition to my work as a Chaplain, I have charge of the recreation for the men in my outfit . . . Our 'church' is a warehouse. We've built a platform at one end, and have an altar and pulpit. The movies are held each night in the same building, so we have to go over after the last show on Saturday night, and get it ready for the service in the morning. I have a Protestant service each Sunday and Holy Communion the first Sunday of each month. Whenever possible I have Communion services at dawn for the fellows as they go out. When I'm at my home base I have this service in a cabin with the altar facing the sun. We use the candles for light at the beginning, but the

The above photograph of four Kenyon men serving their Church and their country as Navy chaplains are, left to right, William S. Brown, '41, formerly of St. Paul's Church, Toledo; John E. Knox, '39, of Trinity Church, Findlay, Ohio; William S. Noce, '33, Bexley, '36, St. Thomas Church, Port Clinton, and Russell G. Hargate, '30, Bex. '32, formerly of Elyria, Ohio. ## Alumni Notes

WILLIAM H. EISENMANN, '03, National Secretary of the American Society for Metals, spoke before the Rochester Chapter on January 5. Eisenmann, who holds honorary degrees from Morningside College and Stanford University is entering upon his 26th year as Secretary of the Society, now the third largest technical group in the world. THE RT. REV. STEPHEN E. KEELER, D.D., '30, for the past two years active bishop of the Hawaiian Islands was the guest speaker at the Danbury Teachers College student assembly on October 20th. He was introduced by his sister, Dr. K. Augusta Sutton, of the college faculty. FREDERICK W. WEHMEYER, JR., '40, received the degree of Doctor of Medicine from Cornell University Medical College at its forty-sixth annual graduation, December 23, 1943. WALTER H. BROWN, '06, Cleveland manager of the Prudential Insurance Co. of America was tendered an honorary dinner at the University Club in Cleveland in January celebrating the completion of 30 years of service with the company. Mr. Brown joined Prudential in January, 1914 in Cincinnati and went to Cleveland as manager of that agency in 1916. He is currently serving his first term as alumni trustee of the college. E. E. NEFF, '34, El Paso, Texas, wrote to President Chalmers in December asking him to scare up a few buckeyes which he distributes to officers and soldiers to be carried as a lucky piece when they leave for the front. President Chalmers managed to gather these in the country hereabouts and sent them to Mr. Neff to be used in this very worthy cause. Thus, Americans on the fighting fronts are carrying Ohio buckeyes from Gambier "in their left-hand trousers pocket for good luck." At a recent meeting of the directors of the Lincoln National Bank, Cincinnati, ROBERT A. CLINE, '16, ardent Kenyon alumnus and successful real estate man was elected chairman of the board. THE RT. REV. B. H. REINHEIMER, '11, Bexley '14, D.D. '31, Bishop of the Diocese of Rochester, spoke on the campus of Hobart College on Friday, January 14th.

R. T. SAWYER, JR., '34, of Cleveland, writes of the arrival of a son, Raymond Terry III, on October 1. The baby was named for his late grandfather who was a member of the class of 1900 and a trustee of Kenyon at the time of his death in 1938.

McNEILL PLAYS AGAIN

Lieut. (j.g.) Don McNeill, '40, former national champion appeared on the bond drive program in New York in January. Don had just returned from Argentina, where he was a naval attache at the U. S. Embassy, and beat Pancho Segura for the Argentine championship in the fall.

OBITUARIES

GEORGE CLARKE COX, '86, M.A. '00, investment counsel and writer on political economy, died December 17, 1943 in New York City. Mr. Cox, who studied at the University of Geneva, Switzerland, and later at Harvard University where he received his Ph.D., was ordained in the Protestant Episcopal Church in 1888 and served until 1908, when he resigned as a result of a disagreement with some aspects of church canons and a change in his theological views. Later he became an assistant professor of philosophy at Harvard, then at Dartmouth until 1915, when he went into business in New York City, where he founded the firm of Cox and Trainer, investment counsellors. Since 1920 Dr. Cox had been an economic analyst, in business under his own name. He leaves a widow, Mrs. Alice Maude Chapman Cox.

THE REV. DOUGLAS I. HOBBS, '88, Bex. '88, died in Roanoke, Virginia on October 25, 1943. He attended Bexley Hall after matriculating from Kenyon, later studied at the Philadelphia Divinity School, and was ordained priest in 1889. During his long life in the ministry he served churches in many parts of the United States, was at one time archdeacon of the diocese of Kansas. On his retirement from the active ministry in 1933 he and his wife built a home in Salem, Virginia, where he spent his declining years. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jennie Dean Brown Hobbs; a brother John R. Hobbs; one son, Douglas Brown Hobbs of Pittsburgh, and two granddaughters.

WILLIAM CANFIELD LEE, '96, died in Washington, D. C. in January. Mr. Lee, a native of Manhattan, Kansas, in 1900 went to Washington, where he was for many years prominent in church and civic activities. One of the oldest members of All Souls' Unitarian Church, he was also a charter member of the Washington Philosophical Society, and was affiliated with the Mount Pleasant Masonic Lodge. He served at one time as the president of the Mount Pleasant Citizens' Association. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Charlotte White Lee; a son, Lieutenant Andrew W. Lee, USNR; a daughter, Laura Canfield Lee of the faculty of Lake Erie College; a brother and a sister.

EMELINE EGAN CHASE, great-granddaughter of Bishop Philander Chase, died in Rosa, California on December 17th at the age of 87. Born in Chicago, when she was five years old she traveled with her parents by covered wagon to California, where she lived until she went to live with a cousin in Gambier, where she grew up in the environment of Kenyon. Here she coached some of the present Episcopal bishops when as fledglings they preached their first sermons at Bedell Chapel, which was built through her interest. Since 1914 she has made her home in California, and in 1943 she returned to Gambier for the 50th anniversary of the founding of Bedell Chapel.

Miss Chase is survived by her nieces, Miss Beatrice Howitt of New York; Mrs. Truxtun Beale of Washington; Miss Grace Kellogg of Pasadena; and her nephew, Frank Kellogg of Oakland, California.

ALUMNUS, FORMER CONGRESSMAN PUBLISHES IMPORTANT WORK

Mr. Cable was a member of the House Committee on Immigration and Naturalization, 67th, 68th, 71st, and 72nd Congresses; co-author of the Immigration Act of 1924; author of the Act of September 22, 1922, granting independent citizenship to women; author of "American Citizen Rights of Women"; he is member of the Bar of the State of Ohio and the Bar of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Last year 350,000 aliens applied for their "first papers" to become naturalized citizens of the United States, the largest number of such applicants in the history of the Naturalization Service. Mr. Cable points out in his book that although one may have become a naturalized American citizen, the United States may still file court proceedings to revoke his citizenship on the grounds of fraud, if the citizenship was illegally procured. This "denaturalization" process was authorized by Congress in 1906. Prior to then, the courts assumed jurisdiction of such proceedings without legislative authority. Wholesale fraud and corruption in the practice of naturalizing aliens, the forging of certificates of naturalization, were factors causing Congress to establish the Naturalization Act of June 29, 1906 to secure honest naturalization proceedings. Certificates of more than 15,000 naturalized citizens were canceled by such proceedings between that date and now.

Since the outbreak of the present war, many such cases have been brought up, and the use of such proceedings constitutes an effective attack against disloyal citizens guilty of subversive activities. Mr. Cable says that Hitler, as part of his plan, directed Nazis to emigrate to this country and become citizens: in a spy trial in New York, 23 out of 29 defendants were naturalized citizens. Denaturalization is a powerful weapon against such people.

Mr. Cable says that he has written this book so that all who are interested may know of the law and decisions governing the cancellation of certificates of naturalization, and the effect of denaturalization on such persons.

ATHLETICS

"RUDY" KUTLER

Judging from the many letters of inquiry regarding the football season a great many of the alumni had their latest news from the last issue of the Bulletin.

Since then the football season has come and gone. Because of the truly remarkable showing of the team, I want to bring to your attention some of the handicaps the men encountered, as well as the final outcome of the season.

Our Fall practice season started on the 5th of October. The squad, numbering 27 men during the Summer term, shrank to 17 men. Of this number one was forced to quit because of a chronic knee and one was dismissed for failure to keep training rules. The remaining fifteen men stayed with it the entire season. This man squad was made up as follows: Dick Weaver a senior guard, and Groff Collett a junior halfback were lettermen; George Dulabon and Carl Cook junior squad members, seven men with some high school experience, two men with only six-man football experience, and two men with no football experience. We had three ends, one center, two guards, four tackles, and five backs, with the tackles doubling in brass as centers and guards, and one of the ends as a back.

The physical training program of the Air Corps and the A. S. T. P. units required my attention until 4:50 each day, hence I was able to be with the team only from 4:50 until 5:45. Fortunately Groff Collett and Dick Weaver, both excellent men knowing what was wanted, took care of the conditioning and the routine work on fundamentals as prescribed by the daily schedules. Team work was taken up with my arrival with signal practices scheduled in Rosse Hall after supper.

Thanks to the work of Groff Collett and Dick Weaver, the men were in excellent physical condition, and since the squad was small the men realized that they had to be tough and play sixty minutes if necessary. The fact that we had no injuries that would not allow a man to return to the game, and the fact that all but three of the touchdowns we scored were scored in the last quarters of the games, indicates the condition the men were in.

The schedule the team played was as abnormal as everything else is during these times. We played two games with Otterbein and two games with the A. S. T. P. unit team, one in Mt. Vernon and the last one here in Gambier. The first game with Otterbein and the first game with the Army team both ended in 6-6 ties. In each case Kenyon made many more first downs, but was unable to put it over when the going got really tough. The second game with Otterbein we won 38-0, and the second game with the Army team we won 13-6. In these last two games the boys played excellent football, demonstrating that they were really a good team in spite of the many handicaps. Thus ended Kenyon's first undefeated season.

The teams we played were by no means push-overs. Otterbein had won three games straight before we played them, and the Army team was composed of 32 former college players.

All credit is due these fifteen iron-men of ours. Without their guts and fight every minute of each game this record would not have been possible. They, instead of using the handicaps as alibis accepted them as incentives to work and fight harder. Their spirit can be best expressed by the unanimous opinion of the Army team after our last game when being a touchdown behind going into the last quarter they scored two touchdowns and should have had three or four more, "They don't know when to quit! They hit me harder than I was ever hit before!"

But football is in the dim past, and we are in the midst of the basketball season. Basketball also is handicapped by the lack of numbers and experience. We have a squad of six men, none of whom ever played college ball before. Potentially some of the men are great basketball players. If they stayed in college a few more years and gained the age, strength, and experience those years would give them, they would become a truly great team. As it is, they play hard but are outclassed by their opponents. They have played two games so far and before the short eight-game schedule is over, will win some games.

Physical training of the civilian students is progressing along the lines given the Army units. Emphasis is placed on conditioning, endurance, boxing, dirty fighting, and contact games. It is our aim that as the men leave the Hill to join the various units of the fighting forces, they be in good enough condition to take anything that may be thrown at them. The many letters of appreciation, from men who are now fighting on the various fronts, for having received such physical conditioning only serves to strengthen our resolution to do even a better job along these lines.

ENTERING STUDENTS

Seven students have entered the liberal arts college since the first of the year. At the beginning of the short Winter Term John E. Hartman of Pittsburgh was the only entering freshman.

At the beginning of the Spring Term the following students entered, bringing the total liberal arts enrollment back to 68 students: James Ockford Chamberlin, 1484 Longfellow,

FRED G. CLARK, '13, HONORED

On October 17, 1943, Fred G. Clark, '13, was awarded the LL.D. degree by Morning-side College and delivered an address on "Confusion of Terms, Our Nation's Greatest Barrier To Unity Of Economic Thought."

Fred Clark is well-known as moderator of the Wake Up, America! Radio Forum and General Chairman of The American Economic Foundation. The address was delivered before the faculty, trustees and guests of Morning-side College and has been reprinted by The American Economic Foundation, 295 Madison Avenue, New York. The address is well worth reading and copies may be had by writing to Mr. Clark or the Foundation.

BISHOP JENKINS' BOOK

"THE MAN OF ALASKA"

A most interesting book, THE MAN OF ALASKA, has just come to the editor by the Rt. Rev. Thomas Jenkins, '99, Bexley, 1900, B.D., '14, D.D. '24, retired bishop of Nevada, bearing the inscription on the fly leaf "To My Alma Mater With The Grateful Regard of the Author." It will be placed in the Bexley Library as a gift from Bishop Jenkins.

THE MAN OF ALASKA, whose life work is described in Bishop Jenkins' biography, is Peter Trimble Rowe, first bishop of Alaska, 1895 to 1942. The author says in his preface that Bishop Rowe was urged time and again to take time out to write some record of his long and fruitful life, but because of his arduous duties right up to the day of his death he was never able to do so. Bishop Jenkins, more than once, took over Bishop Rowe's duties in Alaska and the Aleutians to free him for the job but invariably Bishop Rowe turned up with the explanation that it was impossible for him to stay put long enough for him to write a book.

After Bishop Rowe's death Bishop Jenkins collected his personal papers, and from these and his own experiences with Bishop Rowe compiled the material for THE MAN OF ALASKA.

It is a readable, lively book, most attractively put together and is a fitting monument to the life of a great churchman and to his biographer.

WILLIAM NELSON CROMWELL CELEBRATES NINETIETH BIRTHDAY

William Nelson Cromwell, LL.D. '04, donor of Cromwell House and, with Frank H. Ginn, '90, of Peirce Hall, celebrated his 90th birthday in New York on January 17th. Senior partner of Sullivan and Cromwell, the law firm which he founded sixty-five years ago, Mr. Cromwell, also president of the American Society of the French Legion of Honor, continues in active touch with the affairs of his firm and is director of several important corporations. Active in philanthropic work, on his birthday he was presented by Miss Helen Keller with a plaque to commemorate his important work here and abroad on behalf of the blind.

SWEET BRIAR NAMES

WEAVER, '11 OVERSEER

Sweet Briar College, of which Don Wheaton, '13, is Treasurer, and Bishop Beverley D. Tucker of Ohio is President of Overseers, elected Robert A. Weaver, '11, of Cleveland, to the Board of Overseers at its November meeting. Mr. Weaver is president of the Ferro Enamel Company of Cleveland and of the Cleveland Play House and has been a trustee of Kenyon for more than ten years. He is also a trustee of the Cleveland Museum of Art and of the Cleveland School of Art.

By this move the bond between Sweet Briar and Kenyon is strengthened with Bishop Tucker, who alternates with Bishop Hobson annually as president of the Kenyon Board of Trustees, Don Wheaton and Bob Weaver on both boards.

WINTER DANCE

The Senior Council sponsored a combined Liberal Arts—A.S.T.U.—Air Corps semi-formal dance in Peirce Hall on December 4th from ten p. m. until two a. m. It was the first big dance since the old days, and music was furnished by Jack Horwitz and his orchestra from Cleveland.

PRE-MET CHRISTMAS PARTY

All Kenyon Pre-Mets, faculty members and Permanent Party men were invited to the Christmas Party given by the enlisted men of the Detachment, in Rosse Hall on December 21st. The Hall was decorated with Christmas greens and a large Christmas tree decorated by wives of the members of the Detachment. There was singing of carols by the glee club, a skit lampooning various faculty members and other prominent people, and appropriate gifts were presented to all faculty members.

DEAN HOAG VISITS OTHER TRAINING UNITS

Note: The following is reprinted from the SEMINAR and is a part of Dean Hoag's report on his visits to several colleges where Army units are receiving about the same training as the ASTP unit at Kenyon.

To the Editor:

I am glad to comply with your request for a few brief notes on my recent trip to the East, during which I visited several Area and Language programs with the purpose of determining how effective our work at Kenyon has been in comparison with theirs.

Since programs in German Area and Language are much more numerous than programs in French Area and Language, I made it a point to visit only colleges and universities which had German programs, in order to get as broad a basis as possible for an estimate of our own work. Fortunately, three of the universities which I visited had also a French section, so that I was able to get some notion of the comparative success of our work in this language.

One Unit Better

Most of the programs were under ASTP, though they had started at various times. Some of the programs, however, were under the Navy where the conditions and the aims of the academic work are somewhat different from those in ASTP. Fortunately, they are all using roughly the same method, and a genuine comparison, after making due allowances, is therefore possible.

On the whole, I was very well satisfied with the results of my investigation. At most of the colleges, the degree of proficiency in spoken language was definitely inferior, in my opinion, to the achievement here. One college which had very small units in both German and

A.A.F. PRE-METS GRADUATE

The Army Air Force Pre-Meteorological Training Course which began at Kenyon a year ago (February 15, 1943) came to a close on February 12th this year, when those trainees who successfully completed the course received certificates from Kenyon at an impressive ceremony held in Rosse Hall. The Commencement address was delivered by the Honorable Harold H. Burton of Cleveland, Junior Senator from Ohio, and the College awarded the honorary degree of LL.D. to Senator Burton and to Lieut. Col. Theodore R. Gillenwaters, chief of the materiel division of the Army Air Forces Weather Wing at Asheville, North Carolina, who had a large part in the development and administration of the air force's college and university weather training program.

The Pre-Meteorological "C" training course at Kenyon was duplicated at eleven other colleges and universities throughout the country: Amherst, Bowdoin, Hamilton, Haverford, Denison, Vanderbilt, The University of Virginia, The University of Chicago, Carleton, Pomona and Reed. Each was assigned approximately 200 young men recruited from secondary schools.

The high school seniors who came to Kenyon a year ago as raw recruits, are now soldiers with a year of intensive college work in mathematics, physics, history, English and speech behind them. After they leave Kenyon they will probably be assigned by the air forces to advanced work in communications, air crew officer training, advanced engineering and other technical tasks.

French, and therefore an initial advantage, seemed to me to have achieved about the same degree of success as we. Of the seven institutions which I visited, only one seemed to me to have surpassed the accomplishment in language of the Kenyon unit. In this case again the group was a good deal smaller than ours but even allowing for this advantage I felt that the accomplishments were remarkable.

With respect to the area work, I was surprised to find that a great many of the faculties were giving over again, almost without disguise, courses selected from their regular offerings. In many cases the courses were given by groups of specialists, each of whom tended to attempt to proselytize for his own subject and, in a few lectures, to lay a broad theoretical basis for advanced study which most of the trainees would have no opportunity to pursue. On the whole it was my strong impression that the smaller colleges had avoided this error more successfully than the great universities and that in consequence the area work there was more calculated to fit the needs of our present program than was the case among their competitors.

WITTENBERG COED IS "DETACHMENT GIRL"

COLORFUL REVIEW
HELD BY PRE-METS
AND A S T UNIT

On last Thursday afternoon the air about Kenyon was filled with military music and the tramp, tramp, tramp of soldiers proudly marching in perfect cadence while the flying colors of "Old Glory" gaily unfurled in the brisk October wind.

The occasion marked the first review of the combined organizations of the Kenyon Pre-Mets and the A S T men. The line of march was headed by the Pre-Mets' Military Band, which received much praise from the large crowd that witnessed the review.

It was one of the largest crowds ever to assemble on the Common before Peirce Hall since activation of the detachment. Faculty members, visitors from Mt. Vernon and Gambier, and the occupants of two school busses made up the audience.

GROUP LEADER MISSES CONTEST

The Orderly Room reports that this is the absolute truth. Group Leader Lynn Ebert was prevented from capturing first place in the recent Knox County hog-calling contest by his studies.

VISITING OFFICERS SELECT
MISS "MIN" BRADHURST

To Miss "Min" Bradhurst of Springfield, Ohio, goes the honor of being the Kenyon College Pre-Met "Detachment Girl." Miss Bradhurst's photograph was entered by Pvt. John

Garver and represented Flight I in the "Detachment Girl" contest. The decision was reached after the contestants' pictures had been on display for the admiration of the Detachment personnel for four weeks.

The METEORITE joins the entire Detachment in extending to Miss Bradhurst their congratulations and also an invitation to visit Kenyon College in the near future as our guest of honor. At that time she will be officially crowned by Lieut. Ryan and will be photographed with him and the other lucky members of the detachment.

The judges who selected the winner were Major Joseph M. Hansman, Warrant Officer Beck, and Staff Sergeant Ollie Hessel of the Inspector General's Department of the Army Air Forces Central Technical Training Command.

CAPT. RYAN, C. O. SAYS FAREWELL

January 25, 1944

To the Editor:

At the completion of the Army Air Forces Training Program at Kenyon College, the officers and permanent party enlisted men will be transferred to another station. The assignment at Kenyon has been most enjoyable and the past year holds many pleasant memories.

Kenyon College and Gambier at first appeared to be a quiet, out-of-the-way community with little activity. Coupled with the disagreeable weather of the week of our arrival last January, the prospect of organizing a Unit at the College was not inviting. But, as you who have lived here know, Gambier proved to be an ideal place to live and the people of Kenyon the most friendly. Mrs. Ryan and I have spent a happy year in Gambier and hope that we too may be considered a part of Kenyon.

The success of the program has been the result of hard work on the part of a conscientious faculty and full cooperation of the officials at Kenyon. The College has every right to be proud of the accomplishments of the past year.

Now, as the Army Air Forces Unit leaves the "Hill," I would like to speak for each man in our organization and say that we are thankful that we have had a chance to get acquainted with Kenyon, a fine school.

Cordially yours,

Donald M. Ryan
Capt., Air Corps

CAPT. AND MRS. RYAN
PARENTS OF BABY GIRL

As the Detachment fell out for roll call on last Saturday, Commanding Officer Capt. Donald M. Ryan, announced to C.Q. Cpl. Bernard Sloan by telephone that at 0502 he became the father of a 7 pound 6 ounce girl, and that Mrs. Ryan was doing very well in Mercy Hospital in Mt. Vernon. The only other information available at press time is that the tentative name for the new arrival is Patricia.

On the whole, as can be seen from the above, I was very well satisfied with the comparative standing of the Kenyon unit. Several ideas which I picked up, however, seemed to me to make it possible for us to do an even better job than we have been able to do hitherto. I shall not be really satisfied, nor I am sure will the faculty or the trainees themselves, until we stand not in second place but

If you want to study the way a so-called bureaucrat grows, there's the case of 34-year-old Philip Hamlet, (Kenyon '28), newly appointed head of the London branch of the Office of War Information.

Hamlet is well known in Washington where he obtained a minor job with the Office of Government Reports in the early days of the Roosevelt administration.

A native of Salem, Mass., with a long line of Yankee ancestry, Hamlet graduated from Kenyon College at Gambier, Ohio, two days short of his 19th birthday. Shortly before that, he had lost his father, who had been chief engineer of the Johns-Manville Co. and then the Goodyear Rubber Co.

Phil and his mother found the immediate going a little tough, but in Akron, Ohio, where Wendell Willkie first gave indication of his expanding abilities, the Hamlets had their first inspiration. Mother and son started a jigsaw puzzle factory and soon had the Woolworth stores and other mass distributors among their customers. The money fairly rolled in—until the jigsaw puzzle fad faded away.

Next Mrs. Hamlet and her son went to Stamford, Conn., to survey the possibilities there. Repeal had just arrived and they decided that they could make as good bottled cocktails as a certain concern in a nearby city. They couldn't—or at least the retail liquor distributors so decided.

Phil Hamlet came to Washington broke but by no means disgusted. He walked into the first government agency he passed—it happened to be the Office of Government Reports—and got a job.

First to perceive that he had administrative ability was Lowell Mellett, who had just quit a $20,000 a year job as editor of the Washington Daily News, Scripps-Howard newspaper, because he disagreed with the chain's switch to the Roosevelt opposition.

Mellett coached Hamlet, who had never had newspaper publicity experience. When Robert Sherwood, the playwright, came to Washington to join OWI, he wanted an administrative assistant and Mellett recommended Phil. It was Sherwood who boosted Hamlet into the London job.

Incidentally, Phil Hamlet is that rare combination—a Phi Beta Kappa and a Kappa Beta Phi. You really must have gone to college to understand how rare that is, but the first is an academic fraternity, the second another sort of organization altogether.

Mrs. Rahming Joins "Review Staff"

Mrs. Norris Rahming, who has served as secretary to Mr. Brown in his dual capacity as Secretary and Dean, for the past two years, and who has also handled all College publicity, is leaving on March 1st to become Secretary of the Kenyon Review.

Mrs. Rahming assumed her duties in the then office of the Secretary of the College when the office was still very new, and had much to do with the setting up of office routine. Her assistance in the compiling of material for the Bulletin has been invaluable. When in the fall of 1942 the Secretary became Dean of Students, she took on the many additional duties incident to the Dean's Office and in all her numerous activities has given service of a very high order. She is popular with students, faculty and staff alike, and it is only the greater opportunity for congenial work in the Re-

one for whom deferment is being asked. Since all student deferments, regardless of expiration date, terminated on February 15th, it was necessary to do this job in record time after the receipt of instructions from Washington about February 1st.

The secretary is now planning to attend as many meetings of local alumni associations as possible this spring and has asked the presidents of the local associations to indicate their dates as soon as possible in order that President Chalmers and the secretary may plan their movements for the balance of February and March.

Things continue to go well here on the Hill. Everyone is busy, and in spite of the many uncertainties and difficulties of the times, the students in the Liberal Arts College are carrying on with excellent morale.

SKETCHES FROM THE CAPITAL

By Congressman U. S. Guyer

*****

In reading about the late Senator Preston B. Plumb of Kansas I found that he was a student at Kenyon college, Gambier, O. This was the college which William Walker attended. William Walker was chief of the Wyandot Indians at Sandusky, O., and the moving spirit in their migration, in 1843, to what is now Wyandotte county, Kan. As I remember it was in Walker's home that the first Masonic lodge in Kansas was instituted. Kenyon college probably could boast of the most distinguished alumni of any college west of the Alleghany mountains. Here listed are some of them: President Hayes; Senator Plumb; Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of war under Lincoln; Justice David Davis of the United States supreme court; and Salmon P. Chase, Lincoln's secretary of the treasury, and chief justice of the United States. Some of our great universities would have to use a fine-toothed comb to match such a galaxy of real greatness.

CINCINNATI ALUMNI MEETING

On Friday evening, February 14, the Cincinnati Alumni Association held its annual meeting at the University Club in Cincinnati with about thirty-five members present. The meeting was presided over by Gale Evans, '26, president of the Cincinnati Association, who, with Joe Scherr, '29, Secretary, was responsible for the excellent crowd which turned out. President Chalmers, Alumni Secretary Brown and Director of Admissions Rahming attended from the college and brought the group up to date on what is going on on the Hill, and plans for the future. Bishop Hobson, honorary alumnus and trustee, greeted the meeting and Mayor Jim Stewart, '02, of Cincinnati, who, incidentally, has just announced his candidacy for governor of Ohio, spoke in his usual robust style. Among those present were: Henry Stanbery, '96, KMA, Phil Stanbery, '98, KMA, Edgar Moeser, '06, Ted Kraft, '10, Gale Evans, '26, Frank Wright, '99, Jim McIlwain, '23, Bill Hopple, '24, George Creelman, KMA, Tom Youtsey, '98, Dave Bowman, '14, Pete Craig, '37, Lucien Layne, '25, Dr. Rufus Southworth, '00, Dr. Albert Bell, '95, Robert Cline, '16, Phil Porter, '12, Robert Doepke, '36, Ruben Japp, '06, Bob Craig, '17, Bishop Hobson, '30, Joe Scherr, '29, John Anger, '21, Ralph Gordon, '08, Jim Stewart, '02, Dick Tuttle, '32.

CROSSER, '97 ACTIVE IN CAPITOL

Congressman Robert Crosser, Kenyon '97, MCL '29, LL.D. '42, was recently quoted in an article released by the Associated Press, as saying that after 27 years in Congress he likes his job and wants to make a career of it. At 69, he has a good start. A member of the House interstate commerce committee since 1923, he is a recognized authority on transportation and is author of the acts for the settlement of railway labor disputes, and for retirement and unemployment insurance for railway workers.

"I sought a seat in Congress because I believe the best place for a man who has a philosophy of things is in the law-making bodies where he may speak openly, and freely advocate principles believed by him to be right," he asserts. Often urged to seek the nomination for governor of Ohio, and suggested for federal judgeship, Crosser says he would not be happy in a position where he would be expected to administer or interpret policies he might not believe in.

Crosser is one of the best known figures about the Capitol. Recovering slowly from the effects of arthritis, the former Kenyon football star (he was recently chosen right tackle on the All-Time Kenyon Football Team) conducts his daily business with vigor and regularity. He carries on in his office a chain of interviews with constituents, representatives of transportation industry and labor, newspaper men and others. It is not unusual for him to attend or preside at as many as three congressional meetings and hearings in a day, then participate in House debate and spend late hours in his study preparing the next day's work.

He is writing his own book on philosophy, his favorite subject, which he says will deal with humanity's goal—perfect happiness—and the hindrances to its attainment. The book will explain the philosophy which has steered him along liberal lines of thought and away from close identity with all kinds of organizations, including rigid adherence to political party programs. A Democrat, he does not always agree with party officials.

He was elected Ohio Congressman-at-large in 1912 and was re-elected twice as representative of the 21st District (Ohio). After a four-year interruption from 1919 to 1923 he returned to the House from the 21st District for two decades of continuous service and is still very active.

Mr. B. B. Williams, President of the Cooper-Bessemer Company, Mt. Vernon, a firm friend of the college gave a luncheon recently in Mt. Vernon for some twenty college students and trainees, Professor Norton, Dean Hoag and Dean Brown. After the luncheon, at which Mr. Williams spoke briefly, a Cooper-Bessemer film describing the history of the company and its present important part in the war effort was shown. This was followed by a tour through the Cooper-Bessemer plant with Mr. Williams and a number of the executives and plant managers, who described in detail the intricate process of building giant submarine engines for the Navy, an interesting and educational experience for the science majors, trainees and members of the faculty privileged to attend. The above photograph shows the men during one of the stops through the enormous plant.

ROCKEFELLER FOUNDATION GIFT TO "KENYON REVIEW"

A grant of $7,500 has been made to the Kenyon Review by the Rockefeller Foundation in recognition of Professor Ransom's work and "the fine record of this project during the past five years." It will be applied to the budget of the Review which is supported also by the contributions of two or three friends of the college, by the Review's own earnings, and college funds.

At present the Review has a circulation of 1,000 in 47 states and 9 foreign countries.

That's why we're out here—so that there can continue to be Merry Christmases at home and all over the world."

NO PLEDGING IN SHORT WINTER TERM

Since only one new student was entered when the short Winter Term began on January 4th, the Senior Council ruled that he would not be eligible for pledging to a fraternity until the beginning of the Spring Term on February 14th. Rushing and pledging rules described in the last issue of the Bulletin will be effective in the Spring Term with some 15 entering students expected.

REVISED KENYON CALENDAR

In late November the college announced the opening dates for the quarter terms of the accelerated program made in order that terms of the liberal arts college may coincide with those of the two Army training units at the college.

A short Winter Term of five weeks began on January 4th and closed on February 5th. Into these five weeks was crammed a full half-term's work for which students carrying a full schedule and completing the term, received six hours credit.

The Spring Term, opening on February 14th, will close on April 29th. The Summer Term will begin May 15th and close June 29th and the Fall Term will open August 14th and close October 28th.

Thus, beginning on April 29th, the college will be completely closed down for one week after each quarter and thus permit a short rest for the over-worked faculty and staff, many of whom will then have been on duty continuously for over fifteen months. This plan will also enable the college to make many needed repairs to plant and equipment.

PROFESSOR BLACK VICE-PRESIDENT NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF TEACHERS OF SPEECH

At the three day "War Problems Conference" of the National Association of Teachers of Speech at the Hotel Commodore in New York in late December, Professor John W. Black, head of the Speech Department at Kenyon, was elected first vice-president of the Association. Meeting with the speech group were the American Educational Theater Association and the National University Extension Association.

Dr. Black is, at present, on leave of absence from the college doing important and very secret work with the government.

FIFTH WAR TIME COMMENCEMENT

Twelve men received degrees at Kenyon's fifth war-time Commencement on December 17th, nine of them in absentia, who are now in military service. The ceremonies were held in the Speech Building, and President Chalmers addressed a few words to the graduating men. The following degrees were awarded:

LIEUT. SHUBIN, '40 WINS DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS

Lt. Murray J. Shubin, 26, of Pittsburgh, Pa., has been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross "for extraordinary heroism as a fighter pilot at Guadalcanal." Leader of a flight of four P-38's Shubin and his formation intercepted a group of about fifty Jap planes and moved in to the attack. Drawing off the enemy rear cover, some fifteen Zeros, Lieutenant Shubin shot down two and then found himself alone as the other three American planes were forced by lack of ammunition and damage to retire.

For three-quarters of an hour Lieutenant Shubin fought five Zeros and "with brilliant maneuvering and frugal use of ammunition" proceeded to demolish them one by one. With a single burst he shattered one Zero and then from a steep spiral dive scored a full deflection shot on another, destroying it. "With three enemy aircraft directly to his rear," the D. S. C. citation continues, "he slashed back toward one Zero, sending it downward, smoking. The two remaining Zeros sought to escape but Lieutenant Shubin gave chase and riddled one, causing it to dive earthward." The citation concludes with the observation that Lieutenant Shubin's "coolness under fire, superior flying ability and marksmanship in his singular accomplishment of downing five, and probably six, enemy fighters reflects great credit on himself and the military service." Shubin's plane, the "Oriole," is named for his fiancée, Miss Oriole Coombes, of Brisbane, Australia.

An aeronautical engineer before he joined the Air Corps two years ago, Shubin is a Phi Beta Kappa alumnus of Kenyon College (Ohio) and is affiliated with Rodef Shalom Temple of Pittsburgh. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney A. Shubin of 988 Biltmore Ave.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS TO SERVICE MEN

In addition to the Christmas card with a handsome reproduction of one of Mr. Rahming's photographs of Peirce Hall, which went to all alumni, President Chalmers sent to every Kenyon man of record in the service overseas a 1944 subscription to the READER'S DIGEST as a Christmas gift.

Already a number of letters have been received from alumni in far places expressing thanks for the gift and commenting on its value to men cut off from many of the usual sources of reading material. Often a copy of READER'S DIGEST goes the rounds of an entire company before it becomes too dog-eared and dilapidated for further use.

Beginning January 1st the President is also sending a birthday greeting card to every Kenyon man in the service. The card is a reproduction of a photograph of the College Gate and the Chapel and carries a word of greeting from the President.

ANOTHER WRIGHT PARTY FOR FACULTY AND STAFF

Charles C. Wright, '96 and Mrs. Wright of Cleveland repeated their gift of a year ago to the College Faculty and Staff in recognition of their hard work and service to the College during the year, and another "Wright Party" was held in the Peirce Hall Commons, this time on New Year's Eve. Dinner was served at eight to about 125 people, and the evening was spent in dancing, a "March of Time" broadcast covering 1943 in Gambier, playing competitive games and so forth until midnight, when everybody drank a toast in Mr. Wright's sherry to the Wrights and to the New Year, with the hope that it may bring peace nearer to the peoples of the world.

LIBERAL ARTS CHRISTMAS PARTY

The annual Christmas Dinner, under the auspices of the Student Assembly, was held in the Commons Sunday evening, December 19th. Members of the faculty and their wives were guests of the Assembly, and officers of the various student government organizations were entertained at the High Table by Dr. and Mrs. Chalmers and Mr. and Mrs. Brown.

The Great Hall was decorated with Christmas greens and lighted candles and a fire burned in the fireplace. Everybody sang carols and Kenyon songs after dinner, and a reception for the faculties and their wives was held in the Lounge, where more carols were sung, with Dr. Bumer at the piano.

Lieut. (J.G.) Albach Lost in Sinking of Destroyer

According to word received by his father, LIEUTENANT (j.g.) JOHN I. ALBACH was killed in action in January. Lieutenant Albach, Kenyon '41, member of Psi Upsilon, had been communications officer since last February, aboard the destroyer "Turner" which had been on convoy duty, and which was sunk in New York Bay off Sandy Hook.

such view, but rather regarded the winning of the war as job enough for the Army and Navy. If military necessity should require colleges to close, that would be a misfortune, but nothing to compare with the calamity of defeat. Numerous strong colleges and universities of private control took the same view, in opposition to those who clamored for federal aid to the colleges for the sake of keeping the colleges alive.

What war training Kenyon has done was undertaken in response to military needs of the Air Forces and the Army. When these needs are met, we shall not ask the Army to keep us going, for the Army will still face its own proper job of combat.

As I write on February 3rd, colleges face for a third time the same problem: should we urge the federal government to spend money to solve our problems for us. The question is raised by the proposal to provide education for demobilized veterans. The Thomas Bill in the Senate and the Barden Bill in the House, propose that at demobilization every war service man and woman capable of taking further vocational, collegiate or professional education be given the opportunity to enjoy it without cost for at least a year. The bills envisage direct payments to the individuals to cover tuition and living expenses. They do not propose direct payments to the institutions, but obviously the presence of several hundred thousand students with cash in their pockets available only for education will produce a boom in schools, colleges and professional schools.

As president this year of the Ohio College Association, I have represented the forty-three member institutions, including Kenyon, as favoring these bills. I do so because congressmen and senators of both parties as well as political observers whom I am able to consult, tell me that a veterans' education bill of some kind is inevitable and it is clear that without considerable analysis and advice from university and college people, the legislators may fail to meet the real educational needs of a large number of demobilized men.

would lodge the administration of so-called education grants in the Veterans' Administration and result in a federal, as distinguished from a state, control of the funds. If a bill is to be passed, it should require that its administration involve the best university experience the country can supply. It should also avoid direct federal distribution of funds to individuals. The former provisions will secure at least a minimum regard for educational standards, the latter will have the same effect and in addition will tend, if only slightly, to offset the intrusion of the federal government into local affairs.

Among the numerous bills before Congress the Thomas and Barden Bills come closest to incorporating these provisions, and numerous groups of colleges and universities, including the members of the Ohio College Association, are endeavoring to support them and to secure further revisions of them to this end.

It is interesting to observe that once in the past, Kenyon became involved in this same problem when Philander Chase asked Congress for federal lands. Fortunately the petition was not granted, for if the lands had been given, Kenyon would have become a "land-grant college" and as such could never have retained its independence of government control.

All the officials of the endowed colleges whose opinions I have heard agree with me that a college which accepts students who personally had benefited by the proposed veterans' education grants will not be subject directly or indirectly to government control.

The alternatives which face Congress appear to be these: to pass a veterans' bill which will embody slight regard for the needs of demobilized men and women who want and are capable of receiving college education, on the one hand, and on the other, to pass a bill which will have the effect of enabling many, probably several hundred thousand of them, to continue their education at the colleges of their choice—provided the college, on considering each applicant on his merits, is able and willing to accept him.

Alumni who are interested in the problem may assist in its solution by asking their rep-

ENSIGN BILL LANE, '43, USNR, was married January 21st in the Church of the Incarnation in New York to Miss Elizabeth Brent Durell of Louisville, Kentucky. A reception followed at the Waldorf-Astoria. Bill completed his work at Kenyon and was graduated during the Summer Term of 1943. An Army dispatch from Panama Headquarters says that "the best defended spot in the world" is in the hands of seven fighter pilots among whom is THOMAS L. HARDEMAN, '43, Milwaukee. MAJ. JOHN C. DRAKE, '24, former college physician and trustee of the college, was transferred in January from the station hospital at Venice, Florida, where he was Chief of Surgery, to Fort Bliss, El Paso, Texas. Dispatches from Advanced Headquarters, New Guinea, in January mention LT. (j.g.) WILLIAM N. VLACHOS, '30, skipper of the APC-21, a 230-ton coastal transport vessel which took part in the Gloucester action. The APC-21 was sunk by enemy aircraft but LT. VLACHOS, as well as the commander of the Perkins, which was also sunk, was among the survivors according to reports. LT. COMDR. CARL R. DOUGLAS NICHOLS, '45, and DAVY MCCALL, '44, are studying Chinese in ASTP units at Harvard University and the University of Chicago respectively. JOHN V. ## Letters from Service Men

The following excerpts are from letters addressed to the Alumni Office and to the Office of the Chaplain. They are printed here because they are certain to be of interest to the readers of the Alumni BULLETIN. Locations of the writers are not given, but in many cases may be guessed from the sense of the letter.

After joining the Navy in May of '42 I was assigned to the Wichita and boarded her in Iceland. At that time she was attached to the British home fleet helping to escort convoys to Murmansk, Russia. We were detached from them in September, and returned to New York. We remained there until November, then led the attack at Casablanca (Africa). That was a hot 12-hour battle with the French fleet. We then came back to New York, and ten days later we were on our way to the Pacific via Panama Canal. We arrived in New Caledonia January 5th and proceeded to Guadalcanal area. Things were plenty tough out there then. We took part in the capture of this island, but not before losing the "Chicago" which was only about a hundred yards behind us when she was hit with torpedoes launched by Jap torpedo bombers.

Soon after that happened, we were sent to the Aleutians. We were again chosen to lead the campaign here. We went through this entire campaign without any excitement. I might add here that while bombarding Kiska Island on July 25th, I saw one of our bombers shot down, and was very much surprised to read in the "Thetagram" a month later that it was one of our Theta brothers who was the pilot of that plane. (Lt. Edward Poynter, '44) After taking Kiska our ship returned back to the States (a west coast port) where we are now. I was home for 14 days last month and had a real time. Talked with O'Leary over the phone in Minneapolis, saw Dick Owen in Warren, just missed Geo. Chubbuck by a week. Wish I could have come down to see you all, and the old campus, maybe next time.

Chuck "Baldy" Jenkins, '40
(to Mr. Imel)

My job in this evacuation hospital is wardmaster of the N.P. ward; that is, neuropsychiatry. The reason I was given this job, is probably due to the fact that I had a little psychology at Kenyon, tho my grades were not good. It so happened that along with this, I had been hypnotizing fellas for the practice of it. My only instrument was a flashlight. Well, my major learned of my work and asked me to try it on a patient sometime. Several nights later a fellow came in on a litter, his left side completely paralyzed from his hips down. He was awake, but a little dull mentally, from the shock. He cooperated tho, and I managed to put him under. After giving him a few suggestions, he wiggled his toes and then leg.

Finally, he had complete sensation of his nerves. Then I gave him a post-hypnotic suggestion, and by God he walked! It was shaky, but he walked—and that's how I obtained my stripes.

I recently returned to Philadelphia after a trip and found the ALUMNI NEWS waiting for me. I know that I am only one of many who thoroughly enjoy the NEWS, so many thanks for sending it on to me.

I am certainly looking forward to returning to Gambier as soon as this mess is over with, and toward seeing you again at the Pittsburgh Kenyon Alumni dinners.

Paul L. Griffiths, Jr., '37

Just a line from one of the boys that remembers every tree along the path—sure hope that it won't be too long until I saunter by Old Kenyon once again!

Jenkin Roderick Jones, '36

Enjoying the Review immensely—Congratulations on the fine work the college is doing for the war effort. It makes me proud of the Kenyon name.

Paul Herrick, '43

The November issue of the Alumni Bulletin reached me on December 23rd and took a high place among my Christmas cards, letters and gifts in contributing to my joy in the holiday.

The Roman Catholic chaplain recruited a choir for the Midnight Mass on Christmas Eve, and I volunteered to sing carols with them. They had me sing the first two verses of the Communion hymn as a solo. It was my first attempt at a solo in a choir, but by God's help, I did it.

On Christmas day, as on Thanksgiving and two other days since, we had roast turkey and the traditional trimmings for dinner. We certainly do not lack for good substantial meals at this base.

Kenneth S. Swift, '33

I have come a long way, geographically speaking, since the last word you heard of me. I am now in England with the 8th Bomber Command, taking part, as a navigator, in the raids over Germany. It is a rough and tumble game played for keeps. The Jerry is a very competent fellow in an airplane; of that there is no possible doubt. Unknown to you all I flew close to Gambier in a Fort one day and was very tempted to steer our course a few miles off to take a look. However, the skipper would not have it.

Fred Greeley, '41

My congratulations to you and the college for the fine work that is going on in the training of men for the Army. It is a fine thing you are doing. I appreciate my years at Kenyon more and more each day, and I truly believe, even though they were not military, they have helped me attain the position I have in the Army today.

I have command of a heavy gun battery, and have with me the finest soldiers anyone could ask for. We have been overseas two years, and at present are facing our most difficult task. We are proud to have been chosen for this, and we are certain we will attain our goal, because we know what we are fighting for; a thing that we are not afraid to die for: a free and wonderful country.

At present I am in the Hawaiian Islands. It is quite beautiful here although an entirely different type of beauty than the rolling hills around Gambier. The holidays were not white but were happy ones under the existing conditions. Pineapple and sugar cane fields are quite different sights, along with cocoanut trees. I have been able to visit Honolulu and Waikiki Beach while on pass and have been at the Moana and the Royal Hawaiian Hotels. They are quite lovely.

All in all things have gone quite well. I am a first pilot and have my own crew. I received the Alumni Bulletin and was happy to get it. It sure means a lot out here.

Carroll Prosser, '40

Note: A later letter from Lieutenant Prosser says that in January he was made a flight commander in his squadron.

In the January issue of Beta Theta Pi is an article by James V. Blake, '00, about Lieut. Commander Edward M. Ferris, '32, British Royal Navy and his recent marriage to Miss Kathleen Parry of "somewhere in Middlesex," England. Ferris is said to be the first American to receive a commission in the Royal Navy since the outbreak of the war. From an old seafaring family, he has seen service as commander of his ship in all the sub-infested sea lanes except the one to Russia, and has helped to bring home many convoyed vessels.

I am now in Overseas Replacement Training and have one foot in the water. The only thing for me now is a nice boat ride. Frankly, I've been kicked around as a trainee so much, especially here where I am getting nothing I haven't had at least twice, that I am anxious to go over and begin my work in the headquarters of an Air Force squadron.

ALUMNI FUND REPORT

MAY, 1943 TO DECEMBER, 1943, INCLUSIVE

We have made another long step forward with the close of the 1943 campaign for gifts from alumni in support of the college. The campaign opened on May 20th with the mailing of the Kenyon Fund broadside to all alumni. This was after preliminary work had been done in the local associations, where Fund Committees had been set up, and was followed by three other general mailings: one on June 1st, another on June 15th and a final one on July 23rd. Contributions began to come in even before the first mailing, and continued to December 31st. The table following reflects the result of our efforts in this second over-all campaign organized and conducted from the still youthful Secretary's Office in Gambier.

Referring to Table I, it will be seen that we solicited 2850 alumni this year as against 2759 in 1942, an increase of 3.3%. Gifts received numbered 533, an increase of 9.9% over joint receipts for the 1942 Emergency Fund and the Alumni Loan Fund. 18.7% of all alumni contributed a total of $13,897.99 which was 19% more than joint receipts of the two funds in 1942. The average gift increased this year to $26.07 and the average for all alumni increased to $4.87.

Table II shows the standing in the campaign of the fourteen local associations, which participated as associations, with the number of living alumni, according to the records in our office, the number of gifts received, the quota set up for each (at $5.00 per alumnus), the amount received in money, the percentage of quota achieved. Western New York (Buffalo) was out in front with 550% of quota secured. New York came next with 464% and Cleveland third with 378%. The accomplishments of the committees in these three areas are remarkable and our congratulations go to the men who were responsible for them. It will be noted that against a quota of $6,075 for fourteen local associations $12,384.26 was received with 34% of all of the alumni registered in the local associations contributing. It will be noted again how much more effective personal solicitation is than solicitation by mail when we refer to the fact that only 124 alumni outside the local associations, and thus solicited by mail, or 7.6% contributed: a fact which makes more urgent the effective organization of local associations not only for the purpose of fund raising but for the creating and maintaining of interest in the college and what it is doing.

Table III lists the ten highest classes in the order of amounts contributed. The class of

'99 is outstanding and the result is largely due to the generosity of one alumnus, Carl Ganter, whose several contributions were for specific purposes: the Libraries, resurfacing of the paths, movie equipment, and the Secretary's Office. These and other contributions of this kind lead the Secretary to recommend that on future subscription cards space be provided for the listing of specific projects which may appeal especially to the contributor. Every class from 1892 to 1946 contributed and eight classes prior to 1892.

Table IV lists gifts by denomination and Table V shows those gifts allocated for special purposes (12.2% of the total gifts, 21% of the total money. From this it will be seen that the great majority of alumni in making their contributions made them to the college for general operating purposes at the discretion of the administration and the trustees.

I would again point out to the alumni the fact that while the total amount of money received per gift and per alumnus will compare favorably with most other colleges, the percentage of alumni contributing is very far from what it should be. Even in the local associations where solicitation was personal, the 34% contributing is not on a par with the best, and certainly 7.6% of the 1635 alumni outside local associations is very far from what we might reasonably expect.

For the first time, the Alumni Loan Fund is included in the general campaign for funds, and while there is sufficient money in the Alumni Loan Fund now to take care of the very modest demands on it because of decreased enrollment, it is planned to allocate back to the Alumni Loan Fund money from the Kenyon Fund as funds are needed for loans as enrollment increases. Thus, the Kenyon Fund in 1943 was the only appeal of any kind to Kenyon alumni. The Alumni Permanent Fund has suspended operations so far as new pledges are concerned because of the lack of class unity in these times and the irregularity with which men enter and leave college. This will certainly be resumed when conditions revert to normal.

As I said in my report on the 1942 Fund, we may feel some pride in the result of our efforts but we can never be satisfied with what Kenyon alumni are doing for the college annually until we are doing systematically and continuously for our Alma Mater what the alumni of other comparable colleges are doing for theirs.

Robert B. Brown, '11,
Alumni Secretary

TO THE ALUMNI:

The report from the Secretary's Office in mid-January indicates that alumni have contributed a total of $13,873.31 in 1943, a sum which compares very favorably with the $11,691.52 contributed in 1942. The increase is nearly 19 per cent.

The College is grateful to the 533 alumni who contributed and to the numerous officers and members of committees who solicited gifts. It reassures us all in Gambier to be shown in such a tangible fashion that we are by no means alone in our determination to see Kenyon more and more able to fulfill her century-old mission of teaching and learning.

Let me take this occasion also to publicly commend Secretary Robert Brown, under whose leadership the Alumni Fund has grown during a year when he has fulfilled the extra responsibilities of Dean of Students. Without his effective and able direction of undergraduate affairs, we should have failed to maintain a wholesome undergraduate life in the presence of military training. That he has succeeded, along with the large responsibilities of the deanship, in directing the growth of the Alumni Fund merits our admiration and thanks.

Yours sincerely,

GORDON K. CHALMERS.

The Very Rev. Angus Dun, Honorary '42, Dean of the Episcopal Theological School at Cambridge, Massachusetts, has accepted the offer to become Bishop of Washington in succession to the late Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman, honorary '25.

representatives in Congress for copies of the two bills and by voicing their opinion of them.

For Kenyon as an institution the matter is not of pressing importance, since without any federal appropriation we are likely to see a great increase in applications for admission, both from on-coming civilian freshmen and demobilized men, many of whom have reiterated their determination to complete their work for a Kenyon degree. For college education in general it is important that a large national decision concerned with education include the most intelligent regard possible of the value to the Republic of college, along with other types of education.

Letters from Service Men

June seems centuries away; but it was then that I last saw you and took a rather unhappy leave of Kenyon. Some may say that after a short year, and a war year at that, I am hardly in a position to lament leaving Kenyon. Where is a Kenyon son who will not be anxious to return to Middle Path and the green campus of Kenyon, when the time he will not admit as much?

Your issue of the Nov. Alumni Bulletin just reached me. One section especially appealed to me! Letters from Service Men.

Ken Brooks, '46

Just recently arrived in Fla. midst palms, cocoanuts, surf and scenery, with my lovely wife tucked under my arm. We're here for Amphibious training with the Army. See Rudy's still winning ball games.

K. B. Dalby, USNR, '43

"I was stationed in North Africa for a while and then moved on here (somewhere in India). The more you see of this old world the more wonderful the good old States seem. I guess you have to do without a thing to appreciate it.

"One day while Officer of the Day was inspecting the Guard I ran into Ballantine (Psi U) '44. You could have knocked me over with a feather. We both agreed that Kenyon was the only school in the world and that we'd give anything to be back."

Lt. R. D. Ashman, '46

Not unlike many PFC's at Kenyon now, I am studying French Areas at the Univ. of Idaho. When I speak of it I am reminded of my disappointment upon seeing soldiers leave this unit to take up their work at Kenyon. I couldn't help but feel that the Army was doing me a vast injustice by not sending me along with them.

Nevin E. Kuhl, '44

Although in the true sense of the word I am not an alumnus of Kenyon, the alumni bulletins are read with the deepest interest. I hope that after this war ends I shall be able to return to finish my studies at the school which will remain deep-seated in my heart wherever I may happen to be. Best of wishes—Fight on, Lords!

William R. D. Wilson, '46 to avoid inflation by preserving the gold standard of the bachelor's degree and on the other hand, to treat each case as it is presented, in order to determine how much genuine college work it involves.

KENYON MEN IN THE SERVICE

Kenyon men are serving their country around the globe. Over 800 are now of record, about 25 percent of the alumni body. Twelve Kenyon men have given their lives and three are reported missing in action.
