Alumni Secretary's Column

ROBERT B. BROWN

As I write these lines in mid-November, the winter term of the College is just getting under way. All but a few of the undergraduates who were here for the fall term, which ended two weeks ago, have returned and six new students have entered.

By the time this issue reaches the alumni, the first half of the term will probably have been completed and the College will again be in recess for the two weeks Christmas holiday. With approximately eighty students enrolled we are, of course, a small college. But, as during the past two years, we are attempting to maintain as many of the normal activities as possible, curricular and extra-curricular. The faculty has decided to remain on the four-term basis, at least through the next summer term, since this seems to be best suited to the needs of the students and the various faculty and administrative requirements. There is a probability that Kenyon will revert to a two-semester plan with the term which begins in October 1945, with the addition of a summer term. This, with many other problems of reconversion of calendar and curriculum, is being studied by faculty committees, the members of which hope to complete their work during the coming spring.

Faculty and administration are doing a painstaking and careful job of surveying current trends in education, of projecting as intelligently as possible facts and estimates into the future in order to be sure that whatever changes are

THE KENYON FUND

As the Bulletin goes to press in mid-November, the total contributed during five months of the 1944 campaign is well past the $25,000 mark. It is hoped that year-end gifts plus a large number of small contributions will bring the Fund to the $30,000 goal which was set for it last June. While the amount of money reported is reasonably satisfactory, the number of contributors is disappointing. About 20% have thus far made their gift. The contributions range from $1.00 to $11,000. Certainly somewhere between these two extremes, every alumnus who is really interested in his Alma Mater and who wants to see Kenyon pull through these very precarious times can come in with whatever he feels his share to be.

The College did not do badly during the two years ended July 31, 1944, due, of course, to Army training units on the campus, but now it's a different story. With a student body of less than 100, even with a reduced faculty and cutting corners everywhere, we cannot expect anything but a serious deficit during the present fiscal year. At few times in the history of the College have the alumni had such an opportunity to be of real financial assistance. Every dollar contributed will reduce the deficit to that extent and will make possible the carrying forward of plans for the greater Kenyon which is to emerge from this War period.

This bulletin may reach its readers just before the end of the year. The Alumni Council hopes that every Kenyon man will make a last minute effort to send in his gift before the bell rings on December 31.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF THE COUNCIL HOLDS FALL MEETING

On Saturday, October 28, the Executive Committee of the Alumni Council met in the Secretary's office at the College for its regular fall meeting. All members of the Council were invited to be present. The following members of the Committee and Council appeared: President Fred H. Palmer, Jr., '22, Past President Alan G. Goldsmith, '11, Vice President Donald C. Mell, '21, Major W. E. Cless, Jr., '25, Donald R. Smith, '16, John Anger, '21, Paul H. Sutherland, '25, William G. Uhler, '26, Stuart R. McGowan, '25, and the Alumni Secretary.

The first half of the meeting was given over to a discussion of the letter which had been sent out to a large group of alumni by certain students, the effect of it on the College and on the alumni, and action to be taken in connection with it. (See letter from the Alumni Secretary dated November 6.)

After this business had been concluded, the meeting went forward with its regular agenda. The minutes of the meeting of June 24 were read and approved. The report of the Treasurer for the period June 25 to October 28 showing a balance on hand in the Peoples Bank, Gambier, of $207.48 and in the Citizens Marine Jefferson Bank, Newport News, Virginia, $115.93, total $323.41, was read and approved.

The report of the Secretary was given verbally. Mr. Brown stated that the situation at present, so far as the Alumni office is concerned, was very much what it had been when he reported to the Committee in June. He is still carrying the duties of the Dean which takes something over half of his time and it is thus impossible for him to do many of the things which should be done to improve alumni relations in support of the College. He ex-

Remember how you used to sing after Sunday dinner in the Commons? On a recent Sunday I had dinner in the Commons and really enjoyed it. It was just an ordinary Sunday, no festivities, no special occasion. There were many vacant tables, only eight being occupied. Song books were passed out—there are very few upperclassmen to teach the boys what and how to sing, but those eighty boys did some mighty fine singing with typical Kenyon spirit behind it. They sang, and loved it, just as you did long ago—or not so long ago. Those boys will, all too soon, leave Kenyon behind them to enter the Armed Forces, or, having finished their accelerated courses, enter the business world. They will always remember those happy singing days and many other cherished moments on the Hill just as you do.

Any student who matriculates is, when he leaves college, a Kenyon Alumnus and automatically becomes a member of the Alumni Association in the district in which he resides. Taking an active part in his local group and returning to Gambier for visits whenever possible are two things every Kenyon alumnus

BEXLEY NEWS

RELEASE FROM PRESIDENT'S OFFICE

President Chalmers announced on October 30 that following a decision of the Board of Trustees, Bexley Hall will return to Gambier in September, 1945. The decision was taken to terminate the war-time cooperation with the Virginia Theological Seminary on the assumption that a considerable number of students will be ready for work in Gambier by next September. In making the announcement President Chalmers said that the association with Virginia has been most pleasant.

At the same time he announced that a Board of Fellows for Bexley Hall had been appointed to cooperate with the Trustees and Faculty in developing the resources of Bexley Hall to meet the challenge of the post-war period. Those who will serve on this board include the Rt. Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, the Presiding Bishop; the Rt. Rev. Beverley D. Tucker, Bishop of Ohio; the Rt. Rev. Henry W. Hobson, Bishop of Southern Ohio; the Rt. Rev. Frank W. Creighton, Bishop of Michigan; the Rt. Rev. Goodrich R. Fenner, Bishop of Kansas; the Rt. Rev. Stephen E. Keeler, Bishop of Minnesota; the Rt. Rev. Richard A. Kirchhoffer, Bishop of Indianapolis; the Rt. Rev. Herman R. Page, Bishop of Northern Michigan; the Rt. Rev. Lewis B. Whittemore, Bishop of Western Michigan; the Rt. Rev. E. Pinkney Wroth, Bishop of Erie; and the Very Rev. Frederick C. Grant, of the Union Theological Seminary.

The members of the Board of Fellows had met in a preliminary conference on theological education at the College last June. The need for theological education in the Middle West and for training for the rural ministry was discussed at that time. President Chalmers has further announced that two new members will be added to the present Bexley faculty by 1945 when Bexley resumes its work in Gambier. The chair of New Testament will be filled and a new chair of Rural Sociology will be added. While preserving its historic emphasis upon the traditional theological discipline, Bexley will be able to make a unique contribution in training men for the town and country ministry. Although this instruction will be available in part to students working for the B.D. degree the major emphasis will be upon specialized training on a graduate level for those who wish to make the rural ministry their life work. In many ways the rural field will become increasingly important in the post-war period. We must have a ministry able to meet its challenge.

Returning service men will find a program at Bexley geared to their needs. Bexley Hall, the Divinity School of Kenyon College, is fortunate in having available the resources of the collegiate department of the College. This will mean that service men with incomplete col-

GREETINGS FROM DR. ASHFORD

William Ray Ashford

I am grateful to the Editor of the Bulletin for giving me this opportunity to send my best wishes and my most cordial holiday greetings to the Alumni of Kenyon College. I want to say to them that the College, although small in numbers, is in every other respect great and strong and sound. During the past three years Kenyon has been meeting its responsibilities in a manner that proves its vitality and does credit to its leadership. Now, while continuing its wartime usefulness, it is also preparing to meet its greater peacetime responsibilities and opportunities in a way that will make it worthy of its past and will create confidence in its future. On the Hill we firmly believe that the College is constantly progressing and improving as an institution of learning, but we know too that those essential qualities and patterns that bind the Alumni so strongly to Kenyon have not changed and are not disappearing. I should therefore like especially to assure Alumni that the demands of the war have not destroyed, and the plans for the future cannot destroy, the spirit, the traditions, and the atmosphere of Kenyon College. These are eternal; they will live on forever. And Alumni returning to the Hill now and after the war will find the same old Kenyon that they have always known and loved.

W. RAY ASHFORD.

legiate preparation will be able to take advantage of the combined facilities of the college and the seminary. Bexley will remain upon an accelerated basis so that the three year course may be completed in two years.

Another feature of the plans for the new Bexley consists in incorporating a full year of practical parish experience into the present seminary curriculum. The student will be assigned to an experienced rector working with

The President's Column

GORDON K.
CHALMERS

Letters from undergraduates, graduates, and members of the faculty and staff in the service repeat a common theme: keep Kenyon for us, and keep it a good college.

How well we succeed in doing this will be judged by the men who return, to study, to teach, or just to visit. In the meanwhile, numerous temporary adjustments are being made in the College all the time to meet the problems of students younger than the usual group, and most of all to meet the needs of men who are allowed but six or nine months of college before they go into the service, not to speak of the numerous adjustments occasioned by the small size of the College. Almost all of these adjustments are temporary; none of them has been adopted as a permanent part of the College structure and in that particular all are temporary.

Numerous members of the faculty have been studying many things about Air Corps and Army training both at Kenyon and elsewhere in order to see whether any of the experience gained here or elsewhere in war time shows the way to improvements in our own work. In general the opinion prevails in Kenyon that while acceleration is a very good war-time compromise between numerous necessities, it is not a good peace-time policy. We are committed to continue acceleration for Veterans as long as they need and want it, but we shall undoubtedly return to a longer period of work than the quarter and to less concentration of work than the speed-up war-time schedule for civilians when the progress of the war permits.

At present about half the regular faculty are on leave of absence. They are occupied in electronics research, research on secret weapons, foreign liaison work with our allies for the Office of Scientific Research and Development, research in acoustics and communications, in combat, construction, and communications overseas, in physical rehabilitation, in the analysis which makes possible the diplomatic and economic strategy of the war, in propaganda and psychological warfare, in research into domestic tax problems, and in instruction as visiting professors at Harvard, Columbia, Denison, and the Virginia Theological Seminary. It is already evident from the comments of many officers and agencies responsible for the work of these members of the Kenyon faculty that the skill and effectiveness with which they are doing their jobs adds to the fame and good name of the College.

the seminary faculty who will help him pursue his practical studies in the light of the actual needs and demands of the parish ministry. Experience in a city parish or in the rural field will be made available according to the needs of the student. The new plan will go into effect with the entering class of 1945. Under the accelerated program it will be possible to complete the expanded course of study in almost the same period of time as the former pre-war three-year course. The practical year may be waived for returning service men.

Since the fall of 1944 Bexley Hall has been located at Alexandria, Virginia, in conjunction with the Virginia Seminary. Dean Roach accompanied the students while the remaining members of the faculty assumed temporary duties in connection with the College. For 120 years Kenyon College has been training men for the ministry of the Church. Next year the Seminary will resume its work in its more than a century old historic building continuing its post-collegiate work in Bexley Hall. With six resident full professors, several part-time lecturers and instructors and a group of rector-tutors concerned with the practical extern year Bexley Hall will be better equipped than ever before for the task to which it has devoted itself for almost a century and a quarter.

With Bishop Beverley D. Tucker, of the Diocese of Ohio, officiating Lawrence H. Tober, Bexley 1944, of Cleveland, was ordained to the diaconate of the Episcopal Church Sunday morning, June 20th, in Trinity Cathedral. Mr. Tober is a graduate of Western Reserve University and Bexley Hall and began his ministry as assistant to Dean Chester B. Emerson of the Cathedral. From 1939 to 1942 he was lay reader in charge of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Cleveland.

On Sunday morning, November 19th, the Church of the Holy Apostles New York, of which the Rev. Lucius A. Edelblute, '04, Bexley '06, is rector, celebrated the one hundredth anniversary of the incorporation of the parish. The Rt. Rev. William T. Manning, Bishop of New York, preached the sermon and many present and past members and friends of the congregation attended.

The Rev. Jesse K. Brennan, Jr., '29, Bexley '26, was deposed from the ministry by Bishop Keeler of Minnesota in the Cathedral Church of St. Mark's, Minneapolis, July 24th, at his own request. The deposition was for causes which do not affect his moral character.

The Rev. Aldren Drew Kelley, an honorary alumnus of Kenyon (DD '39) formerly Executive Secretary of the Division of College Work of the National Council of the Episcopal Church, was elected and has now taken his seat as President and Dean of Seabury-Western Theological Seminary, Chicago.

The Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass., announces that the Rev. Dr. Joseph Fletcher, Bexley '38, S.T.D., formerly Dean of the Graduate School of Applied Religion, Cincinnati, has joined the Cambridge faculty as assistant professor of Practical Theology. This announcement completes the arrangements whereby the Cincinnati school, founded in 1923 by Dr. William S. Keller, will become affiliated with the Episcopal Theological School.

The Rev. Gordon W. Lind, graduate student in Bexley Hall, deacon, was married on June 28th to Miss Shirley Anderson, of Medford, Mass. The marriage took place in Emmanuel Church, West Roxbury, Mass. The Rev. Mr. Lind is to have charge of St. John's Church, Okanogan, in the district of Spokane.

The Rev. Robert M. Kellerman, Bexley '32, formerly rector of Trinity Church, Bellaire, Ohio, is now rector of Nelson County Parish, Arlington, Va.

At the fall meeting of the Catholic Club of Chicago held at St. Luke's, Evanston, September 28th, Bishop Conkling of Chicago preached before the service the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. At the dinner the speaker was Chaplain John Quincy Martin, '28, Bexley '30,

DR. WONDERS, '13, APPOINTED ARCHDEACON

DR. WONDERS

The Rev. Dr. Donald Wonders, formerly rector of Grace Episcopal Church, Sandusky, Ohio, has been appointed Archdeacon of the Diocese of Ohio by Bishop Beverley D. Tucker effective January 1st. Dr. Wonders received the Ph.B. degree from Kenyon in 1913, the M.A. degree in 1916 and in the same year graduated from Bexley. In 1934 the degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred on him by the College. He has been prominent in diocesan activities serving as a member of the Diocesan Council and Chairman of the Seal Department. He is also a member of the Chapter of Trinity Cathedral by election of the Diocesan convention and was a Deputy at the general triennial convention of the Episcopal Church in 1931 and again in 1934. He has supplemented his studies at Kenyon and Bexley with many courses at Union Theological Seminary, New York.

Dr. Wonders succeeds Archdeacon B. B. Comer Lile, who recently resigned to become rector of historic Christ Church, Alexandria, Va.

KUTLER LEAVES FOR ARMY; SUCCEEDED BY LANGE

Rudy Kutler, who is so well known to so many generations of Kenyon men, athletes and otherwise, is in the Army! He had tried for several appointments since the war began feeling that his long experience as a director of physical education should be put at the service of the government. However, until September no call came. Then suddenly a telegram arrived addressed to "Captain Rudolph Kutler" and Rudy was in. He had just one week in which to wind up his affairs in Gambier, be sworn in, secure the necessary regalia, and report for active duty.

Rudy is to be engaged for the duration with the rehabilitation of veterans. He put in a month at a short training course in Lexington, Virginia, and then went on to Lawson General Hospital in Atlanta, whence he will go to his permanent assignment.

Rudy's departure on short notice in the middle of football season posed a problem. The College was, however, extremely fortunate in securing the services of William F. (Bill) Lange who was able to leave his post at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and arrived in Gambier before Rudy left. Mr. Lange assumed the athletic directorship at Kenyon for the duration. He is not a stranger to the College. Until five years ago he headed the athletic department at Muskingum College which has frequently encountered Kenyon in the gymnasium and following this he was called to North Carolina as assistant football coach and basketball coach at that institution. He is an old friend of Captain Kutler and is known particularly for his excellence in coaching basketball. He and Mrs. Lange are established in Gambier where they have been welcomed warmly.

MRS. CHALMERS ELECTED ALUMNA PHI BETA KAPPA

Roberta Swartz Chalmers, wife of the president, poetess and former member of the Mount Holyoke faculty, has been elected to alumnae membership in Phi Beta Kappa, by the Mount Holyoke chapter, Theta of Massachusetts. Mrs. Chalmers was one of seven named in a quadrennial election announced recently by Dean Harriett M. Allyn, president of the college chapter.

One other Mount Holyoke graduate from Ohio was so honored—Dr. Helen D. Bragdon, president of Lake Erie College, Painesville, Ohio. The others chosen included educators and scientists.

Mrs. Chalmers has been invited to attend a special initiation meeting to be held at South Hadley in the spring.

President's Column

Those who remain in Gambier are hard at work. In countless ways which will never be recorded, many of them have been doing exceptional things in the war time to make sure that the whole enterprise of keeping alive and vigorous the teaching of the liberal arts and sciences in spite of the numerous difficulties will succeed.

Besides their word, that of the maintenance and Peirce Hall staffs has been notable for the good spirit in which it has been carried on under numerous difficulties and readjustments, and by the evident excellence of its results.

I hope that Alumni who return go out of their way to observe how in classroom, laboratory, library, chapel, shop, commons, and throughout the institution, the hundred small handicaps of war-time readjustment, which together add up to large handicaps, have not deterred members of the staffs from serving effectively the common cause of making the College succeed.

Visitors will find in the student body abundant evidence of the same spirit: the revival of the Collegian, the Singers, the International Relations Club; the continuation of fraternity life; the revival of undergraduate clubs for discussion and the organization by undergraduates of one or two joint meetings of faculty and students for mutual study of some of the problems of teaching and learning.

ENROLLMENT

The Fall Term, which started on August 14th, saw seventy-eight students enrolled. At mid-term (September 18th) ten new students entered and during the term eight students withdrew, most of them to enter military service, making a net enrollment at the close of October 28th of eighty.

Only six students entered college at the beginning of the Winter Term on November 13th but several former students discharged from the service returned and the average enrollment for the current term is expected to be approximately seventy-five.

While this makes a very small college, as compared with the normal peace-time three hundred it is most satisfactory under present conditions. Men's colleges over the country are running from ten to twenty per cent. We have twenty-five percent of normal and it is hoped that the college will gradually build up in numbers from the ranks of high school graduates who are not yet eighteen, 4-Fs, and G Is and disabled veterans returned.

He will serve as manager of both the New Orleans and Houston offices. His rise in the duPont Company has been rapid since he joined that organization in 1926 at the Chicago plant. CLAYTON M. VAN EPPS, '27, is sales manager for the Goodyear Aircraft Corp. at Phoenix, Arizona. RICHARD H. BOSTWICK of Chardon, Ohio, has been elected Commodore of the Mentor Harbor Yacht Club. He joined the ranks of Lake Erie yachtsmen in 1934 when he purchased the 40-foot auxiliary yawl, Avalon which he renamed the Falcon. His present boat is Falcon II, one of the popular New York Yacht Club-32s. PHILAMON B. STANBERRY, KMA, A.B. '98, A.M. '03, of Cincinnati celebrated in October his fifteenth anniversary as representative of Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company. Phil and his just-as-well-known brother "Doc" are mainstays of the Kenyon Alumni Association in Cincinnati and never miss an opportunity to return to the Hill. DR. CHESTERFIELD J. HOLLEY, '20, of Wheeling, W. Va., was elected Eminent Grant Warder, Knights Templar, for the State of Ohio at the October conclave in Columbus. At the same meeting the REV. PHIL PORTER, '12, was re-appointed Grant Prelate of the Order.

DINNER - DANCE HUGE SUCCESS

One hundred sixty-nine guests attended Kenyon's war-restricted Dinner Dance of September 30. Gingham, flannel, and taffeta made their initial appearance on the Hill, as early as Thursday evening and everyone was on hand raring to go when Denn uncorked the first coke, opening the festivities.

Pre-dance open-house parties in Middle Hanna, South Hanna and East Wing were highly successful, with only a few suffering from fruit juice giddiness.

After a late arrival Gene Beacher beat some well flavored boogie from 9 till 1 A. M. To bolster the students' morale and ruin the Administration's, an artist (who wishes to remain anonymous) mounted the band stand to offer several "jazzy" impersonations.

The performance of Mr. Welsh's recently reorganized Kenyon Singers afforded the dancers a pleasant respite well deserved during intermission.

There was a good representation of young Alumni. Howard Stafford, Don Platt, George West, Chuck Rhemus, Dick Williams, and Ed Olson joined us for the evening.

The dance committee, consisting of Jim Dandellas and Dick Roberts, are to be congratulated for managing the details so well.

At the 3 a. m. curfew dates were whisked away, the dormitories darkened and, with the exception of some naughty boys on the steps of Old —, Kenyon's gentlemen slipped, once more, into the spirit of academic servitude.

Though not represented, the spirit of Westerville, made conspicuously absent the rye-buck hats, keg rolling, and Chicago Department store singing of former celebrations.—Collegian, Oct. 13.

BROWN TO COUNCIL VETERANS

President Chalmers announced today that following a Faculty resolution calling for the appointment of "A faculty adviser for returned service men . . . to facilitate their readjustment to college and to help in the selection of such courses as will best meet the individual requirements of each man," he has made a temporary appointment of Dean Brown. At present the Veterans' problem involves a good many administrative matters and a great many arrangements both with the Veterans Bureau and within the College. Once a considerable number of Veterans return to College, it is expected that these arrangements will have become somewhat standardized and that a faculty adviser similar to faculty advisers for majors will be appointed to succeed Dean Brown.—The Collegian, Oct. 26.

finally decided upon shall be for the best. Their work deals more particularly with a satisfactory and up-to-date Liberal Arts course for the long pull and in making their plans they are drawing not only on the experience of the College for a century and a quarter, but also on all the vast amount of material which is now available on the announced and unannounced plans of sister institutions. It is quite probable that before another issue of the Bulletin, members of the Kenyon faculty will have visited certain other colleges and universities which are pioneering in certain phases of reconversion, in order to learn about them first hand.

It is the feeling of the Alumni Secretary, witnessing the amount and quality of the work now being done here, that whatever the ultimate plan is, it is pretty sure to be the right one.

Nowhere else in this issue will be found any reference to the regrettable incident of the anonymous letter which was mailed to a fairly large number of alumni of the College about the middle of October. About November 6, under instructions from the Executive Committee of the Alumni Council, I mailed a letter to all Alumni explaining what had happened and what action had been taken to that date by the Senior Court (with respect to the students involved) by the Faculty (with respect to faculty involvement, if any), by the alumni through the Executive Committee, and by the Trustees. As I write, there is nothing further to report. The two students, convicted and suspended from college by the Senior Court, have indicated their intention of appealing their cases to the Board of Appeal of the Court which is a three-man Faculty Committee. Their cases will probably be heard before the first of December. The Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees has not yet announced the personnel of the Committee of Investigation of faculty participation, but it is probable that the investigation will be conducted about mid-December. When the matter has been concluded as it should be at the earliest possible moment, a further report will go to the Alumni by circular letter or in the Bulletin.

I would merely like to underline here what I said in the letter to the Alumni, i.e. "That the overall condition of the College is good and that we here on the Hill are proud of the record which Kenyon has made during the War and intend to see that nothing alters it."

Alumni House Reconditioned

Alumni House, the attractive haven of returning alumni and their families and friends, will soon be back in commission. From early in 1943 when the first Army unit arrived until last summer Alumni House has served as a student dormitory. During the first six months it was occupied by Alpha Delta Phi and Delta Kappa Epsilon, which groups were joined in the summer of 1943, when the second Army unit arrived, by Beta Theta Pi and Psi Upsilon.

The house was completely dismantled of its original furnishings before the students moved in and during their occupancy was equipped with regular fraternity or college furnishings. Additional lockers were built into the hallways but no other structural changes were made.

Complete renovation is now going on and by December 15th Alumni House will again be ready for guests, having been completely repaired and redecorated in order to put it in its original condition.

PRES. CHALMERS COMMENTS ON THE PROPOSED MILITARY TRAINING LAW

Universal peace-time military training, evidently slated for congressional discussion when the election is over, should not be confused with universal war-time military training. Those who like the proposal find it good for military reasons and for numerous secondary but important reasons. The latter are its influence on the health of the population and our moral fibre. They observe the transformation of slouching and un-erect youths into straight-standing and clear-eyed soldiers on their first leave, and they rightly praise the Army; boys not yet "gathered" in their purposes and intentions come back from boot training with a look of manhood and an evident maturity of view, which is largely described when you say that they have become responsible. That is war-time training.

War-time military training differs from peace-time training in one particular; in war-time every trainee knows that he may be killed; worse, he secretly worries whether, when the test comes, he will flinch or play his part; in general he knows that much that he loves and believes in will very probably depend on him, and the crisis or crises will come to him not far in the future. These facts in the minds of trainees and trainers give war-time military instruction an edge which can never be reproduced in peace.

In peace the memory of war helps instructors to maintain the grim seriousness of maneuvers and preparation for them; but human memory is short, especially the memory of masses of men, and with every year of peace the solemn business of combat becomes, for the individual trainee, and in consequence, for his instructor, less and less real, more and more a fiction which for these particular soldiers will probably never come true. In such conditions the routine for enlisted men in armies and navies becomes one of the many varieties of spit and polish. True, war games do something to offset army routine for the trainee, but we have only to remember the morale problems of the draft army before Pearl Harbor to imagine the morale problems of a draft army in years when no immediate and major military threat to our security is evident to all.

Peace-time universal military training will provide a great many eighteen-year-olds with a great deal of physical exercise. Whether this exercise will have material influence on the health of the country, or whether it would compare in its fruit with a fraction of the same medical and physical-education effort spent on children, both girls and boys, at the time when lack of nourishment and early care produce the future 4-Fs, is a question which the specialists in public health could answer.

In the matter of moral fiber a teacher may be permitted to voice an opinion. Agreed, military training leading to combat for almost everyone quickly turns a boy into a man. But a year of spit and polish? Peace-time armies under psychological necessity invent means of making life on post endurable; grouped together these means are called the old army game. Even in war a standard Army adage is repeated by those who are in the know: never refuse, and never volunteer. The glorious thing about armies is that in combat the soldier does volunteer; but that is combat, not training, and particularly not peace-time training.

It is altogether possible that a year's compulsory military training in peace-time will prove destructive of the moral fibre; in any case, there is yet no demonstration that peace-time military training—unless pursued in countries where the enemy, just over the border, makes it likely that each trainee will suddenly find himself a war-trainee—will have anything like the moral effect of war-time training.

In spite of all this, we may, of course, have to vote for universal military training. But the only valid reason would be military; a desire for the incidental benefits should not lead us into such an important and serious decision.

Is there military necessity for the law? True, a law has been asked for by the Secretary of War and by the Chief of Staff; they have referred to military necessity. The President in approving the request has referred rather to social necessity, or to the incidental as well as the principal benefits. The central question before congress should be whether the military necessity has been demonstrated. We cannot ask the Army and Navy to tell us everything they have on their minds, but we can demand that they specify, as they have not yet done, how and why, in view of some of the peace-time military requirements of the country now evident, we need this particularly cumbersome and inefficient and wasteful kind of training. How does the universal training plan fit other and, to my mind, more important plans which will guarantee the rapid technical advance, both of brains and of constructed machines in Army, Navy, and Air Corps? What guarantee can the services give us that universal military training will not stall our real military development to the point where we shall become vulnerable as France was vulnerable? It is not too much to ask the Army and Navy to announce first their plans for the most advanced technical training, research and development: will there be another or an enlarged Annapolis? will there be a West Point of the Air? will there be an extension of the use of civilian laboratories for training, research and development of all the arms?

In short, is the law being asked for now, in a hurry, in order to vote it in on the surge of the great popular favor now enjoyed by the armed services? That great favor is eminently deserved. It has been earned by performance in combat. No Army or Navy has done better, and it appears, in our lifetime, none will. But

ARMY TRAINING CONTRACTS

By PRESIDENT CHALMERS

The Army training contracts with Kenyon College are not yet settled. In the present state of negotiations it is evident that the College will have completed the past two fiscal years, that is, until July 31, 1944, with balanced books, and it will have in reserve for the intensified and expanded program of Bexley Hall the sum of $4,500. About eighteen months ago the Army announced that it expected to pay the full cost of the services directly needed for Army training. If it succeeds in doing this, the College should have some reserves of income from endowment held by the College for the education of civilians, and not spent because the place of civilians was taken by Army trainees.

The current fiscal year until July 31, 1945, will see no military training in the College, and the enrollment of eighty under-graduates and five seminarians will not be likely to increase appreciably. The faculty is reduced to a little less than one-half its usual size; the undergraduates are now housed in one dormitory, Old Kenyon; the seminary continues at Alexandria until September, 1945; and numerous activities of the institution have been suspended or very drastically reduced. In spite of economies in every direction, it will be impossible for a college organized to teach three hundred twenty to teach from seventy-five to ninety and to balance its books. In the current year the Kenyon Fund will undoubtedly make a much increased contribution to the College and Seminary. The contributors to the Bexley Development Fund indicate that they will continue their generous gifts. The budget estimates for the year indicate that again we shall set aside a substantial surplus to be available for the expanded program of Bexley Hall, beginning in September, 1945; in the Collegiate column we shall not succeed in balancing the books as we have done in the past two years; at present we are in danger of showing a deficit. Thus every possible contribution to the College this year is especially needed if we are to approach, even though we may not attain, the accomplishment of the past few years of balancing the books of the operations of the whole institution.

that is combat. Peace-time training is a different job, a job which undoubtedly the Army and Navy can do well if they must do it for military reasons. But if the country decides that they must carry on peace-time military training for non-military reasons, (a) they should not be hampered with a responsibility for which they are not equipped, and (b) they would be in grave danger of fulfilling the responsibility badly.

Alumni President's Column

owes to himself and Kenyon. It is a mutual loss when a man does not do this. I left college after less than a year, but, as I often say, I've done more going to college since I left than when I was there. In other words, I attend the local meetings and come back as often as I can. Now I'm holding down a job that, I think, belongs to one of you graduates who should have come back.

Will every one of you — particularly those few who seem to have forgotten Kenyon or have too many other interests—answer this question truthfully to yourself: have you ever, at a party, at a business meeting, at a church gathering, at some point far from home, or just standing at a bar, answered the query "where did you go to school?" or "what was your college?" and said "Kenyon"? You certainly have! And haven't pleasant memories and love for all that Kenyon meant to you filled your heart in that fleeting moment as you said, "KENYON"? I'm sure you have, whether your days on the Hill were few or many. And I'll wager that, no matter how "through with Kenyon" you think you are there was more than a little pride on your part when you answered and then heard the complimentary remarks about Kenyon by the man who questioned you.

I don't believe a man who says he has "lost interest." He may be out of touch with college affairs, he may have other interests but a man who has gone to Kenyon will never LOSE interest. His interest may be dormant but as soon as he starts doing his part, attending alumni meetings, coming back for visits, helping to keep HIS COLLEGE alive he will reap the reward and enjoy the contacts with his old friends, get a big thrill out of meeting the younger Kenyon men, who are following in his footsteps, and bask in the memories that will be revived by these contacts.

Bookplate for books purchased for the Alumni Library under the ten thousand dollar Carl R. Ganter Gift. Specially designed for the volumes which Mr. Ganter's generous gift has placed in the Library, the plate is similar to those prepared for other gift collections.

Kenyon depends on Kenyon Alumni for support, physically, by your attendance at Alumni functions, mentally, by your constant thought of Kenyon and "selling Kenyon" to your friends and to prospective students and financially, by your gifts to the Kenyon Fund which serves many good purposes. Do your part in all three ways and the bigger part you take the more fun YOU will have as a result—and what a sense of satisfaction!!

Your alumni officers decided several years ago that you didn't like the constant appeal for contributions any better than they did. After lots of work and planning the Kenyon Fund resulted, whereby you are only asked to help financially once a year. Many alumni help physically by actively soliciting these Fund gifts from the others who have to be personally asked to make a pledge or write a check.

Several times a year you all get a fine Alumni Bulletin to keep you informed as to what goes on at Kenyon and the doing of your fellow Alumni. There is no charge for this but it has to be paid for. It is worth something to you, isn't it?

Your pride, fond memories and love of Kenyon are worth something tangible, aren't they?

Keeping Kenyon, as a school, up to standards you will continue to be proud of, keeping the facilities up so that you are proud to come back and bring your friends to visit your college, in other words, doing a job at your college that YOU can be proud of, costs money and is worth something to you, isn't it?

A large percentage of our Alumni do give cheerfully and liberally to the Fund. A good percentage turns out for Alumni affairs and a fair percentage comes back for regular visits. But the percentage should be larger all the way along the line. How about it? Won't a few of you who have been wayward give this serious thought and "return to the fold"?

And as for the Fund—think over the above obligations. What are they worth to you? Write your check—do not wait for a worker to call—save him that extra work. If you can afford more than the so-called token contribution of $1.00 or even $5.00, then give more. Give liberally for your gift can be for no better cause and you are giving to your OWN COLLEGE of which you will always be a part.

When you next say "Kenyon is MY college" you'll feel a bit better if you know you are doing your share in supporting her you claim so proudly as your own.

plained that many of these will have to be postponed until he can be relieved of the Dean's duties, and it is again possible for him to spend much of his time visiting individuals and local associations. The Secretary's report was approved.

It was reported that there had been no change in the situation concerning the Alumni Loan Fund. There is still an adequate balance in the fund on which to draw for loans in the immediate future and very few demands are being made on it at the present time.

A report was made by the Secretary on the Kenyon Fund to date. (See report elsewhere in this issue.)

Mr. Palmer made two suggestions concerning next year's Kenyon Fund drive. First, that a letter go out from the Secretary's office early in the year, giving the alumni date on which the Fund would open its campaign and possibly

LORD KENYON WRITES ALUMNUS

The following is quoted from a letter to Leo Wertheimer, '99, from Lord Kenyon and will be of interest to alumni.

Gredington,
Whitchurch,
Salop.

Dear Mr. Wertheimer:

I must first of all ask you to accept my apologies for the delay in answering your very kind letter of April 26th. You will realise that we do not—these days—have much time to spare and I did not want only to send my acknowledgment.

I am very interested in the story you tell of Psi Upsilon, as I still have the Psi Upsilon Badge given to my father in 1924. It is inscribed as follows: "To Lord Kenyon as Honorary Life Member Iota Alumni Association Kenyon College July 16 1924." Doubtless this is one which was sent to him later. He was also given a PBK badge which I still have. I know what pleasant memories he always retained of his visit to Gambier and I myself hope one day to see the College too.

Two or three Kenyon alumni called here before the war and I have heard from them since. Also the President writes and I am most anxious that there should always be a close connection between my family and the College. Let us hope that the time will not be too far distant when our countries may again exchange visits!

Should you have news of the College or of alumni in this country it will be of interest. I do hope you will write to me again.

Yours sincerely,

KENYON.

enclosing a post card returnable to the Alumni Office in Gambier, indicating the willingness of the alumnus to work as a volunteer on the campaign. Thus the Alumni Secretary would be in a position to send to the Fund Chairmen of the several local associations a list of men who had volunteered to work, before the opening of the fund drive. The Secretary stated that this would be done. Second, that in order to supply local associations with at least part of their operating budget for the year, some way might be found of sending back to the local associations a portion of each gift received from their area. It was suggested that this might be $1.00 per gift. The purpose of this would be to encourage the local associations to maintain their operations through the year at full speed, hold meetings regularly, circularize their members without expense to individuals, invite distinguished guests, particularly head-

WRIGHT, GRANDSON OF PRESIDENT TAPPAN, VISITS COLLEGE

During September Kenyon had the pleasure of welcoming to the College for his first visit Mr. John Kirtland Wright, Director of the American Geographical Society of New York, whose mother was Mary Tappan Wright, daughter of Eli Todd Tappan, who became President of Kenyon in December 1868 and served until June 1874. It was in the early days of President Tappan's administration that the Church of the Holy Spirit was built, the cornerstone being laid at Commencement of 1869.

Mr. Wright, who is a Harvard man of the class of 1910, stopped at Gambier on his way from Cleveland to Granville at both of which places he gave addresses on "Human Nature and Science." He expressed delight with the Kenyon about which he had heard so much and was particularly interested in viewing Hanna Hall, the site on which stood the house in which his mother had spent seven years as the daughter of the President.

masters and high school principals, to their meetings, and in general to relieve individuals in each area of the expense of these operations. The Secretary was instructed to work out something along this line.

Professor McGowan, sitting with the Committee as an alumnus, suggested that in his opinion there should always be an alumnus member of the faculty in attendance at Executive Committee meetings in order that the opinion of the faculty might be reported and the relationship between faculty and alumni thus improved. It was pointed out that Mr. Coolidge is a member of the Alumni Council from Knox County and, when full meetings of the Council are held, is in attendance.

The Secretary was finally instructed to send out a letter to the Alumni with respect to the anonymous letters from students, at the earliest possible moment explaining briefly the facts and the actions which had been taken by Trustees, Faculty, Alumni and Students.

The meeting was adjourned.

AST AND PRE-MET ALUMNI ARE HEARD FROM

When Kenyon's Pre-Meteorological Unit graduated in February 1944 and again when the Area and Language Unit departed in March with the curtailment of the AST Program the Alumni Office circularized the men in both units asking whether or not they would be interested in receiving the ALUMNI BULLETIN. A great many replied that they would and many of them have been receiving the BULLETIN regularly since. These former Kenyon trainees are scattered all over this country and overseas and from the information which has reached the Hill the BULLETIN is glad to report the following: Kermit L. Morgan, a Pre-Meteorological trainee, reports these men now at Harvard University: John D. Garver, Paul J. Bowlby, William D. Owens, Donald D. Waalpes, William C. Johnson, Robert D. Hayes, Herman Y. Carr, Wilbur R. McMillan, George R. Brooks, Keith W. Gilmour. Corp. William B. Miller, now having an APO number, writes under date of October 17th acknowledging the August issue of the BULLETIN and saying, "It is a pleasure and privilege to be considered among the alumni of Kenyon, even though we do not actually deserve the title." He reports Sgt. Robert Bowman as a member of his group overseas and says, "After having looked over the BULLETIN, I have come to the conclusion that there is perhaps one advantage in not being at Kenyon right now, and that is that we no longer have to undergo the 'tortures' imposed upon us down at the athletic field by Coach Kutler. To say that he did not get us in the best physical condition possible would be a gross understatement—but at times I'm afraid none of us quite appreciated his efforts."

Cpl. Charles O. Lee, who is now stationed with the Army Air Forces at Lunken Field, Cincinnati, writes, "Upon completion of weather school at Bowman Field in Louisville, Kentucky, five of us departed for Lunken Field where a new weather station had just been set up. The group included Cpl. Wilbur McMillan, Pfc. Carl Sibel, Pfc. George Brooks and Pfc. Keith Gilmour.

"Last month an examination for electronics school was given to all the graduates of the 'C' program and it was but a short time later that McMillan, Brooks, and Gilmour packed their bags and departed for Harvard University.

"Our most recent 'casualty' is Carl Sibel and he will be leaving very soon for a weather equipment school in New Jersey. Going along with Carl, but from different bases, are Bill Currey, Ed Newcomer, Joe O'Byrne, Ed Olsen, and Bob Daniels."

ALUMNI, FACULTY, TRUSTEE CONFERENCE ON ACADEMIC, SOCIAL LIFE OF STUDENTS

Although of the many key fraternity alumni invited to take part in the conference of alumni, faculty and trustees on the academic and social life of the students on October 27th only a few managed to attend, the group present put in a good day of discussion on certain phases of student life at Kenyon, looking particularly to the post-war college.

The meeting was called to order at 11 o'clock, Friday morning, the 27th, by President Chalmers, who presided, and who summarized briefly the history of fraternities and of their appearance and performance on the Kenyon campus. He summed up the purpose of all college training by saying that the development of the under-graduate might be divided into three definite departments: 1. intellectual; 2. moral; 3. spiritual. Later in discussion a fourth, manners, was added. President Chalmers remarked that while these three departments could not be separated the development of the student does center around them and he brought out the fact that the primary purpose of college has to do with intellectual development, that while the others are of enormous importance they take much of their importance from the excellence of that one thing.

The agenda which had been prepared for the meeting follows:

1. Purpose of social life in college.
2. Dormitory conditions—
the need for more space—freshman dormitory.
3. Fraternity activities—
rushing and pledging—Initiation and Hell Week—freshman duties—interference with study.
4. Drinking—beer in divisions—beer parties—off campus parties—advisory committee recommendations.
5. Entertainment—weekend program—girls—hostess—additional facilities needed.
6. Internal fraternity affairs—alumni supervision — finances, etc.

It was agreed that one of the practical applications of the problem of the student is the condition of the place where he lives and the things that surround him there. Are they helpful to his doing a good job and if not where do they fall down? Under this heading there was considerable discussion of the dormitory situation at Kenyon and it was pointed out that when the College is at full strength (three hundred) students are badly crowded. The ratio being about 1.6 students to each room, where ideally, it should not be more than one student to a room. The arrangement of the space was considered, i.e., the placing of as many as four men in a suite of two rooms or one study and two small bed rooms and the consensus was that Kenyon not only faces a shortage of dormitory space but that the space is not particularly well arranged. At this point the following resolution was passed:

"It is the sense of this meeting that a Freshman Dormitory would go far toward solving some of the major problems of the academic and social life of the students." In passing this resolution the Conference had in mind not only the limited space available but the difficulties involved when it came to good study habits, particularly on the part of freshmen.

It was suggested that under present conditions freshmen might be segregated within their fraternities, that this might make the enforcing of the study hour less difficult, or that one room in each Division might be a study room where quiet would prevail for those who wished to concentrate on their work. At this point the question was raised as to why the study hour should be a discipline imposed upon the freshmen alone and it was generally concluded that the evening hours on week nights should be quiet in the dormitories so that all students might devote themselves to their studies.

Fraternity activity—rushing and pledging—initiation and Hell Week—freshman duties and interference with study were discussed very thoroughly and the following resolutions were passed: "It is the sense of this meeting that it approve the institution of a study hour for Freshmen; THAT Sophomores and upper classmen should respect the study hour; and THAT Freshmen duties, which can be made constructive if they are properly handled, should be properly scheduled so as not to interfere with the freedom of the student to study at any time; and THAT the objective to be gained is the early establishment of proper habits of study in Kenyon men.

"It is the consensus of this Conference that Hell Week, as commonly known, and practised, is not to the best interests of the student, the fraternity or the College. We would recommend that there be more constructive pledge training in harmony with the ideals of the rituals of the several fraternities." In connection with the latter, the following was quoted from a pamphlet on "Post-War Goals of DKE"—"The spirit of our program leaves no room for the practices of Hell Week which are purely negative and defeat the purpose of the Chapter."

It was agreed by all present that the fraternities should, on their own initiative, see that the atmosphere in their divisions on week nights from Monday to Friday inclusive, is such as to permit uninterrupted study.

The discussion then turned to the problem of drinking, beer parties and the serving of beer in parties either on or off the campus. The Conference considered whether or not apparatus

BLIVEN, '43, REPORTED MISSING

Andrew Bliven, of the class of 1943, member of Psi Upsilon, whose home is at Erie, Pennsylvania, is reported by the War Department under date of September 28th as missing in action over Germany since September 13th. Andy was a S/Sgt. with the 342nd Bomb Group, the 97th Bomb Squadron, attached to the 15th Air Corps in Italy. He had completed almost his full number of missions, the first of these having been on June 14th over the Roumanian oil fields and he was expected home before Christmas. He stopped off at Kenyon for a visit early in the year after he had graduated and received his wings at the Gunnery School at Tyndall Field, Salt Lake City.

It is hoped, of course, that Andy will turn up safe and well as a Prisoner of War or that he may eventually make his escape through enemy territory.

for the cooling of beer should be reinstalled in the recreation rooms in the division, the advantages and disadvantages of this, and what better plan might be devised. It was agreed that if there were a well-run tap room or rathskeller in Gambier under independent but co-operative management it would be a help; also, that at the earliest opportunity the Coffee Shop in Peirce Hall should be revamped and enlarged, made more attractive to the students in the hope that it would become a more general student gathering place. Everyone felt that the serving of beer in the Coffee Shop is desirable.

There was some discussion of various forms of student entertainment and dance weekends and the faculty members present testified to the improvement in the latter since dinner dances were inaugurated during the present year. Attention was called to the need for more entertainment facilities, such as bowling alleys, more squash courts, more ping pong tables, etc.

It is hoped that this Conference will be the first of several to be arranged before enrollment again reaches its peace-time peak. The feeling of those who took part in these discussions was that the fraternities can be of great help to their student members and to the College and that such matters as those discussed in this Conference should be brought to the attention of the undergraduate fraternity men by their alumni advisors when the time comes.

Those taking part in the Conference were: President Chalmers, Dean Brown, '11, Messrs. Phil Porter, '12, Walter T. Collins, '03, and Guy Prosser, '16, for the Trustees, Mr. Rahming as Director of Admissions, Professors McGowan, '28, Bumer, Coolidge, '12, and Seitz, '15, and for the Alumni Messrs. Palmer, '22, Goldsmith, '11, Anger, '21, and Uhler, '26.

GENERAL ALLEN PUBLIC RELATIONS OFFICER IN PARIS

TIME Magazine, in its issue of November 6th, brings up to date the record of one of Kenyon's Generals, Brig. Gen. Frank A. Allen, Jr., of the class of 1920. Gen. Allen has been reported throughout the Italian campaign as commander of one of the first groups of armored troops to enter Rome when the city was captured by the Allies, as having had an audience with Pope Pius XII and as having been wounded in action while directing action of his armored force. He received the second Purple Heart award for wounds in Italy, the Bronze Star for his "gallant display of leadership," and wears the Silver Star following the personally directed attack in Italy while completely exposed to enemy fire.

The following is quoted from Time:

HONK'S CLEANUP

Into Paris last fortnight and smack into the worst tangle in World War II reporting strode square-jawed, battle-seasoned Brigadier General Frank Ulbert ("Honk") Allen, 48, new SHAEF public-relations director nicknamed for his 105-mm. larynx and famed for his bravery under fire. Almost immediately, the 500-odd grumbling Allied newsmen, based in the disheveled Hotel Scribe, saw things change for the better. By last week the milling throng was gone from the Scribe lobby; censors, P.R.O.s, wireless men were settled and working in designated rooms; correspondents were eating regularly. Most heartening change of all, Press Wireless stepped up its power, and copy dispatched from Paris reached a total of over 1,000,000 words a day.

General Allen, a professional soldier who prefers combat to conferences, modestly honked that chief credit for this improvement should go to rayon-smooth naval Captain Harry Butcher, ex-CBS radio executive, aide and close companion of General Eisenhower. For himself, Honk Allen claimed only to have used a field soldier's methods to help clean up a mess.

KENYON MEN IN AMERICAN FIELD SERVICE

Two Kenyon men, Fiske Dellinger, '44, and Bob Kohnstamm, '43, are making enviable records with the American Field Service abroad. Both men have been through much of the toughest fighting in Italy as ambulance drivers and both were at the front line at Casino.

Fiske Dellinger, home on sick leave, visited Kenyon in the early fall and gave an interesting and thrilling account of his experiences before the International Relations Club and a large number of other students and faculty members. He is being treated for certain tropical diseases which he picked up in Italy but expected to return to the front in about a month from his home in Wakefield, Mass., where he spent most of his leave under the care of Boston physicians.

Bob Kohnstamm, of Cleveland, is credited with "doing the work of five ordinary drivers during the Eighth Army push through the Liri Plain toward Rome." The following is quoted from an article by Joan Reese in the Cleveland PLAIN DEALER:

"Throughout two days and nights, with no sleep or rest, he carried the wounded back four miles from the front lines to a medical aid post near Mount Trocchio. On each trip, he carried 10 or 11 wounded, shell-shocked and exhausted men.

"Making each square foot of his ambulance space count, he had every man who could bear it, sit up for the trip back. Through all of this, he was under intense enemy fire. Remember, Robert Kohnstamm, asked for the job."

LT. GREELEY, '41, REPORTED MISSING, RETURNED

Lt. Frederick Greeley, of the class of 1941, of Winnetka, Illinois, who was reported missing in action over occupied territory eight months ago has returned safe and well. Lt. Greeley is unable to say just what happened to him in the meantime but it is evident from the meagre reports reaching the BULLETIN that his plane was shot down over Belgium last February or March, that he was well cared for by Belgian patriots for over seven months and was liberated when the Allied armies pushed into Belgium two months ago.

After a short stay in London where he was supplied with new and badly needed personal equipment, he was home for a thirty day leave, during which time he was married on Saturday, October 28th, to Miss Priscilla Hannaford of Winnetka, at the home of the bride's parents in Winnetka.

Foster Hannaford, Jr., '37, Army Air Forces retired, brother of the bride, was an usher at the wedding. After a honeymoon in the Northwoods Lt. and Mrs. Greeley went on to an Air Forces Reclassification Center for his further assignment.

GENERAL HERBERT T. PERRIN, '17

During the past summer another of Kenyon's Generals, Brig. Gen. Herbert T. Perrin, '17, made several visits to the College, with Mrs. Perrin, their daughter, and their son, Towle, who was enrolled during the Spring Term as a pre-college student.

Gen. Perrin, now at Camp Atterbury, Indiana, with the 106th Infantry Division, seemed to enjoy his first visit back to the Hill for many years but no less so than his charming family, for whom these visits were the first.

During World War I General Perrin served in France and Germany with the First Division and in 1919 was selected for the 3rd Army Composite Regiment which was formed from the Regular Division comprising the Army of Occupation, as the personal escort regiment for General Pershing. Returning in the fall of 1919 and after service on the Mexican border he attended the Infantry School at Fort Benning, Georgia, graduating in 1923. From 1924 to 1926 he served in the Philippines and upon his return at various regimental posts; as an instructor at the Infantry School, as a student at the Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, and as a member of the staff of the Commanding General, Ninth Corps Area.

In 1937 he again went to the Philippines where he was detailed on the General Staff Corps and served as Assistant Chief of Staff for operations and training. In 1940 he was a student at the Army War College and was subsequently detailed to the War Department General Staff. In 1942, with the Army expansion, he was ordered as Chief of Staff of the newly activated 76th Infantry Division. He served in this capacity until the activation of

LT. BLOUNT, '41, PRISONER OF WAR

Lt. Delbert F. Blount, '41, Delta Phi, of Chillicothe, Ohio, on whose exploits the BULLETIN reported in its May 1944 issue, was for a short time reported missing but is now officially reported as a prisoner of the German government. His parents received this cheering news early in September. He had been reported missing as of July 21st. A short wave broadcast from Berlin on October 3rd stated that Blount was a prisoner, that his plane had been shot down and that he was well and safe in a prison camp.

Lt. Blount had made an unusually fine record as a pilot in a lightning group furnishing protection to dive-bombing P-47s and had more than one narrow escape before his plane was finally shot down by the Germans.

HARDEMAN, '43,
PROMOTED TO CAPTAIN

A release from the 15th AAF in Italy reports that Thomas R. Hardeman, '43, Psi U, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, a P-51 Mustang pilot, has been promoted to the rank of Captain. He is a member of the top-scoring Mustang fighter group of the Mediterranean theater under the command of Lt. Col. Yancey S. Tarrant.

Hardeman, who left college to enlist, began his aviation cadet training in Cleveland, received his wings at Moore Field, Mission, Texas, on May 24, 1943, and a month later was on duty in the Panama Canal Zone. Joining his present fighter outfit on March 30th, 1944, he flew his first combat mission over Sofia, Bulgaria, on April 16th. Since then he has taken part in all the more important aerial actions in the Mediterranean theater. Among these were the assault against the Ploesti oil installations on April 21st, for which the group received a Distinguished Unit Citation, an all fighter shuttle to Russia on which the Mustangs shot down a large number of German planes bringing the group another Unit Citation. Also, he was one of the Mustang pilots who escorted the Flying Fortresses on the recent "Operation Reunion" in which more than a thousand American airmen were brought back to their Italian bases from Rumanian prisoner of war camps.

the 106th Infantry Division at which time he was detailed as Assistant Division Commander and promoted to his present rank of Brigadier General.

EDWARD JOHN COBBEY, '46, KILLED IN ACTION

Flight Officer E. John Cobbey, '46, who was very recently a student at Kenyon, was killed in a mission over Yugoslavia on September 3rd. A P-51 Mustang pilot, Cobbey enlisted in the Air Forces in February 1943 and made a number of missions after going overseas on July 7th. His home was at 234 Twenty-first Street, N. W., Canton, Ohio. His brother, Lt. (j.g.) Theodore S. Cobbey, Jr., '40, is just completing his internship at Mallory Institute in Boston.

John Cobbey's death brings to twenty-one the number of gold stars on the twin service flags in the College Chapel.

BRONZE STAR TO LT. BELL, '40

Lt. Lawrence G. Bell, of the class of 1940, DKE, Toledo, was awarded the Bronze Star for action in Italy. The citation read: "Lieutenant Bell successfully accomplished his mission although twice faced with enemy sniper and tank fire along the route. His determination to continue, despite the opposition, materially aided the task force to accomplish its mission, which was of vital importance to future operations."

Larry Bell entered the service in October 1941, has been overseas since last December and received the Combat Infantryman's Badge in Italy last May. He is the son of Lawrence G. Bell, of the class of 1910, and his wife is the daughter of Frank Kapp, '09. Larry has a little son born this summer whom he has not yet seen.

FLYING CROSS TOGEORGE WHITAKER, '45

Technical Sergeant George P. Whitaker, Jr., '45, of Wheeling, Beta Theta Pi, engineer and top turret gunner of a B-17 Flying Fortress of the Eighth Air Force was recently awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross. He was already holder of the Air Medal with three Oak Leaf clusters, "for extraordinary achievement as engineer-gunner of a B-17 airplane" during many bombing attacks deep in Germany.

Going into combat during the height of the pre-invasion bombing, Whitaker first saw action when his squadron bombed coastal installations near Calais, late in April. He has been over Berlin three times, bombing two factories and a marshalling yard. His record also shows three trips to the Paris area, a long mission to Brux, Czechoslovakia, the day the Eighth Air Force struck at the Brux oil refineries. On D-Day he flew two missions, the Fortresses planting their bombs on bridges, roads and rail lines behind the enemy. After D-Day he flew many attacks in direct support of the ground forces as well as trips to Bremen, bombing docks and shipping, and Leipzig, bombing a synthetic oil plant.

Sgt. Whitaker is now in this country on leave and probably will remain on this side as an instructor. He visited the College a few weeks ago.

He was at home on leave during the summer and is now back aboard the South Dakota, on which he says he has now crossed the equator twenty-three times.

Letters from Service Men

The following excerpts are from letters addressed to the Alumni Office and to the office of the President and the Chaplain.

I am aboard ship now, heading for a little action and in the meantime there is ample time for getting caught up with my correspondence.

I don't know whether I told you before or not, but both Lew Treleavan and Bill Flynn are out here in my outfit. We have been together quite frequently, and I might say that Beta cheer was spread far and wide. Our officers liquor ration arrived some time ago which helped matters immensely and we even had a little beer to go with it. Both are looking great and Lew should be heading stateside after this "blitz." Bill should follow soon after and then, I'm afraid I will be the sole surviving Kenyon Beta.

I hear from Bill Bradford frequently. Last I knew he and his wife were living the life of ease at Camp McCoy, Wisconsin. I also hear from Bill McMurphy who is out here on a Destroyer.

I am very grateful for the Alumni Bulletin which arrived a few days ago. It is the first news of Kenyon I have received for quite some time.

Still the vines and maples of Kenyon are green but now I can picture a few more dried leaves on the path than usual. The picture now looks just as I entered Kenyon. It was a year ago this month on the 5th I entered and in those months memories of the "Hill" have become inbedded in my mind.

Reading down the list of men in service Kenyon has certainly done more than her share.

As I write this letter, I am on duty as Bugler on the guard mount. The quietness here in guard house is a change from the daily training in the field with the exploding of shells, and blank cartridges being fired. This is just about the end of my basic training and I will get a couple more months of unit work and then will lay the big job ahead. At first I had the thought of fighting two wars—one of destruction and the conquering of men and women, the other — the war of races, but coming to Kenyon and to meet and make friends once more had won one war. Now its the biggest task that lies ahead. No holds barred, we will win — for victory.

I intend to resume my studies once more at Kenyon so you can count on me as being "accounted for."

This outfit is composed all of boys like me — Japanese-Americans. Boys with faces of the enemy but a heart for America. Already the "Jerries" have felt our love for what we believe. Two regiments have gone ahead of us and have set a record for us to beat. They have fought from Salerno through Rome, and now in Southern France. Most, like me have lived and grown in this, which is the "Melting Pot of the World." There can be no place where people of so many nations can come under one roof and be able to share equally in life and its pursuits.

I've enjoyed very much getting the Alumni Bulletins, the various folders, and the Chaplain's gay letters. They all provoke many pleasant memories that come from the days upon the Hill. The pictures in the recent folder I especially liked. That strange looking tree to the left of the Path is just where we of West Wing began our "See the Lamps of Heav'n are burning. . . ." as we returned from the Lodge on Tuesday nights. The view of the Commons brings back thoughts of May Dances, of George and Ken in the Coffee Shop, of the beginnings of the Dramatic Club in the Lounge,  of Sunday singing in the Great Hall, of the lovely pattern of colors cast by the sun through the tower windows on the seal of the College . . . of many things indeed are associated with four damn fine years.

It is good indeed, when one is pretty far away from all that one is used to, to be able to remember back and to plan ahead. Kenyon, on its green hilltop, figures mighty prominently in all that for me, both past and future, and it is gratifying to know that, in these days when schools and colleges everywhere are finding the going rather difficult, Kenyon is holding her own and is preparing for the good days ahead.

(To President Chalmers)

Just a note of gratitude and appreciation to you, and to Kenyon. Your intense awareness of the problems of education in these days and in the confused post-war period especially is a source of pride to me.

So many of our important educational leaders are prone to resist change, so sedately avert the face when a very real problem stands squarely in their path. You, and others like you, are fighting for liberal education in a realistic manner, meeting and solving the several problems which arise in any college, whether during war or peace. Education is not a static thing. It is alive and changing, and how it changes depends upon a few who can make it keep pace with the times.

You, and the College, in letting us know you are still with us in spirit over here, warm our hearts.

I received Kenyon's birthday card with the lovely photograph of Middle Path and it stirred fond memories and a tremendous longing. In my year over here many of my blessings have crystalized in my mind and among them are my ties with Kenyon. I look back and wonder at the casualness with which we accepted such things.

I think one of my great thrills when I return will be my first opportunity to stroll down the path, dine in Peirce Hall and look out over the Campus from West Wing Bull's Eye. I am sure that it will be such things which will help soften memories of the nightmare we are going through now.

It has occurred to me, too, that Kenyon symbolizes well nigh perfectly the ideal behind this whole upheaval. I read with considerable interest of the re-establishment of a deferred rushing plan. The plan which to me was always the most efficient and by all odds the fairest. It is a good step. Needless to say, I have read all the Bulletins cover to cover, scanning them for news of friends and acquaintances from the Hill. No luck in finding

Your letter arrived in a rather coincidental manner with the August Bulletin, so that I was full of doings and memories of Kenyon for a few days. And during my endless perusal of the Bulletin, I noticed the name of one of Kenyon's outstanding military figures and the ace Inspector at this base, Major Albert C. Nowak, '38.

So before writing an answer to your letter, I took the opportunity of calling at his office, talking at some length about "those wonderful days on the Hill," and receiving on offer to accompany him on any flights he might make back to Gambier.

There is not an awful lot to say about what I am doing here at Malden. It's not that I am necessarily "gold-bricking," — it's just that one feels his efforts of no value in the states after he has served any time in a foreign theatre. I am, at present, a line chief in radio maintenance and inspection with 26 separate and complete headaches (C-47's) at my elbows.

(To President Chalmers)

Thanks a million to you and the faculty for your nice birthday greeting. Ran into Dr. Black in San Antonio last Feb. and Jarrell a year ago at Sheppard Field. Am teaching young birdmen at Lubbock twin engine advanced, to fly, at present. Give my best to your fine faculty. One never appreciates his college until several years after he leaves. Best wishes to all.

I have enjoyed reading the Alumni Bulletin and have also appreciated receiving the Chaplain's letters.

For the past six months, I have been working with the French Section. We are training them as Bombardier-Navigators. The work is interesting and a welcome change from the routine job of instructing American Cadets.

I thought that it might be interesting to a few, so I am accompanying my letter with copies of "F" Mail, a publication of the French Air Force trainees in the U. S.

Your birthday card, and the Bulletin arrived a short time ago, and I am deeply grateful. The card was very thoughtful, the type of thing that has increased in importance during the past few years. I have come to look forward to the Bulletins arrival more and more. It is truly a fine piece of work. I wish everyone would make it a point to let you know where they are (if possible) and what they are doing. While at Kenyon I never knew how many, how broad, and how long were the highways which branch out from the Middle Path.

Sure hope that Kenyon will be able to pull through these times financially. I know it is only a small drop in the big bucket which must be filled, but I hope the enclosed check will help.

As you no doubt have heard Cecil Durbin and I are still together. We were in the 11th Group in the Pacific and are now in the 462nd. Both of us were on the first mission (B-29) to Japan. We both agree that Hawaii was paradise compared to this filthy country.

My very best to my Kenyon friends who are still on the "Hill."

Along with some 3,000 Kenyon Alumni I received the August 1944 Alumni Bulletin, and among this worthy group of men I got the old thrill of realizing that I'm a Kenyon man . . . that Kenyon is the best damn college ever . . . that some day I'll be coming back to the old place. You know, Bob, nothing is better than the men who make it exist and function. And therein lies Kenyon's greatness! We've got a great president at Kenyon . . . we've got wise and fine professors . . . we've got (though I'm not exactly qualified to say it) a strong and intelligent Alumni body. It may be a worn out expression, but I'm going to repeat it: I didn't appreciate what Kenyon had to offer (though I unwittingly assimilated much of it, I think) until I got away from her, until I had been in the army for almost three years. I'm that blinking proud of my alma mater and it's not the perennial sophomore love I bear her. I see more clearly than ever before that my college fills a need in our country, the need for a "common ground" education. I believe in all that Kenyon stands for in being a liberal educational institution. I'm behind her 100%.

* * * I went to Kenyon where one prof. reprimanded a student by telling him to speak his mind and not what he thought the prof. wanted and where another prof., clearly biased in his interpretation of history, ended his lectures with this comment: I'm biased on this subject, which all of you realize; segregate the facts in my presentation from my personal feelings, and then draw your own conclusions with earnest contemplation. These illustrations beautifully typify what I hold dear in Kenyon, my school.

She (Kenyon) has a pretty clear picture of just what a college education can do for a young man: She can only hope to make a good citizen out of him, and this is not done by indoctrination. It is not done by teaching the "answers" to questions and problems. Rather is it done by giving to the man a civilized, refined, stable, common ground background, based upon illustrations (a knowledge and appreciation of such illustrations) of great thinkers, great literary pieces, history, philosophy, language—liberal education. It is accomplished (this preparation for life in a civilized society, the making of a citizen) by oiling, smoothing out, putting finely mechanized parts into the thinking apparatus. It gears this apparatus—which is the most spectacularly beautiful and precision machine God had to give us—so that it can find the answers by its very efficiency. Democracy works only as well as the calibre of its citizens permits: education determines the calibre of a democracy's citizens.

All the men were discouraged in not being on hand for the Philippine invasion. We all thought we were being prepared for that. The men have been over here for 33 months and saw the first disastrous phases of this theater's war, and have gone through four campaigns, some pretty hot. So, though it's been a long time since their seeing action, it's a good thing I guess they didn't get in this time.

Ran into Jim Sheldon! (Alpha Delt) here; he's a S/Sgt. in A.T.C., and doing a fine job. I've intended getting him out to my hq for some Kenyon chatter over some of our warm 3.2 brew. Think I'll get to it this week. Get swell letters from Lew Treleven who is not far from here and hear of Bud Owen and Flynn thru him. Nevin Kuhl at Signal O.C.S. McCoy (Jack) engaged. The Alumni Bulletin really caught me behind times, and I learned a lot of the news—too much of it sad. Tho I don't comprehend the missing and killed reports now. There's an unreality about it all.

My laxness in sending in the enclosed contribution is without justification, but I believe it will not be too late to be included for the fund of this year. (You bet it wasn't Ed.) I am sorry that I have not sent it in earlier as I had intended.

I have enjoyed immensely getting the Alumni Bulletin: it provides a wonderful evening's entertainment in itself—just reading the whole thing carefully and digesting all the news it contains. It is a fine thing in that it brings Kenyon so close. As for news of myself, I am now stationed at Blackland Army Air Field, Waco, Texas, which is an advanced twin engine pilot school. It is a grand field and the fact that I was recently promoted to Captain makes it seem doubly so. My work here is as the post Classification and Assignment Officer and also the post Manning Officer. In addition, my branch of service has recently been changed from the Adjutant General's Department to Air Corps, so I am now wearing the wings on my collar.

I imagine it would be a little obvious for me to add that I would certainly enjoy a visit to the Hill at this time of the year, since you probably have the same or similar words repeated to you in every letter you receive these days. However, I would like nothing better than just that.

I have just finished the August Kenyon Alumni Bulletin and this, along with the fact that I have owed you a letter for some time, made me decide to write you immediately. You really can't imagine just what the Bulletin can mean to you when you are so far away and have that yearning to run into someone from school, only you don't, or I haven't very often.

At present I am somewhere in the Marianas. Things are quite a bit different here than they were at our base in the Marshalls. There we were on an atoll while this is an island. The rainy season is on here and I do mean rainy. When it comes down it is just as if someone turned a bucket upside down. When we arrived here we had nothing but a tent, a cot and a mosquito bar, this along with running water when it rained. Since then we have done quite a bit with our little place as we have put in a floor, a table and built a few chairs. It is quite liveable now and really we are quite proud of the little place.

At present I have twenty-two missions. Some have been quite rough and some have been fairly easy but we have been able to return from all of them and that is the important thing.

As you can see by letters you receive, Kenyon will always live and the alumni will always remain loyal in every sense of the word. It is very grand to know that you will always have such happy and pleasant memories of your College.

Please excuse my handwriting, not too expert at its best; my desk at present is someone's pocket-copy of "The Case of the Sulky Girl," a sort of book I can neither read nor write on. I want to thank you—and in your name—that pleasantly concrete abstraction Kenyon College, for its birthday greeting, with the Middle Path on it appropriately covered with autumn leaves. The envelope was put into my hands as I stood in a C.P. tent, taking shelter from nothing more violent than a French rainstorm; but I am sure that in less comfortable circumstances I should have found the message no less kindly warming, and that many a Kenyon man-in-uniform could prove it so.

Now, after a long and extremely interesting trip around half the globe, I am in India, to be exact, Assam, a remote British state in the easternmost part of this nation, or sub-continent, as I prefer to call it. Before arriving in Assam, I did have the good fortune to visit Bombay and Calcutta where life isn't as monotonous for the G.I. as it is here. But here we do keep occupied—I am in an (censored) doing administrative clerical work which proves to be more and more interesting. Moreover, the opportunity to advance and to learn is great. We get reasonably good meals (I miss those large pitchers of milk found on every table in the Kenyon dining-hall at Peirce Hall), and our living conditions in general are far above average in the Army. Heat, rain, and mud are the big drawbacks here. Assam is, to quote the old-timers (those who have sweated out at least twenty-eight months), "too hot, too cold, too wet, too dry." However, I reiterate that conditions could be much worse. I base the latter statement on the distressing reports concerning my many friends and Brothers who are so courageously giving up their lives in the jungles of the South Pacific and in Europe. Speaking of the European conflict, I was informed that my young brother, Don, who is a S/Sgt., recently went into action there. He went to Kenyon for two years as you may recollect.

Almost daily I am the proud and happy recipient of letters from classmates, friends, and my Brothers in Alpha Delta Phi.

One of my best morale-builders is the Kenyon Alumni Bulletin. I receive it regularly and ipso facto I keep in touch with all the activities of Kenyon men on and off the "Hill." Sir, you and your worthy colleagues deserve all the credit that I and every other Kenyon man can shower upon you for keeping Kenyon a war-time success. It is encouraging to all men whose hearts belong to Kenyon to know that it is carrying on so successfully during this war, and to be reassured that its leaders are making such splendid efforts in our behalf. Congratulations to you, Dr. Chalmers, and to all the members of the somewhat diminished faculty.

Thank you very much for your letter of August 31st, expressing your best wishes for my recovery from wounds received in action. Needless to say, I am fully recovered and feeling fine.

I do hope that the College will thrive again shortly and as soon as we have this mess cleaned up over here, I look forward to a visit back on the campus to renew a great many old friends.

Please give my best to all the men at college and particularly the crowd from Beta Theta Pi.

Yours sincerely,

Frank A. Allen, Jr.,

Director, Public Relations Div.

From "Somewhere in France" First Lieut. William R. D. Wilson, '46, Medical Corps, writes back to the Hill via a fellow-member of Phi Kappa Sigma: "During the trip over from the States, while I was out on deck I spied Hal Doremus, DKE, Kenyon '45, and we had a good bull-session about Kenyon, Mt. Vernon, etc. It really seems strange two Kenyon friends should meet after 21 months' absence — and meet 1,500 miles from nowhere at that."
