Suicide at Westernville.

A Westernville (Oct. 18th) telegram to the Columbus Dispatch, says: Thomas King cut his throat at his home in this place last night. In the afternoon he was across the street at a neighbor's, to whom he declared intention of taking his life. He asked for some paper to write a letter. Having procured this he went to his room in his own house, (where he has been sleeping alone) and was this morning found with his throat cut from ear to ear. Intemperance was the probable cause, although he was sober yesterday. He leaves a wife and daughter.

WAYNE COUNTY INFIRMARY.

Harvest-Home Feast to the Exiles, and Reunion of Directors of Several Counties.

The various crops being gathered from field, garden and orchard, and stored away for winter use, last Wednesday was set apart and celebrated by the inmates of the Wayne County Infirmary in a "Harvest Feast," which is an annual and pleasant custom at that well-conducted institution.

It was made a special holiday, the center of the ninety inmates, of whom 25 are women, 23 children, the rest men, 20 of the latter being quite venerable in years.

On the same day Infirmary Directors and other officers of this and neighboring counties held a Reunion at the Infirmary to interchange views and to investigate as to the management of such institutions.

In addition to these, there were a few visitors, until with all there was a goodly company present on the occasion, consisting mainly of the following persons:

Andrew Caton and Michael Hess, Infirmary Directors of Knox county, and their wives, and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Williams, Superintendent and Matron of Knox Infirmary.

C. J. Kolb and Henry Frederick, Infirmary Directors of Summit county, their wives, and Mrs. J. F. Glines, Matron of Summit county Infirmary.

Wm. Stover and Andrew Shorb, Directors of Stark county Infirmary, and wives.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Hammond, Superintendent and Matron of Holmes county Infirmary.

Adam Eymann, John Alexander and James McClannan, Directors, and Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Sweeney, Superintendent and Matron of Wayne county Infirmary.

Benj. Weygandt, Commissioner of Wayne county, Joseph Holser and Chas. Gasche, ex-Directors.

Among the other visitors were Hon. L. Harper, editor of the Mt. Vernon Banner, and wife; Mrs. Dr. W. W. Firestone, wife of the Physician in Charge of the Infirmary; Mrs. Adam Eymann, Mrs. Charles Gasche, Mrs. John P. Jeffries, Mr. Benj. Weygandt, L. H. Myers and wife, and others.

The day was spent most pleasantly and satisfactorily to all. The Infirmary was thoroughly inspected from cellar to garret, and its appearance and management closely scrutinized, especially by the Directors, who afterwards, in council, discussed the working of this and other institutions, to arrive at the best mode of conducting them, according to Mr. and Mrs. Sweeney superior ability as Superintendent and Matron.

The lady visitors were particularly pleased with what they saw—the neatness, cleanliness and good order about everything, expressing their admiration at Mrs. Sweeney's energy, systematic management and industry as exhibited all through the large building, from the helpless infant ward to that of the dangerous insane, from kitchen to parlor, wondering how she could possibly do it all, with so many feeble, idiotic and crazy people to take care of and worry about. It appears to be her "mission," and well she performs it. As an item or two of her work may be remarked that there are 1,500 yards of rag carpet on the various floors of the infirmary, all made under her direction by the inmates, 200 yards during the past year; also, hundreds of suits of clothes, hats and kinds of garments, of which there are always a surplus on hand; hundreds of bed quilts, comforts, etc., all of which are made there. With the same economy, abundance of provisions are secured, all from the farm, mainly by labor of inmates, under direction of Mr. Sweeney, thus showing that the Infirmary is conducted on the best principles of a co-operative workshop and boarding house.

The dinner was one of those elegant repasts for which Mrs. Sweeney is famous on such occasions, enjoyed for about an hour, and ending about 3 o'clock.

Then, after strolling around awhile, and taking views of the wide-spread autumnal landscape from the broad veranda, the company reassembled in the parlor, where the officers called a special meeting.

On motion of Mr. Sweeney, Mr. Caton, Director of Knox county, was elected Chairman, and in assuming the position made appropriate remarks, giving the business reasons for these Reunions. He had visited this Infirmary with much satisfaction, and must say that it excelled anything he had ever seen. Too much praise, he said, cannot be bestowed upon Mr. and Mrs. Sweeney; they have been in years in charge, and their experience is valuable to them, wherein they have learned how to control, and taken pains to improve. The result is, that the management of the Wayne County Infirmary must be highly satisfactory to the people of the county and to the inmates.

Hon. L. Harper, editor of the Mt. Vernon Banner, was then called on. He responded, saying he had attended two Reunions of this kind, in Holmes and Knox counties, but that the present one exceeded the others in size and interest. He expressed himself very much pleased with the general management of these institutions all over Ohio, and that it was a great public charity and which is admitted in this respect to excel other commonwealths, and noble as they are, he felt the same pride in visiting these lesser county institutions that he had in the greater ones.

"Man's inability to man makes countless thousands mourn," which, he said, may be true across the sea, but not here, where the unfortunate are better taken care of through public charity than many poor who work hard for a living. A great many people, who are really in destitute circumstances, have a holy dread of the "Poor House," and they would rather suffer in want, beg their way from door to door, and too frequently, he was sorry to say, steal, rather than to take up their abode in one of these institutions, because they think there is something degrading in the idea. This is a mistake. It is not degrading to seek this support, when, in the dispensation of Providence, misfortune, ill-health or old age overtakes and forces one to seek this always open asylum of the poor. He then described the fine new Infirmary of Knox county speaking of it in terms of praise. But to the people of Wayne county he would say that you have reason to be proud of all that you have in all respects. Above all, it is the best managed I ever saw. Mrs. Sweeney is a woman above women. Another lady here present (Mrs. Hammond, of Holmes county,) is the nearest approach to her. It requires wonderful ability and labor to successfully manage an institution like this, and she appears to possess every qualification. In conclusion, he was glad to repeat that Wayne county should be proud of its Infirmary, where its poor are so amply provided for.

Brief remarks followed from Wm. Stouffer, of Stark, Charles Gasche, of Wayne, and C. J. Kolb, of Summit, all complimentary to the able management of the Infirmary, Mr. Kolb making some especially good practical suggestions on various points.

With this the formality of the meeting closed, and music succeeded. The children of Mr. and Mrs. Sweeney are musical by nature, good performers on nearly every instrument, and entertained the company with several orchestral selections. Wallace, aged twelve years, led on the 1st violin; Frank, 21 violin; Ida, aged 14, guitar; Robert, bass violin; Alexander, organ—nearly all making changes of instruments in playing different pieces. They performed as well as many professional organizations. After the instrumental, Mrs. Dr. W. W. Firestone, gave some vocal music, singing, by request, such good old songs as "Old Folks at Home," "Dixie," "Do They Think of Me at Home?" etc., many of the inmates thronging around, manifestly affected by the air and words.

Late in the evening the Reunion ended, the next fixed to be held at Stark county Infirmary in June, 1879.

Dedication of St. Joseph Cathedral at Columbus.

St. Joseph (Catholic) Cathedral, at Columbus, was dedicated on Sunday with imposing ceremonies. It is estimated that at least ten thousand strangers were in the city, who came in on the various Railroads. The Journal says that "no occasion, since the remains of Lincoln were in state in the rotunda of the State House, brought together such a multitude of people. The Cathedral was beautifully decorated with flowers—one of the most attractive pieces being a cross, more than six feet in length, made of tube roses and other white flowers of variegated colors. The ceremonies began at 5:30 a. m., but the details are too lengthy for publication in our paper. After the church services were concluded a procession was formed, composed of the various religious societies in Columbus, Cincinnati, Dayton, Springfield, Zanesville, Lancaster, Newark, Circleville, Stratsville, Marion, &c., which marched through the principal streets, accompanied by bands of music. The procession was about one mile long—the men walking four abreast, and was witnessed by over twenty thousand people, who lined the sidewalks. A dinner was served by the ladies at the City Hall, and an immense number of hungry people enjoyed the feast.

The following Bishops were present at the exercises: Most Rev. Archbishop Purcell, Cincinnati; Rt. Rev. Bishop Spaulding, Peoria; Rt. Rev. Bishop Kain, Wheeling; Rt. Rev. Bishop Toebbe, Covington; Rt. Rev. Bishop Gilmour, Cleveland; Rt. Rev. Bishop Chatard, Vincennes; Rt. Rev. Bishop Dreger, Ft. Wayne; Rt. Rev. Bishop Rosecrans, Columbus. Besides these very many prominent priests were present from different parts of the country. Almost every town and county in this State was represented.

The foundation of the Cathedral was laid in 1856, under the auspices of Rev. E. M. Fitzgerald, then pastor of St. Patrick's Church (now Bishop of Little Rock), and the work has progressed steadily until completed. The building is of gothic architecture, built of yellow sandstone, and has a frontage of ninety-two feet on Broad street, and runs back one hundred and eighty feet on Fifth street. It will seat one thousand persons.

Dedication of the Licking County Court House.

The ceremonies of dedicating the magnificent new Court House at Newark, Licking county, took place on Saturday last.

An immense crowd from Licking and all the adjoining counties was present, not one-tenth of whom could gain admission to the Court-room. The balance amused themselves going through the immense building, inspecting at the various offices, &c. Before the regular proceedings took place, a splendid case was presented to Commissioner White as a token of regard for his valuable services in superintending the work. The presentation speech was made by W. H. Davis, Esq.

At 2 o'clock, P. M. an appropriate prayer was offered by the Rev. E. B. Andrews, President of Dennison University, after which, Judge Buckingham delivered a brief address, stating the object of the meeting. He was followed by Hon. James R. Stanbury, in behalf of the Commissioners, in a very fine address, presenting the Court House to the people. Charles H. Kibler, Esq., responded, as the representative of the people, in an eloquent address. A satisfactory address was then delivered by Hon. J. B. Jones, and Judge S. M. Hunter followed in an address on the majesty of the law. Hon. Henry B. Curtis, of Mt. Vernon, made a few remarks during the afternoon's exercises, and referred to early time courts which were held in the old log court house in the square.

In the evening a magnificent banquet was given at the Park House, which was attended by about 150 persons. A number of speeches were made in response to toasts.

Secretary Barnes, Auditor Williams, Judges Johnson, Okey, and McInavine, of the Supreme Court, as well as several of the Common Pleas Judges, were present. Nearly all the Knox County officials, as well as many of the prominent members of the Mt. Vernon bar were also in attendance.

A Brave and Heroic Act.

About dark last week Wednesday, a two year old daughter of Addison Riley, living near Centreburg, fell into a well eighteen feet deep. The father was absent from home, the mother confined to a sick bed, and the nurse, badly frightened, ran to a neighbor for assistance. Another daughter of Mr. Riley, aged 12 years, came in and found the mother in great agony of mind. Without encouragement or hesitation, alone and in the dark, she ran to the rescue of her sister, and descended to the bottom of the well. She found the child standing in a foot of water, holding to a plank that had fallen with her and lodged in the wall above the water. Carefully grasping her sister in her arms she began the ascent. Climbing a short distance she would place the child's feet in a cavity in the wall, and support it there while she reached a higher point, and again lift it to another cavity. This dangerous process was repeated until they were within four feet of the top, when a neighbor arrived and lifted them from their highly perilous position. Excepting a severe cold the child sustained no serious injury.
