McKinleyism Briefly Told.

Free Trade for Labor, but Protection for the products of Labor.

If you want to tax yourself into pauperism vote for McKinleyism.

The Republican plan, started for base political purposes, is gradually dying out.

The prospects for Mr. Neal's election are growing better and better every day.

McKINLEYISM is becoming more odious to the honest voters of Ohio every day.

A WATER famine prevails throughout the anthracite coal regions in Pennsylvania.

THE Wheeling Iron Works are resuming upon full time. Brighter days are coming.

The idle mechanics and laboring men will give McKinleyism a black eye in November.

LORD DUNBAR expended $150,000 in his vain attempt to win a boat race in America.

SEVERAL recent terrible disasters on railroads go to show that air-brakes are not always reliable.

THE Bar Association of New York denounces the nomination of Judge Maynard for Court of Appeals.

McKINLEYISM takes the necessities of life. Vote for Lawrence T. Neal and the entire Democratic ticket.

THE Democrats of Chattanooga, after an exciting contest, elected George W. Ochs Mayor, by a good majority.

LIBERT. GOVERNOR SHERMAN has been elected Chairman of the New York Democratic Campaign Committee.

PEIXOTO, the despised President of Brazil, says that he will retire if the elections go against him this month.

McKINLEY'S protective tariff for the lonely manufacturers has been of no benefit to farmers and wool-growers.

EMMA GOLDMAN, the Anarchist, has been sentenced to one year's imprisonment in the penitentiary at Sing Sing, N. Y.

WHEN free transportation and free dinners are offered to people, there is no trouble in getting up big meetings for McKinley.

THE great Edgar Thompson Steel Works at Pittsburgh, resumed business on Monday. This is bad news for the "calamity howlers."

MONEY is piling up in the banks, which goes to show that people are ceasing to use the old stockings and tin-boxes as places of deposit.

"Business is Growing Better," is a long list of business enterprises that were started up during the past week.

THE Republicans carried Indianapolis at the election last week on questions that were purely local. The State of Indiana is Democratic, all the same.

The gold reserve in the treasury has been reduced to $86,890,008. The Government Mint at Philadelphia expects to coin $15,000,000 of gold by December.

THE Republican leaders are alarmed, and they are warning the rank and file of the party not to be "overconfident." They no longer claim 40,000 majority in Ohio.

At whose instance was Tom Reed, a Presidential candidate, brought to Ohio to make speeches? The general belief is that Candidate McKinley had nothing to do with it.

THE Populists of the Senatorial district composed of the counties of Crawford, Seneca and Wyandot, have nominated Amos Keller, of Crawford for State Senator.

The glass-workers at the Beatty glass-works in Tiffin, have gone out on a strike, for the reason that the new rules of the company do not agree with those of the union.

A REPORT comes from London that William Waldorf Astor, the New York multimillionaire, is about to build a big hotel in that city at an estimated cost of over $7,000,000.

THE Plain Dealer asks: Does the Hon. William McKinley really believe that the people voted out a Republican Administration simply to get up a panic among themselves?

The mining town of Louisville, containing 500 inhabitants, situated twenty-five miles North of Denver, is sinking out of sight, because it was built over coal mines, which are caving in.

SAM JOHNSON (S. E. J.) is doing some good work on the Enquirer just now. If Mr. Johnson was placed in the editorial chair of that paper, it might have the true ring of Democracy, occasionally.

SECRETARY HOKE SMITH asks for $160,000,000 to pay the pensions. Here are figures that cannot be made to lie for the fellows who did their fighting in the pork and beans department of the army.

The debt of the State of Ohio is $50,000,000, and the last McKinley legislature increased this sum, and made appropriations in advance of this fall's taxes for more than half a million dollars.

The Issue in Ohio.

The Republicans brand all Democrats "Free Traders" who oppose McKinleyism and protection robbery. The Democrats favor a tariff for Revenue only. Free trade means direct taxation and the abolition of all custom houses. No Democrat favors that—therefore, free trade is a misnomer. Tariff taxation, levied for the sole purpose of protecting monopolists, at the expense of the consumers, as advocated by the Republicans, is a fraud and a swindle. Every dollar taken from the earnings of the people to swell the gains of the monopolists, is robbery. But such is McKinleyism.

The issue presented to the voters of Ohio, to be decided at the election in November, may therefore be stated in a few words:

Lawrence T. Neal and low tariff taxation, for the benefit of all the people; William A. Harris and high tariff taxation, for the benefit of a favored few.

In this issue every man who earns his bread by the sweat of his brow, should act with vote with the Democratic party.

The election of 1892 was a decision against McKinleyism and tariff robbery. Let the election of 1893 be still more emphatic on the side of the toiling, tax-ridden people.

The Revolution in Brazil.

The rebellion in Brazil is gradually assuming the character of a revolution. The rebel cause seems to be gaining strength every day. It is a fight of the Navy against the Army—the rebel General Mello against President Peixoto.

The people seem to be losing confidence in Peixoto, and wish he would either resign or throw up the sponge.

Late advisers state that Peixoto's government is likely to join the naval insurgents. If so, Peixoto may as well escape to the woods or the mountains.

Two battalions of National Guards have already deserted for the rebels.

The revolutionary uprising in the Southern province of Rio Grande do Sul is daily gaining strength.

A large force of the rebel army is besieging Livramento, and the residents fear that an attack on the city will soon be made.

At latest accounts the rebel gun boats had suspended the bombardment, because their ammunition gave out, but supplies were expected daily.

The loyal forces in the harbor of Rio were firing away at the rebel ships, but doing no damage.

The prediction is made that if the rebellion is successful the monarchy will be restored in Brazil. But this does not necessarily follow.

Frank Who Turn Up Missing.

Frank D. Smith, formerly of Columbus and Cincinnati, but who has lived in Chicago for a couple of years, and has been a prominent member of the Order of Elks, has suddenly disappeared.

He wrote letters to three of his friends in Chicago last week, stating that when the letters would be received he would be in Lake Michigan.

Whether he committed suicide or was only fooling his friends will be known later.

Leslie Lotz, leader of a church choir at Hollidaysburg, Pa., and a well-known merchant, and Mrs. Crawford, the wife of a neighbor, have disappeared. Lotz has a wife and four children. He is supposed to have taken $100,000 in cash with him. The affair has created quite a sensation in Hollidaysburg.

C. O. Kingsbury, postmaster at Centreville, Butler county, Pa., is said to have disappeared. J. H. Muntz, a harness dealer of Greenville, is his bondsman. Kingsbury is 33 years old, married, and a member of the Methodist church.

Wm. C. Osborn, manager of the Western office of the Southern Insurance Company, at Cincinnati, although considered an upright and temperate man, got on a spree on Saturday week, since which time he has not shown up. He had upon his person about $300, belonging to the company.

A Fearful and Fatal Storm.

The wind and rain storm of Friday and Saturday evening, which extended all over the country, but was particularly severe and destructive along the Atlantic coast, and in the States of Florida, Georgia, North and South Carolina, Maryland and Pennsylvania. Telegraph lines were prostrated, immense damage was done to property and numerous lives were lost. The greatest fury of the storm was spent on the ocean, and many vessels were wrecked. At Magnolia Beach, S. C., nineteen people were drowned. Baltimore seems to have been the worst financial sufferer by the gale, the damage by the rain and wind being estimated at $1,000,000. At Wilmington, N. C., the loss is placed at $150,000. Along the New England coast the storm was also very severe. It was one of the most general and disastrous storms ever witnessed in this country.

The gale also seems to have been particularly severe on the Lakes. The steamer Dean Richmond, chartered by the Toledo, St. Louis and Kansas City line, and loaded with general merchandise from Toledo to Buffalo, was wrecked off Dunkirk, N. Y., and the entire crew, numbering eighteen persons, were drowned.

The steamer Wokoken, on her way from Ashtabula to Duluth, loaded with coal, sunk off Long Point, Canada, on Monday and of her crew of sixteen people only three were saved.

One of the most frightful railroad disasters of the year, occurred on the Michigan Central road, at Jackson, at 9:40 a. m., on Friday, when the second section of the Oswego special ran into the rear of the head section, while the latter was standing on the track for breakfast. The cars, including, killing nineteen people and injuring over one hundred others. Most of the persons killed or injured were from the State of New York on their way to the World's Fair. Many of the killed could not be identified, as there were no papers or addresses on their bodies. The accident was caused by the failure of the air-brakes to work.

OTHER RAILROAD DISASTERS.

Early Saturday morning a freight train on the Chicago Division of the Big Four road, was wrecked on a bridge between Guilford and Manchester, Ind. The first car jumped the track on the bridge, and the remaining cars fell against the side of the bridge, crushing through it. Fortunately no one was hurt.

A west-bound passenger train on the Nickel Plate road was wrecked a short distance west of Buffalo on Saturday evening. J. B. Lane, the fireman, was the only person killed. Several passengers were seriously injured.

A passenger train on the Wabash road from Chicago for St. Louis, while trying to make up lost time, jumped the track at Nameeki, Ill., Monday evening, throwing the entire train into a ditch. Four of the coaches caught fire. Scores of persons were badly injured and many are believed to be under the wreck killed.

First Blood for the Silverites.

The Minority Victorious Over the Majority.

The long struggle for supremacy in the Senate on the question of a repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman law, came to a close last Thursday night by the defeat of the repealing Senators. Their able general, Senator Voorhies, after a session of 45 hours, finding that it was a moral and physical impossibility to keep a quorum together, in order to reach a final vote, moved an adjournment, to the great relief of the tired, worn-out, hungry, sleepy Senators, and the curtain dropped on the long faces.

The minority, while their conduct was disgraceful and unpatriotic, and by continuous dilatory motions and long-winded speeches, kept the majority from taking a direct vote upon repeal.

The majority were compelled to keep a quorum present all the time, day and night, to prevent an adjournment, while the minority could go off, eat, drink, sleep and be merry, leaving a few of their leaders to "watch the corners," and spell each other in "talking against time."

One Senator, Populist Allen, spoke 15 mortal hours against repeal!

It has been clearly demonstrated that a vote cannot be reached by a continuous session of the Senate under its present rules, which permit endless debate and all manner of dilatory tactics.

The silver men were challenged to a test of endurance, and they came off victorious. They were better organized and better equipped than their opponents.

Poor Voorhies! He was very brave, but very polite and gentlemanly, and allowed the factional minority to have their own way in everything, just for the sake of "Senatorial courtesy."

After announcing that during 42 hours he had slept only one hour, and finding no quorum present, he gave way to physical force, threw up the sponge, and moved an adjournment.

At any time, during the past six weeks, the repealing Senators, who were in the majority, could have forced a vote, by adopting the cloture, or demanding the previous question; but their amiable leader, Mr. Voorhies, would rather suffer defeat than be charged with impoliteness.

This dilatory proceeding weakened the cause of repeal. Some repealers deserted, and others demanded a compromise.

The trouble with the repealing Senators from the beginning has been that they sought to repeal the silver purchasing clause of the Sherman law, without proposing a satisfactory substitute. This has weakened their cause.

Unless some new measure is introduced that will meet the just expectations and necessities of the whole country, States and Representatives might as well draw their pay and go home.

The people are tired of the farce that has been enacted for the past six weeks.

A Few Fire Horrors.

During a terrific gale at Baltimore on Friday night, the Brush Electric Light Works took fire and were burned to the ground. The stores and other buildings in the city as well as the theatres, were plunged in darkness, causing quite a panic among the people. The City Jail took fire from sparks from the electric plant, and was completely destroyed. Many of the prisoners were overcome by the smoke and had to be taken to City Hospital. It required a large body of police to prevent other prisoners from making their escape.

The house of George Komatki, six miles East of Minn, N. D., was burned last Friday night, and the bodies of four sons, aged 15, 12, 10 and 8, were cremated. The boys were sleeping upstairs. Two men were occupying the same room, both of whom escaped. The father endeavored to take one boy out of the window, but, frantic with pain, he drew back and perished. The fire is reported as of incendiary origin. No trace of the bodies is to be found.

Miss Iva Bowers, of Marble Cliff, a suburban of Columbus, started a fire by the use of gasoline, and the flames soon set her clothes on fire. She was burned in such a horrible manner that death came to her relief. Her screams brought a neighbor, Mr. J. H. Thompson, to the scene, who, in trying to put out the flames that enveloped Miss Bowers, was badly burned himself.

While Joseph Tupper and Robert Henderson were drilling for oil on Dr. Canfield's farm, near Bowling Green, Wood Co., last Wednesday evening, they struck a vein of gas and oil which was followed by an explosion, the flames ascending 100 feet high. The men were burned so badly that they died shortly afterwards from their terrible suffering.

On last Wednesday night the large Wallace-street barn of the Chicago City Railway Company was destroyed by fire. About a dozen buildings were burned, and 576 horses were burned to death. In the burned building, in addition to the horses, there were thirty cars, 200 tons of hay and 500 bushels of grain. Total loss $120,000.

The main building of the South Dakota State University, at Vermillion, was burned on Sunday morning, entailing a loss of at least $100,000, with no insurance. The books and mineral cabinet were saved. D. Wallace, a student, was badly injured by jumping from a window.

A fire broke out in the Shattuck School buildings at Fairbault, Minn., last Tuesday night, which destroyed property to the value of $50,000, including a $10,000 telescope. A number of students were taken out of the burning building, being overcome with the heat and smoke.

A fire in the engine-room of the New Boston Colliery at Pottsville, Pa., last Wednesday morning, destroyed the entire structure valued at $50,000, 850 men and boy's were employed, who will be idle until the works are rebuilt.

The principal portion of the business section of the town of Hattiesburg, Miss., was burned at 2 o'clock last Wednesday morning. About a dozen buildings were destroyed—loss $50,000; partly insured.

Here is the very latest matrimonial freak. Mr. and Mrs. Charles MacAlester, of Philadelphia, spent the summer at Bar Harbor. There they became acquainted with Walter and Olive Wilkinson, brother and sister. Mr. MacAlester flirted with Miss Wilkinson to the infinite displeasure of his wife, and to "get even," Mrs. MacAlester got up a flirtation with Mr. Wilkinson. The result was a quarrel between the married couple, ending in a divorce. Now comes word that Mrs. MacAlester and Mr. Wilkinson were married in Baltimore. All the parties are prominent and wealthy.

JOHN WANAMAKER refuses to be interviewed in regard to the subscriptions made by him and John J. Van Allen to the campaign fund of their respective parties. He claims, however, that his individual subscription was only $10,000, while he received the credit of paying $250,000, which amount secured for the high office of Postmaster-General. He takes the Wanamaker "bargain and sale," the Republicans may seal their mouths about Van Allen.

E. L. HARPER, the Cincinnati ex-banker, after regaining his liberty, started up in business, again and has been doing well. But a new trouble has just overtaken him.

In returning from a business trip to New York a few days ago, he discovered that his trusted book-keeper, Harry Bliss, had robbed him of about $1,000 by forged checks and left for parts unknown. His Secretary, C. O. L. Cooper, also left, on account of "broken faith" as he claims.

FREDERICK HARTCH, editor of the Tagelblatt, at Berlin, published something in his paper that was offensive to General Kirchhoff. The General called upon the editor, and demanded him, at the point of a pistol, to sign a paper confessing himself to be a low scoundrel, which Hartch refused to do, and at once a bullet entered his body near the heart, but hit a rib and glanced off and imbedded itself in the floor. Kirchhoff was arrested.

HERMAN WOOLWINE, the twelve-year old son of Judson Woolwine, who lives at Valley Bend, in Randolph County, West Va., picked up an old rusty shell in one of the fields on the farm, which had been fired from a cannon at Beverly in 1863. The boy concluded to touch the shell off, and did so with a match. One of the boy's eyes was knocked out and he was badly injured about the body. How he escaped with his life is a mystery.

The Republican story that the English manufacturers are sending a large amount of money to Youngstown and other manufacturing cities in Ohio, "to aid the cause of Larry Neal for Governor," is the veriest rot imaginable. It is a repetition of the same old lie that is circulated on the eve of every election in Ohio. The Republicans see the handwriting on the wall. Neal will be the next Governor of Ohio.

M. V. GANNON, Esq., formerly of Omaha, but now of Chicago, has resigned the Presidency of the Irish National League, on account of the lack of harmony and union among Irishmen in Ireland, which prevented the raising of money in this country for either faction. He expresses the belief that unless there is something done to get the League upon the right lines, it will go out of existence.

The third and last race between the English yacht Valkyrie and the American yacht Vigilant, took place over the same "track" on Friday, and although it was the closest and most exciting of all, on account of the high wind that was blowing, still the Vigilant came off victorious, although she only beat the Britisher 40 seconds. The cup will remain on this side of the water.

PRIVATE DALZELL wrote a war history and borrowed money from his friends to pay the cost of publishing it. He was well drawn the money and sent it to the printer, and he has been forced to give up all his property to make good the money loaned by his friends. It is a wonder the Republican papers don't charge Dalzell's misfortune as "the fear of Democratic free trade."

THEATRE SEIZURE, of the World's Columbian Exposition, on Monday of last week, drew his check for $1,565,310.76, which amount wiped out the entire floating debt of the fair, for which the Exposition is responsible. It is thought that there will be a surplus of at least $1,500,000, and it is a result is reached the financial success will be a parallel.

LARRY NEAL is making a grand campaign in Ohio, and his strong, sensible, argumentative speeches are listened to with marked attention, and call forth heartfelt applause. The daily correspondence of the Columbus Journal (Rep.) admits that the Neal meeting in that town last week, was the largest ever held in the place by any party. Neal will be elected.

ISAC RAY, aged 47 years, who was employed at the livery stable of L. B. Moore at Pemberton, Logan county, in returning home last Wednesday night, was brutally attacked and murdered by a man whose name was not given. Ray was a respectable man and had no enemies. The cause of the murder is a mystery.

In the "heresy" case of the Rev. Henry Preserved Smith, late of Lane Theological Seminary, which was appealed from the Presbytery to the Ohio Synod, at Cincinnati, the latter body has affirmed the appeal, and sustained the action of the Presbytery. The vote stood 78 to 67—the latter number, of course, being "heretics."

The Bankers of Ohio held a large convention at Cleveland last week, and were royally entertained by the local brethren. They adopted a resolution declaring their belief that "the repeal of the silver purchasing clause of the Sherman law is necessary to enable the Government to maintain the parity between gold and silver."

The Democratic Judicial Convention for the First Maryland district, after being in session for two months and taking 5812 ballots, finally broke the deadlock by nominating Henry Page, of Somerset, for Chief Justice, and Henry Lloyd, of Dorchester, for Associate Justice. This was the longest contest recorded in political history.

The Tucker Federal Election bill, intended to defeat the infamous act under which John I. Davenport has been disfranchising thousands of honest voters in New York, has passed the House of Representatives by a vote of 200 Democrats and Populists. Of course the Republicans all voted against the measure.

The report comes from Youngstown, Ohio, that the large manufacturing establishments in that little city have determined not to start up until after the election, for the purpose, it is said, of forcing the men to "vote for McKinley or starve." The question arises, is this a free country?

Over one hundred indictments have been found against W. Z. McDonald, McKinley's pet ex-inspector of Workshops and ex-Secretary of the Republican State League, by the grand jury of Franklin county. He has given bond amounting to $16,000 for his appearance.

It is claimed that the sentiment, "In God We Trust," which is placed on the silver dollar, is there without any authority of law, the law of March 3, 1865, authorizing it having been repealed by the act of February 28, 1873.

It is now claimed that no heir or descendant of Dom Pedro resides abroad, and if this is so, the young chap who sailed from Bordeaux to put in a claim for the Brazilian throne, must be an ardent impostor and a fraud.

GEN. LEUCAS FAIRCHILD, of Wisconsin, was elected Commander-in-Chief of Loyal Legion, at the meeting in Chicago last week. He takes the place of Gen. Rutherford B. Hayes. Ex-President Harrison declined the honor.

The Death Roll.

The venerable and distinguished Ohio historian, Henry Howe, while in a Columbus restaurant on Saturday, waiting for his dinner, before starting to the World's Fair with his wife, was stricken with paralysis, fell over unconscious, and died soon afterwards. He was 77 years of age. He wrote an illustrated History of Ohio in 1847, and another in 1891, which was a financial failure, and left him penniless.

JACOB C. REINHARD, a venerable and well-known citizen of Columbus, died in that city on Friday. For many years he was publisher of the Westbote, a German Democratic newspaper. He was also engaged in banking.

Gen'l Phineas Pease, a pioneer railroad man of Columbus, died on Sunday, aged 67 years. He ran the first train that went over the Cleveland and Columbus road. He has been on the retired list for several years.

Mrs. Warner, widow of the late L. K. Warner, died at her home in Newark on Friday night, aged 76 years, of pneumonia. The deceased was an estimable lady, and had many warm friends in Mt. Vernon.

Captain Elias Cole, Treasurer of Delaware county, died on Monday, after a brief illness. He was Master of the Masonic Blue Lodge for many years, and an officer of the Royal Arch Masons.

John H. James, a well-known Licking county attorney, died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Sheldon Jewett, near Granville, Friday. He was aged 47 years.

Henry DeWolf, Treasurer of the Illinois Central Railroad, died suddenly last week, at Chicago, from angina pectoris.

Field Marshal McMahon, the pride and glory of France, died on Tuesday morning, at Chateau la Foret and Loire. His entire life was devoted to the service of his country.

Squire W. H. Patterson, a veteran Democrat, and formerly treasurer of Richland county, died on Friday last.

HON. PHILIP G. BERRY, of Hamilton, has received the Democratic nomination for Common Pleas Judge in the Judicial District composed of the counties of Montgomery, Preble, Butler and Darke.

A BILL extending the provisions of the Geary law, excluding Chinese laborers, for six months, passed the House of Representatives on Monday—yeas, 167; nays, 9.

STONEWALL J. DEFRANCE, now under arrest in Detroit for forgery, has been fully identified as Lyman J. Lamb, who last spring swindled Jacob Newman, of Chicago, out of some $35,000. The identification was made by a clerk of Newman's law office, who went to Detroit.

GOV. MCKINLEY was called before the grand jury at Columbus to testify about the penitentiaries of his late Inspector of Prisons, and Ex-cs. W. Z. McDonald. If he told the whole truth (and no doubt he did), it would be very damaging to that pet Republican official.

A MAN calling himself "Dr. W. May" was, dealer in bogus Medical Diplomas, in New York, has been run down, tried, convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary for three months, through the earnest and persistent exposure of the New York Herald.

MARSH WALKER, the negro fiend who ravished a little deaf and dumb girl, near Savannah, Ga., was found in a house by mounted police. In attempting to escape he fired upon the police. The fire was returned and the brute was killed with bullets.
