An official statement prepared at the pension bureau shows that the total number of claims for pension now awaiting at the bureau is 700,279.

This remarkable fact is stated that there are several patients in a Brooklyn Hospital, all with broken necks, and it is said that they will all live, and that is what puzzles the doctors.

MISS NELLIE HEWICK, of Urbana, who posed as a "prize beauty" at the World's Fair, has captured the heart of a millionaire New York banker, who will shortly marry her—so 'tis said. Ohio still leads.

UNDER HIGH TARIFF

The Number of Sheep and Price of Wool Has Steadily Declined.

As the Tariff Went Up the Price of Wool Went Down.

The State Republican Executive Committee feels that the timber on which their campaign is resting are sinking away. In the very frenzy of despair they are exhausting device and method to prop up their fast failing hopes.

They are now engaged in playing their last trump. It failing, as it surely will they will be in the very "slough of despond."

The Chairman of each Republican County Executive Committee has been instructed to get the names of the wool growers in their respective county, and particularly those who are Democrats, and forward them to the State Republican Executive Committee.

These wool growers will be doled with doctored tracts with the hope of incensing them against the Democratic party. The wool growers of Ohio should be familiar with the effects of the "protective" (?) tariff.

They have had years of sad experience and should not need paper object lessons. Kindergarten teaching will not raise the price of their clips.

There is no fact better known than that since 1877, the year the excessive duty was placed on wool, the industry has languished.

The number of sheep in the State has fallen off nearly fifty per cent., and the price of wool has declined 66 2/3 per cent. 1867 wool sold for 90 cents per pound. To-day the best quality is not worth 30 cents per pound.

Mr. McKinley urged the passage of his notorious bill that the price of wool might be enhanced.

From the hour the law became operative wool has declined.

It sold for less in the winter of '90, with the McKinley bill in full force, than it did in '89.

It sold for less in '91 than it did in '90, and for less in '92 than it did in '91, and now, in 1893 it is 33 1/3 per cent. less than it was in 1892.

There was no panic in 1890 or '91 or '92. Why did wool decline in those years with the increased tariff duty, given by the McKinley law?

This question should command the attention of the Republican Executive Committee. Perhaps they desire the names of the wool growers that they may explain this monstrous contradiction.

The probabilities, however, are that they want the names to make a death struggle of further decrease the growth of wool. If any Democrat receives one of their circulars let him write back and say:

"In 1890 you promised me better prices for my wool. You have failed."

You deceived me. You have failed. "Wool has declined every year until to-day it is scarcely worth taking from the back of the sheep."

You expect me to give credence to any promise you may make now? "The truth is the worst is out of the wool market, and I am satisfied that PROTECTOR HAS KNOCKED IT OUT."

The Pension Business. Pension Commissioner Lochren submits the annual report of his office for the fiscal year ending on the 1st of July. There were 90,000 pensioners added to the rolls during the year, and the number now on the pension rolls is 966,012. The number is now doubtless 1,000,000 or nearly that preposterous figure, with 711,000 cases pending. If one-half of these claims are allowed the pension roll will be swelled upward of 1,200,000. There are not a million of survivors of the civil war living. Last year the amount paid on account of pensions was $15,740,000. For the next fiscal year the Commissioner says he will want $162,000,000. He makes an explanation of the recent rulings of the department, so much canvassed, from which it appears they originated in the pension office that Hoke Smith's part was in modifying certain orders suspending pensions during the investigations into the legality of the pension law. But all this was worse than trusted. Commissioner Lochren concludes with the declaration that he recognizes "to the fullest extent that my sole duty is to execute and administer the laws as they are enacted—fairly and honestly interpreted."

The proceedings in the Senate show the Democrats to be hopelessly divided on the silver question.—Delaware Gazette.

The Gazette might have added that the Republicans in the Senate are also hopelessly divided on the silver question. This is not a party question, and no political capital can be made out of it for either party. The silver purchase law was really a Republican measure, introduced by Senator Sherman and voted for and passed by a Republican Senate and House of Representatives, and approved by a Republican President. The sole object of passing the measure was to secure the so-called "free state" for the Republican party. Mr. Sherman confesses that the bill did not meet his expectations, or the necessities of the country, and he now favors its repeal, in common with other Senators, both Republicans and Democrats, in all parts of the country.

MR. HOWARD CONRAD has brought suit against his wife, Mabel Barnaby Conrad, for divorce, at Helena, Montana, charging her with improper intimacy with other men. There is nothing remarkable about suits of this kind out west; but in this case the defendant is a daughter of the late Mrs. Barnaby, of Providence, R. I., for whose murder Dr. Graves was tried at Denver, and afterward killed himself. The married Conrad in 1884. Conrad is a wealthy business man, and ran on the Democratic ticket for Lieut. Governor in 1889, but was defeated. The case creates a big sensation.

McKinley vs. McKinley.

Fortunately for the people of Ohio they know just what a protective tariff means. This State has honored itself and honored the nation by always pronouncing in favor of a protective tariff—McKinley at Athens.

When Governor McKinley was Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, he championed a tariff bill, which was enacted into law. In urging the measure he gave as a reason for its adoption that it would increase the price of wool, and that it would add to the wages of employees in the manufacturing districts. He was prophetic more than argumentative. On the 6th day of October, 1890, his measure became a law. Now, we ask him if a single prophesy, in which he indulged, has been fulfilled? Did the wool-growers get advanced prices for their product? Did the employees get an increase in their wages? If they did not, why did they not? With unobscured candor it is for a man to call attention to the deceits he has practiced in expectation that the people will approve his sufficiency? Of all the deceits of the world, who should studiously avoid reference to the "McKinley Bill," Mr. McKinley is that man. He should stand in humiliation before the effects of the notorious measure of which he is the father. His comports have eaten still deeper into the hearts and pockets of the consumers, while it has not produced a single benefit he claimed for its operation. The farmer has been pitilessly impoverished and uncharitably robbed. The wage-earner, instead of receiving increased pay, has been subjected to unwarrantable reductions, or still worse, forced into idleness. The cry of the people throughout all the land has gone up against his infamous deception. Yes, the people of Ohio, as well as those of all other States, "know just what a protective tariff means." It means the robbing of the masses and the enslavement of labor. It means the taking of the money from him who has earned it in the "sweat of his face," and giving it to him who is not entitled to one penny of it. It means the promise to the car and the breaking to the heart of labor.

It is not a matter of surprise that Mr. McKinley should be so stupid, and so most choiced with the Sherman tariff. His life has been so spent before the people of Ohio and ignorantly asserted that the foreign manufacturer paid the tariff duties. So persistent was this absurdity that he became a laughing stock to the intelligence of his own party, and a derision to thoughtful men throughout civilization. He is today of opinion that the increased duties imposed by the McKinley bill gave the farmer better prices for his wool, though the market quotations for nearly three years have given a daily contradiction. He believes that the wool-growers have received increased pay, though many active industries have cut wages or closed up. It would be a wearisome task to attempt to ascertain what the wool-growers have received, but he, as he lacks comprehension, and is blisful in ignorance.

A Republican Senator Talks Good Sense. Senator Cullom, of Illinois, is a Republican, but he deserves commendation for his desire for action in the Senate without "jobs" and "deals." He says:

"The Republican Senators who favor repeal are making no deals, nor will they make any. They are as much opposed to the Federal election law as they are in favor of the Sherman repeal. They know full well that nothing is to be gained before the country by bargains of any kind. I do not agree with Senator Cullom, however, in his view of the whole country and then vote according to his opinion. I repeat, because it seems to be to the interest of the country at large that the silver purchasing law should be wiped out."

New York Times: Andrew Carnegie says that the reduction of wages ordered in his mills is "very sad." And if the Democrats persist in reducing the duties which protect his monopoly it will be sadder still. The tariff Mr. Carnegie seeks to remove is the tariff on wool. They know full well that nothing is to be gained before the country by bargains of any kind. I do not agree with Senator Cullom, however, in his view of the whole country and then vote according to his opinion. I repeat, because it seems to be to the interest of the country at large that the silver purchasing law should be wiped out."

The Fountain Head of Strength. When we recollect that the stomach is the grand laboratory in which food is transformed into the secretions which furnish vigor to the system after entering and enriching the blood; that it is, in short, the fountain head of strength, heretofore, and now, the only way of keeping the machine in order, and to restore it to activity when it becomes inactive. The Hostetter's Stomach Bitters does most effectively, systematically, and reinforcing digestion, promoting due action of the liver and bowels, strength and quietness of the nerves depend in great measure upon thorough digestion. There is no nervous tone more highly esteemed by the medical fraternity than the stomach. Physicians also strongly commend it for chills and fever, rheumatism, kidney and bladder trouble, sick headache, and a want of appetite and sleep. Take a wineglassful three times a day.

Hiccups have killed Dr. L. P. Dodge of Farmington, chairman of the Republican congressional committee of the third district of Minnesota. They became the result of an operation performed upon him two days ago, and the doctors were unable to stop them. He died with 60 years, the old man suddenly hiccoughed himself out. He was a manager of the state reform school.

Poisoned by Scrofula. Is the sad story of many lives made miserable through no fault of their own. Scrofula is more especially than any other hereditary disease, and for this simple reason: Arising from impure and insufficient blood, the disease localizes itself in the lymphatics, which are composed of white tissues; there is a period of foetal life when the whole body consists of white tissues, and therefore the unborn child is especially susceptible to this dreadful disease. But there is a remedy for scrofula, whether hereditary or acquired. It is Hostetter's Sarsaparilla, which by its powerful effect on the blood, expels all trace of the disease and gives to the vital fluid the quality and color of healthy blood. If you desire to take Hostetter's Sarsaparilla do not accept any substitute.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

McKinley Against McKinley. Gov. McKinley, among his many attempts to fool the people, in the opening of his present campaign, is again giving currency to the exploded claim that "the foreigner pays the tariff tax on imported goods." This ridiculous pretense should be silenced once and for all by appealing from McKinley drunk (with a desire to promote his political interests) to McKinley sober and in his right mind. In the old tariff it was provided that the United States government should not be required to pay duties on any dutiable goods which it should import for its own use. This provision was repealed by the McKinley bill. When his bill was reported by the committee of the house McKinley made a labored speech in explanation and defense of it. Relating to the repeal of the provision relating to the payment of duties by the government, he said:

There has been for many years a provision in the law permitting the United States to import for its use any article free of duty. This provision of law has been eliminated in the proposed revision (the McKinley bill) and if approved by the House and Senate and the President, it would be a great loss to the government, he said.

In another part of the same speech he declared that the duties were paid by "the average citizen." In speaking about the construction of a paragraph in the old law which permitted American travelers returning from abroad to import free of duty certain articles as "personal effects," he said:

The practical effect of this provision was that wealthy classes who were able to visit certain countries secured exemption from the payment of duties, while the average citizen, unable to go abroad, was compelled to pay a duty upon the articles which he might want to use.

This it will be seen that at the time the McKinley bill was framed and passed, the idea tried the foreigner paid any portion of the tariff tax on imported goods, never entered the head of the author of said law. Is not this attempt of Gov. McKinley to bewilder and mislead the people of this State on this question beneath the gallant major and the high office he holds?

Truly "the tariff is a tax" and the tax is paid, not by the foreigner, but by the purchaser and consumer of the article imported.—Plain Dealer.

McCarthy ENTHUSIASTIC. The Passage of the Home-Rule Bill but a Question of Time.

BOSTON, Oct. 6.—The following letter has been received by Thomas J. Gargen, Chairman, and Daniel P. Skillivan, Secretary of the State Committee of the Irish National Federation of Massachusetts, in response to the congratulatory letter recently forwarded to the Chairman of the Irish Parliamentary party:

DEAR SIR:—I thank you most cordially on behalf of my party and myself for your kind and cheering letter of the 2nd inst., and for the interest you have taken in the Home-Rule bill through the House of Commons. The final triumph of the bill, which I believe with you, but a question of short duration. Time is with us; the democracy of Great Britain is with us; the greatest English statesman of the present time, Mr. Gladstone, is with us, and I trust, long to be spared to work for us and with us. Under such conditions what have we to fear?

Very truly yours, JUSTIN MCCARTHY.

The Cuyahoga Democracy had a large, harmonious and enthusiastic Convention at Cleveland, and nominated a strong and winning ticket—"the best ticket in years," as the Plain Dealer styles it. The ticket is composed of the following names:

Common Pleas Judge, Frank H. Kelly; Senators Joseph M. Poe, Dr. E. D. Burton, Charles Wesley; Representatives Dr. Aaron Hall, Frank Hunt, Vachel Snajor, P. T. Kenney; W. A. Thorp, H. H. Lyon, J. A. Fogle, T. D. Selye; Probate Judge, A. H. Weed; County Attorney, J. E. Farrell; Clerk of the Courts, Charles Higgins; Treasurer, W. W. Armstrong; Commissioner, Dr. S. B. Ingalls; Coroner, Daniel Heinrich; County Surveyor, Louis J. Cook.

Bound to Kill Himself. Samuel Trauger, a prominent and wealthy citizen of Plymouth, Richland county, was found hanging to the limb of an apple tree in the rear of his residence at 6 o'clock Thursday morning. A revolver with three empty chambers, wounds in his head and a trail of blood from the house to the barn show that he had at first shot himself in the back of the head, and the wounds not proving fatal, he had gone to the barn, procured a rope and hanged himself. Mr. Trauger had been sorely afflicted with a diseased eye, upon which an operation was to have been performed, and it is thought this prompted the deed.

The famous hazing case of the Ohio Wesleyan University were brought to an end by the dismissal of both the criminal and civil cases. The outcome of the affair was not unexpected, as it was scarcely supposed they would ever come to trial. The grand jury failed to return any indictments against the students, and the civil case, suits for $1,000 each brought by Harn, Wilson, Rogers and Brown have been marked off the docket upon the payment of the costs by the hazers.

"I am Truly Thankful For Host's Sarsaparilla. During the war I contracted typhoid fever, and fever and chills, and was nearly killed. I was cured by Host's Sarsaparilla, and I have since used it for all my ailments. It is a truly wonderful medicine, and I am truly thankful for it."—J. H. STILMAN, Cheltenham, Pa.

Newark (Advertiser).—Consume much "midnight oil" in study is sometimes attended with other results than those anticipated. Such, at least, is the experience of Judge John S. He took no note of the flight of minutes and hours as they sped by. One by one the other occupants of the temple of justice left for their homes, and even the faithful janitor had long been wrapped in the grateful embrace of Morpheus. McKinley Briefly Told.

Free Trade for Labor, but Protection for the products of Labor.

The nail workers at Salem, Ohio, refused to accept the 10 per cent. reduction in their wages, and they are now idle.

The National Bank of Kansas City, which failed during the summer, resumed business on Tuesday, with a capital of $1,000,000.

The yellow fever is still raging at Brunswick, Ga., without any apparent change for the better. The new cases average from 30 to 35 per day.

JUDGE GARY, who tried and sentenced the Haymarket anarchists at Chicago, was unanimously re-nominated by the Republican Convention on Friday.

SATURDAY, October 21st, will be New York Day at the World's Fair, and already extensive arrangements are being made to crown it with abundant success.

The case of "heresy" against Professor Henry Preserved Smith is now before the Presbyterian Synod of Ohio, at Cincinnati, on an appeal from the Presbytery of Cincinnati.

TWO STUDENTS of the Pennsylvania State College were expelled because cider was found in their room, whereupon 100 students, composing the entire freshman class, went out on a strike.

THE Carnegie steel works at Homestead, near Pittsburgh, are now running on double time, to fill their big orders for armor plate. The "calamity shriekers" will please make a note of this.

MRS. CATHERINE FITZGERALD deliberately shot and killed Mrs. Caroline Pearsal, New York, because she believed the latter was too intimate with her husband. The murderer was placed under arrest.

THE Newly Infantry Barracks at Rostavl, province of Smolensk, Russia, was burned last Thursday night. Eleven of the soldiers were killed by jumping and twenty-eight were suffocated to death.

WORD comes from Mexico that Gen'l Manuel Escobar, at one time Governor of Chiapas, was assassinated at his house in Tannichua, twelve projectiles, which were fired from the street, lodging in his heart.

BARTLEY, JOHNSON & Co., one of the oldest and best known whisky firms in Kentucky, has suspended business, their liabilities being placed at $400,000, while they claim assets to the amount of $700,000.

A NEST of train-wreckers has been unearthed at Brazil, Ind. Two of the gang, Joe Silves and Ed. Moore are said to be of good families, but if they are guilty, let them receive the severest punishment the law provides.

THE new Cunard ocean steamer Lucania, made the passage from Europe to America last week, in 5 days, 13 hours and 25 minutes, which is the fastest time on record, beating the time of the City of Paris 59 minutes.

THE trouble between France and Siam has been settled, the latter country being forced to accept every demand made by the superior power. This is only a repetition of the old European doctrine that "might makes right."

ON the occasion of a marriage last week in New York, the first solemn nuptial mass in the history of the Protestant Episcopal Church in America, was celebrated in the Church of the Redeemer, 821 street and Park Avenue.

SARAH DEINHARDT, the great actress, was in Rio de Janeiro during the late bombardment, and her eye witnesses to the scene. She was delighted with the "sport," and wrote out a long and graphic description of the pyrotechnics.

UP in Canada, near Niagara Falls, there is a place known as the "Cave of the Winds." We'll bet a peck of chestnuts that it cannot "hold a candle" to the "Cave of the Winds" at Washington, usually called the United States Senate.

THE Kelly Ax Manufacturing Company, of Louisville, has been reorganized with a working capital of $1,500,000 and closed a contract to transfer their entire plant to Alexandria, Ind. The factory will begin operations with 500 skilled workmen.

THE Democratic Judicial Convention for the 5th District, composed of the counties of Ross, Highland and Fayette, nominated Hon. H. L. Dickey, of Greenfield, for the regular term, and Reuben T. Freeman, of Chillicothe, for the special term.

THE Democratic students at the Normal University, Ada, Ohio, have organized a L. T. Neal Club, composed of about 100 members, with F. D. Miller, of Columbiana county, as President, and V. H. Mowles, of Carroll county, as Secretary.

EMMA GOLDMAN, the Anarchist, is now on trial in New York, for inciting a crowd of workmen with a riotous speech. There was great trouble in securing a jury, as every man who said he was not an Anarchist, was challenged for cause by Okey Hall, Miss Goldman's attorney.

AMERICA VICTORIOUS.

The Vigilant Vanquishes the Valkyrie in Two Straight "Heats."

Lord Dunraven brought his crack fast-sailing English yacht, the Valkyrie, over to this country to contest with the Yankee fast yacht, Vigilant, for America's prize cup. The two vessels went down the New York harbor, the Ocean on Thursday last to enter the race, but the wind refused to blow and the contest proved a fizzle. On Saturday, however, old Boreas was more accommodating, and the race came off in magnificent style. The English vessel took the lead and maintained it for a short time, but the vigilant son forgot ahead, passed her and kept in the lead to the close of the race, coming out ahead 7 minutes and 36 seconds. This result was as gratifying to Americans as it was mortifying to Lord Dunraven, who confidently calculated upon an easy victory. [We may here say, parenthetically, that Lord Dunraven is an Irish gentleman and not an Englishman.]

The second race between the Vigilant and the Valkyrie took place on Monday afternoon, and was witnessed by even a greater crowd of people than the contest on Saturday. A fine breeze was blowing, and each yacht did its best to win the prize. But "there is no use talking"—John Bull was no where in the race. The American vessel won an easy victory with all ease, beating her rival 12 1/2 minutes. Now, let the eagle scream and the rooster crow, the youngsters yell and the steam whistle blow.

The New York Democracy.

The New York Democratic State Convention, which met at Saratoga Springs, Thursday and Friday last, was largely attended and a very harmonious body. President Cleveland's friend, Congressman David N. Lockwood, was made the temporary as well as the permanent Chairman, and opened the proceedings with an eloquent and powerful speech.

The committee on resolutions, through George Raines, of Rochester, reported a platform, which was unanimously adopted. It congratulates the party and the people of the State for the way State matters have been managed since the Democrats came into power, cordially indorses the Administration of President Cleveland, condemns the Sherman silver purchasing act, and declares that the power of legislative and executive branches of the Federal Government to the Democratic party was none too soon to correct, even if too late to avoid the widespread distress caused by unsound and plutocratic Republican legislation.

The following ticket was nominated, most of the candidates being chosen by acclamation:

Secretary of State—Cord Meyer, of Queens county.
Comptroller—Frank Campbell, of Steuben county (re-nominated).
Treasurer—Hugh Duffy, of Cortland county.

Attorney General—Simon W. Rosendale, of Albany (re-nominated).
State Surveyor—Martin Schenck, of Rensselaer county (re-nominated).
Isaac H. Maynard, now Associate Justice of the Court of Appeals, by appointment, was nominated for election to that position by Wm. Von Amee.

Only one gentleman, Mr. Weidman, of Rockland county, made opposition to the ticket against the nomination of Judge Maynard, but after the nomination was made he acquiesced in the wishes of the people and moved to make the nomination unanimous.

Altogether, it was a grand Convention, and the entire proceedings were conducted in a spirit of harmony, not always attendant upon New York State assemblies.

THE REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

Was in session at Syracuse, N. Y., at the same time the Democratic Convention was in session at Saratoga. It was anything but a harmonious body. The contest was between the Platt and Anti-Platt factions for supremacy, but the old Boss came off victorious, having secured the nomination of his candidate for Supreme Judge, Edward T. Bartlett, by a vote of 5384 to 97 for Wm. Rumsey, and 85 for John S. Smith.

The other candidates nominated are as follows:
Secretary of State—General John Palmer, of Albany.
Comptroller—James A. Roberts, of Buffalo.
Treasurer—Addison Colvin, of Warren county.
Attorney General—Theodore Hancock, of Syracuse.
State Engineer—Campbell W. Adams, of Oneida.

Democracy's Good Work on Saturday.

The Democracy of Knox county has a grand ticket. Now let them turn out in all their might and strength and elect it by a routing majority.

This good feeling, harmony and unanimity that were displayed by the Democracy of Knox county, at their Convention on Saturday, are all harbingers of success.

Every name on the Democratic ticket is a tower of strength. They are nearly all young, active and popular men, who enjoy the confidence and respect of the people.

Old Knox is a Democratic county, and will remain Democratic so long as the party nominates honest, true and capable men like unto those selected on last Saturday.

The ticket nominated by the Democracy of Knox county on Saturday will favorably compare with the ticket nominated by the Republicans on the Saturday previous. Let the voters of the county carefully scan the names on the two tickets, and we have no fears as to their decision.

And Still They Go.

J. W. Bell, a prominent attorney of Plymouth, Richland county, has left for parts unknown, and is accused of leaving his creditors in the lurch to the extent of $45,000. Part of the amount is borrowed money and the balance is due estates which he was settling up. The best information obtainable is that Bell has left the United States.

A sensation has been created at Upper Sandusky by the sudden disappearance of Wood Haynes, an implement dealer, who came originally from Chillicothe, and soon became a favorite. It seems he dabbled too much in cards, borrowed money from his friends to the amount of $2,000, and being unable to pay it back, took French leave.

William Williams, contracting freight agent of the Great Western, who disappeared over a week ago, from Cincinnati, has not been heard from yet. His accounts are perfectly correct. His friends think he has been betting on the races, as he has borrowed large amounts of money, and that he is afraid to face his creditors.

DISPATCH from Paris, Oct. 9, reports that Ferdinand De Lesseps is dying at his country home at La Chauxey.

A HORRIBLE TRAGEDY.

At Jamestown, Ind., last Wednesday, Oscar Darnell was courting Miss Tillie Maer, and wanted to marry her, but the families of both parties objected to the marriage on account of their youth. They went buggy riding one night, however, and it seems sought refuge in a straw stack. Here the young fellow tried to outrage her, but without success, and he then tried to kill her. Believing he had succeeded he went to a neighboring house and told the story that the young lady had been attacked by tramps. He returned with another man to get the body, but as soon as he reached the straw stack, finding the girl still alive, but dying, he blew his own brains out with a pistol.

The Rolling Mills in Pennsylvania announce their intention to employ none but American workmen hereafter, and the result is that the Huns and other foreigners heretofore employed, finding nothing to do, are leaving for their native lands. These "pauper laborers" were brought over by the protected monopolists, because they were willing to work at lower wages than skilled American workmen; but they soon learned American ways and struck for higher wages. Then the trouble began. Strikes, bloodshed and anarchy were inaugurated, and our readers know the rest. The Republican monopolists wanted free trade in labor, but protection for the products of labor.

ANARCHIST PALLAS, who attempted to take the life of General Martinez Campos, at Barcelona, Spain, by throwing two bombs at him, was tried by a Court Martial, found guilty and sentenced to be executed. The sentence was carried out on Friday, and the condemned man was shot to death. While the Monks were praying for his soul before the execution, the Anarchist sang aloud an archaic song to drown their voices. The day before he was visited in prison by his mother. She asked him whether he believed in God, and he dryly responded, "No." He was a hardened wretch.

The village of Fletcher, Miami county, was the scene of a bloody battle between neighboring families on Friday last. The parties to the fracas were the families of John Simmons and Thomas Knick. While a young son of Simmons was engaged in gathering walnuts from under a tree, the Knicks hurled stones at him, and soon the male members of the two families took part in the fight, using stones, clubs and pistols. Several of the parties were badly injured, but none killed. A policeman, aided by neighbors, put a stop to the affray, and arrested the fighters.

CONSTANTIN, of Austria, married a beautiful and refined lady, but being of humble parentage, his friends refused to recognize her and his parents cut him off without a cent. He came to this country, and was given charge of small property in New Jersey, belonging to J. A. Havemeyer, the millionaire sugar refiner, and managed to make a precarious living by selling apples and vegetables in New York. Getting tired of this style of living, a few days ago, he went into his house, kissed his wife, saying, "I love you dearly," and then shot himself dead.

THE "calamity howlers," who elicit the Republican papers in Ohio, studiously avoid making mention of the fact that the banks and business enterprises that suspended during the summer, are now nearly all resuming business, with bright prospects before them. These McKinley organs would let the country go to perdition, if they could keep their tariff blundering party in power. This is a great country, and has survived several panics that were ten-fold more disastrous than the causeless one that has gone by.

W. Z. McDONALD, Ex-State Inspector of Workshops and Factories, and Ex-Secretary of the Republican League, has been indicted by the grand jury at Columbus, for fraudulently taking money from the State for services not rendered. The indictment is a surprise to McDONALD and his friends, as he confidently expected to escape. He was advised to leave the country, but he refused to do so, and he declares that he will face the music, even if it lands him in the penitentiary.

TANGIER, where the recent bloody battle was fought between the Moors and the Spanish garrison, is the capital of Morocco, the most northern point of Arabia in Africa, between the Atlantic Ocean and the Mediterranean Sea. The Moorish government has been completely cowed by Spain, which is erecting immense forts along the coast, under the pretense of repressing the savagery of the hostile tribes. The Moors, who are wild fanatics, say they are fighting a "holy war."

A CRACK-BRAINED preacher named Rev. John T. Jack, who distinguished himself by smashing a liquor exhibit at the World's Fair, repeated his pranks in Washington the other day by hurling a brick through a $800 plate glass window at a whole lot of wives. When arrested for the offence he told the magistrate that he was "opposed to the liquor traffic and wanted to break it up." He was committed to the work house for mental examination.

The late storm along the Gulf coast, of which mention was made in last week's BANNER, was much more destructive than at first reported. The number of persons drowned or killed is estimated at two thousand, and the financial loss placed at five million dollars.

The tidal wave was the most destructive that ever visited this country. The scenes, as described in dispatches from Mobile and New Orleans, are truly heart-rending.

WILLIAM HILL, a young married man at Bunker's Station, Pike county, O., had some trouble with his wife and she left him, going back to live with her mother, Mrs. Samuel Blake. Hill went to Mrs. Blake's house, and demanded that his wife return and live with him. This being refused, he deliberately shot and killed his mother-in-law, and then shot but did not kill his wife. Hill immediately skipped.

We pity the poor "Calamity howlers" of the Republican party. They started out too early in the campaign to work up a business panic for base political purposes. It has played out. Business is reviving, and confidence is being restored all over the broadland. We confidently predict that the country is about to enter upon a season of prosperity such as has not been witnessed for many long years.

Gov. McKinley has issued a requisition upon the Governor of Illinois for Leonard D. Tressel, late Sheriff of Richland county, charged with embezzlement. He was a high-roller and gambler, and is said to have made way with $20,000, which his bondsmen had to make good. Tressel has been indicted by the grand jury of Richland county.

The Railroads have been behaving better than usual the past week—at least, fewer fatal accidents have occurred. We note a few of the most serious.

There was a bad wreck on the Louisville & Nashville road, five miles south of New Haven, last Friday. A freight train broke in two, leaving part on a bridge. The second section struck it, and caboose and engine were thrown into Pettigrew's creek. Engineer Andrew Burke, who was in the caboose, and Engineer Higgins of the second section, were killed.

An express train on the Big Four road dashed into a Mt. Auburn electric car at the toll-gate crossing, near Elmwood, a suburb of Cincinnati, on Sunday, killing Lewis Case, the motor-man, and injuring five others.

While Mathias Foley, his wife and two sons were returning home from the Warren county Fair on Saturday evening, going along the Lebanon pike, they had to cross the track of the Big Four Railroad. Before their spring wagon and two horses got over the track, the express train dashed upon them, killing Mrs. Foley and the two sons. Mr. Foley, almost crazed with grief, was taken home before the corpses were removed.

A "Protected" Infant Gives Up the Ghost.

The Morewood Tin Plate Works at Elizabethtown, shut down last week. The managers claim that the stoppage will only be temporary, and is the result of the "business depression." The men who work there, however, tell a different story. They say that in spite of the "protection" afforded by the McKinley tariff this infant American industry has not been panning out very satisfactory, and the shut down is to be a permanent thing.

With but few exceptions the entire working force of the Morewood tin plate works is composed of Welshmen, who were brought over from Wales when the works were opened a year ago. These number about 150. Large number of them will sail for home and others will go to Gas City, Ind., where the Morewood company has another tin plant.

Silver Repeal Vote on Wednesday.

The announcement is made that the majority of the United States Senators, who are desirous of carrying out the wishes of President Cleveland, in a repeal of the silver purchasing clause of the Sherman law, have determined to bring this dreary discussion to a close and force a vote upon the measure on Wednesday of this week. What that vote will be no man knows. While the general opinion is that unconditional repeal will be the result, many believe that it will not succeed, and that a compromise will be brought about, which will be mutually satisfactory to the repealers and the silverites. The contest from the beginning has only gone to show that an obstinate, bull-headed minority can block any legislation, and virtually stop the wheels of the Government.

Jail Birds Escape.

Nelson Converse, of Ravenna, indicted for burglary and for shooting with intent to kill, escaped from jail, on Thursday last, by scaling a high fence. There was a wholesale jail delivery at Bowling Green, Wood county, early on the morning of October 6th. Six prisoners escaped. There was one murderer and three desperate crooks among the fugitives. They saved a bar off one of the iron doors and took to the swamp.

MONDAY was Chicago Day at the World's Fair, and it certainly was a stunner. The attendance was estimated at 750,000. The crash was so great that the steam, cable and electric cars were wholly inadequate to accommodate the crowd. In the great jam dozens of people were injured and several killed. Thousands of people had to remain in the grounds all night because they could not get out. Chicago is a great town when it lets itself loose. We may here remark, that Chicago Day, October 9th, was the 23d anniversary of the great fire of 1871, which reduced one-third of the city to ashes.

ACCORDING to a treasury statement which has been issued by Secretary Carlisle the total amount of money in circulation in the United States October 1st was $1,701,939,918. The average circulation per capita, estimating the population at 63,306,000, is therefore $26.29. The net increase in circulation during September was $21,927,247, the greatest item of increase being gold coin, $14,889,941.

DUKE AUGUSTUS, of Saxony, son-in-law of the late Dom Pedro, the deposed Emperor of Brazil, has embarked from Bordeaux for Rio Janeiro, in the vain hope, that in the event of the Republic being overthrown, of becoming the monarchic ruler of Brazil. It is the general belief, however, even should the weak and vacillating Peixoto be driven from power, no man wearing a crown, will rule over Brazil.

A GANG of miscreants placed obstructions upon the track of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad, near Homestead, Pa., a few nights ago, for the purpose of wrecking the train and robbing the passengers. Fortunately, a track-walker discovered the obstructions in time to have a dispatch sent to notify an approaching train of the danger, and thus the hellish design of the wreckers was frustrated.

THERE was an immense assemblage of Irishmen from all parts of the world at Dublin, on Saturday, to celebrate the second anniversary of the death of Charles Stewart Parnell. The immense procession took one hour and a half to pass the City Hall. The Irishmen of New York sent a handsome floral harp, five feet high and three feet across, made of green and gold immortelles.

W. ALEXANDER and James Shay, two inmates of the Soldier's Home at Dayton, while returning to the Home a few nights ago, were viciously attacked by two burly negro tramps. Alexander, when almost dead, was thrown upon the railroad track, and the cars completed the work. Both the soldiers were robbed of their pension money, which they had just drawn.

FIVE hundred boys and girls, from the Indian school at Carlisle, Pa., accompanied by a brass band of 32 pieces, attended the World's Fair on Tuesday last week and enjoyed themselves to the top of their bent. They gave a concert of 80 voices which was highly pleasing.

Bad news for the "calamity shriekers" comes from the Ohio river industries. It is stated that ten thousand men have gone to work this week at Wheeling, Bellaire, Martin's Ferry and Steubenville. We will probably see no mention of this fact in the Republican papers.

It is announced that a truce has been agreed upon between the Government and insurgents at Rio Janeiro, which is a confession of the weakness of President Peixoto.

The Clergymen and other Christian people of Jersey City and other places in New Jersey, have been holding meetings for the purpose of organizing the Christian vote in opposition to race-track gamblers and rum-sellers. They are very forceful and warlike in their utterances, but we will learn later something about the good they have accomplished.

An up-town Post Office has been established in New York near the Grand Central Depot. From the size of the building, as pictured in the Herald, it will no doubt in time become the main office, as business in that big town is rapidly working its way from the old down town localities. The Herald was wise in moving with the business tidal wave.

The Republicans obtained control of the City Council of Newark, by making good professions of reform, and to show what they mean by "reform," at their meeting last week a resolution was introduced to borrow ten thousand dollars to pay current expenses as "reformers." The Republicans can always take the red ribbon.

The Columbus Journal may think it is smart to attempt to ridicule the speeches of Cal. W. A. Taylor, the Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor, but it has not, and can not answer or refute the stubborn facts in regard to Republican extravagance the Colonel presents to the voters of Ohio in his speeches.

LILLIAN LEWIS, the actress, attempted to commit suicide at Springfield, Ill., last week, by shooting herself, but the bullet came in contact with a steel rib in her corset, which saved her life. The only reason she assigned for the act was that her husband, Lawrence Marston, always "gave her gloomy parties" to play.

Mrs. EDWARD PARKER DEACON, the divorced wife of Edward Parker Deacon, who killed Emilie Abel, for criminal intimacy with Mr. D. in France, has arrived in New York, and taken up quarters at the Brevoort House. She refuses to see reporters, or receive notes or telegrams sent to her room.

The Mediterranean Sea, this week, is visited by the war fleets of Italy, Spain, France, Russia, England and Turkey, which will appear in front of Trieste, Naples, Toulon, Barcelona, Tangier, Tunis and Alexandria. What does all this mean? Probably to frighten the poor ignorant Moors.

A SPARK from an engine, pulling a freight train on the Ft. Wayne railroad, ignited 224 bags of powder in one of the cars, on Monday night, near North Lebanon, Ohio, causing a terrific explosion, injuring five trainmen and doing damage to the amount of $75,000.

It is the same old story. A. P. Mock, of Sulphur Springs, Ohio, while visiting the World's Fair last week, stopped at the Emory Hotel, and upon retiring at night, blew out the gas, and was asphyxiated. His body was taken home for interment.
