As they stood there silently in the bosky glade George passed his arm silentv but firmly around her waist.

The noble girl did not shy. "Do you love me sweetheart?" he asked in accents that were tremulous with tremulousness. Myrtle's head was drooping now,

For an instant the girl did not speak, George heard the whisking of the brindle cow's tail break in rudely upon the solemn stillness of the night, and ever and anon came the dull thud of the bullfrog as he umped into a neighboring pond. Presently Myrtie placed her arms about his neck, and with a wistful baby's-got-the cramp look in her face, she said to him: "I love you, George, with a deathless devotion that will eventually keep you

Scared.

We remember the story of a woman who woke one night and found the house on fire—or beginning to burn—and who did not rouse the family, or say a word, but bravely put out the fire, went to bed again, and no one else knew what had happened till morning. It is curious to see the difference in people when danger threatens. Some "fly to pieces" as soon as any alarm comes, and do all they can to exaggerate a small scare into a big one—and these are not always women either. The Denver weekly News tells now a scared negro servant roused the eople in every room of a large boardg-house in that city by his fright. He ent in the basement.

burglars, without harming him. They had the effect of scaring every one else in the house out of all scientific calculation, and of arousing the neighhors for a stone's throw in all directions and bringing them upon the streets in costumes not all suited to an afternoon saunter along Larimer Street.

And it was all caused by a poor, innocent cow, who was trying to extricate her foot from an empty paint-pot into which she had thrust it.

Ancient Engineering. The ancients, when all is said and done that can be in favor of modern prowess and progress, knew a few hings that we moderns have no sort of conception of. In a late celebrated work on architecture, the author says that not only is it impossible to duplicate the great temples of Athens, but it is inconceivable how they were constructed. The same may be said of the temples and the pyramids of Egypt. The Roman roads were superior to any constructed in modern times. Their very remains are stupendous. The ancient canals of India and her immense water reservoirs, including their sites, are incapable of being improved upon. In fact, the very ruins of the ancient are "tremendous." One of the latest discoveries of the wonderful engineering ability of these ancients is the fact that, in preparing to cut a tunnel through the ius of Corinth, it has been brought to light that the Roman Nero, as notorious for his cruelty as for his love of the arts, sciences and literature, had engineers upon the same spot; and more, that the route selected by them has been selected by the engineers now having charge of the modern undertaking. But Nero was preceded by Alexander the Great in the attempt to carry out the colossal undertaking, and, in both instances, the engineers showed themselves to have thoroughly mastered the condi-

The amount of clandestine correspondence that is carried on would astonish even the actors themselves, and is about equally divided between the sexes. I have never violated a confidence by giving a name or anything that would lead to a suspicion, but if so minded I could give the names of persons prominent in business and social circles that would astonish the uninitiated. Sewing and Darning.

Teachers are much puzzled to find employment during the long hours of a school day for children who are too young to learn lessons. Some old-fashoned towns compel their teachers to keep school six hours a day, and during at least five hours of that period, the youngest pupils, who scarcely know their letters, must sit idle and listless, longing for school to be out. The Canada School Journal recommends that these little, longing children, both girls and boys, be taught to knit, darn and sew. This, it seems, is done in some English schools with good results, and the boys sew as well and as cheerfully as the girls. The teacher explains the stitches on the blackboard, and drills whole classes at once in needlethreading, and in the different ways of knitting, hemming and darning.

or even five hours, unless they are alplay, and we do most profoundly pity any child who does not have all the play it needs for its happiness and healthy growth. The suggestion of the Canada School Journal is, nevertheless a good one, and worthy of serious considera-

George Gurley, a conductor on the Cincinnati Southern, tells the following

o the Chattanooga Times: "When we reached Washington, my captain, R. Abbott, came to me and asked me if I wished to join an expedition to make some money. I conferred with General Vaughn, who was a personal friend of my father, and who had shown a kindly interest in me, and he advised me not to join them, and I adopted his advice. I never saw any more of Abbott after that, but I know four men of the party who accompanied him, and am satisfied they robbed a wagon train near Washington of about $300,000, and I have every reason to believe that this is the missing coin of which so much is said at present. One of these men, whose name is Stevens, got $60,000 as his share, and the other who lived in Monroe county, East Tenbefore, gave them the money and they at once left the country. I have since learned that they live in the extreme

Bruno. He was a shepherd dog, one or the wisest sort, and Bruno was his name.— His master, a farmer, told many anecdotes of his helpful and funny ways. Occasionally a neighbor's sheep would break into the field where the farmer's flock was feeding. Calling the dog to a hill just back of the house, the farmer our industrial population.

This machinery can at would say, "See there, Bruno! Drive out those sheep." As fast as his legs could carry him, the dog would run to his work. In a few minutes every strange sheep would be driven out, but not one of the master's. At milking time, some one, letting down the bars, would say, "Bruno, fetch the cows!" By the time the milking-maid was ready, the cows would be in the yard. Bruno was fond of romping with the cat. They were good friends, but some-times the dog's love of fun made him rougher than was agreeable. Kitty would be dozing in a corner, when, with a rush, Bruno would seize her by the neck and whirl her round and round, until her tail stood out straight. Then dashing under the table he would lay Kitty on the floor, and sitting upon her prostrate body, look up at the family as much as to say, "Don't you think you ought to applaud?" If Kitty resented his rough playfulness, as occasionally she did, some one would say, by opening the door, "That's enough, Bruno; go out!" Out Bruno would rush, with the cat in his mouth, and dropping her into a snowdrift, return to the house as gravely as if she had caused the disturbance.

A pair of white bantams had been given the farmer's daughters. The chickens were proud and put on many airs, especially the cock, who was as brave as he was consequential. Bruno delighted to tease him. Bantam, strutting about, as if mon arch of all he surveyed, would suddenly find himself caught by the tail and whirled by Bruno around the yard. No sooner was the little cock dropped, than he would fly at the dog, striking him with bill and spurs.

Bruno was the family pet, and when old age took him off, the household seemed to have lost one of its brightest

Two Ohio Giants.

Capt. Martin Van Buren Bates, who ives on a farm near Seville, O., is seven feet eleven and one-half inches high, and weighs 478 pounds. Mrs. Bates is seven feet and eleven inches high and weighs 413 pounds. It is a matter to convey an adequate idea of the proportions of such a dwelling as the one occupied by the Ohio giants. A door that is six feet six inches high is a large-sized opening in the side of a use—that is a dwelling house, not a cathedral. But the doors in the domicile of the Bates giants are ten feet nigh, and the knobs are nearly as high as the reporter's head.

The house was built by Capt. Bates in 1876, and is elegantly furnished. In the main building on the ground floor are, besides the spacious hall, the bedchamber of the giants, a sitting room and a parlor. The couch upon which the big couple sleep was made expressly It is extensive enough to give the great people room to stretch in, and it looks as big as an ordinary-sized floor. It is really ten feet long, wide in proportion bed. The magnificent dressing case is also a huge affair, with a glass upon it vices to get possession of his letters. In the sitting-room is a piano of ordinary for him from a certain city to quietly size itself, but it is mounted on blocks give them to her—which of course I two feet high, so that the instrument is size itself, but it is mounted on blocks away up in the air, out of the reach of common folks. There are two rocking chairs in this room that are so big that the reporter had to climb up into one of them the same as an infant would clam-ber up into a "high chair." It is very postmark I would enclose it in one of the expensive for the giants to live, as they have to pay such an exorbitant price for everything they wear. For instance, it costs the Captain $30 a pair for boots. It is a most astonishing sight to come across the two giants out for a drive. City folks who have seen the ponderous wagons with wheels reaching to the second story of a house, used to haul stones weighing tons and tons, can form an that they had her movements complete- enough to make a man think he has got $60,000. In Royal Life.

The Emperor and Empress of Germany see each other as little as possible. It is somewhat curious how few monarchs do get on with their wives and the wives with the husbands, for they seldom adore each other. The Empress of Austria is seldom seen in society, and when out riding or driving carries a fan before her face, even when returning the greetings of her royal admirers. She seldom attends the theatre or opera, but when the circus comes to town is then seen in her box every night. She knows only one passion, and that is her love of horses and equestrianship. She has her own especial riding establishment, and here she reigns supreme She will drive a tandem team before her at a relentless pace around the ring, having fresh relays of horses every few minutes. She has a place fitted up in the stable of her favorite charger where she can sleep if she feels so disposed, and where she frequently dictates her letters to her private secretary, while her favorite horse looks over from his stall and is patted fondly by his imperial

The Irish.

The claim is not destitute of foundation, for the Irish in foreign lands do not cease to be Irish, and they are enabled to act in concert through their adherence to their national Church. See what a company of Irish people in a country town will do in a few years, though most of them may be servants and laborers. They will build a handsome church, the largest in the place and pay for it before it is dedicated. Then, in a comparatively brief time, will arise a Sunday-school chapel, a parsonage, a parochial school, possibly a nunnery, all well built and well fur-

The Republicans of Indiana have not come to any conclusion vet as to what course they will pursue in relation to the election of members of the next Legislature. The Democratic position that a full Senate must be elected this year is still maintained by that party to be the right one, though the question would doubtless be ignored were it not for the hope of gaining a partisan advantage. Here is a crumb of comfort at last for our festive bachelor friends who in a moment of weakness yield to the tender pleadings of love, only to be awakened suddenly when passion has spent its force to the cold and remorseless fact that the matrimonial chain has been forged. The New York Times says that the form of marriage proposal popular with young men will now be to this effect: "Darling, will you be my wife year after next?" The "platform of a party is what it has done." It makes but little difference what a political convention may resolve-the real thing of importance to know is, what has the party done Judged by this method the deeds of the Republican party make a platform broad enough and grand enough to hold every honest and patriotic citizen of the Republic. The spirit and character of a party can only be read in its history. Where sentiments of humanity, and justice and earnest and conscientions conviction of right predominate, platforms are useless appendages. The Republicans of Ohio need no written platform-they have long ago earned the confidence of the people of the State and of the country. All of those doctrines and principles which have distinguished the party have found their best illustration in Ohio. First among the States to oppose successfully the dark heresy of pro-slavery Democracy, it lead the way to universal freedom. The Republican party of Ohio needs no written platform; its record is plain in worthless ways, will be checked; to the eyes of all the people; every word is of clear light, and every deed shines constant like a star. A JAMBOREE. If an evidence of the decline of political morality was wanted, the itemized bill of the expenses of the trip to the Yorktown Centennial would furnish an apt illustration. The blame must fall on the Congressional Committee that incurred those expenses. They were for supplies used on the steamer between the City of Washington and Yorktown, and at Yorktown. A glance at the bill shows over 10,000 cigars, at a cost of about $1,400; 130 cases champagne, $3,900; 68 gallons whisky, $340, etc., amounting, in all, to the sum of $7,460.70. Well, this may do, in the absence of a better apology; but a great many simple hearted people will continue to wonder how twenty Frenchmen could get away with so much tobacco and wet groceries in so short a time. ### SMALL-POX.

That dread and loathsome disease, small pox, has made its appearance in the northern part of this County. The duty of every one is plain. Thorough vaccination with good and healthy virus obtained from the heifer is the only thing that can be relied upon. If this be attended to promptly and thoroughly the disease can make no headway. The safety and welfare of the public demand that each one should take this precaution; he who neglects it should be regarded as a to prison. The real joke is that nocommon enemy. The prevention of small pox in individual instances, and of its diffusion through successive cases which are ources of infection, is to be effected by means of vaccination with pure virus procured from healthy animals. Persons having this disease should be isolated from every one except nurses, attendants and physicians. It has been asserted that the disease is not produced by exposure prior to divine: the appearance of the eruption, and that, up to this period, the disease is, therefore, not communicable. Uudoubtedly it is much more contagious during the stages of eruption and scaling off than previously, but facts emanate even from a dead body before the characteristics of the eruption are declared. Burials should take place privately. Nurses and attendants upon patients having the disease should not mingle with others The infectious material may remain in clothing, bedding, etc., and retain its activity for an indefinite period.

Everything, therefore, in contact with small-pox patients should be either destroyed or thoroughly disinfected. The disinfection should extend to the floors, walls and ceilings of apartments, together with the furniture. After convalescence and recovery the liability to communicate the dis-

COMMISSION. The Tariff Commission being a Republican measure, is, like every other Republican measure, of course, opposed by the Democracy. Why any man, or set of men in their senses should oppose the Commission is hard to understand, unless it be explained upon the ground of hereditary constitional preverseness and cussedness. That our present tariff rates are not as they should be is conceded, alike by the friends and enemies of the system. The work assigned to this Commission is to examine and ascertain in what manner it needs revision. A commission composed of gentlemen of high character and extensive practical knowledge of business, certainly cannot fail to lay before Congress much I moulded the character of the The currrent fiscal year shows a surplus of $150,000,000. it may be seen that a reduction of tariff duties should be made, and for several reasons. The disposition for Congress to make lavish expenditure so large a surplus is a perpetual inducement to extravagance and corrupt jobs of all sorts: the hands of the Congressman will itch until he gets an appropriation, so long as he knows the Treasury is overflowing. If he has no rivers nor harbors to improve, he will like our neighboring member, Geddes, want an appropriation for a governthat the gentlemen who compose it

The following on the situation in Ohio from the New York Independent, one of the leading religious journals of the country, is so replete with sober sense that we reproduce it in full: The Republicans of Ohio last week held their State Convention for the nomination of State officers to be elected this fall. The Secretary of State, a udge of the Supreme Court, and a member of the Board of Public Works are the only State officers to be elected. The main difficulty which confronts the Republicans grows out of the attitude of the Germans, on the one hand, and that of the Prohibitionists, on the other, in regard to the temperance question; and from this source the Democrats, who have always been the rum party, hope to achieve a vic-tory. The Constitution of Ohio pro-vides that "no license to traffic in intoxicating liquors shall hereafter be granted in this State; but the General Assembly may by law provide against evils resulting therefrom." What the Prohibitionists want is a prohibitory law, forbidding the traffic altogether; yet, politically considered, they are a mere fragment of the legal voters. Such a law would be strongly opposed by nearly all the Germans in Ohio, who, as a rule, are Republicans, and much more numerous than the Prohibitionists. The ground taken by the Republican Convention is that the constitution of the State should be amended so that the legislature of the the privilege of landing emigrant State can tax the traffic in intoxicating liquors and make it bear its share of the public burdens. This would be virtually a regulation of the traffic by a license system. This is what was attempted in the Pond Bill, which the Supreme Court of Ohio pronounced unconstitutional. Looking at the facts precisely as they are, we do not well better met the difficulties of the situation than it has done. No political convention having even the faintest chanse of success can be expected to take a ground that will be certain to defeat the ticket nominated; and we think that the Prohibitionists, who are generally Republicans, will be wise to content themselves-at least, for the present-with the action of the Convention and help to elect the wise in virtually aiding the rum party in Ohio. If their principles are ever to triumph in Ohio, it must be through crime as follows: "Thomas Stoots one sorrel gelding did steal, take and Philadelphia Press. lead away." He then turned to the judge and gravely asked: "Is the jury to understand the indictment as refering to Thomas Stoots as a sorrel see the fruits of hard, conscientious gelding?" The Court was too much labor. We have won the battle, and astonished to make an immediate reply, but as soon as he recovered his breath he ordered the jury back to their room, saying that he was loth to believe they intended to perpetrate a joke and that if he thought such to be their design he would send them joke was intended. The terrible cyclones that have so recently raged through the West are and to whom they were bound to renphenomena the genesis of which are as yet but litte understood. If their physical philosophy is hidden in obscurity, there is a lesson still remaining. It is, that nature is merciless: in the words of an eminent

Nature only tells of hard, pitiless, renorseless law. The fire burns, though there be a saintly martyr in the flame. The tide surges in, though a Christian maiden be bound to the stake in its course. Leap over the precipice, and you are dashed to pieces. There is no mercy in the electric cloud, in the ocean or in the land. Everywhere you see wisdom and power in creation and providence, but no mercy.

Civil Service reform as taught by its advocates, means the devorce of all subordinate appointments to office from polities and placing them wholly upon a basis of fitness and good character. According to the theory, party services are not to be rewarded by office and party power not to be perpetuated by that means. The public benefit only should be kept in view and appointments and promotions made with reference to that idea. To do this, competitive examinations are to be instituted and a permanent tenure of office established, removals only to be made for cause, and that inpendent of politics.

The Catholic Total Abstinence Society of Ohio held its eleventh annual meeting on Wednesday. A temperance sermon was preached by Bishop Elder. A series of resolutions were adopted. A resolution stating that the Society places "but slight confidence in the efficacy of legislative enactments as a means of uprooting a custom (intemperance) so deeply imbedded in the body politic. Legislation can not make man sober, nor can it remove an unnatural eraying for stimulants; neither can it undertake to destroy the demand by removing the supply without invading the unjuestionable rights of others."

Later dispatches concerning crops from different points in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Illinois report, as a rule, the condition of wheat and potatoes very flattering. Wet weather has generally delayed corn planting, and in some places rain has washed out the seed and inundated fields. The season is so late, and farmers are so discouraged, that they will not now attempt replanting. The rain must soon cease, or the wheat will be seriously injured. The army worm pest does not seem to be widespread, but in a number of places fine fields of ripening barley have been destroyed by the insect.

The United States House, Monday, passed the bill appropriating $97,640, 000 for pensions for 1883, the bill levyng a fity-cent-per-capita tax on immigration, the bill creating a commission for eradication of pleuro-pneumonia and protection of American cattle; also, the resolution appropriating $50,000 for the proper representation of the United States at the International Fisheries Exposition in London in 1883. The Senate spent the day on the Bank Charters Bill.

Richard Smith addressed the Cincinnati Methodist Ministerial Association, Monday, on the temperance issue and the enforcement of law. Mr. Smith would not consent to have what he said reported. At the conclusion of his remarks he was cross-examined. The Methodist clergy generally express themselves as in favor of supporting the Republican ticket at the

The Coshocton Age concedes the omination of Mr. Stillwell, of Holmes county, for the Judgeship, and remarks that "whisky scores one nore success." It further claims that his nomination was secured by money sent into Holmes county by the State Whisky Alliance. If these things be true there should be a missionary or two sent into that benighted land.

The fact that most of the gentlemen elected for the Tariff Commission are not men who have gained much notoriety in politics need alarm no one. There is much learning and wisdom among the quiet and unpretentious citizens of the country. The universe wouldn't come to a standstill if every politician in the country was translated.

Senator Mahone on Anti-Bourbonism.

"Virginia has given the independent men of the South an example of what can be done in opposition to Bourbonism. They can look there and although the fight has been a long and bitter one, the victory is well worth the struggle. There are one or two facts that do not seem to be appreciated by people who talk about overturning the Southern Democracy. I can best tell you what they are by citing as an illustration the case of Virginia. There are 100,000 negro voters in that State, and about 10,000 white Republican voters. For years past the negroes have regarded the Republican officeholders as saints, perfectly spotless angels, who were the embodiment of the Federal power that freed them, der allegiance. These Republicans were sure of the Federal offices as long as a Republican administration was in power, and naturally quite content that the Bourbons should manage the State offices. The negroes are not the ignorant, dumb creatures that a stranger to the Southern people might imagine. They realized the use to which they were put by the office-holders, but there was no road out of the wilderness. The Virginian Readjusters pointed the way to freedom. We told them to vote as they please, and that they would be given protection at the polls, and the result was surprising. The solid negro vote gravitated as naturally to the Readjusters as water flows down hill. Many of the old Republican office-holders kicked, and did all in their power to destroy the new movement, but without avail. We had in Virginia a number of Republicans, who were Republicans on principle, and to whom the triumph of those principles was a matter of far greater moment than the possession of an office. The Democratic Readjusters were men identified with the State, owners of the soil, and interested in the development and advancement of her resources. The negroes perceived that there was a foundation beneath the new party not based on Federal patronage, and the sale of black votes. When they espoused the Readjuster cause they did so deliberately, and they came to stay. Our campaigns have not been mismanaged, and by hard, practical labor, the State has been completely freed from Bourbon rule. Had the Apportionment bill passed the Legislature, eight Administration Congressmen would have been elected next Fall and two Dem-

The Reason Why.

Cleveland Leader. The Plain Dealer is inclined to be facetious over the name the, "God's party" given by the Herald to the Republican party. Inasmuch as that party was opposed to repudiating the nest debt of the government by paying it off in depreciated paper; op-posed to that sum of human villainies, slavery; is opposed to forging letters for the purpose of defeating an oppo-sition candidate for the Presidency; is opposed to ballot box stufling and tissue ballots; is opposed to free whisky, free dives and free drunkenness; is opposed to the stealing of pub-lie money as has been done in the last lew years by twenty-three Democratic county officials in Ohio; was opposed to the war of the Democratic rebellion; was opposed to Democratic mas-sacres of Republicans in South Carolina and Louisiana; and is opposed to turning the Sabbath day into a day of drunkenness; it follows that it carries out the eardinal principles as laid down by God Almighty, and consequently it has a higher claim to being called "God's party" than the Demo-cratic party, which has been diametrically opposed to the Republicans in all these things we have cataloged.

Cold Comfort for the Democracy. San Francisco Call (Ind.)

The Oregon election will serve to admonish the Democrats that the result in California is doubtful. They have the victory yet to win. The Democrats made favor with the people in their attitude on the Chinese bill, but now that the bill has become a law, the question cannot be relied upon to determine the result of the next election. If the Democrats imagine that any ticket they may choose to nominate is certain to carry the State, the chances are that they will discover an error in their calculations the day after election.

A Great Truth. Cleveland Leader (Rep.)

The Democratic party can never have the courage of its convictions. It lacks the convictions.

The Ohio Republicans are now in the field with a fearless declaration of principles and with a ticket that must command the indersement and support of every true Republican of Ohio. They have opened the discussion at a date early enough to allow the questions in issue to be freely debated, and the candidates to be searchingly scrutinized, both as to the character and fitness for the places to which they have been nominated. The result rests now with the people, and we have no doubt as to their hearty and earnest endorsement and ratification of the planform and ticket of yesterday. Ohio is a permanently Republican State, and the Democrats who are claiming that she is about going over to Bourbonism know that they are resting on a hope that will never be realized .- Cleveland Herald.

At last accounts Mr. R. Conkling had "secured a job on a murder case, but that cannot last forever, and doubt less he would be glad to put in a few days on the Pennsylvania stump at reduced rates. The grounds purchased are admirably adapted for the purpose, and no doubt a liberal hand will be extended by our citizens toward the encouragement of so worthy an object. The advantages of having a school of this character in our midst must be so apparent to every well-informed citizen, that it is unnecessary for us to refer to them in an extended manner.

The price paid for the property was $6,900; but Mr. Koons having generously donated $300 to the school, leaves the net price $6,600; certainly a bargain, in monetary point of view.

WAS IT MANSLAUGHTER ? Mysterious Death of a Young Colored Man-No Clew to the Mystery.

A young colored man, named William Balar, aged nineteen, formerly employed at the Curtis House as a table waiter, died at the residence of his father on Wooster avenue, in this city. on Thursday morning, under very mysterious circumstances, pointing strongly to foul play.
On Friday his family received a letter from Young Balar, from Newark, where he was employed as waiter at the Lansing House, stating that he was not feeling well, and if he was not better by Saturday, he would come home.

On Sunday afternoon his father received telegram from Newark to meet his boy at the depot on the arrival of the B. & O. fast line. Upon the arrival of the train he found his son in an unconscious condition, with a terrible bruise over the right eye, the same being entirely closed. He was immediately taken home and placed under medical care, but remained unconscious until he died A post mortem was held Thursday afternoon, under the direction of Dr. Pickard, assisted by Dr. Wilson and Coroner Carey, which clearly developed that death resulted from inflammation of the brain, unquestionably caused by a blow of some description.

A representative of the Republican visited Newark on Thursday and interviewed such parties as were supposed to have some knowledge of the case, but could obtain no clew to the mystery that envelopes the case.

Major Lansing, the well-known prietor of the hotel where Balar had been employed, said that Balar was an unusually peaceable boy, and all the time he had been in his employ he had found him one of the quietest boys he had ever had in the house. That he had been complaining for several days before leaving for home of a cold which had settled around the eye; but so far as having received any sort of an injury, he knew o none, and thought it impossible that he received his injuries at Newark.

A cousin of the deceased, named Jackson Jennings, also employed in the hotel. as porter, was hunted up and subjecte to a severe questioning; but the only facts bearing on the case within his knowledge were as follows: "Balar and I was out to the show ground where Coupe's circus was exhibiting on Monday, and Will lay around on the wet grass. The next morning he complained of an awful pain in the head, and the doctor said he had neuralgia."

Jennings corroborates Major Lansing that Balar was peaceable and quiet and had no trouble with any one. He also stated that he escorted Balar to the train and sent the telegram to his father to and sent the telegram to his father to meet him at the depot, and that Balar was perfectly conscious when he left. An employe of C. & G. Cooper & Co., who came up from Newark on the same train, reports that he saw another colored man put Balar on the train, and that he was undisturbed the entire distance, which destroys the theory that he might have received his fatal injuries on the train.

The case is full of mystery, and as the family of Balar are poor, nothing can be done towards clearing the matter up, unless the Commissioners take the case

I wish to inform the people of Knoz County that I have engaged Mr. John H. Francis, formerly of H. H. Hill & Co. druggists, Cincinnati, Ohio, to take charge of the prescription department of my drug store. Mr. Francis has had fifteen years experience in the drug ousiness, and learned it under Dr. Byrnes of the firm of H. H. Hill & Co., and at present President of the Cincinnati Colege of Pharmacy. Dr. Byines says there is no more competent or careful drug-gist than Mr. Francis, he having filled from 25 to 50 prescriptions a day for the last ten years, and never made a single mistake. Persons having prescriptions to fill, can rely on the ability of Mr JOHN DENNEY, Druggist. Francis.

Foo Choo's Balsam of Shark's Oil.

Positively Restores the Hearing, and is the only Absolute Cure for Dealness Known. This Oil is extracted from a peculiar species of small White Shark, caught in the Yellow Sea, known as Carcharbon Romelleth. Every Chinese fisherman knows it. Its virtues as a restorative of hearing were discovered by a Bhuddist Priest about the year 1410. Its cures were so numerous and many so seemingly miraculous, that the remedy was officially proclaimed over the entire Empire. Its use became so universal that for over 300 years no Deafness has existed among the Chinese people. An Oriental Beauty.

Mme. Yoshida, the wife of the Japanese minister, is the most daintily pretty creature that any picture on a paper fan can give an idea of. No taller than a child of 10, she has all the charms and graces in miniature, and her perfect ittle Japanese beauty is always offset by the most perfect toilets. French taste and fingers dress her after the most approved manner, and from her own country she brings stuffs, brocades, and embroideries unattainable and unramable in our dry goods trade. The perfect oval of her face, with its clear cream complexion and half opened black eyes, is surmounted by masses of blue black hair that give her a strangely dignified and stately mien. Perched on the edge of one of the superb ebony and brocade chairs of her long drawing-room, with her tiny slippers not touching the floor, she is one of the most charming little figures to be seen; and Washington will miss one of its prettiest pets when the diminutive lady has gone.-Milwaukee

A NOTED BUT UNTITLED WOMAN,

The above is a good likeness of Mrs. Lydia E. P. ham of Lynn, Mass, who shove all other hun may be truthfully called the "Dear Friend of Woman, as some of her correspondents love to call her. Sh is zealously devoted to her work, which is the out of a life-study, and is obliged to keep six lady assistants, to help her answer the large correspondence which daily pours in upon her, each bearing its special burden of suffering, or joy at release from it. H Vegetable Compound is a medicine for good and not evil purposes. I have personally investigated it and am satisfied of the truth of this.

On account of its proven merits, it is recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country. One says: "It works like a charm and saves much pain. It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhea, irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Floodings, all Displacements and the co equent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to he Change of Life." It permeates every portion of the system, and give ew life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulence destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves were ness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headach, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplosane Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and tackache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at alkines, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system. Theorts only $1. per bottle or six for $5., and is sold by druggists.
