KENYON ALUMNI BULLETIN

GAMBIER, OHIO

WINTER, 1952

VOL. X, NO. 1

YEAR-END GIFTS ARE LARGE

There are two periods in the year which are rather exciting in the Secretary's office, through which passes every gift to the College — the last two months of the calendar year and the last two months of the fiscal year, May and June. Knowing how desperate is the need of the College for gifts of every kind, the Secretary and his staff are thrilled by the receipt of every gift which goes to make the yearly total.

Alumni, trustees and friends of the College were particularly generous to Kenyon at this year end.

The alumni gifts recorded are either payments on continuing pledges entered as new gifts or are considered pre-Kenyon Fund Campaign gifts. A full report of gifts received is made each June at the alumni luncheon and is reported in the summer issue of the Bulletin. But the alumni will be interested in the following interim report of receipts since October 28, 1951.

CHALMERS SPEAKS ON ATHLETIC SCANDALS

Following is a digest of President Chalmers' speech at the time of the meeting at Kenyon of the Ohio Athletic Conference. President Chalmers spoke at the banquet celebrating the Conference's jubilee year.

Recent scandals in college and university football and basketball fall into two categories: corruption and abuse. Corruption in the academic world such as changing grades, cheating at examinations, and "fixing" games is the same as corruption anywhere; it is plain dishonesty. Abuse of college athletics is something else. It may be dishonesty, but it is neither plain nor simple. It has developed out of abuses which for many years were not thought scandalous and still in many quarters are not thought scandalous simply because they began small.

What is abused is the the idea of a college or university and thus the effectiveness of a college or a university. Abuses arise in two separate quarters of university and college management. Much is said of yielding to the alumni demand for victories and of the effort to finance the athletic program by big-time football, or, I suppose, big-time basketball. I do not think this is the heart of the matter. The abuse does not begin after the big athletic program is underway, but before. I believe it begins when the university decides to use public spectacle athletics as a major means of enlisting popular support for the whole institution — support in the form of students applying for admission, in the form of gifts of money, in the form of votes for appropriations.

Thus the first fundamental abuse is not initially related to athletics at all but is the attempt to get support for a highly complicated and subtle institution, a university, the easy way. Any university which endeavors to get support without making clear to its supporters the nature of a university has introduced abuses which in the course of a few years will inevitably run the whole sorry way to interference with university policy by Monday-morning quarterbacks. The heart of the whole matter is whether or not the college or university is able and has the courage to seek its support the hard way: by demonstrating to all supporters, whether entering students, voters, or private contributors, that a university is pre-eminently concerned with education and research. If, instead, the institution systematically seeks support by means of easy publicity, whether of football teams or May queens, it has itself abused the idea of a university in the public mind.

The other half of abuse represented in scandalous use of universities by commercialized athletics arises when soft spots are permitted in the curriculum. The current undergraduate term for these soft spots is "gut courses." If there are enough gut courses or easy majors, so that a student by discreet advice can be steered through to his bachelor's degree without wasting energy and time on the job, and without bringing to his work any unusual talents, he is better able to devote his real energies and talents to intercollegiate athletics.

It should be pointed out that soft spots in the curriculum have not always been produced by the demand to keep athletes eligible. Many institutions, and notably the large ones, have dozens of soft spots in them for political and

BROWN

As the Director of Publicity, Mrs. Fink, and I put this Bulletin "to bed," I am preparing for a two weeks' vacation in the sunny southwest. Mrs. Brown and I will leave on January 31 for the Kenyon Ranch at Tubac, Arizona, where we spent a delightful vacation several years ago.

As many alumni know, the Kenyon Ranch was built, is owned and operated by Bill Allen of the class of 1913 and "Sis," his devoted and efficient wife. It is the last word in comfort and quiet entertainment, and it is Kenyon all through. The mountain which rises behind the ranch is Mount Kenyon, and the police dog which is a general favorite is Kennie. Kenyon songs are included in the repertoire of many a Kenyon Ranch party, with Bill Allen at the Piano.

My infirmities having caught up with me, I will not be allowed to ride a horse again; but the beauty of the place, the birds and wild flowers and the mountains will provide enough of interest.

Alaska, The Land of Opportunity

The following is published at the request of the Chief of Engineers, Washington, through the U. S. Army Depot at Marion, Ohio.

Alaska has long been a land of opportunity, but recent defense developments have increased the employment opportunities many fold. The recent growth and development of Alaska is probably unequaled for rapid developments of a permanent nature. We used to think of Alaska as the far frozen North, impassable many months of the year, with dog and canoes as the only means of transportation into the mainland. We now visualize Alaska as a territory with rapid development, affording transportation facilities, agricultural development, industries and increased development of its many natural resources. To the outdoorsman, it has to offer excellent hunting, fishing, canoeing and swimming. The scenic beauty of its woodland slopes and clear, fresh streams should appeal to any lover of nature. Recreation and educational facilities are available with the exception of a few isolated locations.

Scientific and professional personnel are urgently needed for employment in Alaska. The greatest need is for Engineers, (Civil, Mechanical, Structural, Hydraulic and Electrical), Survey Aids and Architects. However, there are also clerical vacancies. Personnel employed in Alaska are furnished government quarters and receive an additional twenty-five per cent of their base pay termed a cost of living allowance. The cost of food is approximately $100 a month. Housing for dependents is rapidly being made available and requests are authorized on priority basis. Employees and dependents, when authorized, travel at government expense when reporting for duty and when returning to the United States upon completion of contract. Employees are required to sign an agreement of twenty-four months duration. Additional information regarding employment in Alaska, Austria, the Caribbean, Okinawa and Japan may be obtained by contacting your nearest State of Ohio Employment Office or by contacting the Personnel Office, Marion Engineer Depot, Marion, Ohio.

And not included in the above figures is the final payment from the Diocese of Southern Ohio to the Old Kenyon Restoration Fund of $33,000. This payment is the last of three on the $100,000 gift from the Diocese and was made by Bishop Hobson five months before the date on which final payment had been promised.

We will be back in Gambier on the eighteenth of February, and I will be seeing many of you, I hope, at the alumni dinners which begin with the one in Cincinnati on February 26.

Kenyon in Who's Who In America

School and Society reported in its October issue on an analysis of the representation of the American colleges in this edition. The number of biographies in the volume reached 41,485 as contrasted with 28,805 in 1928 and 31,545 in 1938. The number of college graduates in these volumes has increased from 16,433 in 1928 to 18,813 in 1938 and to 29,203 in the current issue. The number of colleges represented in the current volume is 963 as contrasted with 815 twelve years ago. Of these 289 have furnished at least 15 names each and together furnish 26,680, or 91.3 per cent of the whole number.

The School and Society article then presents a table listing the 289 colleges which have furnished 15 names each. Kenyon appears as 157 on this list, tied with Bryn Mawr. Thirty-seven Kenyon men are listed in the 1950 edition as against 29 in 1938, a gain of 8 or 28 per cent.

Harvard continues to lead with 1566; Yale comes second with 1299; Michigan third with 754; and Princeton fourth with 746.

Ohio Foundation Makes Good Start

In the fall issue of the Bulletin was described the founding of the Ohio Foundation of Independent Colleges, Inc., and the plan which would be followed in soliciting gifts for current operations on behalf of the nineteen member colleges, from corporations in Ohio.

In the three months which have passed since that was written, remarkable progress has been made. The real start was made in Cleveland with a meeting called by the trustees of the colleges in October, at which the plan was explained to the trustees and to a number of industrialists. A little later another meeting was held with the college presidents on hand and represented by President Fleming of Ohio Wesleyan University, who described to a large audience of corporation executives the reasons for the Foundation and what it hoped to accomplish. Immediately following that meeting the presidents and trustees started out in pairs, the president of one college and the trustee of another, to call upon Cleveland corporations.

That work, coupled with the general publicity which the movement has received and the work of individuals, has resulted in the receipt of gifts to January 18 of $166,000.00. The goal for this academic year is one million dollars which represents roughly the aggregate projected deficit of the nineteen colleges. Work will go on continuously under the guidance of the Board of Trustees, which consists of the president of each member college and the same number of trustees at large, who will be corporation executives. Those who have accepted appointment to the Board of Trustees thus far, in addition to the presidents or their representatives, are: James J. Nance, President, Hotpoint, Inc., Chicago; Reuben B. Robertson, Jr., President, Champion Paper and Fibre Company,

Christmas At Kenyon

Christmas doings this year at Kenyon began on Sunday, December 2, when the Kenyon Singers, under the direction of Professor Paul Schwartz, gave their annual carol concert in the Church of the Holy Spirit. The occasion was further embellished with the presentation of a Bach cantata, "Unto us a child is born" sung by a mixed chorus of Kenyon voices and sopranos and altos from Mount Vernon and from among Bexley and faculty wives. Old favorites, such as "Masters in This Hall" and "Sing We Noel," appeared among the selection of carols.

On the following Sunday, December 9, the Kenyon Singers joined with the Mount Vernon Community Chorus in a performance of Handel's "Messiah," which was also directed by Dr. Schwartz.

Plans for the annual Christmas party for the children of the Knox County Home had to undergo a sudden change when a quarantine for scarlet fever made it impossible for the children to leave the Home. Movies, trimming the tree, dinner in the Commons, carol singing and afterwards presents from Santa were on the program, but though the party had to be cancelled, the presents were delivered just the same. And among them was a fund sufficient for renting a movie once a month for the whole year.

As in the past, Rudin's and Olson's in Mount Vernon gave discounts on clothes and toys, and Shellmar donated the gift-wrapping. Presents were wrapped by student wives, and banker J. Ray Brown had agreed to be the red-cheeked Santa Claus. Miss Lillian Chard and Miss Mildred Kimball were ready to prepare the dinner and buy the tree.

Heading the project this year were Fred Papsin of Toronto, Canada, Ed Stansfield of Akron, and Lanny Griggs of Sewickley, Pa. Assisting them were Si Axtell of Rock Tavern, N. Y., Henry Sharp of Upper Darby, Pa., and Bruce Pennington of Kansas City, Mo. Forty Kenyon students agreed to be "fathers for the evening," and every Kenyon man donated something to the fund to make up the $400 total required to put on a really big party.

Kenyon Wins Debate Tournament

Kenyon's spirited debate team walked away with top honors at the tournament held November 10 at Wooster College, Wooster, Ohio. Eight colleges participated in the tournament: Kenyon, Oberlin, Ohio State University, Ohio Wesleyan, Ohio University, Otterbein, Wooster, and Westminster (Pennsylvania).

The six-man team composed of a three-man negative and affirmative boasted of both veterans and novices. They were: Robert H. Ashby from Detroit; James G. Kennedy from Rockville Center, N. Y.; Robert A. Greenberger from Sharon, Pa.; Robert A. Bennett from Baltimore; Richard M. Stein from New Haven, Conn.; and Roger Dee Swigert from Louisville, Ky.

The contestants used the "direct clash" type of debate. Mr. Herbert Myers is Kenyon's debate coach.

Kenyon College Represented

One of the courtesies which academic institutions like to pay each other is to send representatives to be present at centennial celebrations and at presidential inaugurations. This fall Kenyon has been represented by either alumni or faculty at fifteen different institutions.

On September 15, Mr. Carl Ganter, '99, A.B., A.M., L.L.D., represented Kenyon at the dedication of the recently completed Arthur T. Vanderbilt Hall at New York University.

On October 8, Mr. Elrick B. Davis, '17, represented Kenyon at the installation of the Brigham Young University's new president, Ernest L. Wilkinson in Salt Lake City.

Mr. George L. Brain, '20, attended the inauguration on October 12 of Jess Harrison Davis as president of the Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken, N. J.

On the same day a delegation of four, including President Gordon K. Chalmers, attended the inaugural ceremonies for Dr. A. Blair Knapp as the fourteenth president of Kenyon's neighbor, Denison University. The other three representatives were Dr. Daniel T. Finkbeiner for the American Mathematical Society; Dr. Paul M. Titus for the American Economics Association; and Dr. Ralph J. D. Braibanti for the American Political Science Association. President Chalmers also represented the American Council on Education.

At the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary ceremonies of Yale University held on October 19, Dr. Bayes M. Norton, himself a Yale man, (B.S. and Ph.D.), represented Kenyon College. The Nov. 12 issue of Life Magazine has pictures of this affair.

Dr. Paul Schwartz represented Kenyon on two different occasions during the month of October. On the 13th he attended the inauguration of President Kase of Western College

Bishop Tucker Honored

Due to retire in February of this year from his holy office in the Protestant Episcopal Church, Bishop Beverley D. Tucker has been honored all over the Diocese in a series of occasions. At Kenyon when he preached on November 4 at the Church of the Holy Spirit, he and Mrs. Tucker were feted after the service at a dinner in the Great Hall, Peirce Hall.

Following the dinner, speeches by his friend of long standing, the Reverend Doctor John R. Stalker, and by President Chalmers expressed only a part of what was felt by those who have worked with Bishop Tucker during his fourteen years in the Diocese. As chairman in alternating years of the College Board of Trustees and as a true friend and supporter in many other ways of the College and of Bexley Hall, he has earned the gratitude of the College, its alumni, and its friends. It is hoped that in the years to come Bishop Tucker will not become a stranger to the Kenyon campus and to his many friends here.

New Assistant In Philosophy

Professor Philip B. Rice, chairman of the Philosophy Department, will be on leave during the second semester in order to teach in the Sage School of Philosophy at Cornell University. Assisting in the department during Professor Rice's absence will be Dr. Wilfred D. Desen, who comes to Kenyon from Harvard where he has held fellowships and taught. Dr. Desen holds degrees from the universities of Lille and Antwerp in his native Belgium, and has done considerable study and writing on the work of the modern French philosopher, Sartre.

The play will have a four-day run beginning February 21. Red Two concerns naval aviation in World War II and was copyrighted in 1950.

Faculty members who attended post-Christmas professional meetings are listed in a special article on Page 14.

Recipe For Fun

How a group of Kenyon alumni had themselves a wonderful time the week end of November 3 is the subject of the following "recipe" from George T. Brown, '26.

"So often alumni from various colleges make the statement that they returned to their old alma mater anticipating a grand time. They go back home saying, 'never again' because they saw very few members of their class or their friends or their particular group of friends that were together during their college days.

"Last Homecoming fourteen Kenyon alumni got together after twenty-six years, and for each and every one of us it was one of the high-lights of our lives. It seemed to all of us that we had been separated only a short time, for we started right in where we left off and had a bang-up week end. Incidentally, this group was gathered from New York and Chicago—east and west, and Kentucky and Michigan—north and south.

"Here's the reason for our successful week end. One of the group decided to make sure that some of his old pals would be on hand to help him enjoy Homecoming on "the Hill;" so he got on the phone and called those of us that were close to each other when in school. To everyone the idea was so appealing that no one could resist; and I may say that we'll never regret having 'obeyed that impulse.'

"By making up a select list of close friends, we assured ourselves of a good time. Our group represented four different classes; and though, as it happens, we belong to the same fraternity, it was a coincidence which might or might not be repeated in other reunion groups gathering by special arrangement."

Note: If you don't have the addresses of your old pals, the Kenyon Alumni Office does. Why not try George Brown's recipe for a good time? Bring to a quick boil and serve hot!

Cleveland Bond Club

Guy W. Prosser, '16, plans to infuse new blood into the Bond Club of Cleveland of which he has been recently elected president. Mr. Prosser, Kenyon Alumnus trustee from 1941 to 1947 and president of the Kenyon Alumni Association from 1938 to 1940, is a broker of thirty-six years' experience with the investment firm of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane and its predecessor firms, and is a member of the Bond Club's board of governors, serving last year as treasurer.

Because of the depression years of the 30's and the war years of the 40's, the average age of the present membership of the Club is over 50. Mr. Prosser hopes to bring in a group of younger members to the organization and plans also panel discussions and a series of guest speakers to give a more worth while aspect to the formerly essentially social meetings.

Henry C. Wolfe, '22, receives decoration from French Consul General Roger Seydoux.

Alumnus Decorated

Henry C. Wolfe, '22, observer of the foreign scene and writer and lecturer on the rapidly shifting political patterns in Europe, has been decorated by the French Government with the cross of the Legion of Honor. The citation of the award called attention to Mr. Wolfe's "eminent services to the cause of Franco-American friendship in the cultural and political fields."

Mr. Wolfe is now on a lecture tour after a summer spent in Yugoslavia.

Caples Urges Productivity

More productivity was the remedy for inflation problems brought forward by William G. Caples, '30, at the meetings in December of the National Association of Manufacturers. Mr. Caples, who has already made a considerable reputation for himself in the realm of employer-employee relationships, said that if in bargaining, management and labor can agree on a real method of increasing productivity, either through machine utilization or manpower utilization, we may arrive at the real means of stopping inflation.

He pointed out further: "In considering the problem bear in mind that generally where the union has had complete control over jobs, those industries have tended to retrogress." This trend of job-control is one which Mr. Caples regarded as non-economic.

Photographers Ahoy!

If on recent trips to "the Hill" you have spent a few leisure moments in making color photos of familiar campus scenes, would you aid the Admissions Department by sending on copies of your transparencies? As you may already know, Mr. Scudder, Director of Admissions, now has a projector and is using the slides to good effect.

A Chip Off The Old Enamel

Two articles, one in Nation's Business for July, 1951, and another in Business Week for November 17, 1951, give a stimulating account from two points of view of the meteoric career of Robert Weaver, Jr., who is fending for himself in the porcelain enamel field in which his father, Robert A. Weaver, '12, Kenyon trustee, has been a leading figure for many years as founder and now chairman of Ferro Corporation of Cleveland.

Entitled "How a Small Business Saved Itself," the article in Nation's Business tells how young Weaver and his two associates, Fred Shaw and Art Shaver, took over the moribund Bettinger Corporation of Waltham, Massachusetts, and with dozens of new ideas that clicked put it back on its feet. But how they obtained financial backing for their enterprise is the main concern of the article.

Realizing that out-and-out bank loans might lead to loss of operating control, the new Bettinger Board decided upon a step which attracted the attention of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. As a Harvard professor put it, "What Bettinger was doing was not in itself unusual, but that they had decided to do it, and were doing it, was." What Bettinger did was to go "to the people"; furthermore, they went to home-town people, the residents of Waltham.

After listing their stock with a Boston Milk Street Broker, the three men "took the Waltham telephone book as their list of potential investors and went up and down the street offering the issue. It was a purely speculative stock, they emphasized . . . and for the long pull." But it sold, a small lot here and a larger one there. Happy ending: this year Bettinger sales will be well above the $1.5-million mark.

In Business Week the article on the Bettinger Corporation is concerned with the flexibility of a small business. Weaver felt that new ideas could be worked out better when there was not too much supervision from a distant mahogany desk. Architects and engineers all over the country were consulted on what was needed, regardless of specifications. The result was such a long list of possible products that, as Weaver himself put it, he was "driven almost crazy by the potential of the material." Everything from statuary to street signs, for which last, incidentally, Bettinger has a contract from the city of Chicago. Fireplaces, blackboards, window-sills (that never need painting and resist all weathers), and movie-screens for outdoor theaters. Even whole houses can be built of the accommodating material.

And so Bob Weaver, Jr., has proved all over again that smallness with its flexibility and manoeuvrability can pay big dividends.

ALUMNI MEETINGS

All of the active Kenyon groups about the country are holding the usual annual dinner meetings this winter and spring. Only one was held before the end of the year. The Akron dinner was on November 28.

The schedule of meetings to come with dates definitely fixed as the Bulletin goes to press is as follows: Cincinnati, dinner, Tuesday, February 26; Cleveland, luncheon at the Midway Club, Saturday, March 1; Washington, dinner, Tuesday, March 4; Philadelphia, dinner, Wednesday, March 5; New York, dinner at the Williams Club, Friday, March 7; Boston, dinner, Monday, March 10; Pittsburgh, dinner, Thursday, March 13.

It is hoped that all Kenyon alumni who are in or near one of these centers will attend a Kenyon reunion and dinner. Each of them will be attended by President Chalmers or Bill Caples, president of the Alumni Association, and the Alumni Secretary. At each, business will be held to a minimum and reports will be made by the College officers on the current year at Kenyon.

Geographical Distribution

The geographical distribution of last September's entering class at Kenyon College covers as usual a wide area. Ohio tops the list with 37 students (26.6%); New York comes next with 19 students (13.7%); then Illinois and Pennsylvania each with 13 (9.4%); Indiana with 8 (5.8%); Connecticut with 5 (3.6%); Michigan with 5 (3.6%); Massachusetts with 4; then California, Maryland, Missouri, New Jersey, and Wisconsin with 3 each; Kentucky, 2; and the following with 1 each: Arizona, District of Columbia, Georgia, Iowa, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Texas, West Virginia. Canada, France, Germany, Hawaii, and Japan are represented by 1 each.

Have You Made Your Will?

Every day the newspapers report unfortunate cases where the lack of a well drawn-up will has worked a hardship on loved ones, often wives or minors who must wait for the slow processes of the law, or who have been, through the peculiar laws of a particular state, unjustly slighted. Did you know, too, that a trusted relative, friend, or trust company can be designated to execute a will without costly bonding if you so state in your will?

When you make your will is also the time to think about Kenyon. Over the century and a quarter of its existence others have thought about Kenyon, and their gifts have helped make possible the education of generations of Kenyon men, have provided equipment which you in your day have enjoyed, and have built a roster of names immortal in Kenyon legend.

The memory of a husband, wife, or son may be perpetuated through the ever-useful medium of a scholarship, a loan fund, a prize, or an endowed professorial chair. A memorial to a loved classmate through a fund built up by several bequests will keep his name ever green. A bequest small or large, adds to the educational usefulness of Kenyon, to the prestige of the college with which your name is associated. Be sure, in making your bequest, to state correctly the name of the institution. Following are several forms of bequest:

I give and bequeath to Kenyon College, Gambier, Ohio, the sum of $..... to be used by the Trustees of said College for such purpose or purposes as they may deem appropriate.

I give and bequeath to Kenyon College, Gambier, Ohio, the sum of $..... to be invested by the Trustees of said College, the income therefrom to be used for the following purposes:

I give and bequeath to Kenyon College and corporation, for the benefit and use of Bexley Hall, its Divinity School, the sum of (or, the following):

THE YEAR IN ATHLETICS

(By Pete Paisley, '52)

Athletic Director William C. Stiles

Football

In their first year under the direction of Bill Stiles, the Lord teams to date have found the going definitely rougher. Although not hard hit numerically by graduation, the loss of key men of last year's squads has been a definite factor this season. This, plus the increased effectiveness of Ohio Conference competition now that freshmen are eligible in all schools, has made the job of living up to records posted last season extremely difficult for the Kenyon squads.

The football team, hampered by injuries to most of the backfield, played spotty but occasionally outstanding football to ring up a record of three wins against as many losses. The team was never at a loss for ways to move the ball, averaging 357 yards from scrimmage per contest and leading all conference squads except Heidelberg in that department, but faulty defensive play and occasional outbursts of fumble-itis were responsible for many heartbreaks and each of their defeats. Only once, in the last half of the season finale against Hiram, did the team function smoothly, the result being a five touchdown spree and a 32-21 win. The Lords had trailed, 14-0, at the half.

Big guns on the squad along with quarterback Dom Gabriele of N. Tarrytown, N. Y., back halfbacks Gene Mio of Cleveland, Hugh McGowan of Newport, R. I., and Don Murphy of Greenwich, Connecticut, fullback Charlie Coffey of Spring Lake, N. Y., end Don Marsh of Geneva and guard Bill Ranney of Canton, O., who captained this year's squad. Coffey, though out for most of the Wooster game and all of the next two clashes, led the scorers with 5 T.D.'s; Marsh had four, McGowan and Gabriele three each and Mio two plus twelve successful placements. The loss of Stan Jackson, speedy and shifty senior halfback from Steubenville, Ohio, early in the Wooster game was the biggest heartbreak of the season, for although he returned to action late in the season, his brilliant running never did. The return of all of last fall's standouts except drafted Charlie Coffey and seniors Ranney and Jackson indicates great strength for next season's squad. The season's record:

Kenyon 13	Wooster	18
Kenyon 21	Otterbein	7
Kenyon 14	Hobart	26
Kenyon 34	Capital	27
Kenyon 12	Hamilton	26
Kenyon 32	Hiram	21

Graduating seniors from the team are: Al Ballard, tackle from Philadelphia; Grant Cooke, tackle and line backer from Columbus; Bill Hurd, guard (did not play this year due to leg injury) from Cleveland; Stan Jackson, halfback and safety man from Steubenville; Bob McOwen, tackle from Cincinnati; Bill Ranney, captain, a guard from Canton; Tim Ryan, quarterback from Big Rapids Michigan; John VerNooy, end from Bay Village, Ohio.

Soccer

In its first season under the tutelage of Physics Professor Franklin Miller, the soccer team also wound up 3-3, with wins over Ohio State (3-1, 4-3) and Western Reserve (2-0), losing twice to Oberlin and once to Earlham. The offensive strength of the squad was found in Joe Pavlovich, Steve Fedele and Tom Kiger. At the end of the season Si Ax-tell and Jerry Ellsworth were awarded gold soccerballs for having won three varsity soccer letters. As only these two will graduate, an outstanding season is expected next fall.

Basketball

In basketball, coach Dave Henderson was faced for the first time in his five years at Kenyon with the problem of forming a winner without at least one standout player. In the past, Eppa Rixey, Dave Bell and finally Lenny Burrows were on hand to lead the scoring parade. But with the graduation of Burrows after winning All-Ohio honors last season, this squad has had to learn to depend on team play and hustle more than in any previous campaign.

Five lettermen returned for the season's opener against Otterbein December fifth. They were center Will Reade of Concord, New Hampshire; forwards Ron Fraley of Steubenville, Ohio, Don Marsh of Geneva, Ohio and John VerNooy of Bay Village, Ohio; and guard Gene Mio of Cleveland. A freshman from Tiffin, Ohio, Chad Vogt, has won the forward spot left open by Burrows' departure and currently trails only Reade in the scoring department.

The season to date has seen but two victories, those both squeakers. After being outplayed by Otterbein, 66-53, the squad jelled to nose-out Hiram, 67-66 and Fenn, 58-57 in away games. Since vacation, however, they have played better ball but have faced stronger competition in

Swimming

The swimming team, in its first season under Pat Pasini, former director of athletics, is continuing its winning ways this winter. Led by co-captains Herb Ullmann and George Christ along with Al Eastman, the veteran team has been able to enter consistent point winners in most events.

Ullmann, outstanding diver and sprinter, is undefeated in four meets in the diving competition and only once beaten in the 50-yard freestyle. He set a pool record of 24.5 in the fifty at Wooster recently and will be favored in both these events when the Ohio Conference meet is held here in Shaffer Pool on March first. Christ, a veteran backstroker, has been defeated only once while Eastman, sophomore distance ace, came back after two seconds in the season opener to win six straight 220 yard and 440 yard freestyle races. Unexpected help has developed in freshman freestyler John Bradfield, who has won three of his four 110 yard races to date. The team will be seriously hurt after

For a temporary indefinite period applications are being accepted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation for the position of Special Agent Employee from men who possess a four year degree (such as AB, BS or other) from accredited resident colleges.

Requirements, aside from citizenship, include height of five feet seven inches, age of over twenty-five and under forty-one, good physical condition, willingness to serve in any part of the United States or territorial possessions, and to be qualified in the operation of passenger vehicles.

The Bureau has asked the Bulletin to bring this information to the attention of Kenyon graduates. Applicants can secure forms from the nearest field office of the Bureau.

At the inauguration of President M. Earl Collins of Missouri Valley College on December 10, Professor Raymond C. Stone, '23, chairman of the Department of Biology of the University of Kansas City, was the Kenyon representative.

Robert Ashby, '53, records speech while Professor Franklin Miller adjusts controls of new Concertone tape-recorder. Looking on are Edgar G. Davis, '53, who does announcing for WMVO, and Professor Paul Schwartz of the Music Department, Chairman of the Kenyon Radio Committee.

Kenyon Has Radio Time

On Sunday, October 14, at 5:15 p. m., Kenyon College broadcast its first program over Station WMVO-FM, Mt. Vernon, Ohio, 93.7 Meg. Entitled THIS IS KENYON CALLING, the program is a weekly summary of campus news covering both past and future events.

KENYON COLLEGE ON THE AIR, a fifteen-minute program presenting talks, interviews, discussions, and musical programs can be heard on Thursdays at 6:30 p. m.

Chairman of the Committee on Radio Broadcasts is Dr. Paul Schwartz, chairman of the Music Department. Professor Franklin Miller of the Physics Department acts as technical adviser; and the scripts are prepared by an editorial staff composed of Mrs. Gordon Chalmers, Mrs. J. S. Atlee, Mrs. R. O. Fink, Mrs. Franklin Miller, and Mrs. Paul Schwartz. Evan Lottman, a junior from New York City, is the announcer.

More half-hour programs are in preparation for use over WMVO and any other station interested in presenting them. They will bear titles indicative of their nature, such as: KENYON COLLEGE FORUM, KENYON COLLEGE THEATRE, KENYON COLLEGE CONCERT, BEXLEY HALL HOUR, etc.

Making possible the longer programs is a new tape-recorder on which speeches, debates, and musical performances are taken down at the time they are presented, then edited afterward. This tape-recorder, a Concertone of the type used professionally, has come to the College through the generosity of Carl R. Ganter, '99, and an anonymous donor.

Two transcribed half-hour programs are being offered to other stations for possible broadcast: highlights from the conference on "Free Inquiry in the Modern World and its Dependence on Christianity," and excerpts from Professor Hans Morgenthau's address delivered during the meeting of the Ohio Conference of International Relations Clubs.

The attention of the alumni is called to the fact that TV stations everywhere are often willing, sometimes anxious, to receive material for programs. If you think a local station might be interested in programs from Kenyon, please notify the Alumni Secretary. The Radio Committee will then see to it that the tape containing a program will be sent to your station.

Hay Government Analyst

William Hay, '50, writes us from the heart of the TVA country, where he and his wife are living at present until they can get located closer to Huntsville, where Mr. Hay is employed as a salary and wage analyst at Redstone Arsenal, an ordnance research and development center for rockets and guided missiles.

Writes Mr. Hay: "The broad object of the program is to seek equitable pay treatment—like pay for like work, pay geared to level of difficulty and responsibility, etc. — in furtherance of the interests of both the Government and its employees. It is set up as a branch of personnel activity but has definite management aspects as well, and certainly no little economics.

"My M. A. diploma from Syracuse arrived last week and I want to take this opportunity of again thanking Kenyon, through you, for awarding me the Dalton Fellowship in American Studies. This award helped make possible my year of study in Economics-Public Administration at Syracuse leading to the degree."

Midsummer Night's Dream Hansen Memorial Play

Another Shakesperian play was selected this year for the fall production of the Kenyon Dramatic Club, and in accordance with the wishes of James D. Hansen, '47, who again contributed $100 for the purchase of costumes and costume material, the production was designated the Helen and Ag Hansen Memorial Play. Under the direction of Professor James Michael, A Midsummer Night's Dream, which had a four-day run beginning November 28, pleased capacity audiences and at the special children's matinee delighted the young spectators.

Kathryn Rice, wife of Professor Philip B. Rice, designed the costumes for a production which emphasized elements that marked the play's performance at the Globe Theater back in 1596. Colorful, luxurious, and Elizabethan in style, the costumes rival those Mrs. Rice designed for the 1950 production of "King Lear." A committee of faculty and student wives and townswomen under the direction of Mrs. Tracy Scudder executed the costumes.

The Speech Department is the busy center of many and varied activities. However, it is in need of equipment to simplify play-production: manila rope, for example, to be used for stage-rigging; material for a set of flat scenery. For debating and oratorical contests, money prizes would give distinction and stimulate interest.

Parker Puts Kenyon Bookworm In Headlines

Kenyon's former librarian, Wyman W. Parker, has put into headlines the book-reading exploits of our distinguished alumnus, Rutherford B. Hayes.

An article on Mr. Parker's research into the reading habits of the former President was featured in the Cincinnati Enquirer of Sunday, October 21. In it Mr. Parker informed us that President Hayes in his undergraduate days read on an average of 36 books a year, a number in sharp contrast with today's college student average of 5.6 books a year. Mr. Parker cautions us to remember, however, that today's student has many supplementary sources of information, such as radio and television, which the bookish Hayes did not have.

The subject of presidential reading-habits apparently was of keen interest all over the country. Time published the item and as the weeks went by Kenyon's clipping service kept sending in reprints in one form or another of the original article. Published in a total of 15 states the article appeared in papers of towns as far west as Las Vegas, Nevada, as far east as Portland, Maine, as far north as Rochester, Minnesota, and as far south as New Orleans, Louisiana.

LIBRARY NOTES

On January 19 the second of the inter-library cooperative conferences was held at the Kenyon library, the first conference having been held December 8 at Denison.

These conferences are designed to save duplication and expense, and representatives from member colleges discuss cooperative purchasing and discarding in relation to budgetary and storage limitations. Attending the conference on January 19 were representatives from Denison, Ohio Wesleyan, Muskingum, Mt. Union, and Otterbein. The conference was in charge of Acting Librarian Kent U. Moore.

A composite gift of something over two hundred dollars has been received from the friends of Don C. Wheaton at Sweetbriar. The gift is intended for the purchase of books in Mr. Wheaton's honor. It has been decided to get books of general interest rather than those in specialized fields.

The library announces the receipt of some 160 volumes from Mrs. Frank P. Hixon of Lake Forest, Illinois, long-time friend of the College and also donor of a group of oil-paintings by several European and American artists of the late nineteenth-century.

An exhibit in the library of selected issues of Hika from its beginning in 1935 up to the present has served to recall to mind the number

Three To Study In Washington

Three Kenyon juniors will go to Washington in February to participate in the cooperative program known as the Washington Semester. The three are: Charles A. Docter of Cincinnati, Norman Nichol of Youngstown, and Edgar G. Davis of Indianapolis, Indiana.

As outlined in a previous issue of the Bulletin, the Washington Semester provides that students in Government who have maintained a high scholastic average and who have shown themselves capable of independent research may spend one semester of the junior year at the School of Social Sciences and Public Affairs of the American University in Washington, at the same time receiving credit toward the B.A. degree at Kenyon. Kenyon is one of six Ohio colleges who participate in this plan.

of Kenyon undergraduate contributors who have since made their mark in the literary world. Among them are its founder, John C. Neff, '36, whose recently published novel, Maria, was noted in the last issue of the Bulletin. Others are Robert Lowell, '40, with a growing reputation for his poetry; Walter Elder, '42, whose short stories have been published in magazines and anthologies; and Robie Macaulay, '41, short-story writer and critic. In recent Hikas is the work of undergraduate George Lanning, who already has several published short stories to his credit, and is now completing his first novel.

Bexley Students Serve Community

Now in its fourth year the Bexley student project to serve the spiritual needs of patients at Avalon, a private tuberculosis sanatorium located near Mount Vernon, has grown from a group of five active participants to twenty-two. Begun by the men in the junior, or entering class, at Bexley Hall, the project now includes members of all three classes in the seminary.

Every Sunday at 9:30 services are held at the sanatorium. Three students participate in this activity: one to read the lesson, one to read prayers, and another to give the morning sermon. After the service a group of six or seven students stay and visit the patients, especially those too ill to attend the services.

During the week regularly assigned pastoral callers visit the sanatorium and discuss patients' spiritual problems with those expressing need. Pastoral calling is under the advisory supervision of Dr. John R. Stalker. Services are also held on the greater feast days, and once every three months communion is celebrated by the Reverend Robert Becker, rector of St. Paul's, Mount Vernon.

A Bexley Executive Committee works closely with an Avalon Executive Committee in order to keep in close touch with the needs of the patients. On the Bexley Committee are: Senior, Charles Speer, Diocese of Southern Ohio; Mid- dlers, Donald Hulstrand, Diocese of Minnesota, and James Johnston, Diocese of Ohio; and Juniors, John McNaughton and Russell Ewald, both Diocese of Minnesota, and Thomas Atherton, Diocese of Ohio.

Alumnus Chaplain At Dallas School

The Reverend John de Boer Cummings, '22, has been fulfilling since February the duties of chaplain at the newly organized St. Mark's School at Dallas, Texas. Holding two Master's Degrees, one of them in Education, Mr. Cummings has also done foreign study at the Universities of Munich and Moscow. He has had many years of experience in preparatory school work, having been on the staffs of the Lenox School, Cranbrook School, Hotchkiss, and St. Paul's. Before going to St. Mark's he was headmaster of St. Michael's School in Newport, Rhode Island. Mr. Cummings was ordained to the priesthood in the Episcopal Church in 1944.

Alumni concerned with church-affiliated secondary schools may be interested in knowing more about St. Mark's, which opened its doors in September 1950. While the main emphasis of the school's program is on studies, there was a ten-game football schedule this fall, and other sports are offered. On the religious side, although St. Mark's is non-sectarian in its admissions policy, all boys receive non-denominational religious instruction in regular courses given by the chaplain, and there are daily services following the order of Evensong Prayer. Robert H. Iglehart is headmaster.

This committee also works with the Protestant Ministers Association in Mount Vernon, and through it arranges for services once a month at the State Hospital for tubercular mental patients.

"Church Of The Month"

St. Paul's, Corunna, Michigan, has been designated "church of the month" in a feature article appearing in The Record, the monthly paper of the Diocese of Michigan. Its new minister-in-charge is the Reverend Elmer B. Usher, Bex. '51.

From sixty-five communicants the parish is growing by leaps and bounds. In November eleven persons were confirmed and eighteen more are being prepared. The Ladies' Guild is beginning to interest itself in such problems as family counselling, and a lively Sunday School with classes for the tiniest on up is running full tilt.

Things seem also to be humming financially in Mr. Usher's new parish. A building fund of $15,000 in cash and pledges was raised in one week's time, and an additional $15,000 was pledged by two generous parishioners, Dr. and Mrs. Wm. F. Weinkauf. At the County Fair, a concession run by the ladies of St. Paul's cleared over $500.

It is clear that St. Paul's at Corunna, Michigan, fully merits the spotlight which the Record feature article has turned on it.

Golden Jubilee For Class Of 1900

The Bexley Class of 1900 has during the past year celebrated its Golden Jubilee. The Reverend William Alfred Greer, '97, Bexley '00, of Walkill, New York, now retired, writes:

"I was the first to be ordained, and I celebrated my anniversary at the Church of the Good Shepherd, Newburgh, on the anniversary day, June 9th. A dozen of my fellow priests were present, making the choir to sing hymns, and as I am well known in Newburgh and it was a Saturday, the congregation equalled an average Sunday morning congregation. The only Kenyon man present was Dr. Bigler, at whose ordination I had assisted at the laying on of hands.

"The dates for my classmates were: Bishop Jenkins, June 30; Doctor Redhead, July 25; Bishop Reifsnider, July 21; Dr. Dumper, July 27.

"Of my classmates, Herbert Stocks died as a deacon and was the only one who did not live to seventy or more. Both Byrer and F. R. Jones were in their early seventies. Jenkins is now eighty."

Lemay of the Strategic Air Command. General Lemay was given an honorary degree from Kenyon in June 1946.

Canon Watson Remembered

Word from Lieutenant Colonel Robert A. Mitchell, Jr., now stationed on the island of Oahu, Hawaii, shows how far the rays of light from the life of Canon Watson shine in this unhappy world of ours. Colonel Mitchell calls our attention to an address given nearly thirty years ago to the pupils of Harcourt Place School, and from its last paragraphs we give some quotations:

"The Book of Life: we know that there are very many things to draw us away from the reading, or to dim our eyes as we read: the modern rage for amusement, and the ancient curse of sloth, and the fascinating pursuit of soap-bubbles, as well as the bondage to machinery, and the paralysis of routine.

"But knowledge is fundamental, and there are many things to know, and time is short for so much.

"Knowledge is power," says an old man, 'but learn it, and you will find that some day it will fit into use, and be the very tool that you want.'

"Knowledge is morality," said the Greek philosopher; 'for to know the good is to follow the good.'

"And 'Knowledge,' said our own Shakespeare, 'is the wing wherewith we fly to heaven.'

"Dante saw Paradise as one vast white Rose, whose circumference reached the emerald walls on every side. And every shining petal was a conscious flame of triumphant life expanding in joy . . . The white rose we pluck on earth and hold in our hand becomes a thing mystic, holy, as we dream of it as a symbol of the great white Rose of Paradise — the symbol at once of Nature's miraculous law, the communion of saints, the mysterious unity of Self, the beauty of holiness, the creative pain of a universal Cross, the rooting of Life in the invisible world, and the final transformations of Death into such bloom of life as the eye hath never seen, nor the ear heard, nor hath it entered into the heart of man to conceive."

schools. It appeared also in the October number of The Modern Language Journal.

THE REVEREND ELMER B. USHER, '51, was advanced to the order of priesthood on January 26, at Corunna, Michigan. Bishop Richard S. M. Emrich performed the ceremony.

Kenyon Host To State I. R. C.

Approximately 150 delegates from 18 Ohio colleges attended the annual convention of the Ohio Conference of International Relations Clubs when it met at Kenyon on November 30 and December 1.

Directing the proceedings was the president, elected at last year's convention, and his appointed officers. All Kenyon men, following a custom in favor of convenience, they were: Charles Docter from Cincinnati, president; Robert Ashby from Detroit, vice-president; Hugh Stier from Ridgeway, New Jersey, secretary; and Paul Spehr from Bellefontaine, Ohio, treasurer. Others heading special committees were: Stephen Smith from Winnetka, Illinois; Odis Jackson from Tulsa, Oklahoma; and Richard Ehret from Gowanda, N. Y.

One of the outside speakers secured for the occasion was Dr. Hans Morgenthau of the University of Chicago and Director of the Center for the Study of American Foreign Policy. "The Real Issue Between the United States and Russia" was Dr. Morgenthau's topic. Dr. Martha Black, State Department specialist in West European affairs, discussed "Western Europe's Importance to the United States."

Small student discussion groups took up such topics as "Ferment in the Near East," "The Prospects for Disarmament," "Britain's Place in the World," and "Stemming the Communist Tide; Point Four and Power Politics."

For the past three years the Kenyon International Relations Club, founded by Professor Cahall, has been piloted by Professor Raymond English of the Political Science Department.

Faculty Attend Meetings

Post-Christmas professional meetings held all over the country were attended this year by a number of Kenyon faculty members. Those attending the meetings in Detroit of the Modern Language Association were Professor Charles Coffin, Professor Edward Harvey, Professor John C. Ransom, Mr. Howard Babb, and Professor Franz Mautner. Dr. Coffin presented a paper entitled "Literature and the History of Science." Dr. Mautner was elected chairman of the Nineteenth Century German Literature Group, of which he has been secretary during the past year.

The American Historical Association, which met this year in New York, was attended by Professor R. G. Salomon and Professor H. Landon Warner. Dr. Warner took part in a symposium on "The Social Sciences and History."

Professor Philip B. Rice attended the joint meeting of the American Philosophical Association and the Anthropological Section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, held this year in Philadelphia. He took part in a symposium on "Cultural Relativism" along with several prominent anthropologists. Dr. Rice is president-elect for 1952-53 of the Western Division of the American Philosophical Association meeting at Bryn Mawr.

Also held in Philadelphia this year were the meetings of the American Society of Zoologists at which Professor C. S. Thornton presented a paper entitled, "Histological analysis of beryllium inhibited regeneration."

Aids To Better Writing

Even government officials themselves don't like "gobbledigook." In the introductory paragraphs to his recently issued booklet, "Better Writing," prepared for the use of those in government service, Rear Admiral K. T. Adams (Retired), '12, Hon. '50, writes: "The quality of the correspondence and reports prepared in the Washington Office has improved considerably in the last year. . . . There is still considerable room for improvement in (a) writing so as to convey to the reader precisely what is meant; (b) discriminating between different types of readers; (c) avoiding the ponderous and stilted style of past decades; (d) avoiding what is humorously called "Federalizeze;" (e) avoiding the excess use of the indirect passive tense; (f) avoiding the use of ambiguous words or phrases; and (g) avoiding the use of abstract subject nominatives and meaningless verbs."

This is the second of such booklets prepared by Rear Admiral Adams.

Posner Associate Headmaster Cornwall Academy

David L. Posner, '43, has recently been appointed associate headmaster at Cornwall Academy, Cornwall, Connecticut. Since leaving Kenyon Mr. Posner has traveled extensively, staying for appreciable periods in Turkey, Morocco, Algeria, Libya, Tunisia, Greece, Italy, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Belgium, Germany, France, England, and Ireland. Under the auspices of the British Museum, Mr. Posner took part in archeological work in Libya and Greece; and he has been active in further archeological work in England. He has also lectured at the Sorbonne on the poetry of Yeats, Eliot, and Auden in relation to the main current of French poetry.

During the past two years Mr. Posner, as a representative of the French Radio, has conducted a series of broadcast interviews from Paris and occasionally from London. He will teach language courses at Cornwall Academy, principally French.

Professor O. M. Nikodym and Professor D. T. Finkbeiner were both slated for papers at the meeting of the American Mathematical Society in Providence, R. I., but were prevented from attending the meeting by the bad weather.

Professor Franklin Miller was moderator of a panel discussion on "The Individual Responsibility of the Scientist" held in connection with the meetings in Philadelphia of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Earlier in the month Treasurer W. E. Camp attended the meetings of the Eastern Association of College and University Business Officers held this year at Atlantic City.

Kenyon Faculty Protests Ruling

At a meeting on December 3 the Kenyon Faculty voted unanimously a resolution disapproving the screening rule adopted earlier in the year by the Board of Trustees of the Ohio State University. The rule, which has been characterized by the press as the 'gag' rule, has caused much controversy in the State and considerable comment over the nation. The resolution follows:

"We, the members of the faculty of Kenyon College, conscious of our duty to the tradition of academic responsibility, record our disapproval of the 'screening' rule recently enacted by the Board of Trustees of the Ohio State University. This rule, in our judgment, impugns the sense of responsibility to which the scholar is professionally committed, and signifies an encroachment upon all of the freedoms appropriate to an institution which merits the name of university.

"It is our conviction that it is the bounden duty of a university to encourage the search for truth through the disinterested examination of ideas and that our democratic state as well as our liberal education depends upon the steady enlightenment of man which follows from such activity.

"So long as the 'screening' rule stands, the usefulness of the University of this State will be regrettably impaired, for the University cannot perform the duty which it is under obligation to perform.

"This is our unanimous judgment, expressed with the full knowledge that some interpretations of the rule have been made which affect its administration but do not modify the principle which it embodies."

Copies of the resolution were sent to the president of the University, the chairman of the Board of Trustees, the president of the Faculty Council, the University's chapter of the American Association of University Professors, and the Governor of the State of Ohio.

popular reasons, which probably can be summarized by saying that financial support of the institutions is based almost entirely upon the total number of individuals who can be called students. There are other reasons for gut courses and easy departments in universities. These are the professional or vocational demands of groups who would like to have their commercial activities made respectable by a university diploma. Thus the intrusion into universities of what in other countries and other centuries was essentially apprentice training has, in the period of popular support of universities, gone very far.

Given a university or college offering majors in physical education or courses in trout fishing or twirling the baton, and you have a large-print invitation to the pretense that a young man, solely because he is a star athlete, may be called a university student. It should be remembered, however, that these spots in the curricula were produced for reasons largely divorced from intercollegiate athletics. They were introduced because of the deterioration of the idea of a university in the public mind and because of the general demand to make inexpensive and easy things sound respectable, dignified, and difficult.

Student Course Load

The Faculty at its meeting on January 14, 1952, revised its regulations concerning the carrying of extra course credit.

I. Four-Course Curriculum

1. The normal course load for any student under the four-course curriculum will be four courses each semester.
2. Any student under the four-course curriculum who is not on probation may carry a fifth course without petition, provided he has the recommendation and the approval of his adviser.
3. Any student who wishes to register in less than four courses must petition the Faculty for special permission.

II. Credit-Hour Curriculum

1. Any student who is under the credit-hour curriculum (which went into effect with the Class of 1955) should carry a minimum of fourteen semester hours of credit and a maximum of seventeen hours of credit.
2. Any student under this curriculum must petition the Faculty for the privilege of carrying more than seventeen semester hours.
3. Any student who wishes to take less than fourteen semester hours must petition the Faculty.

- III. Any student on probation, no matter which curriculum he is registered under, must petition the Faculty to carry extra credit.
