Bitterness Against Harrison at Minneapolis—Ugly Charges.

Alton and his barrel cut a poor figure at Minneapolis.

We feel authorized to state that Mr. Blaine will not be in Mr. Harrison's next Cabinet.

There will be three hundred and fifty-five Representatives to Congress to elect next fall.

The People's Party of Kansas have re-nominated Jerry Simpson for Congress by acclamation.

The Union printers of New York City call the Republican nomination ticket "The Hat and Rat ticket."

Iowa had a delegation of 10,000 earnest Democrats in Chicago this week, working up the Boies boom.

This report that Calvin S. Brice had bought the Cleveland, Lorain & Wheeling Railroad, is contradicted.

All of Harrison's appointees abroad have telegraphed him their congratulations. This was very considerate.

The Democratic Platform adopted at Columbus is sound to the core. No reasonable man can find fault with it.

Mr. Hall, the Maine Senator, says that he is a candidate for re-election, and that Mr. Blaine has no desire to take his place.

There is an awful rumor about that Harrison badge lately in such disastrous use at Minneapolis, were imported from England.

Gov. McKinley desires that Hon. Martin Luther Smyser, of Wooster, shall manage the Ohio campaign for the Republican party.

The Democrats of the 9th Congressional District of Texas have elected L. E. Anthony, of Cameron, to succeed Hon. Roger Q. Mills in Congress.

Ohio may be Republican, but Democrats are willing to bet big odds that Taylor will be elected Secretary of State, says the Steubenville Gazette.

It is Taylor against Taylor in the race for Secretary of State; but we think Democratic Taylor will bag and sew up the other Taylor in fine style.

SENATOR ALDRICH (Rep.) has been re-elected United States Senator from Rhode Island. The vote stood: Aldrich 64; David S. Baker, Jr. (Dem.) 39. WHITELAW REID supported Greeley for President in 1872, and we are free to confess that a large body of the Democrats (not all) did the same thing.

HARRISON'S head has grown wonderfully since the Minneapolis Convention, and grandfather's hat is now altogether too small to cover his wonderful knowledge box.

Mr. DREW, in one of his Minneapolis speeches, said: "Grandfather's hat is too small for Ben." Which plainly means that Ben has got the "swelled head" since his nomination.

The New York Herald draws the best three line diagnosis of Blaine and Harrison. It says "Blaine is tremendously liked in spite of his faults; Harrison is cordially disliked in spite of his virtues."

BEYOND the meeting of the Chicago Convention, Hon. Wm. C. Whitney wrote a letter stating that he was not a candidate for President, and would not take the nomination if tendered him.

HARRISON was nominated for Governor of Indiana on a Friday in 1876, and was overwhelmingly defeated. He was nominated for President on a Friday in 1882, and a like fate awaits him.

The Unitarians of New Hampshire and Massachusetts have sent petitions to the World's Fair managers requesting that the great Exposition shall be kept open on Sundays as well as other days.

The election of Hon. C. D. Critch, of Lima, as Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, was a wise selection. Mr. Critch is an able, conscientious, painstaking gentleman who is a credit to his party.

MR. HARRISON received 236 votes from the representatives of Southern States and 11 votes from Territories. Not one of those votes represents a vote in the Electoral College for the Republican candidate.

Some very foolish Republican editors are talking about Gov. McKinley as a candidate for President in 1896. The last Republican President of this country will leave the White House on the 4th of March, 1893.

The New York Herald records a subject for future historians to contemplate. The President in Washington watching the tariff on the votes of colored delegates and then prying the fidelity of the "colored troops."

The New York Herald states that the re-nomination of President Harrison did not arouse any enthusiasm among Republicans in that city or vicinity. Democrats said they could defeat him more easily than Blaine.

This time has come when the secret attending the resignation of Blaine from the Cabinet will have to come out for inspection.—Columbus Dispatch.

Mr. Blaine says if you want to know the why and wherefore of the case, you will have to "ask the other side," meaning Harrison.

The great crevasse at Avondale, on the Mississippi river, which was flooding all the surrounding country has been closed, and the traffic with Texas has been resumed, owing to the river raised. It required 50,000 sacks of earth to close the crevasse, and a large force of convicts are still engaged in strengthening the work.

The Democratic party this year completed the first century of its existence.

Organized in 1792 in defense of the great fundamental principle of government in behalf of which the American colonies waged their war with the British crown, it has for one hundred years contended for the right of the people to govern themselves, and against every party which has sought to centralize political power in the Federal Government.

On Tuesday of this week the 16th quadrennial Convention of the National Democracy, assembled in the huge wigwam at Chicago.

The first Convention of that magnificent organization was called to order on the banks of the Potomac, at Baltimore, on 12 o'clock morning, May 21, 1832, just sixty years and one month previously. The first Convention of the party was presided over by a distinguished son of Ohio's fighting Governor, Robert Lucas. The 16th was called to order by another distinguished son of Ohio, Senator Calvin S. Brice, and temporarily presided over by young and brilliant Kentuckian, Hon. W. C. Owens, who delivered an eloquent speech.

The roll of States was called and the names reported for the various committees.

Mr. Cable, of Illinois, presented the following resolution:

Resolved, That this Convention tender its profound sympathy to that distinguished American, James G. Blaine.

At the mention of Mr. Blaine's name there was a spontaneous outburst of prolonged and earnest cheers.

The Chairman finally quieted the Convention, and Mr. Cable continued the reading of his resolution, as follows:

Resolved, That this Convention tender its profound sympathy to that distinguished American, James G. Blaine, in the heroic affliction which has befallen him.

The resolution was unanimously adopted, and in a manner that seemed to impress the vast multitude with the thought that there was a genuine sympathy for the distinguished statesman.

The Convention then adjourned until 11 o'clock, Wednesday forenoon.

The Ohio delegation was organized by electing Senator Calvin S. Brice as Chairman. Robert Blew was chosen Vice President of the Convention. For member of committee on permanent organization, A. N. Haskell of Putnam county; committee on resolutions, L. T. Neal of Chillicothe; committee on credentials, Albert Zugswert of Findlay; Mr. Holden was continued as secretary of the Convention, and Frank E. Huffman of Dayton was chosen assistant secretary of the Convention.

WEDNESDAY'S SESSION.

When the Convention met at the hour agreed upon, Hon. W. L. Wilson of West Virginia, was presented as Permanent Chairman, and made a characteristic brilliant address, that was frequently applauded.

While the Convention was waiting for the appearance of the committee on resolutions, calls were made for Carlisle, Voorhes, Campbell, and other favorite sons, some of whom responded in stirring speeches.

Owing to the delay in the appearance of the committee on resolutions, the Convention grew impatient and recess was taken until 5 o'clock p. m.

Shortly after this hour, Hon. Charles H. Jones of Missouri, Chairman of the Committee, appeared upon the platform and presented the resolutions, which will make over two columns of the BANNER'S type.

When the lengthy document had been read, Hon. Lawrence T. Neal, Ohio's gallant Democratic leader, was recognized and presented the minority report on the tariff plank. Mr. Neal said:

The Democratic party this year completed the first century of its existence.

Organized in 1792 in defense of the great fundamental principle of government in behalf of which the American colonies waged their war with the British crown, it has for one hundred years contended for the right of the people to govern themselves, and against every party which has sought to centralize political power in the Federal Government.

On Tuesday of this week the 16th quadrennial Convention of the National Democracy, assembled in the huge wigwam at Chicago.

The first Convention of that magnificent organization was called to order on the banks of the Potomac, at Baltimore, on 12 o'clock morning, May 21, 1832, just sixty years and one month previously. The first Convention of the party was presided over by a distinguished son of Ohio's fighting Governor, Robert Lucas. The 16th was called to order by another distinguished son of Ohio, Senator Calvin S. Brice, and temporarily presided over by young and brilliant Kentuckian, Hon. W. C. Owens, who delivered an eloquent speech.

names reported for the various committees.

Mr. Cable, of Illinois, presented the following resolution:

Resolved, That this Convention tender its profound sympathy to that distinguished American, James G. Blaine.

At the mention of Mr. Blaine's name there was a spontaneous outburst of prolonged and earnest cheers.

The Chairman finally quieted the Convention, and Mr. Cable continued the reading of his resolution, as follows:

Resolved, That this Convention tender its profound sympathy to that distinguished American, James G. Blaine, in the heroic affliction which has befallen him.

The resolution was unanimously adopted, and in a manner that seemed to impress the vast multitude with the thought that there was a genuine sympathy for the distinguished statesman.

The Convention then adjourned until 11 o'clock, Wednesday forenoon.

The Ohio delegation was organized by electing Senator Calvin S. Brice as Chairman. Robert Blew was chosen Vice President of the Convention. For member of committee on permanent organization, A. N. Haskell of Putnam county; committee on resolutions, L. T. Neal of Chillicothe; committee on credentials, Albert Zugswert of Findlay; Mr. Holden was continued as secretary of the Convention, and Frank E. Huffman of Dayton was chosen assistant secretary of the Convention.

WEDNESDAY'S SESSION.

When the Convention met at the hour agreed upon, Hon. W. L. Wilson of West Virginia, was presented as Permanent Chairman, and made a characteristic brilliant address, that was frequently applauded.

While the Convention was waiting for the appearance of the committee on resolutions, calls were made for Carlisle, Voorhes, Campbell, and other favorite sons, some of whom responded in stirring speeches.

Owing to the delay in the appearance of the committee on resolutions, the Convention grew impatient and recess was taken until 5 o'clock p. m.

With the nomination of the Democratic candidates for President and Vice President at Chicago, the campaign of 1892 must be said to be commenced.

In accordance with its custom for the past forty years, the Democratic Banner, which is published weekly, is now being published in Central Ohio, will be offered at the price of FIFTY CENTS, payable invariably in advance.

The BANNER not only contains all the general news, but makes a specialty of publishing all the home happenings in the most attractive form.

During the campaign special efforts will be made to add to these features complete accounts of the great political battles that will be fought, uncolored and unprejudiced accounts being the rule.

Democratic township committees are particularly urged to secure the BANNER, in order that it may be the most extensively circulated of all the county papers in this section of the State.

TOOK HER LIFE.

Despondent Woman Uses Rough on Rats with Fatal Results.

The old Rowley block on the East side of Main street, near Front, seems to be a fatal spot for despondent females, as it has unhappily existed by the rough-on-rats method. A young woman named Mrs. Sarah E. Redell, of unsavory reputation, and employed at Ben Hope's laundry, while suffering from a morbid excitement, secured a box of the arsenical preparation used to destroy rodents, and mixing a quantity of the deadly drug, Tuesday afternoon, swallowed the same with suicidal intent.

Dr. Coville was secured and succeeded in causing the contents of the stomach to be emptied before the poison was taken into her system. Some time during the night she, by some means unknown, obtained another portion of the drug, causing her death in the most agonizing manner at 4 o'clock, Wednesday morning.

She has three children, a little girl, who is living with her, and two sons, Willie and Karl, who are inmates of the Home for Friendless Children. Her husband has not lived with her for sometime.
