It will be observed that two additional meetings have been announced for General MORGAN, viz: at Rich Hill, on Wednesday evening, October 2d, and at Waterford, on Friday evening, October 4th. The meeting at Danville has been changed to the evening of the 3d of October, owing to there being a meeting at Greenville on the afternoon of that day. General Morgan and Mr. Powell will both attend the meetings at Greenville and Danville.

Boynton, the disgraced Postmaster of Mt. Vernon, has not yet been removed from office.

The Toledo Democrat declares that the Sixth District is good for 1500 for Hon. Frank H. Hurd for Congress.

Hon. James R. Stanbury, heretofore one of the leading Republicans of Newark, has come out for Greeley and Brown. Revolutions never go backward.

It is now said that the Pennsylvania Radicals concede the State to Buckalew, and that Cameron is now trying to save the Legislature by trading votes two to one.

It will be noticed by the announcement in the proper place that the meeting for General Cary and Hon. J. F. Follett has been postponed until Saturday, October 5th.

The Republican charges that the Editor of the BANNER "guzzled down six glasses of whisky" on a recent occasion!—Bascom thought when he was telling a lie he might as well tell a good one.

Columbus Delano delivered a spiteful and lying speech at Cincinnati on Friday evening last, and concluded his remarks by saying that he would "give way to a better man," meaning Pen. Butler—Good Lord deliver us!

The Next President.

HORACE GREELEY in Ohio.
His Grand Triumphant March.

Hon. HORACE GREELEY, the next President of the United States, having accepted an invitation to witness the Exposition at Cincinnati, arrived in that city on Friday afternoon last. From the time he left New York, at every point along the line of travel, through Pennsylvania and Ohio, it was a triumphal march. And though there was but short notice at many points of his intended arrival, still the turn out of the people was immense.

At Pittsburgh, where he arrived on Thursday afternoon, Mr. Greeley met with a brilliant and most enthusiastic reception. He made a speech from the balcony of the St. Charles Hotel, which created great enthusiasm among the people. He took a Pullman Sleeping Car at Pittsburgh on Thursday night, and arrived in Newark at 8 o'clock Friday morning. His arrival, although four hours earlier than anticipated by posters, still there was a very large concourse of people at the depot, who gave Mr. Greeley a cordial reception. He spoke as follows from the platform of the car:

FELLOW-CITIZENS OF OHIO: You all know that I am a candidate in the interest of reconciliation and lasting peace. [Applause] I desire a reunion between the Northern and Southern portions of our country, which shall leave behind no signs of dissension on one side, no feeling of undue exultation on the other. I believe that the war of the Union was rightfully fought in the interest of no section or of any party, but in the interest of universal humanity. If any being a candidate, whether successful or not, shall find himself to be a cause of dissension, which I think have been too long buried, shall cause, or be felt in either extremity of the Union; shall cause our countrymen to say that we differed honestly, fought gallantly, I shall be content. Victory was declared on the side of union and liberty! Let us then have union and liberty for all men evermore. [Cheers.]

At Columbus, Mr. Greeley was received by thousands upon thousands of people, and he made a longer speech than at New York, which was received with vociferous applause. At Xenia, Loveland, and other points between Columbus and Cincinnati, the people in great numbers turned out to see and hear the true President.

At Cincinnati, the reception was grand and enthusiastic beyond description. An immense crowd of people assembled at the depot to welcome the Philosopher and Statesman. He was taken in the carriage of Hon. George H. Pendleton, and escorted to the Burnet House, amidst the booming of cannon, the waving of handkerchiefs, and the loud huzzas of the people. After resting for a short time, Mr. Greeley was taken by the Mayor to visit the Exposition, where the Mayor and Major Goshorn delivered welcoming speeches, which were handsomely responded to by Mr. Greeley. He was then conducted through the various departments of the Exposition, and expressed himself highly pleased with the exhibition.

In the evening he was serenaded at the Burnet House, where he again delivered a glorious speech. His remarks in Pittsburgh in regard to secession having been misinterpreted, he took occasion to set himself right, as follows:

Last evening at Pittsburgh, in the course of some official remarks to a vast assemblage like this, I took pains to explain the circumstances—the extraordinary unprecedented circumstances—under which I was impelled to the winter of 1860-61 to offer in good faith to submit the whole of the Union or disunion to a free, fair and unobstructed vote of the Southern people, after due deliberation and discussion. It was my belief then, and is still my belief, that if that people had been allowed such free and fair opportunity, they would have decided, as you have decided, that the Union shall be maintained. [Cheers.]

The speech at Pittsburgh, in the evening, have been misrepresented—have been, I think, perverted into an expression of a present belief, a present conviction, that any State has the right to dissolve this Union at its own good pleasure. Fellow-citizens, I utterly repudiate and condemn that sentiment. [Cheers.] I do not believe that any State, or that ten States, or even a majority of all the States, has a right to dissolve our Union. [Cheers.] That Union is founded on a constitution which is a charter, or government—not a mere league. It does not contemplate a confederacy merely, but a union; not a government of limited powers, but a government of unlimited powers. The Union was not only dissolved but was intended to be perpetual. I believe our great civil war—whether ever was any reasonable doubt as to the nature of that Union—has settled that doubt forever. [Cheers.] That slavery is dead, and that the Union abides forever.

Such a speech, and such a display of the cordiality pronounced through the issues of our great contest. There is no longer a question, then, we never again raise the question as to the perpetuity of the Union. The apple of discord, the only thing that ever made any American hostile to his own country and Constitution, has utterly perished. Henceforth, the American Union abides forever. I believe that the nations, in the necessities, and in the fervent devotion, of the whole American people, if there ever shall arise a question in this Union, it will be presented, not from the South, but from the North, and that the Union will again arise. As perpetual as the hills, as solid as the everlasting rocks, the Union of the States abides forever. [Cheers.] One sentiment, one desire, animates the American heart, and that is, that the Union of the States must and shall be preserved. [Cheers.]

From Cincinnati Mr. Greeley went to Louisville, on Saturday, and in passing Kentucky, as through Ohio, the people turned out en masse to see and hear him speak. He made a beautiful speech in Newport, expressing the emotions of his heart in setting his feet upon the soil of Kentucky—the home of his personal and political friend, Henry Clay. At Louisville, the reception was unparalleled. Twenty-five thousand people at the Exposition building to honor the distinguished statesman. Mr. Henry Watterson, editor of the Journal, delivered the welcoming address, which was responded to by Mr. Greeley in one of his happiest efforts, full of beautiful thoughts and patriotic sentiments. Indeed, all of Mr. Greeley's speeches, since he came West, were of high order of intellect, a scholar, a patriot and a statesman—a man of whom the American people may well feel proud.

From Louisville, Mr. Greeley crossed over into Indiana. He delivered a splendid speech at Jeffersonville, and from there proceeded to Indianapolis stopping briefly at Columbus, Edinburg, Franklin, &c.—Upon arriving at Indianapolis, he made a speech before the Board of Trade, and was subsequently welcomed by Hon. D. W. Voorhees, in behalf of the people, when he replied in a brilliant and beautiful speech, which was well received.

From Indianapolis Mr. Greeley returned to Ohio, speaking at Dayton and various other points.

The Presidential stakes cost $40,000, but are so arranged that Greeley can turn the building into an industrial school for orphan children.—Detroit Free Press

A Liar and Blackguard Unmasked.

We last week stated that W. A. Coulter, the Grant candidate for Prosecuting Attorney, while professing to be a friend of temperance, was carrying a flask of whiskey with him whenever he goes to the country to electioneer or pettifog; and that while at Danville, he let his whiskey flask drop from his pocket. These charges, which are true, (as we are ready to prove), Mr. Coulter does not deny; but to divert attention from himself, he has written, or procured some other person to write for him, a lying, blackguard article, which is published in the last Republican asceticism, (every Grant blackguard in town has access to the editorial columns of the Republican), in which he makes false and slanderous charges against the editor of the BANNER, and Mr. HART, our candidate for Prosecuting Attorney. So far as we are concerned, we are wholly indifferent to the ridiculous falsehoods of this lie-squirt. We have been in public life for over thirty-five years, nineteen of which we have spent in this city, and we believe we have established a character for sobriety and good citizenship, equal at least, to that of the average of mankind. When Coulter says he saw the editor of this paper "reeling from the bar-room and the tipping shop with his Democratic candidate for Prosecuting Attorney," he utters an atrocious and most damnable falsehood. There is not a more temperate and upright man in Mt. Vernon than Mr. Hart. He neither drinks nor visits drinking places, and there is not a man who ever seen him under the influence of liquor. Such, however, cannot be said of "Captain" Coulter, who is not only a regular "sucker," but a blackguard and a liar besides, as we shall now proceed to show:

It is a well known fact that Coulter has been a daily and nightly visitor to the saloons of Mt. Vernon, and on some occasions he gets so "fatigued" that he cannot stand on his pipe-stems. Since his nomination, however, he sneaks into the saloons by the back door, and then tells the proprietors that he has to do so because he is watched by the temperance men. Not long since, while in a saloon with some of his convivial friends, one of them bet the larger for the party that Coulter could not walk a line on the floor. He made the effort, but fell over twice, and lost the bet. On this occasion, while reeling with liquor, he exhibited his true character by declaring that "Greeley is a G-d-d-d son of a b—b—, and any man who supports him is just as bad as he is." This can be proven by the testimony of reliable witnesses.

But the meanest thing that Coulter is guilty of is in going around the county and retailing infamous falsehoods in regard to his opponent. At the Hartford Fair, he told the villainous lie that $400 was paid out of the county treasury to fee counsel to assist Mr. Hart to prosecute State cases. The records will show that five of the cases that have been tried since Mr. Hart came into office were commenced by his predecessor, and that the assistant counsel (Messrs. Cooper, Adams and Greer), were appointed by Judge Jones, to aid Mr. Mitchell; and the records will also show that in only two cases, since Mr. Hart was sworn into office, have assistant counsel been engaged, and but $50, or $25 each, have been paid to them. We may add that since Mr. Hart came into office more criminal business has been disposed of than during the administration of any other Prosecutor for the last twenty years.

Coulter, in peddling slanders over the county in regard to Mr. Hart, (who is a high minded and honorable man), is only injuring himself and making votes for his opponent.

Union of Honest Men for the Sake of the Union.
The hired tools of Ulysses Grant spent hundreds of thousands of dollars to get to the Louisville Convention, and to place a ticket in the field, so as to secure the re-election of Grant. But their efforts have proven a flat failure. The Democracy cannot be fooled and deceived by any such strategy. They are not going to aid, directly or indirectly, in the re-election of Grant, and the continuation in power of the thieving crew of office-holders and scoundrels who surround him. The Democracy have united, heart and soul, with the Liberal Republicans in the glorious work of Reform, and they mean to purge the Augean stable, drive the thieves and corruptors from office, elect Honest Horace Greeley President, and restore the Government to the hands of honest and competent men. Let us understand each other, and act together in good faith, determined to accomplish one purpose—the defeat of the Grant party.—To bring about this desirable end, it is all important that every opponent of Grant, and every friend of Greeley, shall act together, and vote together, at the October election in Ohio. If the friends of Reform carry the State in October, by ever so small a majority, they will carry it in November by at least 20,000! There is no doubt about this. Then let us all—Democrats and Liberal Republicans, go to work in good earnest, get out every voter to the polls, and impress upon the mind of every honest man the necessity of voting a clean, unscratched ticket. We are voting for principles, and not for men. We wish to save the country, and to perpetuate the blessings of Republican Government.

"Legislative Hint of Congress."
Morgan became troublesome to the Treasury thieves, and they determined to have him legislated out of Congress. For that avowed purpose the 9th district was formed; and it was determined to bury Knox county in it.

When Morgan's seat in Congress was stolen from him and given to Delano, the people reversed the decision of Congress, and re-elected Morgan by a majority increased more than six fold. So it will be now. The Legislature voted Morgan out of Congress, and the people will vote him in again.

In Perry county, as every where else, leading Republicans have declared for Greeley and Brown. Among them are Col. D. W. D. Marsh (brother of Judge Marsh, the Republican candidate for Congress in the Thirteenth district), E. S. Colburn, formerly editor of the Republican organ in Somerset, and Col. W. H. Free, (brother of J. W. Free, chairman of the Republican Central Committee of Perry County.) He was, in 1863-4, the Republican representative in the Legislature from that county.

Cameron, the corrupt Grant Senator from Pennsylvania, wants Major Hurd, the Paymaster whose late half million of dollars, pardoned. Confinement affects his health besides his family is aristocratic. Of course let him out.

We hear words of good cheer from our old friends in Lucas county. They are offering wages even to election of our county. The Lucas county, which had 1,130 against us last year, will go for Hurd beyond a doubt. We are going to carry this county, and we are the leading one of the county, in which Rush Smith is the candidate for Congress.—Cin. Eng.

Abuse of General Morgan.

The enemies of General Morgan keep up their calumnies against him, about the absurd and infamous charges as to "Tammany."

Harpers Magazine and Weekly are devoted to the interests of President Grant, as every one knows. In the May number it contained a lengthy article on "Tammany," which states the fact that Wood was the only man who ever fought and beat the Tammany Society. He was elected Mayor of New York over their opposition. Wood and Morgan are personal friends. In the 40th Congress they served together on the Committee on Foreign Affairs; in the 41st Congress on the Committee on Reconstruction, and in the 42d Congress on the Committee on Foreign Affairs; and it is more than probable that they will serve on the same Committee in the 43d Congress.

The attacks on General Morgan are not only inexpressibly mean, but are sublimely stupid, and will secure for him the votes of scores of honorable men in the Republican party, who will not countenance personal abuse of an old citizen, and who have the hope to carry an election. The intelligence we receive from the other counties of the district is of the most encouraging character, and there is good reason to believe that Morgan's majority will not be less than five hundred.

The Meetings Next Week.
We trust that no effort will be spared to get a large turn out to THE PEOPLES MEETINGS to be held next week. The Hon. T. E. Powell, the Liberal and Democratic candidate for Governor, is a gentleman of fine talents, and high integrity. No man in Delaware county possesses in a higher degree the confidence of his fellow-citizens, and we have no doubt he will have good meetings. His father, Judge Powell, is known throughout the State as an able jurist and patriot, and his brother General Eugene Powell, served with distinguished credit during the late civil war. The Powells were old line Whigs and afterwards Republicans, but recognize their duty to country as paramount to obedience to a party.

The meetings of General Morgan are always large, and as he will discuss the question of the tariff on wool, our farmers generally will turn out to hear him. On last Saturday, he closed his canvass in Delaware county, and on that night made two speeches at points six miles from each other, and then drove thirty-six miles. If his friends will work for him as he is laboring in the cause of the People, he will be elected by a large majority.

How the Government is Administered.
The following is an editorial in the Ohio State Journal:

"Congress has authorized the Secretary of War to sell such portions of army clothing in Quartermaster stores, as he may deem advisable. There is said to be now in store $3,000,000 worth of clothing, which costs $150,000 per year. These are rubber blankets enough on hand to supply all prospective demand for 120 years to come; rubber ponches and arillery jackets for 80 years, and blouses for 40 years."

Grant has been President three and a half years, why did he not advise the sale of that clothing when he first became President, and thereby save the $500,000, which has been paid to his nephews and cousins for taking care of the same?

Louisiana for Greeley.
The news from Louisiana is cheering. A letter from New Orleans to the Washington Patriot says: The fusion of the Democratic, Liberal Republican and Reform parties has at last been effected. The ticket, as it stands, represents all parties opposed to the Casey-Kellogg-brother-in-law Ring, and is perfectly satisfactory. What is better, it will be elected. I do not say this in an electioneering way; but I say it because it is true. As the matter now stands, if the sun sets on the 5th of November, it will go down upon complete rout, defeat, demoralized, a set of adventurers and tricksters as ever undertook to rule a State or settle a ship.

Henry Wilson a Bribe-taker.
In addition to being a Know Nothing, Henry Wilson, Radical candidate for Vice President, has been proven, by recorded testimony to be a bribe-taker. He sold his "influence" and vote in the U. S. Senate to the Credit Mobilier of America for 2000 shares of stock in that institution. So did Boutwell, of Mass., and nine other Congressmen. And these are the men whom the Radicals think good enough for a Secretary of the Treasury and a Vice President. They may be good enough associates for Grant, the gift-taker, but they are not good enough to make honest public servants of the American people.

The Crime of Poverty.
"He is poor," say the enemies of Morgan. "He is poor, although he has been in Congress five years." We have heard of certain Members of Congress, who annually spend twenty thousand dollars, and save fifty thousand more, out of a salary of $5000! We have heard of men who went to Congress poor, and on a salary of $5000 saved millions. Morgan is not of that stripe. He went to Congress poor, and he has remained poor; but honest men will say that it is better to be poor than to be a thief.

The liberality of General Morgan may be judged to himself, but generously is not a crime, and honesty is a virtue.

Speech of Hon. B. Gratz Brown.
The speech of Gov. B. GRATZ BROWN, of Missouri, the future Vice President, delivered at Indianapolis, on the 11th inst., is printed in full on the first page of this week's BANNER. It is one of the most pointed and effective speeches of the campaign, and should have an extensive circulation. Governor Brown arraigns the Grant Administration, in language that is both severe and just, for its many wrongs and outrages against the people. Read the speech carefully, and then pass the paper to your neighbor that he may read it also.

Murder Will Out.
The secret of the malicious attack on General Morgan, is now explained. The Woolen-manufacturers raised a fund of $3,000 to secure the election of Robinson, a woolen-manufacturer. Five hundred dollars of that sum was left by Robinson while making a visit to this place. This information comes from a prominent Republican, who is not one of Robinson's "ting!"

We hear words of good cheer from our old friends in Lucas county. They are offering wages even to election of our county. The Lucas county, which had 1,130 against us last year, will go for Hurd beyond a doubt. We are going to carry this county, and we are the leading one of the county, in which Rush Smith is the candidate for Congress.—Cin. Eng.

A Voice from the Home of James W. Robinson.

In Marysville, the home of James W. Robinson, the Woolen Manufacturers candidate for Congress, there are two Republican papers, the Press and the Tribune. The Press has come out for Morgan, and run up the names of Greeley and Brown. Below will be found a more significant fact: T. T. Kilbury, a wealthy wool-grower of Mr. Robinson's own county, appeals to the wool-growers of the Ninth District to support MORGAN, in order that the farmers "may have at least one man that will ward one's interests."

MORGAN will receive the votes of hundreds of wool-growers who will vote for Grant; for the farmers recognize in him their sincere and tried friend.

General MORGAN holds to the doctrine that it is the duty of a Member of Congress to vote as his constituents would vote were they in Congress in person. This is the true doctrine of a representative government—the Member of Congress being the mere agent of the people should act for them and not for himself.

Read what Mr. Kilbury says: TO THE WOOL-GROWERS OF THE NINTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT.

Jerome Township, Union Co., O., September 16th, 1872.

While I am a warm supporter of President Grant, and approve of his administration, I disapprove of the late action of Congress in reducing the tariff on wool; the effect of which is to impoverish the farmer and enrich the manufacturer.

Two candidates are presented for our support in the 43d Congress, George W. Morgan and James W. Robinson. We should judge of the fitness of these men by their past history and their present interests. In George W. Morgan we have a Representative whose record in Congress stands without a spot or blemish. His votes stand recorded in the interest of the wool-growers, and not in the interest of the Eastern manufacturer. He has always been found true to his trust, and now pledges himself to try and have the tariff on wool restored to the rate at which it stood before the late tariff act was passed. In Mr. Robinson we have a clever gentleman, a good neighbor, but a man whose interests are not in sympathy with our interests. He is in the interest of a Woolen Mill, and it would not be for his interest to restore the tariff on wool. How could it be his interest to restore the tariff on wool, and to reduce the tariff on woolen goods? He says, "this question would not have the weight of a feather in any decision." Does he suppose that he can delude the wool-growers of this District by such a declaration? It is his interest that wool should be bought at the lowest possible figure; and I am not sure that he might not be brought down to go for no tariff on wool, and to reduce the tariff on woolen goods.

I have been engaged in producing and buying wool for fifteen years, and never till the last session of Congress did I have the scales lifted from my eyes. In the early part of the session I was employed by an Eastern manufacturer to buy wool. I expected to give the producer 70 or 75 cents per pound, and purchased quite a number of bales of these prices, probably 20,000 lbs, when an agent came and ordered me not to buy another pound at any price. This happened one month before the reduction of the tariff, and I became satisfied that the manufacturers had Congress within their power.

During the important strife in Congress between the wool-growers' interests and those of the manufacturer, General Morgan battled for our interests. Shall we then vote for a man whose interests are allied to those of the Eastern monopolists? My contention with the Eastern agent satisfied me that the tariff on wool was going to be reduced, and I sold my clip. I saw letters from several prominent Congressmen saying that there would be no reduction in the tariff on wool, while they knew there would be, and they thus proved treacherous to their constituents. We have been too much blinded by political prejudice, we have almost "sinned away the day of grace." From the organization of the Republican party I have been one of its warmest supporters, always voting an unreserved vote for those who have suffered, and this October I shall vote for Grant and Wilson. I ask you, my Republican friends, to lend a helping hand to restore the tariff on wool, and to elect George W. Morgan, and in November for Grant and Wilson. I ask you, my Republican friends, to lend a helping hand to restore the tariff on wool, and to elect George W. Morgan, and in November for Grant and Wilson. I ask you, my Republican friends, to lend a helping hand to restore the tariff on wool, and to elect George W. Morgan, and in November for Grant and Wilson.
