Choosing a Name.

"This writer suggests that many children are dissatisfied with the names
their parents pick out for them."

"No doubt about that."

"So he further suggests that children
be left unnamed until they are sixteen.
Then they can select their own names."

"I don't know that that would work
any better than the present system.
At sixteen I would have named myself
Algernon Reginald, as like as not."— Kansas City Journal.

A Suggestion.

Miss Campbell had given up colored servants for white, but when a near relative of the family died she was called upon by her old colored maid.

"Ah come, Miss Sally," said the maid, "to say dat now dat yo' is in mohnin' yo' might want to take on a black maid, missy, 'staid o' one o' dem white ones. Ef yo' does Ah's all ready."—Judge.

Wash Sales.

"How's business?" inquired the life
insurance agent.

"Haven't turned a trick this week,"
said the book agent.

"Same here. I'll tell you what I'll do."

"What?"

"I'll buy a set of books if you'll take out some insurance."—Pittsburgh Post.
