LEGAL NOTICE.

MARION BUCKMASTER and Elizabeth

Buckmaster, of Jasper County, in the State of Illinois, will take notice that

Arnold Nethers, of the County of Knox, in said State of Ohio, did, on the 20th day of August, A. D. 1881, file his petition in the Court of Common Plains within and for the county of Knox, in said State of Ohio, against the said Marion Buckmaster and Elizabeth Buckmaster, and defendants, setting forth that on or about the 1st day of February, A. D. 1879, one Jacob Hoyman late of said Knox county, Ohio, did intestate, seized of an estate in fee

BOOKWALTER AS A MONOPOLIST.

Open Letter to the Editor of the Ohio State Journal.

DEAR COL. TAYLOR:—I really and heartily like you, and therefore take some pains to keep you as near right as I can allegiance will allow. I do not ask you always, or even generally to follow your own good sense and sound judgment, for that would make your legs sore kicking the party traces. For instance, I would not ask you to advocate tariff reform, for your party is committed to the present New England tariff with all its crude injustice.

I would not ask you to express your real opinion of some of your prominent candidates, for that would raise a worse cookey than General Beatty has, but I do ask you to use English words in the most ordinary English sense as this can scarcely be called treason to the party.

In direct editorials you speak of Book-walter as a monopolist, and pray on what does this charge rest?

Solely upon the fact that Mr. Bookwalter has made certain inventions which have been pronounced by the proper authorities both new and useful, and that adding to the domain of human knowledge and enabling man to avail himself more fully of the powers of nature for service, and your government, under laws that have existed by unanimous consent over since its foundation, has given him for limited time the right to the exclusive enjoyment of the product of his own hand and brain.

Now, Colonel, did you ever hear anybody charge that our patent laws and those of the whole civilized world, were laws to encourage monopolies? Did you ever hear the great inventors of the world called monopolists because their governments had seen fit to reward them in their own discoveries?

Now, Colonel, you reason, you know there isn't a thing in this, but you know the agencies of your canvass and in the poverty of your platform you wanted to give the boys who are whooping up Charlie something to talk about.

Now, Colonel, I will suppose a state of facts, which if they were true of Mr. Book-walter, would justify you in calling him a monopolist. Suppose Mr. Bookwalter's father had owned a large farm in a hot, swampy country, at the present time, and President Arthur Takes the Oath of Office,

And Delivers His Inaugural Address.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 22.—President Arthur has just taken the oath of office in the Marble Room of the Capitol. In the presence of the members of the Cabinet,

Justices of the Supreme Court, a few Senators and members of the House of Representatives (all who could be notified this morning in time to be present); also, the Attorney General, Chief Justice Waite,

Admiral Nicholson, Hon. Hannibal Hamlin,

General Beane, and a few others. This step was taken after a conference between the President, Secretary Blaine and the Attorney General. The few persons who know that the oath was to be administered at the ceremony was over.

The President and members of the Cabinet had assembled in the Marble Room, Shortly before 2 o'clock. Chief Justice

Waite, in his full robes of office, accompanied by the Associate Justices, proceeded from the Supreme Court Room to the Marble Room. The doors were immediately closed, and without delay, President Arthur arose, and standing up on one side of the center table, Chief Justice Waite on the other, took the oath of office, and then, in a low, earnest voice, and composed, and his response, "So help me God," was in a firm tone and without tremor.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President then read from manuscript notes the following address:

For the fourth time in the history of the Republic the Chief Magistrate has been removed by death. All hearts are filled with grief and horror at the hideous crime which has darkened our land, and the memory of the murdered President, his frankness, his noble character, his high ideals, the example and achievements of his life and the pathos of his death, will forever illumine the pages of our history.

For the fourth time an officer elected by the people and ordained by the Constitution to fill the vacancy so created is called to assume the Executive chair. The wisdom of our fathers, forcing the even ness of their course, made sure that the Government should never be imperiled because of the uncertainty of human life.

Men may die, but the fabric of our free institutions remains unshaken. No higher Guiteau, the Republican Assassin.

Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Republican editors ought to baste their breath when particularly speaking of the President's case. Here is the Albany Evening Journal, for instance, remarking:

It is evident that this is to be a bad year for the Democrats. The people have no wish to turn their backs upon chief lies prostrate upon his bed of anguish. His very helplessness is a perpetual reminder of their duty and an enthusiasm to their patriotism and zeal.

This is just so much assinine twaddle, yet it inferentially reflects upon the Deocrats in connection with the shooting of the President in a sneaking, cowardly way.

But what are the damning facts?—that the Washington Journal, from beginning to end, is a Republican effort. The deadlock in the Senate, which fired the morbid imagination of Guiteau, was purely a Republican offense, as every true party affairs knows. The Democrats have had nothing to do but stand in the background and look on. When Guiteau shot the President he exclaimed that he was a Star-war Republican—a "Starwar of the Star-stars!" and he exultantly added that "Arthur will now be President?" Is it possible that any Republican journal can be so much as to force a political issue on the public mind at the close of the very day which has been the scene of the most heinous crime in the history of the Republic? The pamphlet is entitled:

GARFIELD AGAINST HANCOCK.

A SPEECH BY CHARLES GUITEAU,

OF CHICAGO, ILLINOIS, DELIV-ERED IN NEW YORK, AU-

GUST 6, 1880.

NEW YORK ADDRESS, REPUBLICAN NA-TIONAL COMMITTEE, 241 FIFTH

AVENUE—THE PAST RE-

VIEWED.

The speech is after the usual Republican campaign order, liberally seasoned with abuse of the Democratic party.

The Radical press had better go slow.

The Democrats have steadily observed the proprieties of this case. They have appreciated the national sorrow, fully, and have expressed their sympathy for the victim. They have not been in the least wounded Executive; but human nature is human nature. If the Republican press is not content with the proprieties of this case, it is better that it should be

More Stealing.

It has just been announced from Washington that the White House is to be put in complete order during the absence of the President's family, and properly refitted throughout, because most of the furniture is said to be "ten years old."

This extraordinary statement demands notice.

The long-established custom before Gen.

Grant became President was to refurnish the Executive Mansion every fourth year, so that the incoming President should be becomingly welcomed and housed. Any part of the old furniture that had been injured was sold, and the proceeds of the sale were added to the appropriation, which was always sufficient but modest.

Under Grant the rule of simplicity and economy was abandoned, and pomp, with extravagance, became the fashion in every branch of the Government. The plain methods of his predecessors were rejected as unworthy the "dignity" of Administration controlled by kings. The country has been made familiar with the reckless expenditures and the disgraceful robberies of the Treasury that were common from 1869 to 1877, and which were continued as far as possible under Hayes.
