Sunday Excursion
To Columbus via C., A. & C. Ry
June 25th excursion tickets to Columbus via C. A. & C. Ry. will be sold at $1.00 round trip from Mt. Vernon good going on Special Train leaving at 9:40 a. m., Central Time.

CONSIDER THIS OUTING
To Famous Seashore Resorts, In Planning Your Vacation
By far the most attractive trip for health and pleasure the coming vacation season is that offered by the Seashore excursion Thursday, August 17th, over the C., A. & C. to Atlantic City, Cape May and seven other famous summer havens on the Atlantic Coast.

The fast through trains over the C., A. & C. take passengers in a few hours out of the heat and humidity of summer to the cool breezes of old ocean. The mid-August excursion occurs in the season for rest when it is most convenient to leave business. Excursionists have the added pleasure of seeing Atlantic City when it is in full tide of the fashionable season. The greatest representative gatherings ever known at any resort are seen at Atlantic City. As many as 50,000 people at one time promenade the famous boardwalk. The fashionable bathing hours present an unparalleled scene—fully 100,000 bathers in the sea and on the beach.

The healthful effect of the seashore trip is due to the salt and pine air. So beneficial has this proved that physicians send their patients there to get the benefit of breathing the pure ocean air.

Special low fares will be in effect for this Seashore excursion. Full information will be freely given by local ticket agents of the C., A. & C.

SEEING AMERICA
Wonderful Scenic Trip Across Rocky Mountains to Oregon Exposition
In certain respects the excursions to the Lewis and Clark Centennial Exposition, Portland, Oregon, via C. A. & C. railway beginning May 23d and continuing through the summer, offer advantages never before presented to Exposition visitors. The trip to the Oregon Exposition, in addition to the attractiveness of the extensive exhibits, includes the journey through the scenic wonderland of the Rock Mountains and the Cascade Range, and what American has not looked forward from the days of the geography class in school to the time when those great sights should be seen in reality? The time was never so favorable as now. The trip may be made less expensively than ever. For only a slight difference in fare tourists may extend their trip to San Francisco and Los Angeles. The return trip may be made over a different route, enabling travelers to view much more of the West. For full particulars, fares, dates of special excursions to Portland on account of Conventions, through time and passenger service apply to ticket agents of C., A. & C. Ry.

MALARIA A Poison Breathed into the System

The air arising from low, marshy places, damp cellars, stagnant ponds and pools and from decaying vegetable matter, as well as the gases from sewers, is loaded with germs of malarial poison. The water we drink, that has not been properly filtered and purified, is also full of these germs and microbes, and as we daily breathe and drink millions of these into the system, to be absorbed by the blood, the entire body begins to feel the effects of the poison. The most common form of Malaria is "chills and fever," but when the blood is thoroughly saturated with the poison it becomes so weak and polluted that abscesses, carbuncles, boils, sores, ulcers and other skin diseases result. Malaria also affects the liver, kidneys, bowels and stomach, producing a chronic state of biliousness that often results in jaundice or some malignant fever. In cases of Malaria the blood must be purified before the body can regain its natural health. S. S. S. contains purifying and tonic properties possessed by no other blood medicine, and is the ideal remedy for the treatment of Malaria. It destroys the germs of the disease and builds up the weakened, polluted circulation. It enters into the blood and forces out every particle of poison and waste matter and adds strength and activity to it. S. S. S. improves the appetite and digestion, tones up the entire system by its alterative and purifying action, and Malaria, with all its bad effects, is permanently driven from the system. Book on the blood and any medical advice, without charge. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

WELL IN TUB

Had Narrow Escape From Drowning

Physicians Arrive Just In Time

Save The Life Of Little Ruth Stephens

Woman's Back Was Turned And Child Was In The Water Several Minutes Before Rescued

The year old daughter of Mrs. Fulton Stephens of street, had a miraculous escape from drowning in a tub of water at home of her parents Monday morning, and had it not been for prompt services of two physicians the young child would have perished.

Mrs. Stephens had been washing her young child in a tub of water on Monday morning while the mother's back was turned the child accidently pitched headlong into the tub of water. The mother heard no noise at the child was so young that she could make no outcry.

It is believed that the child was in the water for two or three minutes before she was discovered. In turning around to attend to some matters, Mrs. Stephens was horrified to discover the feet of her infant protruding above the water in the tub. The child was rescued from the tub by Mrs. Stephens and to all appearance life was unimpaired. A hurried call was sent for two physicians and after an examination it was believed that the child will recover unless pneumonia should develop.

PLAN

To Draft Model Fire Ordinances Suggested

By State Fire Marshal Davis In Letters Sent Out All Over The State

State Fire Marshal Davis Saturday sent circular letters to all mayors city solicitors, presidents of council, chiefs of police and chiefs of fire departments announcing he is prepared to furnish models of city ordinances designed to prevent fires and fire losses.

Marshal Davis has found that many towns have no such ordinances and some cities and towns have quite inadequate ones.

His letter is in part: At your early convenience will you kindly send to this office a copy of all ordinances regulating fire dangers now in force in your city?

There are many towns and cities in the state that have no such ordinances. Our purpose is to furnish to the authorities of cities having no, or inadequate ordinances against fire dangers, models from ordinances which have proved to be effective, with a view to aiding them in protection to life and property.

"We have today written to the chief of the fire department inquiring from him the local condition, and to the city solicitor, president of council and chief of police. Upon receipt of the ordinance now in force, we will submit suggestions."—Ohio State Journal.

MORE DETAILS

Of The Suicide Of Mr. Harry C. Sefton

Which Shows He Determined To End His Life

Remains Brought To Mt. Vernon Saturday Evening And Funeral Occurred From Home On Monday

The following from the Columbus Dispatch gives additional information concerning the suicide of Harry C. Sefton of this city:

Lying with his right side against the trunk of a huge tree, his ghastly face turned upwards and a great gaping hole in his right temple the result of a shot from the pistol which was on the ground at the tips of the fingers of his right hand, the body of H. C. Sefton, of Mt. Vernon, was found Saturday morning by a party of campers in Thomas' grove near the river, three-quarters of a mile west of the Goodale street bridge, south of Arlington.

From the condition of the body it is evident that the man sat down with his back to the tree, and placing the gun against his right temple, pulled the trigger. The ball took an upward course, crashing through the skull and piercing the brain, then passing out at the top of the head and cutting through the fine straw hat which the suicide wore. The bullet ripped the black band on the hat and left a great rent to mark its course after completing its deadly work.

Falling back against the tree, the body rolled half over, the hat dropping at one side, and the revolver, which is a .32 caliber blued steel weapon, fell from the nerveless fingers of the right hand a few inches from the right knee. About a foot and a half from the left hand a weather-beaten letter rested on the ground, and this letter contained the story of the suicide.

"Dear Father: I have fought against this for a long time, but have had to give in at last. I have been my own worst enemy," it said. This letter was written upon a piece of Manila wrapping paper and had evidently intended to mail it or give it to some person and had forgotten to do so, it was crumpled as though he had intended to throw it away before committing the fatal act.

A second note was found in his room which read as follows: "My body will be found on West Goodale street in the woods to the right of the street, a mile from the city. Have some of the young men there take my body to a good undertaker and have it put in a coffin. Notify my father as soon as it is found." "HARRY."

Immediately upon making the ghastly find, the campers sent a messenger to the city to notify the coroner, and the police were also notified. A Dispatch reporter who hurried to the scene, found the body guarded by the campers, who refused to allow anyone to examine it until the arrival of the coroner.

Coroner Murphy soon appeared on the scene, and Dr. Timberman was also summoned when it was learned that the dead man was Sefton. Dr. Timberman completed the identification. Coroner Murphy took charge of the dead man's effects and ordered the body removed to the morgue in the police wagon.

The cause of the suicide was undoubtedly the fear of insanity. Young Sefton fell, last February, while skating. He was skating with a young woman, and was skating backwards. Striking a snag in the ice, he fell backwards, and struck his head with great force. He said nothing about it for more than a month, though the injury troubled him somewhat. He was sent to Columbus for treatment and returned believing that he was cured, but after a time the trouble began anew and he came again for treatment a few weeks ago. His malady became aggravated, and fearing that he was about to lose his mind he determined to end his life.

BIG GAS WELL

Drilled In By The Butler Oil & Gas Co.

With A Capacity Of 5 Million Cubic Feet Per Day—New Territory Developed

The Butler Oil and Gas company drilled in the well on the Marion McClelland farm, near Butler, Sunday evening at 9:30. The well came as a surprise. It is a good gas producer and its capacity is now estimated at 5 million cubic feet per day with the possibility of an increase within a few days.

A large number of Mt. Vernon people are interested and have stock in this well. New territory is opened up by the drilling in of this well and a new gas field will probably be opened up. All the land in the vicinity of this well has been leased and more wells will be put down by the Butler company at a very early date.

Judge Frank O. Levering of this city, who is one of the stockholders in the company, was present Sunday evening when the well was drilled in. He returned from Butler Monday morning and reports that the well is a good gas producer with a capacity of 5 million cubic feet.

By a score of 16 to 0, Mt. Vernon defeated Shelby at the local park Saturday afternoon. The game was uninteresting except that Mt. Vernon played a fast snappy game of ball. The work of the visitors was very ragged. "Lefty" Boyle pitched for Mt. Vernon and Shelby could not touch him when he was pitching his best. He saw that Shelby was easy so he did not take any chances on throwing his arm away.

The feature of the game was Clarke's batting. He was 6 times up and got 5 hits. Two were three sackers and one was a two sacker. Ilger also had a good day with the stick, securing four hits out of five times up.

Bushey was in the box for Shelby, but in the sixth inning gave away to Breymaier who finished the game.

VICTORIA CATARACT

IT IS ONE OF THE NOTABLE WONDERS OF THE WORLD.

There is No Other Falls on Earth Just Like It, and There is No Possibility of Comparison Between It and Our Own Niagara.

It was on the 22d of November, 1855, that the friendly natives with whom he was traveling brought Dr. David Livingstone for the first time within sight and sound of the wonderful cataract on the Zambesi river, now known as the Victoria falls.

Today one takes the train at Cape Town on Wednesday, passes through Kimberley on Thursday, reaches Bulawayo on Saturday, and late in the afternoon Sunday begins to see in the distance the rising pillar of mist from the great cataract.

The natives call it "Mosi-oa-tuni," meaning "the roaring smoke." Twenty miles away the spray thrown back from the depths of the tremendous cavern into which the river tumbles appears like a column of smoke rising from a burning village, and during the last mile of the railway journey the roar of the falling water becomes noticeable.

The first question that is asked of an American who has seen this African wonder generally is, "How does it compare with Niagara?" There is no possibility of comparison. The two are as different as day and night.

The Zambesi valley for a hundred miles or more in every direction from the cataract is a rough and broken plateau covered with low brush and stunted trees, with here and there an outcrop of somber basaltic rock, all thoroughly uninteresting.

Richard Wagner, the composer, was an ardent republican in 1849. In the archives of Dresden there is a document setting forth a case of high treason against the musician.

Artificial Eyes. The first false eye was a metal band which gripped the head and was fitted with a plate to cover the blind eye.

Meantime the pillar of smoke has resolved itself into a dense mist forced upward in terrible puffs from a yawning gash stretching directly across the bed of the river.

THE WEARING OF BEARDS.

At One Time a Tax Was Enacted For the Privilege.

In days gone by the wearing of a beard was a privilege that had to be paid for, the tax on every beard of a fortnight's growth being 3s. 4d.

In the fourteenth century shaving was popular with young men, while the old men were attached to forked beards. The latter custom is referred to by Chaucer, who in describing an assembly says, "A merchant was there with a forked beard."

ing the reigns of Elizabeth, James I. and Charles I., as the poems, plays and other literary productions of those periods amply testify.

William Harrison, a clergyman from whom one gains many peeps at the sixteenth century, refers to some of the styles of beards at that period. If a face happened to be "platter-like," a long, slender beard would make it seem the narrower.

BUTTER WEIGHT.

What One Observer Learned From a Visit to a Grocery.

Live and learn. I heard a respectable looking, motherly soul, making purchases for the family, say to the grocer, "Be sure to give me butter weight, now, for I've been a long time customer of yours."

"What is butter weight?" I inquired when she had gone. "Why, that's just a little sop we hand out to some of our old customers," said the salesman.

Referring to a dictionary, I learned that butter weight is an allusion to a custom of exacting seventeen or eighteen ounces or even more to the pound of butter, possibly on the ground that the water in it would soon evaporate and bring the pound down to sixteen ounces.

When Wagner Fleed.

Richard Wagner, the composer, was an ardent republican in 1849. In the archives of Dresden there is a document setting forth a case of high treason against the musician.

Artificial Eyes.

The first false eye was a metal band which gripped the head and was fitted with a plate to cover the blind eye, covered with leather on which an eye was painted.

Its Peculiarly.

"Did you ever notice anything funny about his conversation?" "Funny? I should say not. There's absolutely no point to it."

A Place For Him.

First Floorwalker—Poor old B Jones has completely lost his hearing. I'm afraid he will lose his job.

Nothing is so good for an ignorant man as silence, and if he was sensible of this he would not be ignorant.—Saadi.

STREET ETIQUETTE.

While walking with a lady, the gentleman should take the side next the street.

One salutation is all that civility requires when passing a person more than once on a public promenade.

The gentleman should raise his hat when asking a lady's pardon for an inadvertence, whether she is known to him or not.

Should you desire to converse with a lady you should happen to meet, do not detain her, but turn and walk in her direction.

While walking with a lady in a crowded thoroughfare and obliged to proceed singly, the gentleman should precede the lady.

THE APPOINTING POWER.

A Story of President Grant and an Obstinate Subordinate.

General Grant's generosity to his foes, his many private and official kindnesses to the widows and orphans of Confederate soldiers, is an old tale, but it bears repetition in the form of an incident which Helen D. Longstreet gives in "Lee and Longstreet at High Tide."

The widow of a Confederate officer applied to the postoffice department to be appointed postmistress in a small southern town. As she heard nothing of her application, she went to Washington to press it. She was unable to move the authorities at the postoffice department and was about to go home in despair when a friend suggested that it might be worth while for her to see the president.

With much effort she summoned courage and appeared at the White House. The president received her in a most friendly manner and after hearing her story took her application and wrote a strong but brief indorsement on the back of it. She hurried in triumph to the postoffice department.

The official to whom she presented the application frowned and pondered over it for some time and then wrote under the president's indorsement, "This being a fourth class office, the president does not have the appointing power."

The application was handed back to her, and she went away in deep distress and was again preparing to return home when another friend told her by all means to take the paper back to the president, so that he might see how his indorsement had been received. When the president read it he wrote under the last indorsement, "While the president does not have the appointing power in this office, he has the appointment of the postmaster general," and, summoning his secretary, President Grant directed him to accompany the lady to the department and in person deliver her application to the postmaster general.

She received the commission before she left the office.
