Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 21.—The betrayal of Edward G. Cunliffe, the express employe, who was arrested here and taken to Pittsburg, is interesting. James Missitt, who received the reward for Cunliffe's apprehension, formerly had lived in Bristol and knew Cunliffe well. They had been together a good deal when Cunliffe lived in Bristol and Hartford, and at the present time Missitt is employed by one of the cheap hotels in the section of the city in which Cunliffe was captured. Last Tuesday Missitt went into the Tremont hotel bar room and saw Cunliffe standing at the bar. Missitt left the bar room in a hurry and when outside inquired the amount of the reward offered for the capture of Cunliffe. The next morning Missitt went to New York and on reaching there visited the Pinkerton agency in Broadway. Cunliffe's arrest followed. Missitt returned from New York with the $2,500 reward and proceeded to spend it lavishly throughout the lower part of the city.

The chances that the police will recover nearly the whole of the $101,000 stolen from the Adams Express company seem very bright. The sum of $9,065 was found in a trunk belonging to a butler in a prominent family at Black Rock. Although there is a possibility that the remaining $10,500 has been destroyed, the police are of the opinion that another accomplice of Cunliffe may reveal the hiding place of the missing sum. In round numbers $30,000 has been found within the past 24 hours.

The discovery of the money in the Black Rock home was brought about by keeping a close watch on one of Cunliffe's chance acquaintances, George Eisenman. According to Eisenman's story he met Cunliffe in a cheap hotel Wednesday night. Cunliffe had a package with him and said life had a package with him and said he wanted Eisenman to take care of the package, as it was laundry. Eisenman took the bundle to his sister's house, and when alone opened it and found the big sum of money. It and Arnold of the detective bureau, who saw Eisenman with Cunliffe when the latter was taken, went to the home of Eisenman's sister and found the bundle of shirts, but no money. Eisenman was shadowed and he was seen to give a small package to his friend the butler. Eisenman was taken to the Black Rock house and asked the butler for the package. He went to his trunk and turned it over to Captain Arnold intact. Captain Arnold would not reveal the

WITH WRECKAGE
Is Strewn The Shore of Lake Erie. Lives Lost.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 21.—The storm swept Lake Erie from one end to the other, and every vessel that was exposed suffered to a more or less extent. Knowllosses include: Freighter Sarah E. Sheldon, beached and wrecked near Lorain; steamer Wisconsin, on rocks off Lorain; schooner Kingfisher, beaten to pieces off Cleveland; steamer F. A. Prince, damaged near Cleveland; tug Walter Metcalf, sunk off breakwater light, Cleveland; several barges sank off Buffalo harbor; steamer Prinkel reached Buffalo badly damaged; barge Yukon, sank off Ashtabula harbor, crew rescued.

Two of the crew of the Sheldon were lost off Lorain. The wreck of this vessel was the most serious of any reported thus far, and the story of its experience was thrilling in every way. The Sheldon left Cleveland with a cargo of coal and was bound up the lake. Her troubles began in getting out of the harbor, and from then on until she was beached at Lorain she was almost continuously at the mercy of the tempest. After running ashore she was buffeted and pounded for over seven hours by the wind and waves. Two tugs from Cleveland, one of which bore the lifesaving crew of this port, succeeded in rescuing all but two of the crew. These two attempted to escape in a small lifeboat and they were quickly swept out to sea and lost. The drowned men are John Fox, wheelman, and Charles Evans, second mate. The vessel is a complete wreck.

Would Fire the Shylocks.

Reports Of Other Losses, Both Of Life And Property, Are Anticipated--Shores Of The Lake Strewn With The Wreckage

Chicago, Oct. 21.—One of the severest in recent years was the gale that swept over Lake Huron, Lake Erie and northern Lake Michigan, and as far as returns are obtainable 10 vessels have been completely wrecked and 12 to 15 others more or less seriously damaged. Twelve lives are known to have been lost, and as the gale on southern Lake Huron and Lake Erie is still blowing, it is feared that other losses both of life and property will be reported within the next 24 hours.

The schooner Minnedosa foundered two and a half miles off Harbor beach, in Lake Huron, and carried down the entire crew of eight men. She was coming down from Port William, Canada, bound for some Lake Ontario port with a cargo of wheat, and was in tow of the steamer Westmount, which was also towing the barge Melrose. The tow lines broke during the storm and the Melrose and Westmount were separated from the Minnedosa. They managed to make a harbor at Harbor beach, and reported that they had seen the Minnedosa go down. She was in command of Captain Phillips, who had his wife aboard. The names of the other members of the crew are not known. The boat was owned by the Montreal Transportation company of Montreal.

gan feet, sunk two and a half miles southeast of the southeast shoal lightship on Lake Erie, carried crew of eight men, of whom nothing is known. The gale created such a sea as has not been experienced by sailors on the lakes in the last 15 years. Many of the large steel barges which make nothing of the usual heavy seas prevalent at this time of the year were compelled to seek shelter in the nearest ports. As an evidence of the severity of the wind, it is said that the storm lowered the water on Lino Kilm's crossing, at the mouth of the Detroit river, by over two feet, and completely stopped all navigation.

THE FLEISCHMAN-COX CAT LET OUT OF THE BAG

Western Division
Cincinnati Sept. 27, 1905.

Dear Sirs:—

Have you considered the importance of the approaching gubernatorial election in Ohio and how very seriously the result of this election will affect the liquor interests of this State?
It will vitally affect every business concern and every individual dependent for support, directly or indirectly, upon the liquor interests.
A plain business proposition confronts us.
On the one hand, is a candidate who was nominated by the "Anti Saloon League".
On the other hand, is a candidate whom that organization is fighting with every effective force at its command.
The election of the "Anti Saloon" candidate, John M. Pattison, will mean the entire subservience to each and every restrictive and prohibitive policy for which the "Anti Saloon" League openly and avowedly stands; it will mean the complete domination of the legislature and a death blow to the liquor business and its allied interests in the State of Ohio.
Hence, it behooves the distiller, the wholesaler and the retailer to at once arise to the needs of the situation by instituting a personal and vigorous campaign for the protection of their business.
Every man interested, directly or indirectly, in their business welfare, should be talked with personally or written to, urging him to vote for Myron T. Herrick and against the "Anti Saloon" candidate, John M. Pattison.
Your master cooper, bar-fixtures manufacturer, dealer in supplies of all sorts, grocer, butcher, friends—all of these—should be made to understand the serious importance to your interests which is involved in this election; urge each and every one of them, not only to vote for Herrick, but to join you in urging others to do likewise.
We trust that you will see the importance of working hard and incessantly from now on until the close of the polls on election day.
You must use every influence at your command to secure the salvation of your business interests.

Yours very truly,

The Fleischmann Company.

To make sure that ... was not a trap set by Boss Cox, the Elides Achates of Mayor Fleischman of Cincinnati, the recipient of the above letter sent the letter following in response, and promptly received the second Fleischman letter, which is given below, and which shows that Governor Herrick, at the bidding of George B. Cox, has joined forces with the saloons to control the administration of Ohio's public affairs, and the law-making branch of the state government.

The Fleischmann Company,
Cincinnati, Ohio;

Akron, O., Oct. 2, 1905.

Gentlemen—We are much interested in the subject noted in your favor of the 27th ult., but regret that we can not report an encouraging state of affairs from this community. Governor Herrick's interests here are severely menaced by the unity and enthusiasm with which the temperance element is rallying to Pattison's support. To this is added some disaffection among Republicans on account of the silly charge that Mr. Cox controls the Republican organization.

Indeed, some of our own liquor dealers seem to want to keep aloof from the contest, fearing that by taking too prominent a part in the fight they will be inviting reactionary legislation or administration after the election. Some of them fear that the Republican organization will be in favor of such measures in order to recover the good will of the temperance element.

Can you not suggest to us how best to reassure our friends whom we find cold or indifferent in our course. It is apparent here that if this quarter of the state is to be saved to Herrick, strong organization measures must be resorted to.

We shall be glad to be of every service possible and any suggestions you may have will be gratefully received, by,

Yours very truly,

The Akron Cold Distilling Co.,

Akron, Ohio.

Gentlemen:—

We are in receipt of yours of the 2nd inst. and regret exceedingly to hear of the unfavorable conditions obtaining in your community.

We have had among us here, some of our friends who also thought that it would be well to keep aloof and do any work which they thought necessary to do, quietly. They have, however, been won over to the policy of fighting in the open, and by the plain argument that the other side are fighting in the open and have always fought in the open, and that they never have showed the liquor men of the State any consideration and never will show them any consideration. Should the "Anti Saloon League" be successful in electing their candidate and defeat Governor Herrick, they will point to this election as an example in the future and no man will ever dare become a candidate for the legislature without the solicitation of their support and their support means bowing to their will.

If the liquor men all felt as some of your friends feel, we think we certainly should be defeated and our business menaced. On the other hand, by the election of the Republican ticket through the aid of the liquor men, they will have put themselves in a position of demanding something of the Republican Party that they have not been in a position to demand before, and that is to be left alone.

If they sit still and make no fight, they could claim no credit nor could they claim any reward.

We remain,

Yours very truly,

The Fleischmann Company.

Address Made By Court Bailiff Patrick Purcell

In Common Pleas Court Saturday Afternoon

In Presenting Resolutions To The Court

On The Late Sheriff James C. Shellenbarger—Other Items Of Interest From The Court House On Saturday

Judge George Coyner arrived in the city Saturday afternoon when he conducted a short session of common pleas court. Just after court had been convened Court Bailiff Patrick Purcell presented to the court the resolutions adopted by the court house officials on the death of the late Sheriff James C. Shellenbarger, which appeared in the Banner recently.

In presented the resolution Mr. Purcell said:

Two years ago there devolved upon me the sad duty to arise and address Your Honor and make a request that Your Honor cause to be spread on the journal of this court a set of Resolutions passed by the officials of Knox County upon the death and in the memory of Sheriff J. C. Lynde; and today I am called upon to make a similar request of Your Honor, as another brave Sheriff has been called away; and I assure Your Honor that it is with a sadder heart that I ask your Honor to cause to be spread on the journal of this court Resolutions passed by the County Officials of this County on the death and in memory of our brave, courageous, kind-hearted and beloved Sheriff, James Clinton Shellenbarger, whose death occurred on the afternoon of Tuesday, the third of this month.

Sheriff Shellenbarger was born in Howard township this county, on the 7th day of December, in the year 1864. He was just in the prime of life, as he had not yet reached his 42nd year. He sacrificed and gave up his noble life in performing his sworn official duty.

It would be useless for me, if Your Honor please, in my weak humble way, to attempt to eulogize his noble life and blessed memory. Your Honor knew him too well, being in a position to know his worth and value as an officer of this court, and a faithful public servant of the whole people. Your Honor also knew of his noble qualities as a citizen, a neighbor, a friend.

From a worldly standpoint there may be some who would say that man, for men of the world would look upon him as not an up-to-date man, for it is true he was not the proud possessor of a diploma of any school or institution of learning. He was not a man of wealth. He was not a statesman, an orator, or politician; and yet, if Your Honor please, in the minds and hearts of those of us who knew him so well, James Shellenbarger was a great and noble man, for he possessed those qualities and gifts that stand out brighter, and are more lasting than gold or silver, or book learning. He was true to every trust. He was brave, courageous, honest, truthful, kind-hearted and charitable. He was popular with everyone, for his was a nature which made and cemented friendship. Well may it be said that the world is better for his having lived.

He was indeed brave, and fought manly a great battle alone and single-handed, during the dark hours of adversity, protecting the lives and property of our citizens, and in almost every instance he landed the lawbreaker behind the bars. It was while armed with a warrant for the arrest of an offender of the law, and in attempting in a quiet manly way to make the arrest, that he received the deadly wound that caused his death. He lingered for many long months, and suffered beyond that which human words can express, yet he never murmured. At no time in life did James Shellenbarger forget the lesson taught him by his great Christian mother. He was ever patient. His heart was ever filled with love of God, love for his neighbors, and forgiveness for all. He was ever obedient to every wish and command of his physicians and nurses. He was ever ready to submit to the will of his Heavenly Father. He has gone to a better land, and Knox County has lost a brave and faithful officer, a true and noble citizen, and I can only add, in life I admired him, and to his sweet memory all praise and honor. Hail and Farewell!

WON'T PLAY DENISON

Kenyon, Western Reserve And Case Cancelled Games

Cleveland, Oct. 20.—At a conference of George Gregory, coach of Kenyon; Paul Jones, coach of Western Reserve, and Joe Wentworth, coach of Case, tonight it was unanimously agreed that these three eleven, members of the "Big Six," will not play Denison on the football field this fall. While this action is not definite, it is known that the athletic associations of the three colleges will stand by the coaches.

Professor Reeves, of Kenyon, has announced positively that he would not allow Kenyon to play Denison next Saturday unless the four disputed players were ruled off the team, and that Denison purify its athletics.

HERRICK

Has Been Devoting All His Time This Fall

Trying To Vindicate Himself And Boss Cox

Large Registration Indicates Large Vote

And It May Be More Unfortunate For Governor Herrick Than A Light One-Political Situation In Ohio

Columbus, Oct. 21.—Never until the present campaign has a gubernatorial candidate devoted all his time to his own defense, as Governor Herrick has been doing for several weeks. Never before has a gubernatorial candidate found it necessary to write "open letters" to the dear people every day or two, and never before have a corps of special writers been maintained by a political candidate for the sole purpose of bolstering up his own record.

Governor Herrick's utterances in the campaign seem to indicate that the Republican party as such has gone out of business in this state, leaving behind only the doubtful monument of one man's record during two years in office.

The issue seems to involve two personal vindications at the same time—one of Governor Herrick and the other of Boss Cox. Every word the governor utters for himself is an equal one for Cox, and whenever Attorney General Ellis or Lieutenant Governor Harding boost Cox it is a corresponding hunch for Herrick, so that the reciprocity is complete. In this way the Republican campaign will go on to the end. There will be no change of policy, and it may be said that the veterans have already heard on the Republican side everything that can be said to sustain that party and its candidates. The remainder of the governor's career on the stump will be merely frantic repetition, and he can't help it that the more he explains the more explanations becomes necessary and the more he reiterates the more incoherent his reiterations grow.

At Republican state headquarters the statement continues to be given out daily that the situation is "getting better." It must have been very bad to start with, if it has been growing better all the time and yet is no nearer a healthy condition than at the present moment. The truth is that the expected reconciliation of thousands of anti-Herrick Republicans with the governor and his managers has not occurred. The Republican mess seems to get worse the more it is stirred up. Notwithstanding all that has been done to create it, there is no evidence of any change of feeling in the governor's favor. He is attracting large crowds wherever he goes, but so is Mr. Pattison. It is well known that political meetings are not a reliable test of the state of public feeling, and in this campaign they only indicate that the people are glad to listen to both candidates. But there is abundant evidence to show that when they have finished listening the majority are against Herrick.

Testimony to this effect comes to Democratic state headquarters now with the same persistence and emphasis it did a month ago. There has been a bitter disappointment of all Republican hope that conditions with reference to the governor's candidacy would improve as the campaign progressed. If there is any charge in them it is the worse for the governor's ambitions.

The large registration of the first two days indicates a heavy vote in November, and this is what the politicians of both parties are now expecting. It must be conceded that ordinarily this condition would be favorable to the Republicans, but all rules have their exceptions, and the exception in politics comes this year in Ohio. A large Republican registration may be unfortunate for Governor Herrick than a light one. This is the theory of the situation maintained at Democratic headquarters, where the managers of Mr. Pattison's campaign claim to be more than satisfied with the results of the first two days' preparation for the great event of November. The registration is about uniform in its increase, as compared with the first two days of other years, in both the rural districts and metropolitan centers. This bodes no good to Governor Herrick, for it is quite evident that the opposition to him in his own party is fully represented among those who have already qualified to vote.

Those close to Governor Herrick say that a bitter feeling prevails against the national administration among the Republican managers. Chairman Dick fully expected that he would get something definite in favor of Herrick out of President Roosevelt and that all the cabinet and all the cabinet ministers he might ask for would be at his disposal for oratorical performances in behalf of the governor. The first disappointment came when the president declined to attend the unveiling of the Sheridan monument at Somerset. It would have been a most natural thing for him to do, for Sheridan was a man after Roosevelt's own heart. It is now asserted that he wanted to go and was only deterred by the fear that the Republican managers might turn his presence in the state to political effect. Following this, the cabinet ministers, with the exception of Taft, one by one declined the soft blandishments of the Republican chairman, and now it is announced that Taft will only appear once in the campaign—tonight at Akron. This is assuredly giving Governor Herrick the cold shoulder at Washington, and perhaps it is no wonder that he and his friends feel deep resentment against those in high places who remain so indifferent to the crisis rapidly advancing in Republican affairs in this state.

Governor Herrick's ideas about the veto are singularly illustrated by his declaration that he interfered with the Brannock law because it was unconstitutional in its original form. The governor seems to think that he is the Supreme court. Yet he did not act upon this theory when he signed the Crafts bill, which provided for the bonding of officials and others exclusively by bonding companies. This act concentrated graft was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme court after the governor signed it. His action in this case destroys his defense of his action with regard to the Brannock law.

ASSAULTED

And Beaten By Gas Driller Was Mrs Mary Hoga

According To Her Story Told To The Officers

A Lively Scene Occurs In Village Of Hunts

D. E. Cederbog, Who Assaulted Mrs Hoga, Was Knocked Down Several Times By M. E. Lytle Of This City

Mrs. Mary Hoga, wife of Augustus Hoga, of Hunts Station, claims she was assaulted Friday evening by D. E. Cederbog, a gas driller employed by Contractor Shirer on the Beabout well, after she had given him his supper at her home.

It is claimed by Mrs. Hoga that Cederbog called Friday evening and asked for his supper, which was furnished him. After giving Cederbog a good supper Mrs. Hoga, left the house for a few moments and upon returning, found Cederbog coming down stairs.

Upon inquiring of the driller for what reason he had gone up stairs, Mrs. Hoga states that Cederbog struck her in the face and she ordered him out of the house. A lively encounter occurred between the woman and the driller and when she left the house Cederbog followed her into the yard.

Mrs. Hoga noticed M. E. Lytle of this city passing and called to him to come to her assistance. Mr. Lytle left his buggy and when he was informed by Mrs. Hoga of the man's action, Mr. Lytle gave Cederbog a good beating and turned him over to some residents of the village, who locked him in a barn and sent a call for Sheriff Clements to come and take the man to Mt. Vernon.

Cederbog was rather drunk when he called at the home of Mrs. Hoga and after he had been locked in the barn, he sobbered up and when a good opportunity presented itself, he made his escape. A search was made for the man on Friday evening, but he could not be found.

On Saturday morning parties came to Mt. Vernon from Hunts to swear out a warrant against Cederbog and a party was organized at Hunts to search the country for him. As a result of the encounter of Friday evening, Mrs. Hoga was severely bruised about the body and on Saturday morning she was suffering from a nervous shock.

Superintendent Shawan said yesterday that it has not yet been determined what action would be taken against the young men who falsely represented the South High school football team in playing Mt. Vernon Oct. 7. He said that it would be decided after it was found whether or not the players shared in the gate receipts.—Ohio State Journal.

A JUDGE'S WIFE CURED OF PERI VIC CATARRH

MRS. MINNIE E. McALLISTER.

She Suffered For Years and Doctors Failed to Give Relief—Cured by Per-na.

MRS. MINNIE E. McALLISTER, wife of Judge McAllister of Minneapolis, Minn., and Chaplain Loyal Mystic Legion of America, writes: "I suffered for years with a pain in the small of my back and right side. It interfered often with my domestic and social duties and I never supposed that I would be cured, as the doctor's medicine did not seem to help me any. Fortunately a member of our Order advised me to try Per-na and gave it such high praise that I decided to try it. Although I started in with little faith, I felt so much better in a week that I felt encouraged.

"I took it faithfully for seven weeks and am happy indeed to be able to say that I am entirely cured. Words fail to express my gratitude. Perfect health once more is the best thing I could wish for, and thanks to Per-na I enjoy that now."—Minnie E. McAllister.

Miss Esther M. Milner, DeGraff, Ohio, writes: "I was a terrible sufferer from female weakness and had the headache continuously. I was not able to do my household work for myself and husband. I wrote you and described my condition as near as possible. You recommended Per-na. I took four bottles and was completely cured. I think Per-na a wonderful medicine."—Mrs. Esther M. Milner.

Congressman Thad. M. Mahon, of Chambersburg, Pa., writes: "I take pleasure in commending your Per-na as a substantial tonic and a good catarrh remedy."—T. M. Mahon.

Per-na Contains No Narcotics. One reason why Per-na has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no narcotics of any kind. Per-na is perfectly harmless. It can be used any length of time without acquiring a drug habit. Per-na does not produce temporary results. It is permanent in its effect.

As a tonic and nerve invigorator Per-na has no equal. It has no bad effect upon the system, and gradually eliminates catarrh by removing the cause of catarrh. There are a multitude of homes where Per-na has been used off and on for twenty years. Such a thing could not be possible if Per-na contained any drugs of a narcotic nature.

Masts and Rigging.

Each of the three masts of all but very small vessels consists of a number of sticks one above another. The "heel" of the topmast comes a little below the "head" of the lower mast and is secured by a "cap," a sort of iron band, and a bar, called a "fid." Above the topmast comes the topgallant mast and above that the royal mast.

The running rigging consists of ropes used in handling the yards and sails, and every rope has a distinguishing name. Halyards are ropes used to hoist yards and sails. Braces are ropes used to swing the yards around by.

To the beginner the names of ropes are apt to be very confusing. Old salts are fond of spinning a yarn about a lad who wanted to go to sea until he heard that the fore topgallant studding sail boom tricing lining thimble block mousing was the name of about the smallest bit of rope on board ship, when he at once concluded that, such being the case, he could never expect to master the name of the largest rope and consequently decided to become a farmer.

Gypsies and Tartars.

Some ethnologists claim that the gypsies are of the same family as the Tartars. They are said to have appeared first in Germany in 1417 under the name of Tartars or Zegins and by a statute of Henry VIII. were expelled from England in 1530. This not proving efficient to exterminate the race stronger measures were taken, described by Thomas Cromwell in a quaint letter still extant. "And in case ye shall here or knowe of any such Gypsians," he writes to "My Lorde of Chester," "that ye shal compell them to depart to the next porte of the see, and eithor without delaye upon the first winds that shall conveye them, or if they shal in any wise breake that commandment, to see them executed, without sparing upon any commysion, license or placards that they may shewe or alledge for themselves to the contrary."

A Fine Sense of Humor.

The Russian Emperor Ivan IV. once ordered one of his high court officials to procure for him a measure full of fleas, and when the poor man failed, through the friskiness of the insects in jumping out of the measure, had his head cut off and inflicted a fine of 7,000 rubles on the city of Moscow for its share in the failure. On other occasions he would wander away into the country with some boon companions and a few caged bears, and when he came to a peaceful village would let slip the bears and shriek with laughter as the villagers rushed for safety or fell victims to the hungry animals.

Wouldn't Work Nowadays.

The Egyptians had a very remarkable ordinance to prevent persons from borrowing imprudently. An Egyptian was not permitted to borrow without giving to his creditors in pledge the body of his father. It was deemed both an impiety and an infamy not to redeem so sacred a pledge. A person who died without discharging that duty was deprived of the customary honors paid to the dead.

To Die in the Last Ditch.

The phrase "to die in the last ditch" is stated by an English authority in such matters to be an Americanism, originating during the civil war. In fact, it was first used by William, prince of Orange, who during the war with France was asked "what he would do in case the troops of Holland were defeated in the field and who replied, "I will die in the last ditch."

An Innocent Gambler.

"Cheyenne was a wide open town in the old days, and every hotel and bar had its little faro game and roulette wheel and stud poker game," said a man who was there. "Our party was staying at the Inter Ocean hotel. A long, loose jointed Missourian ambled in one night and butted into the poker game. There were two or three card sharps at the table, and every citizen carried his shooting iron. This long Missourian looked rather easy, but before he had been playing an hour he was $1,500 to the good. John Chase, proprietor of the hotel, became interested and watched the game. In a few moments he saw the Missourian turn a trick that was not strictly according to Hoyle, and he called the Missourian outside.

"Now, see here," said Chase, "I want to warn you. You'd better be pretty careful. Those fellows are all professional gamblers and are armed to the teeth. You don't seem to realize what you're doing?"
"Say," replied the long Missourian, with a look of childlike innocence, "are they cheating me?"—San Francisco Chronicle.

CUT AND WIRE NAILS

METHODS BY WHICH THEY ARE TURNED OUT IN VAST QUANTITIES.

The Wire Nail Process Is Simple and Almost Wholly Automatic, While the Cut Nail Process Is Less Automatic and Much Harder.

The making of nails is one of the oldest American, as it is one of the oldest English, industries, but in Great Britain the greater part of the product has been hand work, in America machine work.

Of modern nails, the wire or French nails and the common cut nails are made in quantities which far exceed all other kinds. The wire nails have increased enormously in general use during recent years, but there are still many purposes for which cut nails are preferred.

The process of making wire nails is exceedingly simple and almost wholly automatic. A large reel or spool of wire of a size equal to that of the shank of the nail to be made feeds forward at each revolution of the machine a piece of wire equal to the length of the nail and a fraction of an inch more.

This is seized firmly by clamps, which straighten while they hold it, and at the same time a pair of jaws so cut the wire as to leave a sharp point to the nail.

Before the clamps let go their hold a hammer, the face of which is a die, strikes the other end of the wire a sharp blow, which forms the head. The clamps have corrugated surfaces, not merely to hold the nail more securely, but to impress upon it a series of ridges and depressions, which make it harder to draw out when once driven home.

The making of cut nails is less automatic and much harder. Any one who has seen a nailmaker at work will understand the aptness of the old expression, to "work like a nailer." The iron for cut nails is first rolled into sheets, the thickness of which is equal to the thickness of the nail. It is then cut into plates as wide as the nail is long and of such length as a man can handle conveniently, say from fifteen to twenty inches.

The nail cutting machine is a heavy, compact piece of mechanism, not much larger than a sewing machine, before which the nailmaker sits on a stool. It consists of but little more than a pair of shears, strong enough to cut iron three-eighths of an inch thick, and a heading hammer.

Any one who will examine a cut nail will find that the shank tapers, not on all four sides from the head, as he may have supposed, but on two sides only. The other two sides are parallel. It is the neglect to notice this fact which leads so many persons to start a nail into wood in a way which splits it.

From a small turnace near the machine the nailmaker draws a plate which has come to a dull red heat. Holding this by means of pinchers, he feeds the edge farthest from him to the jaws of the machine. As they descend they shear a tapering strip from the edge. This is seized by clamps, which hold it just long enough for the heading hammer to strike the blow which forms the head and then drop it.

Now, if the nailer were simply to push the plate forward again the tapering character of the strip which is sliced off would destroy the rectangular shape of the plate, and the nails would neither be of a length nor have square heads and points. To obviate this difficulty the plate must be turned over between every two nails that are cut, so that the head of the nail will come alternately from one side of the plate and from the other.

This—and it is the principal part of the nailer's work—is done with a simple turn of the wrist, and the plate is fed forward as before. As the machines run at considerable speed, and the "drop" must be accurately timed in order that the end of the plate may meet the shears at the right moment and in the right place, the difficulty and the tire-some nature of a nailmaker's work may be imagined. Some idea of it may be had by holding the thick end of a shingle in a pair of tongs and attempting so to turn it with a single motion of the wrist that alternate sides will lie uppermost on a table.

A good nailmaker will make from two to four drops—that is, will cut from

Two Repulsive Pictures.

In the atelier of Adolph William Bouguereau, the great French painter, there hung two terrible pictures. One represented a man dying in the desert, with the frightful form of the angel of death descending upon him. The other depicted Dante and Virgil in hell watching one victim madly gnawing at the throat of another. The two pictures failed because of their horror. "If I had struck to such subjects as those," the artist used to say, "I should have starved long ago." He found a market for the beautiful.

Solitude and the Crowd.

It is easy in the world to live after the world's opinion. It is easy in solitude to live after our own, but the great man is he who in the midst of the crowd keeps with perfect sweetness the independence of solitude.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Tired Nervous

When you feel languid, tired, nervous and irritable, your vitality is low—your supply of nerve energy exhausted, and your system running down for lack of power.

The organs of the body are working poorly, or not at all, and you are not getting the nourishment needed. This soon impoverishes the blood and instead of throwing off the impurities, distributes it all through the body. This brings disease and misery.

Feed the nerves with Dr. Miles' Nervine, a nerve food, a nerve medicine, that nourishes and strengthens the nerves, and see how quickly you will get strong and vigorous.

"My wife suffered with nervousness previous to a recent attack of typhoid fever, but after her recovery from the fever, she was much worse, and could hardly control herself, being exceedingly nervous when the least excited. She was very restless at night, and never had a good night's rest. She also suffered much from nervous headache. Dr. Miles' Nervine was recommended by a friend. After the first three doses she had a good night's rest, and at the end of the first week's treatment she was wonderfully improved. Continued use of Nervine has completed her entire cure."

AT A WEDDING

Bridegroom Said to Have Shot an Unwelcome Guest.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 21.—After a romantic courtship of six years William King, a horse trainer of Boston, came here to wed Katherine Sebree, when he went to the young woman's home to be married he met C. W. Scott, a whisky dealer, whom he disliked. They quarreled and Scott was shot just beneath the eye and fatally wounded. When arrested King claimed the bride-to-be had shot Scott. The young woman denied it, and the police say they have positive proof that King fired the shot. King trains horses for R. W. Robb & Son, Boston.

Review of Trade.

New York, Oct. 21.—Bradstreet's says: Trade reports are rather more irregular, but industry is still at high tension. Colder weather now advancing is reported stimulating retail trade and influencing reorder business with jobbers. Lifting of quarantines has unquestionably helped southern trade, but effects of this have been partly counterbalanced by the holding of cotton for higher prices, which also retards collections. Car shortages are becoming more acute, and grain, lumber, coal, coke and ore shipments are delayed there, with effects on retail trade and collections. Industries still feel the impetus of an unprecedented fall demand. Iron and steel are active as never before at this late date and prices still tend upward. Coal is experiencing the usual active fall demand, hampered, however, by inability of shipping orders owing to lack of cars.

Prevention Better Than Cure.

In these days, when most medical men are on the still hunt for miraculous cures, specifics in one or other form, it is easy to lose sight of, at least to fail to give sufficient attention to, the matter of the cause or causes of disease and of the means of prevention as well as of the really scientific because so often simple measures calculated so to help nature as to enable her to successfully perform a cure.

We all remember how the profession ransacked the entire earth for some medicine that should "cure" scurvy. No better illustration of what good old Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes declared to be shameful to the profession could be given than those thoughtful layman discovered the true cause of the disease to be lack of vegetable food. A rational supply of vegetables or fruit and fruit juices and a diminished ration of salt meat sufficed to render all the armies, navies and camp dwellers of the world "immune."—Health Culture.

Siberian Convicts.

Some interesting phases of Siberian life are described in Samuel Turner's book on that country. Of the exiles he writes: "When I told a Siberian friend that I carried a revolver as a protection against wolves I was promptly informed that I had much more reason to fear the human wolves I might encounter, and this, I found was a general view of the case. About one-third of the criminal exiles escape all control. Armed with a stick, to which is attached a strong piece of cord or catgut, they will approach the unwary traveler from behind, throw the cord round his neck and quietly strangle him by twisting the stick, to rob him at their leisure of whatever he may possess or secure his passport in order to make their escape from the country."

The First Business Woman.

It was Pharaoh's daughter, because she took a prophet out of water.—New York Times.

GRAND JURY

Investigating the Affairs of an Insurance Company. St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 21.—Payments of money for corrupt purposes are indicated by developments in the investigation by the grand jury of the affairs of the Northwestern Life Insurance company of Minneapolis. Testimony already placed before the grand jury involves two former state officials, the alleged payment of a $5,000 check for the suppression of a report exposing the condition of the company, and a voluntary contribution of $1,000 each to the two Democratic and Republican state central committees.

Another state official is credited with receiving $300 in installments of $150 each for Sunday work done in a clerical capacity. He figured as an expert accountant. As to the campaign contributions, they are said to be vouched for in a confession made by one of the old officers, but its receipt is denied in the case of the Democrats on authority of Labor Commissioner Williams, who says he was the one to whom tender was practically made. The Northwestern Life Insurance company as reorganized is not concerned in the investigation.

Policy of British Liberals.

London, Oct. 21.—Addressing the United Liberal society, Sir Edward Grey, former undersecretary for foreign affairs in the Liberal administration of 1892-95 and who in all probability will be foreign secretary in the next Liberal cabinet, said there was no foundation for the suggestions in some quarters that a change of government would bring a change of foreign policy. The three cardinal points of British foreign policy, namely, friendship for America, the alliance with Japan and the agreement with France, all had the indorsement of the Liberal party. The Liberals, he said, were also of the opinion that the position of Russia should be re-established in the councils of Europe, while an improvement in the public relations between Germany and Great Britain must be considered conditional on the relations between Germany and France also undergoing improvement. The next election, however, would be fought on the question of free trade, which had made London what it is.

EXCLUSIVE

Contracts Between Railroads and Private Car Lines.

Washington, Oct. 21.—The existence of exclusive contracts between railroads and private car lines, by which the latter assume the business of refrigerating perishable freight, was brought out strongly in the hearings now in progress before the interstate commerce commission. It was developed by the testimony of H. M. Emerson, traffic manager of the Atlantic Coast Line, that the shippers would be compelled under the contract with the Armour car lines to use cars of this company exclusively or the railroad would not transport their freight. At the same time, he said, the schedules of the road would permit the use of other private cars, and that the apparent inconsistency is a matter that the legal department of the road would have to solve if brought into controversy.

Steam Barge Beached.

Rogers City, Mich., Oct. 21.—The steam barge Joseph Fay of Cleveland, owned by the Bradley estate, sprang a leak while fighting the furious gale on Lake Huron on this port and was beached by Captain Fletcher six miles from this city. The tremendous seas washed off the pilot house after the steamer struck the beach, and Captain Fletcher and most of the crew of 14 men drifted ashore clinging to wreckage, except Mate David Syze, who was drowned. The barge Rhoades, which had been in tow of the Fay, was parted from her consort during the storm, and grave fears are felt for the safety of the barge and her crew of six men.

IN MIDOCEAN

Crew Rescued From a Vessel That Was About to Sink. Sydney, C. B., Oct. 21.—Rescued in midocean by their vessel was about to sink, Captain Zachariassen and his crew of eight men of the Norwegian bark H. W. Palmer were landed here by the Norwegian steamer Christian Bors, which arrived from Hull, England. The Palmer left Buctouche, N. B., Oct. 2 for Queenstown with a cargo of deal. On Oct. 11 she encountered a terrific hurricane and sprang a leak. It was evident the next day that the vessel could not remain afloat much longer, and Captain Zachariassen and crew prepared to take to the boats, although a tremendous sea was running. At that moment, however, the Christian Bors was sighted. Signals of distress were quickly displayed and the steamer responded.

Senator Penrose's Denial.

Philadelphia, Oct. 21.—United States Senator Boies Penrose denied emphatically the rumors connecting him with loans from the Enterprise bank. Senator Penrose's statement follows: "I have no obligations of any kind in the Enterprise National bank. I am not connected in any way, directly or indirectly, with notes of W. Andrews, if there are any such in the Enterprise National bank. I have no interest whatever in the Pennsylvania Development company or with any other project in New Mexico. Any intimations to the contrary are malicious falsehoods for political effect."

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, uric acid, catarrh of the bladder and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work and in private practice, and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all good druggists. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.
