No propositions were advanced, but the four senators in the first group mentioned indicated their desire for harmonious action and not too radical legislation. Senators Cullom and Dolliver insisted that the only way to have harmonious representative action was for all the Republicans to get in line with the president and support his recommendations. After the conference adjourned, some members expressed the opinion that a bill would be agreed upon, but the confident opinion was also expressed that the majority of the full committee would report a bill in line with the recommendations of the president.

Mail Superintendent Dead. Lisbon, O., Nov. 22.—O. T. Holloway of Columbiana, O., superintendent of the Fifth division of the railway mail New York, Nov. 22.-When William companies that made such contribu-

of the part his name had played in the New York insurance investigation he replied with considerable heat: "If they want to hear from me let them call me before the committee. I can tell Mr. Hughes a few things. searchlight is not so much on the officers of the insurance companies as on the insurance department and the legislature. The department is much to blame—usually to blame whether its official knew the things were going on or not-because if they did not they were incompetent."

At the session of the legislative committee, the identity of Senator Depew's "rantankerous friend from up the river" was disclosed by John A. Nichol, a lawyer, under retainer by the Equitable Life Insurance company. Mr. Nichols had written Senator Depew a letter referring to an individual in the above terms, and this letter was read Friday when Senator Depew was on the stand. The senator was unable to recall who was meant by the "rantankerous friend," but Mr. Nichols disclosed a series of payments to W. S. Manning of Albany, a former actuary, who had been connected with the investigation of insurance companies in 1877. Mr. Hughes inquired as to a report that Manning had been in possession of the information that was suppressed, and that would have been detrimental to the Equitable. Mr. Nichols could not recall the suppression of information, but he detailed the payment of sums of money over a considerable period to Manning as an inducement to give up his business as actuary, in which capacity he believed Manning was a menace to the Equitable Life. Mr. Nichols said he was paid a retainer from the Mutual and New York Life for the same duties, that of York Life for "taking care of Manning," as Mr. "taking characterized it. He added that the payments by the Equitable for Manning were made to Mr. Nichols on vouchers bearing false names which Mr. Nichols said was done to protect Manning. Senator Thomas C. Platt was called to the stand and he did not hesitate to tell of the contributions of insurance companies to state campaigns. The Equitable, the Mutual and the New York Life were the only insurance ularly $10,000 to state campaigns, the and through it I lost my mother, Mutual Life the same sum frequently, and the New York Life a sum not as large and occasionally. These moneys were always delivered in cash to Senator Platt's office by messenger, and The place where they should turn this | he turned them over to the state committee. The senator said he was expected to influence the legislature when any legislation appeared that was hostile to the insurance companies. Senator Platt said he believed he had asked President McCurdy of and colds, Price 50c, and $1.00; the Mutual Life for a contribution guaranteed at G. R. Baker & Son, when the needs were very great. He had, however, never been asked to use his influence on any measure be free. fore the legislature, nor had he ever done so. He knew nothing about contributions to the national campaign. Gage Tarbell, the second vice president of the Equitable Life, was also a witness again. He detailed a history of the agencies of insurance companies and his own efforts to reduce the cost of getting business. Mr. Tarbell made a very extensive explanation of the good that the insurance companies have done and the difficulties under which the work is carried on. He told how he had won over a general agent and 200 sub-agents of the New York Life in this city without cost to the Equitable of so much as one dollar.

Ten Thousand For a Kiss. Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 22.-Miss Ella Hamilton thinks the kiss she alleges Hayden Marquis, a wealthy young man, stole from her is worth $10,000. At least that is the amount of damages she demands in a petition filed in the district court. The suit will come to trial at the January term. Marquis is the son of R. W. Marquis, reputed to be a millionaire.

Bank Held Up.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 22. - Two masked men, armed with revolvers, forced Cashier Gabriel Jones of the South Denver bank, a small concern, in the safe, and fled in a buggy. River, N. J.

South River, N. J., Nov. 22.-Four men were blown to pieces by an explosion at the laboratory of the International Smokeless Powder and Chemical company, at Parlin. They were: John Pierce, Frank Spatford, John Applegate and J. W. Redpath, superintendent of the laboratory. What caused the explosion will never be known, as only the four men were in the building at the time. The building was a one-story frame structure and because of the liability to explosions was separated from all others in the plant except one, a storehouse, which caught fire and was burned.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 22. - Despite, ment of the general offices of the of workmen's delegates on the morning of Nov. 20 not to attempt the introduction of a movement for an eight-hour day, the question of shorter hours is taking a critical turn and threatens to produce an industrial crisis. At the Hubbard, Westinghouse and other important works the men insist on a reduction of hours and have adopted a course of dropping their tools after they have labored eight hours. The employers held a meeting and resolved to stand firm against the demands of the men. The local works will be closed until the men consent to the old system of 60 hours a week.

Canal Legislation.

Washington, Nov. 22.-Leaders of the house of representatives, who will determine forms of legislation, have decided that in order to meet the emergencies for the Panama canal work a bill will be speedily passed after congress meets putting the canal bonds on the same footing as the other 2 per cent bonds of the government, in order to facilitate their sale. An appropriation will also be made to meet the payroll of the canal with a provision that the money for this purpose shall be reimbursed to the treasury out of the sale of the bonds. After that congress could, if necessary, determine the type of canal without crippling the work in progress. This program has been outlined in order to meet contingencies and not delay the work on the canal while the subject of type is being decided.

Refused To Make A Home For Her Sister And Babe

(Ohio State Journal.)

Because of the little child which she tried so hard to have the police and charitable institutions care for, the sister of Grace Umwake, the Findlay girl, has refused to receive her at her Mt. Vernon home.

The sister came to Columbus Monday to investigate the case. In the meantime the girl had been taken to the county infirmary with her babe. When she learned of the circumstances the sister went back to Mt. Vernon.

Yesterday the girl was sent back to Findlay by the county infirmary officials. She took the child with her. The matron of the infirmary says she has no doubt that the girl is the mother of the child.

Of Souvenir Programs In Connection With Union Labor Events.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 22.-The principal feature of the sessions of the American Federation of Labor came when the section of the grievance committee's report was presented asking for the abolition of the souvenir program in connection with union labor events. It charged representatives of small labor unions throughout the country with grafting, forgery and threatening the employers with strikes and boycotts in getting out souvenir books for Labor day and other occasions. While the names of the labor unions were not uncovered, labor leaders in every city were accused of the practice. A resolution was offered and adopted condemning the issuing of souvenir books by the labor unions, and hereafter it is likely that none will be issued.

Meyer, American ambassador at St. Petersburg, who sailed on the steamer Kron Prinz Wilhelm, was asked if he did not consider it dangerous to return to St. Petersburg now. He replied: "I do not believe there is any good ground for supposing that the Russian populace will attack foreigners, even if a revolution should break out there. I regard M. stinacy should be drawn, but many Witte as by far the most careful man in Russia. If any one can bring about order Count Witte is the one to do it."

SALOONIST

Furnished the Bail For Krup, Who Mysteriously Vanished.

New York, Nov. 22.-It became known that the man who furnished the bail for John Krup, who disappeared last week on the day set for his trial on the charge of illegal voting in the Eighteenth assembly district, was J. F. Pickett, a saloon keeper on Third avenue. This dis closure followed the appearance before the grand jury of Krup's counsel, Charles F. Dillon, who last week refused to answer questions put to him before the jury. Dillon was directed by Recorder Goff to answer these questions. Pickett was subpoenaed by Attorney General Mayer to appear before the grand jury, when Dillon also will be further examined.

Charge Against Stockbroker

Chicago, Nov. 22. - Stockbrokers and owners of unlisted stock in all parts of the United States are said to have been swindled out of thousands of dollars by a scheme alleged to have been perpetrated by R. Levy, a stockbroker, with offices in the Medinah temple. Levy was arrested on a warrant charging him with using the mails to defraud. The scheme of the alleged swindler, according to the police, was to solicit shares of stock from brokers or any one owning unlisted shares of stock, with the re-Garfield National bank, Chicago. This bank, it is said, has not been in operation for some time. After the stock had been secured, the police declare, sometimes for as small an amount as a cent a share. Levy claims he is innocent of any wrongdoing.

In the Sierra Nevada mountains, when conditions are favorable for the display, there occurs a beautiful and startling phenomenon of nature. At times when the wind drives up the mountain sides in a certain direction and with sufficient velocity there stream out upon the air snow banners from a hundred mountain peaks. They are formed by the circling wind acting upon the light snow and are thick and dark at the top of the mountain, like a flagstaff, then they float away broadly for a mile in length in waves of iridescent light. This magnificent display is rarely seen by other eyes than those of savages, but sometimes it has been the good fortune of a naturalist to witness it when among the wild Ancient Theatrical Programme. Theater programmes were known even in ancient times, though they were then of a very peculiar construction. In Greece and Rome they con sisted of small tablets, which were handed out to the audience at the entrance. Those occupying the best seats obtained programmes beautifully worked in ivory, while those occupying the cheaper seats were given tablets in bronze. The bronze tablets were distinguished by a dove worked in the metal, and the term "piccionerio," used in Italy today as designating the lower priced seats in the theaters, dates from this antique custom.

Another Phase.

No person can say with absolute authority just where the line between decision of character and undesirable obpersons attempt to do it.

"I like my wife's prompt decisions as to what she'd better do," said the husband of Mrs. Orlando Jones, "and I admire the firmness with which she settles all disputed matters for the children, but the surprising obstinacy which she displays concerning my affairs is a constant surprise to me. It seems so out of character."

GIANTS ON WHEELS.

Odd Custom That Flourishes In Some European Cities.

Among the most interesting ceremo nies in Europe are the giants' processions, as they are termed, which are held annually in various cities. They are especially popular in the Flemish provinces of France and Belgium, where every community of importance has some personage of huge proportions intended to represent a hero or other notable of the past. Although ot enormous size, the giants are carried about the streets with little difficulty owing to the material of which they ers. Notwithstanding its, to us, unare composed. The skeleton is usually formed of light wood, with possibly made and still is making great strides one or two iron rods extending from in Africa, and one can only attribute the head to the feet to give strength to the structure. Over the skeleton is fastened a stiff fabric, such as canvas, and the proper proportions are obtained by padding with cotton, hay or some other suitable material.

Upon this groundwork is placed the papier mache which usually forms the exterior. This substance is so light and is applied with such skill that the resemblance to the human features and figure is really remarkable. Occasionally the face is formed by a mask showing the flesh tints, but the majority of the giants may be termed enormour dolls, since their mode of construction is so similar to that of this toy and so much of the same material enters into their composition. At least once a year the giants are placed upon vehicles and drawn about the streets in a procession, in which regular and volunteer soldiers take part, their escorts sometimes numbering 1,000 people.

One well known group of giants is known as the Gavon family, the members of which are among the largest in Europe. The father of the family is no less than twenty feet in height, from the top of the plumes in his helmet to his feet, while his spear is over twenty feet in length and the shield larger in circumference than the wheel of an ordinary wagon. Mme. Gayon is eighteen feet in height. They are supposed to have three children, the largest of whom is eleven feet in height, the next is ten feet and the "baby" taller than an ordinary man.

A Lost Book. Among the Somalis of Africa there is legend that when God first made them, a man and a woman, he wrote down in a book the law they were to follow. They were promised that as book they should continue great and powerful, but if they lost it their greatness would depart from them. One day the book was carelessly left lying outside a tent, where a bullock found and devoured it. From that fatal day their decadence set in, and to the present time whenever an ox dies of disease or is killed his entrails are religiously examined to see if any trace of the boos can be found. If found they believe they should recover their lost power.

THE MUSSULMAN.

His Devotion Is Intense and He Is Proud of His Religion.

A traveler in Africa writes: "This is a land of religion. The Mussulman's devotion is intense, ever present and all pervading, being not an accessory tacked on, as it were, to his life to be practiced more or less surreptitiously, but an essential part, wherewith and wherein he lives at all times. A Mussulman prays openly and publicly, in nowise afraid to be seen. Every man wears his string of beads whereon he records the number of his daily prayinviting appearance, the religion has this to the fact that here at last is a religion of which its adherents are in no way ashamed. It offers to the faithful absolute assurance of salvation and engenders that blind, unhesi tating faith therein which is so comforting to the native mind.

"Seeing a crowd of pilgrims bound for Mecca patiently-nay, with pleasureendering the worst treatment that one could imagine meted out to herds of driven slaves, one envies the excess of faith that can engender such a disposition. Though robbed, slain, starved, herded with pestilence and subjected to countless hardships and annoyances, yet year after year they come from far and near thousands and tens of thousands strong on this the most wonderful and far reaching of latter day pilgrimages. "At Jedda one sees pilgrims from all corners of the globe-Dutch subjects from Java, Chinese from Peking shiploads from India and Farther India, Russian subjects from all parts of the great empire, French subjects from Algiers, from Morocco, and dusky negroes who have tramped for months from the western shores of Africa Through many lands and midst many tongues they come, all to meet at this thronged center of the maelstrom of the Mussulman faith."

GREEK ATHLETES.

The Way They Ran and the Style of Track They Used.

"In the foot races of the ancient Greeks," says a writer, "the shape of the stadium caused a great difference, since it was not circular, but long and narrow, with one or both ends semicircular. Consequently the runners had to take a sharp turn at the end of each lap, while except at the turn they were running a straight course. Evidently this turn needed much practice, for the pictures on the old yases show athletes practicing this one part of the race as a kind of drill, taking each movement separately.

"In early times, when all the runners turned round the same post, the turn gave opportunities for foul play, and there are stories of one competitor tripping another at the post or seizing him by the hair to prevent his winning. But later, in the shorter distances at and post to turn round, and probably the separate courses were roped off in much the same way as they are now in sprint races. For the start elaborate pia the stone slabs are still to be seen, with the grooves at regular intervals that had to be toed at starting. "Greek long distance men ran in the valuable preparation for war and America. which is supposed to explain the famous running charge of the Athenians at Marathon.'

An Andacious Schoolboy.

The audacity of Warren Hastings as a Westminster schoolboy in carving his name beneath the clock on the western tower of the abbey pales before the audacity of another Westminster schoolboy, who secreted himself in the abbey in fulfillment of a wager that he would sleep in the abbey, notwithstanding the report that the ghost of Bradshaw, the president of the court at the trial of Charles I., who in the time of the commonwealth occupied the deanery, haunted the building. He spent the night in the abbey and occupied his time in carving his name on the coronation chair, which bears to this day the following rudely cut inscription: "I, Peter Abbott, slept in this chair,"-Dundee Advertiser.

A Fish Restaurant.

A "fish restaurant" is not one at which fish is served exclusively or even chiefly, but a restaurant at which a specialty is made of the service of fish and at which usually some special fish dish is offered to patrons each day. In London and Paris such restaurants make as their chief specialty sole, as popular in England as in France. The Paris restaurants, in addition, make a feature of crayfish, cod and mussels and the London restaurants of whitebait and shrimp. The variety of fish procurable in these two cities is almost without limitation, but a different fish each day requires, in fact, only seven varieties, in the preparation of which there are many specialties.
