The Kenyon Fund 1992-93

To the Alumni

.....

Jack Au '73
1992-93 Kenyon Fund Chair

"There is a thrill of spirit which love imparts, when turn our thoughts to Kenyon's glory . . ."

This line from the College's alma mater exemplifies the spirit in which alumni and friends celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the Kenyon Fund. On behalf of the Kenyon Fund Executive Committee, I am proud to report that a new record of $1,365,532 was established for the 1992-93 Kenyon Fund, representing a 13 percent increase over last year. This report recognizes all those who made this outstanding achievement possible.

With this success story, we have proven that Kenyon has a loyal and generous constituency, one that has shown its willingness to support the College in these austere times. New gift records were set by the fifty-fifth, thirtieth, twenty-fifth, and twentieth reunion classes. And Kenyon's newest group of alumni, the Class of '92, had a record-breaking participation rate of 52 percent!

As the Kenyon Fund moves into its second fifty years, we remain most appreciative of the devotion of loyal alumni and friends and of their tangible support of the College through their donations of time, energy, and gifts. This is what makes the Kenyon experience distinctive!

Sincerely,

Kenyon Parents Fund 1992-93

To the Kenyon Parents and Grandparents

Congratulations! I am pleased to report that the Kenyon Parents Fund, in conjunction with the Grandparents Fund, has established a new all-time record with $349,807 in gifts and matching gifts. More than 1,200 current parents, parents of alumni, and grandparents contributed, setting yet another record in number of donors. Our contributions help to ensure that Kenyon maintains its academic prestige as one of the best liberal arts institutions in the country.

A special word of thanks goes to those parents who gave their time in volunteering for phonathons, career counseling, and admissions events. Participating in the activities of your regional associations helps make the Kenyon goal of continuing educational excellence a reality.

I would like to thank all of you who contributed so thoughtfully to the Kenyon effort.

Sincerely,

Sue LeCompte

Corporate Matching Gifts

In 1992-93, Kenyon received 595 matching gifts for a total of $242,526. There are more than a thousand companies that will match employees' charitable contributions; many will also match for directors, retired employees, and spouses of employees. All alumni, parents, and friends of Kenyon are encouraged to ask about the matching-gift program at their personnel or employee benefits office. The individuals listed under the name of each company are those whose gifts were matched between July 1, 1992, and June 30, 1993.

Alumni Admissions

Volunteers 1992-93

The admissions staff sends special thanks to all those who helped with admissions activities during the past year. Their assistance was invaluable in attending college nights, interviewing prospective students, participating in social functions, writing recommendations, and talking about Kenyon with potential students.

The staff's success in "getting the class" would not be possible without the help of volunteers. A great many of the 408 first-year students who entered Kenyon this year had alumni contacts, and they speak enthusiastically about the information and encouragement given them. There is little doubt that they, in turn, will be active and dedicated alumni.

Volunteers 1992-93

With the help of an able corps of alumni and parent volunteers, Kenyon provided exemplary career development programs and services to its students in 1992-93.

The Kenyon Career Network enrolls more than three thousand alumni, as well as more than two hundred parents, who have offered to discuss their occupations with students. In addition, the Extern Program, which affords opportunities for more in-depth examination of careers, has enlisted 373 alumni and 27 parents. Campus events, such as career talks and panel discussions, draw others back to campus to share information and insights about their work.

During Parents Weekend, a new program brings parents together with students to talk informally about a variety of occupations. This and other programs, as well as the many other activities sponsored by the staff of the Career Development Center, help students to realize the marketability and potential of a Kenyon education in the world beyond Gambier.

Extern Sponsors

Student and Alumni Awards

Linda Metzler and Timothy Shutt

Each year, the Trustee Awards for Distinguished Teaching honor two members of the faculty for their exemplary performance in the classroom. For 1992-93, the winners were Linda Metzler, associate professor of Spanish, and Timothy B. Shutt, associate professor of English.

The winner among teachers with more than ten years of service, Metzler joined the faculty in 1979. She was honored for "a commitment to language teaching that allows her not only to excel in the classroom but also to convert every chance encounter with a student into a brief but informing real-world classroom." Metzler received bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degrees from the University of Kansas.

Shutt, who won in the category for teachers with fewer than ten years of service, came to Kenyon in 1986. He was cited for "an enthusiasm for literature so liberating that students, shaking their presentist biases, are enabled to participate in the wonders of Chaucer and Shakespeare." A specialist in medieval literature and thought, Shutt earned his bachelor's degree at Yale University and his doctorate at the University of Virginia.

Commencement 1993

Lamar Alexander invokes old friend Alex Haley for the Class of 1993

The day was warm and dry as A. Lamar Alexander, educator, politician, and occasional concert pianist, delivered the address for Kenyon College's 165th Commencement on Sunday, May 23. Warm and dry inside the Ernst Center, that is. Outside, all day, rain pelted the folding chairs neatly arranged, but empty, before Samuel Mather Hall. Commencement took place inside for the first time since 1983.

The former U.S. Secretary of Education addressed the Class of 1993 with stories of his friend, the late author Alex Haley. Alexander recalled that Haley, best known for Roots and The Autobiography of Malcolm X, consistently sought out and encouraged what was best around him, often using the refrain "Find the good and praise it," words that now appear on Haley's grave marker in Tennessee.

Haley was not, Alexander said, "one of those syrupy, store-bought complimenters. . . . If he were here, I know what he would say to the Class of 1993: 'Congratulations! But you need to remember, if you ever see a turtle on top of a fence post, it probably had some help in getting there.'"

Alexander began serving as U.S. Secretary of Education in 1991, when President George Bush recruited him from his post as president of the University of Tennessee. Among his initiatives in Washington were attempts to raise school standards through innovation and more private-sector involvement, to create a "G.I. Bill for children," and to develop school choices for middle- and low-income families.

The first Southern Republican governor to serve consecutive four-year terms, Alexander was first elected to Tennessee's highest office after a thousand-mile campaign walk across the state. As chair of the National Governors Association, he established a plan for American education, "Time for Results," that helped win him the James B. Conant Award for leadership in education from the Education Commission of the States.

Alexander earned his bachelor's degree from Vanderbilt University and his law degree from New York University.

A country and classical pianist, Alexander has performed two dozen times with Tennessee orchestras. He and his family live in Nashville, where he practices law.

Receiving honorary degrees this year, in addition to Alexander, were photographer Richard Avedon; Professor of Mathematics Emeritus Mary Ellen Rudin of the University of Wisconsin; Nathan A. Scott Jr., William R. Kenan Professor Emeritus of Religious Studies and Professor Emeritus of English at the University of Virginia; Herbert Thompson Jr., Bishop of the Diocese of Southern Ohio; and Kenyon Professor of Chemistry Owen York, who retired after thirty-one years on the College faculty.

Finishing both first and third among the three hundred eighty-nine graduating seniors were students from Lancaster, Ohio: Eric F. Schwendeman and Teresa E. Cunningham, respectively. Edward E. Curtis IV of Mount Vernon, Illinois, finished second, with Peter C. Meilaender of Oberlin, Ohio, fourth and James S. Ireland of Hanover, Indiana, fifth.

Ninety-seven students graduated cum laude, fifty-six, magna cum laude, and sixteen, summa cum laude. Twenty-two took honors in their respective departments, with high honors achieved by twenty and highest honors by fourteen.

Former U.S. Secretary of Education Lamar Alexander addressed the Class of '93.

Ann Rittenbaum, president of the Class of '93, offered words of friendship and farewell to her classmates at Commencement.

President Jordan and Sheila Jordan (left) greet opera singer Mimi Lerner P'93, who sang the anthem at Baccalaureate.

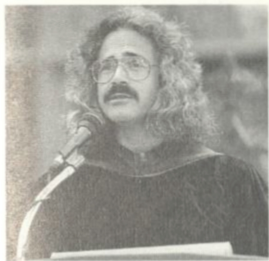

Special Assistant to the President Mary Ende saw to the details, large and small, of a memorable Commencement.

For the first time since 1983, Commencement was held in the Ernst Center, in front of a capacity crowd in Tomsich Arena.

Students held the banner and flags aloft as they led the platform party from the Baccalaureate service.

Associate Professor of Psychology Art Leccese delivered the Baccalaureate address to the Class of '93.

The mixed emotions of graduation day played across the face of graduating senior Maryann Surrick.

Amy King, bedecked with streamers, joined classmates in toasts to the past and future at the President's Reception in the Cromwell Cottage garden.

On the previous day, the seniors and their families joined members of the College faculty, administration, and staff for Kenyon's traditional Baccalaureate service, a ceremony that draws from various religious and cultural heritages. At the request of the senior class, Associate Professor of Psychology Arthur Leccese delivered the Baccalaureate message, entitled "It's Dangerous to be Different."

In a ten-minute exercise in sustained alliteration ("I solemnly stand before you as a sad sufferer of anxiety-elicited assumption of alliteration asininity, or AAAA, as it is belabeled by more my more benignly bedeviled, hence blissfully better, brethren"), Leccese argued for acceptance of those who are "different," especially those who dress unconventionally, are gay or lesbian, or use marijuana. The psychologist called not only for tolerance, but suggested that members of his audience abandon shame for their differences and "live like you're already free."

"It's dangerous to be different," Leccese concluded, "but it's fantastic to be free."

Leccese is an expert in the fields of chronic drug use, drug-induced psychoses, and the pharmacological treatment of drug use. He has published more than thirty scientific articles and abstracts, as well as a book entitled Drugs and Society: Behavioral Medicines and Abusable Drugs.

A graduate of the University of Wisconsin at Parkside, Leccese earned his master's degree at the University of Alberta and Ph.D. at the University of Louisville.

The Baccalaureate service also included the now-traditional reading by seniors of selections from the College's four academic divisions. Sara S. Fousekis read Charles Baudelaire's poem "Le Voyage" (humanities), Mary Kay Costello offered a passage from Debussy on Music (fine arts), Peter C. Meilaender read from Michael Oakeshott's The Idea of University (social sciences), and William T. Comar delivered an excerpt from Rollo May's The Discovery of Being: Writings in Existential Psychology (natural sciences).

Again this year, graduating seniors responded to a survey about their plans, conducted by the Career Development Center. About 23 percent reported plans to attend graduate school of one sort or another, and about 76 percent had either found jobs or were looking. A few other students were planning travel, including new Watson Fellows Sarah Y. Butzen, heading to Central America to explore religious changes, and Eric M. Ziegenhagen, off to study multilingual theater in Canada and France.

Seniors gathered on the steps of Rosse Hall for the traditional Senior Sing, directed by Associate Professor of Music Benjamin Locke (right).

Reunion Weekend 1993

The more things change . . . Friends link up to talk about years gone by

If you haven't seen friends for ten years, or twenty-five years, or fifty, you look for the signs you can never forget--a tilt of the head, those cheekbones, a smile that should never change and hasn't. Across the lawn you recognize an old friend, come up and start talking, realize gradually that he might become a new friend, too. And this one: You always hoped she would stay the same, but she hasn't, and that's even better.

Hundreds of old friends came to Kenyon in late May to find each other under a blue-striped tent or walking the corridors of Ascension Hall, as they headed for Philomathesian to show spouses and children what classrooms should really look like. Academic buildings as much as residence halls seem to draw alumni back when they visit Kenyon.

Again this year, a contingent of College men and women returned early for reunion to visit those classrooms and take part in the Alumni and Parent College, a series of lectures and discussions with some of Kenyon's best teachers. Associate Professor Michael E. Brint, new head of the Integrated Program in Humane Studies (IPHS), offered the first seminar, "Politics and Tragedy," followed over the two days by Associate Professor of Biology Joan L. Slonczewski discussing the biological and political implications of her science-fiction novel A Door into Ocean, Associate Professor of Psychology Arthur Leccese explaining "The Myth of Marijuana Madness," Associate Professor Theodore O. Mason Jr., chair of the English department, discussing new directions in the Academy with "The Canon, Multiculturalism, and their Discontents," and Professor of Art Gregory P. Spaid '68 presenting a program entitled "Anything You Want to be, and More."

The weekend itself offered activities both planned and spontaneous, from golf tournaments to impromptu songfests to the Ghosts of Kenyon tour, introduced this year with an organ recital of eerie airs performed in the chapel by Lois Brehm.

The first of the general faculty seminars featured Michael Brint of IPHS, who addressed "The Role of Interdisciplinary Studies at Kenyon," a subject of some controversy as the College continues to adopt new teaching approaches within its discipline-based curriculum. In the second of the general seminars, Special Collections Librarian Jami E. Peelle presented archival materials in discussing "Boyz N the Hill: The Presidents of Kenyon College."

Saturday's events included "Kenyon: Today and Tomorrow" with President Philip H. Jordan Jr. and members of senior staff as they discussed the current state of College affairs--academic, residential, and financial. Commenting on the recent successes of Kenyon athletes--in soccer, tennis, track, and other sports, as well as swimming--Jordan remarked dryly that any fears about the College's becoming a "jock school" were unfounded and that he welcomed even more national championships.

After the distinctly nonmilitary march of the reunion classes into Peirce Hall, the Awards Luncheon provided a critical mass of alumni, especially of those who volunteer in one or more of many roles.

Participating in the faculty seminar on "The Canon, Multiculturalism, and their Discontents" was Carl Seastrum '68.

Leading the seminar on "The Canon, Multiculturalism, and their Discontents" was Associate Professor of English Ted Mason.

Among business conducted at the lunch meeting, Alumni Council President Thomas E. Davidson '51 announced four new members elected to the group: Stephanie L. Abbajay '87, John A. Goldsmith '42, Alice Cornwell Straus '75, and Ellen C. Turner '80. Davidson also announced the election of alumni trustees Richard A. Baehr '69 and Thomas R. Moore '72.

As usual, alumni stepped forward to receive accolades for individual service and for their respective classes. Recognized for setting a new record in reunion-class giving were the alumni from 1973, the first fully coeducational class, who accumulated more than $100,000 for the Kenyon Fund.

Distinguished Service Awards went to Richard Baehr '69, James G. Carr '62, Maier M. Driver '43, Howard B. Edelstein '68, Meredith C. Moore '88, P. Kelly Surrick '88, Birgitta I. Sutter '83, and Lisa M. Volpe '88. Recognized with the Alumni Admissions Award was David Harbison '48.

The Gregg Cup, awarded every year to the alumnus or alumna making the most significant contribution to the College, was presented to former Kenyon Fund chair and newly appointed trustee Robert E. Koe '67.

The meeting ended as new Council president Neal Mayer '63 asked members of the Class of 1943 to lead the rest of those attending in singing "The Thrill."

The weekend continued with softball, tennis, and a gathering of women from the Coordinate College. The Saturday evening variety show featured comedy, music, and storytelling, along with appearances by the Kokosingers and Chasers.

The Chasers promise to hold a highlight for next year's reunion as well, as the singers themselves gather for reunion. The Office of Alumni and Parent Affairs looks forward to presenting a full slate of activities for May 25-29, 1994, including the fourth annual Alumni and Parent College and, no doubt, a few surprises.
