Sympathy with the poorly paid post and telegraph employes is now turning into indignation against the strikers, and the public is supporting a formidable movement which has been started by all classes to throw off the yoke of the revolutionaries. The government is undoubtedly encouraging the organizing of the forces. The "law and order party" took the lead, which is now being followed by the "society of strike-breakers," but the most important movement has been started under the leadership of Father Gapon, the former idol of the workmen, who since his residence abroad has become convinced that the Russians are not prepared for a republic and is appealing to his old comrades to cut loose from the revolutionary agitators. The latter already charge that Father Gapon has been bought and that he is a traitor to the cause of the people. This being a holiday, Father Gapon attended meetings of 11 of the organizations which he controlled before Jan. 22 (red Sunday), at which his words were cheered to the echo. At these meetings the Socialist orators were howled down and in some cases forcibly ejected. If this movement should grow, and an effective split among the workmen be thereby created, it will prove of immeasurable service to the government in tiding things over until the meeting of the

RAILWAY RATE IDEA

tive Hamilton (Mich.) introduced a joint statehood bill providing for the admission of Oklahoma and Indian Oklahoma, and the admission of New Mexico and Arizona as Arizona. Polygamous or plural marriages are forever prohibited in both of the proposed states. The bill prohibits the sale of liquor to Indians in both of the proposed states, but places no further restriction upon the liquor

Senator Elkins of the committee on interstate commerce, after reading the president's message made the following statement regarding railroad rate legislation:

"As I understand it, the president does not desire to vest in the commission arbitrary and uncontrolled power to fix rates. He has repfleatedly stated that the action of the commission in fixing a rate should be subject to review by the courts, and that the railway companies should be furnished legal protection against any injustice. That being the case. a law giving the commission power to fix rates should not be drawn in such manner as to give the commission purely legislative discretion in fixing rates. It should give to the commis sion power to change an existing rate only if the existing rate be unrea able or otherwise in violation of the interstate commerce acts, and it should give to the commission power to the commission power or otherwise unlawful only to the extent that such change may be neces-

The Champagne arrived from French and Spanish ports with 350 cabin and 1,400 steerage passengers, 1,100 of whom were bound for Havana and 300 for Mexico. The steamship had a small cargo and but little coal, and after anchoring and discharging the cabin passengers she began coaling. At the time she was slightly listed and the crowd of Spanish immigrants swarming to her side to watch the lighters caused her to list more and to take on a quantity of water in her open coal ports. Some of the lightermen cried out that the ship was sinking, and the frightened immigrants struggled and fought for a chance to escape. Some 400 men and women jumped into the lighters and a score of men into the water.

The officers of the ship and the port police finally calmed the excited imhad been closed and the ship righted herself after she had taken on a few tons of water. Five men and one woman were taken ashore and sent to the hospital suffering from sprains. contusions or broken bones. None of them was dangerously injured. A check of the passenger list revealed the fact that six persons are missing. It is not definitely known that these were drowned as it is possible that they may have reached the shore.

D. D. Prescription Read This Letter From a Columbus, Ohle

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 5th, 1904.

Gentlemen: For several years I was a sufferer from Eczema, the affliction affecting my hands, arms and feet. At times my feet became so wollen that I could not wear my shoes, while the constant itching of the cruption on my hands and arms became almost unbearable. Upon the recommendation of another such sufferer as myself, I began the use of D. D. D. and it gave me immediate relief. I have now fully recovered from my-aliment, and I give D. D. are seldom free from pains or ailments of some description, because they are not as able to withstand the severity of the climate, with its damp, changing weather, as are their younger, more vigorous companions. Cold weather starts the old aches and pains; they suffer with chilly sensations, cold extremities, poor appetite and digestion, nervousness, sleeplessness and other afflictions peculiar to old age. With advancing years the strength and vitality of the system begin to decline. The heart action is weak and irregular, the blood becomes thin and sluggish in its circulation, and often some old blood taint that has lain dormant in the system for years begins to manifest itself. A wart or pimple becomes a troublesome sore or ulcer, skin diseases break out, or the slight rheumatic pains felt in younger days now cause sleepless nights and hours of agony. There is no reason why old age should not be healthy and free from disease if the blood is kept pure and the system strong, and this can be done with S. S. S. It is a medicine that is especially adapted to old people, because it is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, selected for their purifying, healing and building-up properties, and is very mild and gentle in its action. S. S. S. warms and reinvigorates the sluggish blood so that it moves with more rapidity, and clears it of all impurities and poisons. As this rich, healthy stream circulates through the body every part PURELY VEGETABLE. of the system is built up, the appetite and digestion improve, the heart action increases and the diseases and discomforts of old age pass away. Mr Eldredge declared that Hoffecker was not dismissed until he had demanded an increase in salary from $35 to $100 a week, and practically said it was safer for the company to keep him than to let him go, in view of what he knew about the company.

Another instance of a "hold-up," Mr Eldredge said, was in 1890, when Max Behler, a so-called examiner of the Iowa insurance department, came covered a natural barometer at Ferto New York with his son as an assistant, examined the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance company, and presented a bill for the examination. Rather than pay the bill the company withdrew its business from Iowa, but a little later paid that bill and another of $346 to Max Behler for a verification of his previous examination in order to get permission to again do business.

NEWSPAPERS IN SCOTLAND.

It Is Sometimes a Very Difficult Matter to Buy One.

The American custom of glancing over the morning paper as you sip your coffee at breakfast goes with you abroad, but it is no simple thing always to get a morning paper. On coming down to breakfast the first morning Edinburgh, I found there was no paper to be had, but, thinking it was a simple matter to buy a Scotsman on the street, I went out on Princes street and walked three blocks without the sight of a newsboy. "Where can I get the morning Scotsman?" I said to a policeman. He thought for a moment. 'Weel," said he, "there's a great news shop aboot three blocks up, and ye might find one there." I followed the direction and found myself in a large news distributing depot. There were stacks and stacks of newspapers and magazines all about. "I would like the morning's Scotsman," I said. The man in charge looked bewildered. "I'll see," he said, "if we have one." He fumbled around a little while, and then went back into the rear of the store for fully three minutes. At last he came back, saying, "We haven't one," "Well," I said, "this is about the strangest thing I have seen. Can't get the morning paper here in Edinburgh." "No," he said, "ye'll find it diffeecult." "What do they publish papers here for, anyway?" I rejoined. "Do they want to keep them out of the hands of the people? Don't they want people to read them? Do they print papers to keep the news secret?" He bridled at once. "I want ye to understand," he said, "that the Scotsman is not published for the general publeek; it's published for the subscreebers." The Scotsman, you know, probably ranks next to the London Times. "Well," I said, "this is all new to me. In my country publishers want to have their newspapers read. They want to sell all they can. They don't try to keep them out of the hands of the 'general publeek.' Can you tell me where I can get one, for I want to see the morning paper, though perhaps I shall have to get a letter of introduction to buy one?" "Weel," he answered, "there's a woman about a hundred yards from here that takes the Scotsman. She might sell you hers." I took the direction carefully, found the woman who took the Scotsman-she kept a thread and needle store-I bought her copy, and reached the hotel a half hour late for breakfast, which I had ordered before going out on the difficult quest of buying a morning paper in the great

First Use of Potatoes In Ireland. In the garden adjoining his house at Youghal, Raleigh planted the first potatoes ever grown in Ireland. Servian peasants help each other by means of an institution known as the moba. A man who has not hands sufficient to plow or reap his farm calls in the moba-that is to say, invites all his neighbors to come and help him. He pays nothing for this service, providing only generous supplies of food and drink; but when any of them apply for the moba it is understood that he will take his turn.

SNAKE DIVINITIES.

Fantastic Forms of Worship on Southwest Coast of India.

Serpent worship and the propitiation of snake divinities, which once spread all over Asia, still maintain a tenacious hold on the little native states of Cochin and Travancore, on the southwest coast of India. Here Hindoos high and low revere the cobra as they did a thousand years ago, and it is considered a heinous crime to injure the reptile or neglect its interests.

In the district of Travancore alone there are between 15,000 and 20,000 shrines dedicated exclusively to the quickly?" worship of snakes which possess extensive and valuable properties for their maintenance and for the cost of the ceremonies which the keepers have to perform from time to time

In these shrines the Hindoos set down fantastic idols of serpents on a stone base, and the shrine is protected by a mud wall. Householders to assure their welfare should make offerings of dough, milk and cooked rice to the serpertine habitues of the shrine and place lights and chant hymns in order to be assured of their favor.

Every morning the king and queen of the serpents are bathed, and fruit and milk are offered to them, to be followed at noon by cooked rice and fried grain. On certain days the idols in grove and household temple are carried in procession to the house, where propitiatary offerings are made. The presiding functionary must be the eldest female member of the family, who has to practice celibacy from the day she attains

At famous snake festivals at Travancore pious folk gather from all paris to join in the worship, bringing offerings of gold, silver, grain, pepper, spices, oil, sandalwood, silk and other things. The cost of the festivals is defrayed by the revenues of the paddy fields and gardens attached to the shrines. It is believed that unless the ceremonies are conducted with reverence the largest cobras of the grove will come out and show themselves to the members of the house. The natives also believe that spake bites in the neighborhood of these onrines never prove fatal. Be that as it may, deaths from snake bites are very rare, though many groves contain as many as thirty cobras and the shrines in Travancore number between fifteen and twenty thousand.

The snakes of India are rarely aggressive, but generally keep to themselves, and, being so kindly treated and benevolently attended, it is not astonishing that they become docile and harmless. All over Travancore the people when they see a snake approaching say, "The god is coming," and make way for the divinity. Children play fearlessly about the groves while their serpentine friends are gliding about or basking in the sun and have never been known to be harmed. When the groves become overrun with serpents the sur-Resolve not to worry so much about plus population is removed and sent to other shrines, certain pious Brahmans being especially applied to for this purpose, -New York Herald.

The surface is covered with a coating of a suitable solution, and, the water soon evaporating, a thin, transparent glaze is left over the stone, effectually protecting it from the disintegrating action of the atmosphere. Several public buildings in various parts of the world have been successfully treated in this way.

Wonderful Indian Runners.

An Indian has been known to carry a letter from Guazapares to Chihuahua and back again in five days, the distance being nearly 800 miles. In some parts where the Tarahumaris serve the Mexicans they are used to rue in the wild horses, driving them into the corral. It may take them two or three days to do it, sleeping at night and living on a little pinole. They bring in the horses thoroughly exhausted, while they themselves are still fresh. They will outrun any horse if you give them time enough. They will pursue deer in the snow or with dogs, in the rain, for days and days, until at last the animal is cornered and shot with arrows or falls an easy prey from sheer exhaustion, its hoofs dropping off.

The "Man Eater."

Lower California is the home of a species of lizard which appears to be at least a second cousin of the famed "Gila monster." It is of a mottled yellow and brown color and only about fifteen inches long. The natives of that region have given it the terrible name of "man eater," because it has a habit of attacking every human being it sees, going at one open mouthed, but does not appear to mind either wild or domestic animals. The man eater's body is almost as brittle as that of the mythical "joint snake."
