Letter to Charles Petit Mcllvaine

Elizabeth Argyll

The Charles P. Mcllvaine letters were written in the 18th and 19th century and therefore may contain language that we understand today as harmful or offensive. You may encounter paternalist descriptions of Native Americans, racial slurs, or sexism. For more information, see our policy page.

Dear Bishop MacQuarrie

I was not well the last week of your time in London, & before that I had been waiting for Stafford House to be uncovered. - When I return about the 10th of May, I hope to show it to you, and your Daughters unless you sh^d. wish to see it

My dear Bishop

I was so sorry to find that you had all left town & I am afraid there is no hope of seeing you again? I imagined you wd. remain in town till yr. departure for America sooner.

I think there is much good as to send him in the accounts from America to cheer you.
My kind regards
by your Daughters - and believe me
especially in the favorable reception of the President's message -
Yrs very truly

My Duke desires me
to thank you very much for W. Webster's very interesting speech which
