Letter to Philander Chase

Peter Roe

The Philander Chase letters were written in the 18th and 19th century and therefore may contain language that we understand today as harmful or offensive. You may encounter paternalist descriptions of Native Americans, racial slurs, or sexism. For more information, see our policy page.

 My dear Sir

I have heard of your afflictions and have felt for you under them - but you need not have any commiseration for you received consolation from Him who bore our griefs and carried our sorrows. May you abide in that consolation until you are translated to the regions of everlasting blessedness and glory. There may we meet - there may we dwell - there may we sing the triumphal song of Moses and of the Lamb.

I hope you intend visiting Ireland before your return to America. I think you ought to do it, and I am sure... sincerely would be forced readily to assist in forwarding the great object which you have in view. There is great facility for travelling and at a very cheap rate. In a short time you could visit Dublin Leam. and a few more of the prin: cipal cities. — You shall have a heartly welcome under this roof and glad should I and my family be to have you con: municate with us even for a day but we will hope for a longer stay from you than that, as I conclude that you cannot now return till Spring. —

M^{rs} Roe and my daughter join in affectionate regards & in warm wishes that we may see you here With my dear Sir
Y^{rs} ever sincerely in Y^{ts} bond
Peter Roe
