Letter to Philander Chase

Paul Beck

The Philander Chase letters were written in the 18th and 19th century and therefore may contain language that we understand today as harmful or offensive. You may encounter paternalist descriptions of Native Americans, racial slurs, or sexism. For more information, see our policy page.

Right Rev'd & Dear Friend,

I received yours of the 24th November and note the contents and I perceive you have placed the affair in the right hands. Should the draft ever appear I shall meet it according to order but I do not expect it ever will. I should have answered yours more punctually but was in hopes of receiving news of your sons arrival with ^{you} which I hope has been accomplished ere this - the many dangers attending travelling in your country creates an anxiety in the breasts of those who have friends on the western waters. I am obliged to be brief in my writing on account of my eyes which will not allow me to spend much time in that employment.

You will please accept the love and affectionate remembrance of all my family and present the same to Mrs Chase and your family.

I remain

Yours Sincerely
Paul Beckwith

P.S.

When you draw on me for any amount please to draw at one days sight as I am sometimes from home the business part of a day - always send a letter of advice. & your two drafts one of 50[¢] and one of 100[¢] have been paid.

The Right Rev^d Philander Chase
