Letter to Dr. Joseph Denison

Philander Chase

The Philander Chase letters were written in the 18th and 19th century and therefore may contain language that we understand today as harmful or offensive. You may encounter paternalist descriptions of Native Americans, racial slurs, or sexism. For more information, see our policy page.

Dear Brother :

I am exceedingly anxious to hear from you and dear Sister Rachael: Will you have the goodness to write me how she is and how you all are. Various accounts of dear Rachael's ill health have reached us
- Do relieve our minds. - Our prayers are frequent and ardent for your welfare.

I have not been able to learn any ^{tidings} of your son James. I hope by this time you've had good tidings.

How is Brother Dudley, Susan and Sister Cotton? Nobody writes us but dear Grand Daughter Laura; and her letters are but bits of things. I suppose she is treating me according to the merit of my own poor short epistles to her. - She ^{to} remember her duty is otherwise.

We have very cold weather; shall, we fear, furnish our Corn crops - Wheat & oats, I believe, will turn out well. For such we are, I trust, truly thankful

you see that we are about from what you have already rec^d from us. Soon will you vill get the Journals of our Convention and that vill inform you of our spiritual condition.

We have moved over the Meadows, on the College Hill into the New Building designed for the school for females. It is now vacant — and as the times are, we hope for some

Success

Our health is generally good —

Dudley was ordained in the first week in June at Pinkville. He proves a capital preacher —

He is quite grave and discreet in his discourses ments.

My best love to all enquiring friends and accept the same equally from yr. affectionate Brother
