

Philander Chase Letters

1843

Letter to the Editors of the Churchman

Philander Chase

The Philander Chase letters were written in the 18th and 19th century and therefore may contain language that we understand today as harmful or offensive. You may encounter paternalist descriptions of Native Americans, racial slurs, or sexism. For more information, see our policy page.

Follow this and additional works at: https://digital.kenyon.edu/chase_letters

Recommended Citation

Chase, Philander, "Letter to the Editors of the Churchman" (1843). Philander Chase Letters. 1214.
https://digital.kenyon.edu/chase_letters/1214

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by Digital Kenyon: Research, Scholarship, and Creative Exchange. It has been accepted for inclusion in Philander Chase Letters by an authorized administrator of Digital Kenyon: Research, Scholarship, and Creative Exchange. For more information, please contact noltj@kenyon.edu.

To the Editor of the Churchman

Sir

Bishop Mc Ilvaine says he "did not profess such entire accuracy that neither of the "particular statements complained of might be increased or diminished by a more thorough investigation"

Bishop Chase believes him

By Mc Ilvaine says "For the aid of a more thorough examination he referred the Convention not only to the financial Report - already mentioned but also a manuscript statement by the Treasurer of Receipts and Expenditures during the last eleven years"

By this it is understood that the Convention had with the Trustees who are accountable to that body had before them the means of making a correct statement. Why they did not do this when it was their bounden duty does not appear. The same was highly important and evidently demanded by all friends of the Institution.

