Lecture by Mr. Franklin Matthews, Jan. 19th, Was Very Fine.

On Wednesday evening, January 19th, the students of Kenyon had the rare opportunity of listening to one of the most entertaining and delightful lectures ever delivered in Rosse Hall.

Mr. Franklin Matthews was the lecturer and his subject was "Around the World With the Atlantic Fleet." Mr. Matthews, correspondent of the New York Sun on the entire cruise, was one of the very few civilians who were allowed to take this cruise, and his description of that mysterious and romantic journey is fascinating in the extreme. At the very beginning one felt as though lifted up and placed on one of those great battleships and borne along with the White Squadron out from Hampton Roads down the bay and on over the high seas. The first important stop was at Rio de Janeiro, where the fleet of the Republic of the North was met with great acclaim, for Brazil realized that no fear need now be entertained as to European aggression. On through the straits of Magellan and past the Argentine coast, around the "Horn" and on past Chili and Peru the fleet sailed with stops here and there at the larger harbors. At every port the fleet stopped, the people paid honor to the sailors. For a short time the fleet remained in San Francisco, and then sailed away to visit those strange oriental countries, Hawaii, Japan, New Zealand and Australia. In Japan thousands of children greeted the sailors singing "Hail Columbia, Happy Land." In New Zealand and Australia the welcome was no less enthusiastic. A glimpse of Suez Canal, the Mediterranean and the Atlantic and the fleet was once more at home.

All through the lecture the audience was made to feel what a thoroughly patriotic American Mr. Matthews is. Through every sentence rang the pride he felt in the glory of the Stars and Stripes.

With keen political insight he reviewed the condition of affairs in Japan and Australia. Japan he says is our friend now and for all time while the United States does not herself destroy that friendship. Childhood is a sacred thing in Japan, and the children would never have sung the songs of America but with the nation sincerely approving.

In Australia the spirit of

BASKET BALL SEASON OPENS

Beginning of 1910 Schedule Finds Kenyon in Badly Crippled Shape---Captain Bentley and Young Unable to Play---Northern Trip Results Are Very Disastrous.

Kenyon versus O. W. U.

Kenyon lost the first away-from-home game to Wesleyan, at Delaware, on January 15th by a score of 41 to 18.

Young, who had hurt his ankle in the game with Spalding team a week before, was on crutches and Captain Bentley was forced to stay behind on account of his college work. With these two men out of the game, the team was greatly hampered and the showing was no more than could reasonably have been expected.

Wesleyan's superior floor work and the whirlwind play of Forward Stauffer and Center Cope, were obstacles that could not be surmounted and Wesleyan was always in the lead.

Acting Captain Cardillo played his usual strong game and scored 14 of Kenyon's 18 points.

A large crowd was on hand to see the game.

The Mt. Union Game.

In the first game of a three days trip Kenyon lost to Mt Union at Alliance on Thursday, January 20. Score 20 to 12.

Kenyon's difficulty lay in her inability to score from floor shots. Cardillo and Weaver were the only players to cage the ball from the floor. Cardillo adding eight more points to Kenyon's total by some good foul shooting.

Kenyon played a good, close guarding game as is shown by the small number of field goals which fell to the lot of Mt. Union. Only six times were they able to land the ball in the basket; but Blythe tied Cardillo up with 8 foul goals, hence Mt. Union managed to pull the game through.

With a little more accuracy in shooting the game would probably have been ours.

Referee Snyder again worked to the satisfaction of all.

The team was very pleasantly entertained at a dance after the game and reports a good time in Alliance.

Kenyon 23—Buchtel 25

On Friday, the 21st, the team went from Alliance to Akron to play the five representing Buchtel College and met with one of those heart-breaking, two point defeats. Buchtel won 25 to 23.

Buchtel got away in the lead and although the first half was close all the way, they managed to nose out Kenyon 12 points to 9. Kenyon had one point the best of the second half, 14 to 13, but were not allowed to win the game, the final score being that given above.

The team is unanimous in its statement that Referee Parrott was guilty of two or three very "raw" decisions. In the closing minutes of play when each point counted, a Buchtel play was allowed a basket which was apparently shot from out of bounds. Following this Henry shot a basket which would have placed Kenyon in the lead, but the referee refused to allow it, on the grounds that the whistle had blown before the goal was made. Both of these decisions, the men say, were more than questionable and the players

JUNIOR PROM.

Preparations Made by the Prom. Committee---Program for the Week.

Despite the small success of last year's senior reception, due to the decree of the Board of Trustees limiting decoration of Rosse Hall, Junior Prom bids fair to surpass its predecessors. The committee has decided on a means of decoration which should rival, in general effect, the customary false roof of bunting. Sixty Japanese lanterns enclosing small incandescent lamps will be irregularly suspended above the floor, high enough to furnish a soft mellow light and at the same time hide the beams and rods above. Full advantage will be taken of the seven foot space around the walls by decorating with bunting and by festooning the corners. The windows and stage will be adorned with palms and ferns. Each corner will be converted into a beautiful and secluded retreat. Altogether, Rosse Hall should present a setting characteristic of a Kenyon Prom.

Prom Week, will as usual, be introduced with the Junior Informal, Friday evening, February 4th. Jackson's Trio will furnish the music and a gay and animated dance will naturally ensue.

On Saturday night the Junior class presents the one act farce, "Ici on Parle Francais." Thus far it has not been definitely decided whether or not a dance will follow the play.

The Junior formal reception to the senior class will begin at 8 p. m. Monday night at Rosse Hall. At least one hundred couples are expected to be present. Johnson's Orchestra, of Cleveland, will render a program of 32 dances included in which is a Kenyon medley arranged expressly for the occasion. "The Court House in the Sky" will be limited to fifteen encores. Catering will be done by the Busy Bee Company.

The Glee and Mandolin Club will give a concert on Tuesday night and an exceptionally good program is assured. Following the concert, the chairs will be removed in favor of an athletic dance. This terminates Prom week.

The committee has spared no pains nor expense in an endeavor to make the Prom surpass the standard set by Kenyon tradition and all may be well assured that the time between semesters will be four of the most enjoyable days in the whole college year.

Tickets for all the events may be procured a week in advance at Jackson's drug store or room No. 32 Middle Hanna.

Glee and Mandolin Club.

Not least among the many attractions of Prom Week, is the annual concert of the Glee and Mandolin Club which will be held in Rosse Hall on the evening of the eighth of February. A great deal depends upon the success of this concert, as its results will influence, to greater or less extent, the policy of the management in arranging the spring trip. Much is expected of the Club this year and it is up to the men to make good.

The program, subject to change, will consist of the following pieces.

PHILOMATHESIAN MEETS

The regular meeting of the Philomathesian Literary Society was held Wednesday evening, Jan. 26th. After some pressing business was dispatched a literary programme was rendered as follows:

1. The Jewish Race in America—Mr. J. D. Cook.
2. Current Events—Mr. A. Goldsmith.
3. Kipling and His Works—Mr. Kraft.

The report of the treasurer, Mr. Siddal was then made and accepted. After several names were proposed for membership the meeting adjourned.

"See here. That horse you sold me runs away, kicks, bites, strikes, and tries to tear down the stable at night. You told me that if I got him once, I wouldn't part with him for $1,000."

Wooster Score a Victory.

Kenyon lost the third and final game of the trip to Wooster on Saturday. This was the worst defeat of the three, Wooster winning 26 to 10.

Referee Parrott evidently took to heart the remarks of the Kenyon team the night before at Akron and saw a chance for revenge. He gave Wooster twenty-five shot at the basket by calling fouls on Kenyon. Captain Cardillo was ruled out of the game in accordance with the rules which prohibits a player having more than five fouls called on him.

The first half proved a runaway for the home team, Wooster scoring 18 points against Kenyon's single tally, a foul goal by Cardillo. Again, however, Kenyon came from behind and had the better of the second half argument 9 to 8.

Wooster's low ceiling was a decided disadvantage to Kenyon's shooters and time after time, shots directed at the basket hit the ceiling.

Comments

Although Kenyon lost all three games on the trip, this should not discourage the team or its supporters.

To begin with the team was in badly crippled condition. Captain Bently found it impossible to accompany the team and Young too, had to be left at home, his injured ankle having refused to mend rapidly. These two men would undoubtedly have bolstered up both the offensive and defensive play of the team to such an extent that Mt. Union and Buchtel would have been beaten and probably Wooster.

Then too, a basket-ball team is at a great disadvantage playing on a strange floor. The average floor is worth at least ten points to the team which is familiar with its ins and outs and Wooster's floor is worth 20.

The next two games on the schedule are at home, one with Otterbein, the other with Wesleyan. The regulars by that time will probably all be fit for duty and the team can go on the floor intact for the first time since the opening game of the season.

We want both of those games, so let everyone do what he can to bring about the desired end.

ALUMNI

Carl R. Ganter, '99, visited Gambier, January 22, to remain a few days on the Hill.

C. C. Childs, '09, now studying law at Yale returned to the Hill for a day's visit on his return from the holiday recess.

George Fullerton, '11, spent Sunday, Jan. 16, on the Hill.

Executive Committee Meets.

Finding that no published report of the Executive Committee Meetings has been made in the paper during the time preceeding the Xmas recess the following somewhat belated minutes are printed in this issue.

The Chinese Club of Pennsylvania decided at a meeting held on December 6th, to challenge the Chinese students at Yale to a debate, which it is planned to hold some time next year. This contest will decide the Chinese-American intercollegiate championship, Yale having defeated Harvard and Pennsylvania having defeated Cornell.

At a convention held in Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 30-31, 1909, delegates from local fraternities in the University of Minnesota, University of South Dakota, and Case School of Applied Science, founded a national professional mining fraternity with the name Sigma Kappa Alpha. Its chapters are to be installed only in schools granting a Mining or Metallurgical degree, and its members must be men working toward such degrees.

George Ade has written a new musical comedy, "The City Chap" for presentation by the Harlequin Club at Purdue this spring. Ade will coach the production.

DECORATION MANAGEMENT

As the time for the Junior Promenade draws near, the old question of decorating Rosse Hall is uppermost in the minds of the members of the Junior class. As in former years, it is deficient to come to any decision, because the expense, which is a large item, must be taken into consideration. With the proper management, this question could be settled, and much of the expense, which former classes have contended with, could be eliminated.

As it is at present, each Junior class must purchase everything used in the decoration. The material purchased is not used more than two times, once in the Junior year and once in the Senior, and then it is destroyed or the mice get into it and cut it so that it cannot be used. For this reason, and it is nothing less than a lack of management, an unnecessary amount of money is expended each year.

There is a remedy for this condition at Kenyon, and the Assembly should consider and correct it. The following plan offers the best solution of the question.

The Assembly should pass a by-law, that all material purchased by any class or college organization, for the purpose of decorating, in connection with a class-play, dance or other function, should become the property of the Assembly as soon as the function is over. Each year, at the first regular meeting of the Assembly, an undergraduate, a freshman, an underclassman should be elected and given the power to call upon any Freshman in college to aid him in caring for the materials which thus become the property of the Assembly. The materials so collected, should belong to the undergraduates, as a whole, but should be loaned to any class or college organization.

Working under these principles, it would be but a short time until the student body would have almost everything necessary for decorations and the expense of giving a dance or other affair would be lessened very much.

THEOLOGUES AND COLLEGIANS

We have thought for some time that the Bexley column of the Collegian could be a useful means of communication between Bexley and Kenyon men. We believe that an interesting interchange of thought between the two ends of the Hill could be carried on by means of this column. For example subjects and questions could be submitted to the Collegian from Kenyon or Bexley men, then written articles and answers will follow in due course.

It is with this idea therefore that an article entitled "Our Life Work" is published in the Bexley column of this issue.

What has become of the Civics Club? If we remember right the Civics Club last year occupied a large place in the interest and enthusiasm of the student body here at Kenyon. A delegate was sent East to attend the annual meeting of the College Clubs federated for the purpose of studying civic and economic conditions existing in this country. The usefulness of an organization of this kind is unquestionable. We believe that the matter should again receive the attention of the student body and suggest that the men in charge of the movement exert themselves and put the club once more upon its feet.

It is admittedly true that an editorial column in a college paper is too often entirely composed of criticisms aimed at faults of existing conditions. This is probably explained by the fact that it is a much easier thing to criticize the fault of one thing than to laud the virtue of another. Therefore, when an opportunity presents itself for the latter kind of editorial writing it is our opinion reprehensible to permit it to pass by.

And so it is not with the idea of patting ourselves on the back that we proceed to treat of a phase of Kenyon life which we believe to be one of the distinctive features of this college. On Wednesday evening, January 19, the college and town at large had the opportunity of listening to a lecture by Mr. Franklin Matthews of the New York Sun. Of the quality of this lecture, mention is made elsewhere in this paper. It is of the informal meeting Mr. Matthews had with the college men in the Sterling Room after the lecture that we desire to speak. Mr. Matthews is a man of pleasing address and was thoroughly at home among the men. By the stories he told those fortunate ones present were lifted out of the confines of college life and saw men as they worked in real life, got a notion of the personality of the men who did things and altogether spent a couple of hours of unalloyed pleasure.

Taking this instance as our example we are moved to emphasize the advantages Kenyon men have in meeting informally these men who have lived and lived successfully in the outer world and who give us some idea of what lies before the college man upon his graduation from college.

Feeling that any comment upon the change in the office of editor in chief of this paper would be entirely superfluous and at least out of place, in this column, the editor desires never-the-less to take this opportunity to inform the readers of the paper that the same policy in regard to make up and style will be pursued in the future as had been inaugurated under the efficient editorship of Mr. Bland. The Board of Editors feel that the paper as now published has proven more readable and more representative of this college than the Collegian of former years. On the other hand we recognize that there is large room for improvement and ask therefore the co-operation of every man in college in the effort to make this paper, in the best sense of the word, the Kenyon Collegian.

Death of Rev. Henry Leanord Badger

Word has been received here announcing the death of the Reverend Henry Leanord Badger, Kenyon '62 and Bexley '67. Rev. Badger, upon being ordained, located at Monroeville, Ohio. Later he labored as a missionary at Pioche, Nevada. During the Civil War he served as 1st Sergeant, 96th O. V. I. At the time of his death he was living in Los Angeles, Cal. Rev. Badger's death leaves ten of the class of '62 living out of a total of twenty one.

BEXLEY NEWS

OUR LIFE WORK

Every college man, especially every Senior, is constantly asking himself this question, what shall I make of my life? That you wish to make the most of life is taken for granted, but what you would like to settle for yourself is, how can this best be accomplished? The writer is convinced that the greatest opportunity for a college man today lies in the ministry of the church and he asks you, as a man wishing to make the most of life, to at least, give this subject serious consideration.

Never in her history has the church been in such a position to appeal to college men as she is today. Her growing freedom in intellectual opinion, her harmony with science and scientific methods, her acceptance of the doctrine of evolution and the application of it to her own problems, her return from the mediaeval, prudential conception of salvation to the broader teaching of Christ, namely, that of saving the whole race to a higher life on earth, these with many other causes have so expanded the activities of the church that she can make the highest appeal to a man desirous of making the best use of all his faculties in his life work.

The typical college man is one who has been normally developed in each phase of his being. He is athletic, intellectual, social, moral and religious. He is athletic but not a "bully," he is intellectual but not a "grind," he is social but not a "snob," he is moral and spiritual but not a "prig." He is an all round developed man and he naturally ought to seek that life where his rounded nature may best find expression.

Where is there a study which so appeals to the intellect as that given in the contemplation of the ultimate reality of the universe? Where is there a field which so appeals to our social instincts as that in which we can be a friend to both poor and rich, to both high and low? Where is there an opportunity for the use of our moral and religious nature as that of ministering to the sick and dying, or to the penitent sinner? Where, in fact, is there a life so comprehensive in itself and so extensive in its possibilities of service as in the ministry of the church?

Don't judge the ministry by the weaknesses of some of the men you see in it, but judge it by its strongest men, or better still, judge it by the new vision of yourself therein portrayed.

On Thursday evening, Jan. 20, '10, the Bedell Missionary Society heard the reports of the delegates who represented Bexley at the Student Volunteer Convention at Rochester. Dr. Streibert will give us views of the convention later. Messrs. Hughes and Albus gave very interesting and vivid reports of this great Missionary convention.

The Rev. Irving Theodore Reece of Trinity Church, Columbus, Ohio, preached at the college chapel Sunday morning, Jan. 16, 1910. The subject of his sermon was "Character" in the social life of today. Jonathan Swift once said that a minister should aim so to preach that everyone in his audience could understand the sermon. Perhaps this is one reason why so many enjoyed the Rev. Mr. Reece. There is strength in the simplicity of a sermon.

The Rev. Mr. Reece who was the college preacher on Jan. 16, attended Harvard college and graduated from the Episcopal Theological School at Cambridge. After a ten years' residence in Milton, Mass., he came to Columbus. Aside from his duties in the church, Rev. Reece has entered largely into the outside affairs of life being a member of the Trade Union and Chamber of Commerce of Columbus.

The Rev. Charles F. Magee, '04 Bex., is leaving Kenton, Ohio, to take up work in West Virginia.

Mr. Paul Ernst held services in Cleveland on Sunday the 16th.

ON THE HILL

Although at this writing the loss of Hubbard Hall has not been adjusted by the insurance company, permission has been obtained from the adjustor to dig out the furnace which heats the Stock Room. The boiler was little damaged in the fire and when a temporary shed is erected over it, it will be ready for use. Beginning about the 25th the Stock Room will be open during the hours of daylight and temporary steps and entrance made on the south side.

On Monday the 24th Dr. Pierce starts on his annual trip through the East. Among other things he will attend on February 2nd an Alumni dinner at the Woldorf-Astoria in New York and on the 3rd one in Philadelphia at the University Club.

After the lecture Wednesday night those students who were fortunate enough to go to the Sterling Room, were treated to what may be considered one of the most interesting hours ever spent on the Hill. Kenyon and Cornell songs were first sung, and then Mr. Matthews told stories of his own college experiences and incidents of the great voyage of the Atlantic fleet in his excellent style. It is safe to say that not one of those who heard it will ever forget the last story he told of "Admiral Bob" off the end of South America. Two members of the Faculty were at the Sterling room, but not over forty students. Those fellows who did not go over have themselves to blame, but nothing is ever lost by meeting personally a man of the world, and a better opinion of Kenyon would be taken away by these men if more of the students attended the informal gatherings after each lecture.

Just after such a successful lecture as that by Mr. Matthews, we have an announcement from Dr. Peirce of another lecture on the Larwill foundation to be delivered on the evening of March 3rd by Mr. S. S. McClure the Editor of McClure's Magazine. His subject will be "Editing as an Art, or The Making of a Magazine," and should prove interesting to the whole college and more especially to those of any literary tendencies. Mr. McClure has recently lectured at many of the important colleges in the country and Kenyon is fortunate in securing him. A more complete announcement both in regard to the subject of his lecture and the man himself will be made in these columns at a later date.

On the afternoon of January 19th, the annual Senior-Faculty indoor baseball game took place in Rosse Hall, and after five innings of interesting play ended with a score of six to five in favor of the Seniors. Although we missed our major league umpire of last year, whose decisions were at times so hotly contested, still the game was full of many amusing incidents. The greatest play of the game was the wonderful home run of Dr. Hall who knocked the ball behind the piano on the stage and scored two men ahead of him. Dr. Fountain also starred for the Faculty. The unfortunate tendency of the Faculty first baseman towards rowdiness showed itself as usual, but on the whole the game was clean and sportsmanlike, and everyone was sorry to see it cut short to make room for the gym class.

"Public Opinion." The students of Kenyon college enjoyed an address on public opinion by Dr. Jones of Bexley Hall, Sunday evening, Jan. 16, '10. After defining the term, he said, that sooner or later in all ages public opinion had caused Kings to obey the voice of the people. He referred historically to the granting of Magna Charta by King John, tracing the trend of democracy to the present age, in which the people themselves are the last resort. When he had clearly pointed out the unlimited power in the hands of the people of the coming generation, he left his hearers the question of their own responsibility in the future.

The fire extinguishers which were placed in the different divisions about college during the Christmas vacation are now permanently established. During the last few days the college carpenter, Mr. Andrew Biekle, has been engaged in putting up boxes for these extinguishers. The glass front of the box must be broken to permit the extinguisher to be removed. Altogether the boxes present a very pleasing appearance and are a great improvement over permitting the extinguishers to remain on the floor.

The Dormitory Committee held a meeting in the president's office Monday morning during which the gas mantle question was discussed. Nothing was definitely decided but it is thought that the damage deposits will in the future have to bear an added burden in regard to gas mantle indemnity.

THE EXAMINATIONS

The following is the examination schedule for the week commencing Jan. 29. The bulletin board in Assembly Hall has been surrounded all week by students trying to secure their schedules. It is thought that the schedule published in the Collegian will prove of some service to the college.

Larwill Lecture.

militarism was manifest, but apparently the country was loyal to the mother country. The inhabitants are Englishmen of an independent, hardy cast, such as characterized our own pioneers, and they will stand no injustice. With deep feeling Mr. Matthews spoke of the mission of the Anglo-Saxon races to carry English civilization through all the world. Hand in hand as brothers, America and the colonies of the British Empire must be the bulwarks of all that grand old England has given us, should England ever reach a period of decadence.

Regarding the mission of the fleet he had little to say. Personally, he was of the opinion that the purpose of the cruise was to give two newspaper men the chance to see the world free of charge. He claims the distinction of being the only graduate of the Ananias club. It happened this way. After the fleet had started and it was published to the fourteen thousand men on board that the fleet would return by way of Suez, he telegraphed the Sun the news. Diplomatic denial followed authorized by President Roosevelt. But it was true, the fleet came home by Suez, and Mr. Matthews has been graduated from the club afore-mentioned.

It was a lecture not soon to be forgotten, one that was instructive and good to hear, and long will it thrill every lover of true American greatness who heard it.

The College World

The first hockey game between Case and Reserve will be played on Feb. 4. This is the first time that hockey has been played at either school. Hockey takes the place of basketball this year, but is only on trial for one year.

Students at Case must pass up eight hours of first semester work or be dropped from school.

Ohio Wesleyan will debate with Syracuse University in February while the George Washington University team will journey to the Pacific coast and debate with University of Southern California.

The Students' Council at Michigan has chosen a tight-fitting toque, or skating-cap, as the official headgear for all University students. The color of the tassel and cap will designate the college and class of the wearer.

The University of Iowa, which closed its doors a week ago on account of a coal famine, opened again on Monday.

The Oberlin Glee Club traveled over 3,500 miles and passed through Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Nebraska and Illinois on their trip just completed. A special car was used on the entire trip.

Every exchange gave an account of the Rochester convention of Volunteers which was held at Rochester on December 29. Over 3,000 delegates were present and very nearly every college and university in the country was represented.

Michigan and Wisconsin gave a joint concert at Milwaukee on December 27. The glee, mandolin and banjo clubs of both institutions took part.

A Bowdoin man who rescued a child from a burning building has been awarded a Carnegie medal and $2,000 with which to defray his college expenses.

Orders have been issued to the engineers of the University of Minnesota that if any of them are seen smoking on the campus they will be suspended.

The profits from "Koanzland," the comic opera presented at Michigan this year, exceeded $2,000.

Weekly swimming and diving tests for sophomores and freshmen have been started at Brown.

Sixteen students were quarantined in a fraternity house at Syracuse last week on account of scarlet fever which had broken out. The quarantine lasted for twelve days, nine of which included the examination period. Special exams were given.

The annual snow rush between the Sophomore and Freshman classes at Syracuse was held last week.

THE REVEILLE

Undivided Support Needed For Its Success --- A Communication.

The following article was received by the Editor from one signing himself as 'One Interested in the Reveille.' The article merits the interest and attention of every Kenyon man: Editor Collegian:

Fifty-three years ago, the first Reveille was published by the undergraduates of Kenyon college. That Reveille, small and unpretentious as it was, represented the various interests of the college, and was made up with articles, contributed by men interested in the various organizations on the "Hill."

I have said, it was published by the undergraduates of Kenyon. While it is true, through all these years, the publication has been superintended by some particular class; it is also true, that the Reveille would have long since sunk into oblivion, if it had not been for the loyal, hearty and enthusiastic support of every true Kenyon man. It is just that kind of support which the Reveille must have this year, if it is to be a success and if it is to reach the standard which every Kenyon book should reach.

We cannot expect, nor can we hope to publish articles in the Reveille which rank with the articles published in some of the Eastern Year Books, for they have men among their student bodies, who are experienced writers, contributing the leading magazines of the country. We can expect, however, and have a just right to expect articles which represent Kenyon and Kenyon men; and we have the Kenyon men who have the ability and talent to write those articles.

I am sure, the members of the Junior class are working hard to put out a year book which will be a credit to Kenyon, but they must have the support of the men in college. It should be the aim of every man on the "Hill" to have some article in this book, and if you do your best, the Reveille Board will be glad to consider your article.

Let me again say, for I know the task which the Reveille Board has before it, that the Reveille Board cannot make the book, but let every man in college "get busy" and do his best, and the 1910 Reveille will be a book which both alumni and undergraduates will be proud of.

One Interested in the Reveille.

AN OBSERVATION

The following article was received through the Collegian Box and speaks for itself.

Money For Tennis Net.

Before long some loyal supporter of Kenyon's tennis team will be around with a paper asking every one who considers himself a Kenyon man to show his loyalty by giving something towards buying a new tennis net. There is not a man on the Hill but will be glad to give all he can to extol the name of Kenyon but we dare say there are many who will glance over on the court and see two perfectly good nets rotting through the carelessness of the upholders of that sport. There is no good excuse for such carelessness and we can't see why some one should not take these in.

An Observer.

Bowdoin has organized a Monday club to meet every Monday evening throughout the football season and the first Monday of each month throughout the rest of the year. Its object is to further the interests of Bowdoin in general, but of football in particular, by getting hold of first and second year men in high school and entertaining sub-freshmen. The members will be B men exclusively. The captain of the football team will be president.
