CRITICISM ANALYZED

By Professor George E. Woodberry
in Third Formal Series of Lectures on Larwill Course

Subject Discussed in Twofold Light of Creative and Historical Aspects -- Logically Treated

On the evenings of May 7 and 8, the third series of formal lectures on the Larwill Foundation was delivered in Philo Hall by Prof. George E. Woodberry. His topic was, "Two Aspects of Criticism; Historical and Creative."

According to Mr. Woodberry historical criticism concerns itself with isolating the various elements of an artist's environment—physical, social and spiritual—that enter into his work. The work of art is an historical fact, though it is the product of a spiritual activity. But as much that goes into a work of art is dead material, outworn creed, narrow or onesided interpretation of life, the work of the historical critic is the scholar's work and belongs to the the world of the dead. It develops as its illustrative human type the man in the library.

Creative criticism is often described as a process quite the reverse of the historical. Given the work of art, the critic or reader through his knowledge is to recreate it in his own mind as the poet originally did in his own soul. This means of course the throwing back of ourselves into the remote past when the work was created. But with this view Mr. Woodberry had little sympathy. He believed that the theory would not hold water and his second lecture presented a view, radical as he thought it would be deemed by many, in which creative criticism was quite differently explained. In setting forth his idea Mr. Woodberry was replying to the contentions of those critics who follow in the way of Benedetto Croce of Naples, whose work on Aesthetic has a growing vogue in England and in a less degree in America. The insight of Mr. Woodberry as a critic has never been better revealed than in this lecture, which, as he said, was

CLASSMATE OF HAYES

And Senior Alumnus, J. M. Boyd, '42, Taken by Death--Judge Granger, '50, Also Summoned

J. Milton Boyd, the senior alumnus of Kenyon College and a classmate of President Rutherford B. Hayes, died at his home at Hillsboro on April 11, at the age of ninety-five. His death was due to the infirmities of old age.

He was born at Hillsboro on August 12, 1817, and graduated from Kenyon in 1842. He then read law, and in 1845 was married to Miss Mary Blair. In 1853 he engaged in the milling business and was for many years the head of the firm of J. M. Boyd and Company.

Mr. Boyd was one of the founders of St. Mary's church at Hillsboro and for sixty years served as either Junior or Senior Warden, a record of continued service without a doubt unequalled by any layman. He took an active interest in educational work and civic enterprise, and gave liberally of his time and means to their betterment.

He was unassuming, but strong

ASSEMBLY ELECTIONS

Add Interest to May Meeting--Messrs.
Sant, Gregg and Bowman Win
the Three Leading Offices

The annual election of officers of the Assembly occurred at the regular meeting of May 5, and a set of capable men was chosen. Mr. W. W. Sant was the choice for president, Mr. J. A. Gregg for second place and Mr. D. W. Bowman for secretary.

The meeting was called to order by President Wickham. After the roll-call and the reading of the minutes, as chairman of the executive committee Dr. Allen presented basketball K's to Messrs. Gayer, Clark, McCaughey, Steinfeld, Rockwell and Tasman. A recess of three minutes was allowed while the new men signed the pledge regarding abstinence from politics.

The amendments dealing with the change in the constituency of the executive committee and the proceeds from class social functions were taken from the table and passed. By the first of these the terms of the four present Junior members of the committee

HOP A REAL SUCCESS

And Sophomores Win Deserved Approval--Unique Features Add to Enjoyment of the Evening

Presence of Many Probable Entrants
Among the Guests A Pleasing
Side Issue of the Season

With the presentation of the Sophomore Hop on the night of Friday, May 2, the members of the Class of 1915 made their initial bow as entertainers. One is likely to rate the social status of a class very much according to the success of its first production. Therefore, if the publicly expressed opinion of those who attended the Hop may be relied upon, the present Sophomore class is well on the road to distinction.

Rosse Hall was decorated according to a scheme which was not a great departure from the general plan of former Kenyon dances. Strips of green and white crepe paper were very effectively used to form a false ceiling, with a sort of low lattice from the walls. Cosy corners, of course, were provided, and they added greatly to the pleasure of the guests. The decorations were altogether pleasing and even gratifying, in that they represented hard work and good taste rather than needless expense, a fact which goes to show that a great deal of money is by no means a necessary factor in producing a creditable entertainment. At various times during the evening a number of cleverly executed transparencies were displayed. These were symbolical of Kenyon life and traditions and were illuminated during the singing of college songs. At this point it must be mentioned that the 1915 Class Song was sung with spirit and harmony. The tune of the song is the Miami March Song, the words having been written by P. A. McCaughey, '15.

The music afforded by Parker's eight-piece orchestra of Columbus was excellent. Not only is the orchestra itself a good one, but also the musical numbers selected by the Hop committee were new and catchy. While the music was, perhaps, a trifle too fast for those persons who still adhere to the plain waltz and two step, it was all that could be desired by the executors of the rapid whirls now in vogue.

About midnight a refreshing lunch of ice cream, cake and coffee was served, punch being on hand during the entire evening.

The patronesses on this occasion were Mrs. Peirce, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Streibert, Mrs. West, Mrs. Davies, Mrs. Newhall, Miss Merwin, Mrs. Lee and Mrs. Houston. In having a smaller number of patronesses than has formerly been the case was begun the new custom of limiting the number and leaving the selection of the majority to the wives of the faculty members.

The program of thirty delightful dances was not concluded until four o'clock in the morning, at which time the weary guests departed, cheered, perhaps, by pleasant memories of the dance and by the first rosy tints of the dawn.

Cabaret

The customary Saturday night show which follows the Sophomore Hop was altogether an innovation this year. Hitherto the entertainment has been in the nature of a play, a minstrel show or a concert. On the evening of May 3, 1913, however, the Sophomores demonstrated their originality by producing a cabaret show. Rosse Hall was furnished with small tables, at which the guests sat and where they were served with light refreshments during the performance. The program as presented was interspersed with dancing, the center of the hall being reserved for that purpose.

The first number on the program was a black-face sketch by Messrs. Freeman and Tiffany and was entitled "Othello the Sorrowful Arab." Inasmuch as it was a parody on Shakespeare's "Othello," the corresponding parts of the original play were read in advance by Mr. Cushing. The vaudeville artists then presented their version. The sketch was quite amusing and was heartily applauded. Mr. Dobie then rendered a violin solo, appearing under the modest title of "America's Premier Violinist." A string quartet, known as the "Serenaders," then played several catchy numbers and made a good impression. The program was concluded by another black-face sketch, presented by the same persons who took part in the first. This was likewise a parody on something or other, the point of which was rather hard to grasp. It was finally terminated by a fake arrest of the actors by the village marshal, to the great relief of the audience.

The following were guests during Hop week:

The Misses Irene Cooper, Loma Arndt, Ruth Ralston, Mr. Riley Morehouse, Mr. Joseph Morton, Mr. Vernon; Mr. Kain, Fostoria; Misses Edna Neely and Frances Wright, Lima; Mrs. J. D. Snook, Paulding, O.; Miss Mahon, Kenton; Miss Brownback, Decatur, Ill.; Miss Angell, Toledo; Mr. Richard Harter, '12, Canton; Messrs. Earl Hughes, H. J. Bergin, F. H. Hutchinson, Carl Jones, Bob Bentley, Miss Marvin, Columbus; Mr. P. J. Mandabach, Mr. and Mrs. James Young, Miss Annabel Mouser, Marion, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Gilger, Mr. W. C. Gilger, Miss Katherine Boughton, Norwalk; the Misses Marian Dill, Helen Thompson, Alice Cobb, Wilson, Cowell, Cushing, Mrs. H. F. Pet-tee, Messrs. Rudolph, Fred Clark, ex-'13, Ty Brister, ex-'14, Cleveland; Miss Winters, Mr. D. J. Ryan, Greenville, O.; J. D. O'Ferrall, ex-'14, Piqua; Miss Mary A. Nicholson, Steubenville; Mr. and Mrs. Krupp, Mr. Fred Zinn, Sandusky; Misses Rockwell, Bonnen, Mr. Owen Holneck, Cincinnati.

Philo Keys

Philomathesian Literary Society restored this year the old custom of awarding to those of its members most active in the literary work of the society, the privilege of wearing its insignia, a golden "Phi." To be entitled to wear this charm one must have been an active member in good standing for three years, or else must have represented Philo in some debate or oratorical contest. The charm may also be awarded to any alumnus who has done efficient service in promoting the success of the society.

Of the thirteen men awarded the right to wear Philo's insignia, nine are undergraduates, while the other four are alumni who still take an active interest in the work of the literary society. They are Clan Crawford, I. J. Koehnline, W. F. Koehnline, W. T. Sprague, D. Wonders, F. M. Weida, W. C. Seitz, G. W. Freeman, L. B. Dobie, Phil Porter, W. H. Coolidge, H. G. C. Martin and Wm. P. Elliott.

Mr. Elliott has an especially great interest in the welfare of Philo, and manifested this by returning for the meeting on the night of April 23. He gave a short talk on the past of Philomathesian and told of many of its activities during his years at college. At the conclusion of his talk he was presented with a Philo charm for which he expressed his great appreciation, with the hope that Philo's present prosperity might continue for all time.

SIGNATURE AFFIXED

By Gov. Cox to Finnefrock Bill, Disfranchising College Students-- Constitutionality Doubtful

With the affixing of the signature of Governor James M. Cox to the Finnefrock bill on May 2, the disfranchisement of practically all Ohio college students was effected. And the bill is so constituted that a literal interpretation completely removes all rights of suffrage, both at home and at college, from the student voters.

The following extract from the Columbus Dispatch of that date explains the situation: "A number of lawyers who have examined the bill * * * hold that it will not stand the test of the courts for the reason that it violates the constitutional provisions against disfranchisement. In drawing the measure in a drastic fashion the author has gone so far, they claim, as to prevent any one who is a student from voting anywhere. For instance, under it, they claim that a student of the State university having a legal residence at Lancaster will not be able to return to his home and vote as long as he is a student. Of course, this is not what was intended.

"The bill provides that no person who comes into a county to be a student at any college, academy, university, or other institution of learning 'shall be permitted to vote at any election held in this state or any political subdivision thereof'."

The outcome of the affair is yet to be determined. If the bill is so interpreted by the courts or by Attorney General Hogan as not to permit voting at home, students will be classed with idiots, imbeciles, lunatics, deserters from the army, Adams county farmers and other disfranchised persons. And in case the college men do obtain the right of suffrage in their original residences, those who are able to spare the ear-fare will probably remember the matter long after it has been forgotten by the legislators who supported it.

Oberlin students' organizations began an experiment of their own choosing last week. This experiment is the inauguration of a general pay day scheme. The aim of the scheme is to make it convenient for all students to pay up their debts in one grand hurrah of money-slinging.

The Big Six meet will be held in Columbus on May 23 and 24.

SCIENTISTS BANQUET

And Inspect Pittsburgh Plate Glass
Plant at Mount Vernon--Wonderful Spectacle Reported

As a practical demonstration that the Science Club is one of the liveliest organizations on the Hill, the members of that society held their annual banquet in Mt. Vernon on Thursday evening, May 8, 1913. It has always been the policy of the club to let no man go unfed, hence the "feed" at every meeting and the banquet at the end of the year. This seeming extravagance, however, is by no means real, for science always finds a way.

At about 6 p. m. the party, composed of Doctors Allen, Fountain, Walton and Weida, eleven of the active members of the club, and Mr. Lorey of Mt. Vernon, assembled at the Log Cabin, where a substantial steak dinner was served under the personal supervision of Messrs. I. J. Koehnline and Rettig. At the close of the meal Mr. Dobie acted as toastmaster, instructive and entertaining talks being given by the faculty members and Mr. Lorey, as well as by other members of the club. Quite a bit of humor of a strictly scientific nature was indulged in and a spirit of harmony and good fellowship prevailed. Dr. Allen spoke warmly of the healthful feeling of equality that the club has inspired between faculty and students, a feeling, he said, which can scarcely be cultivated in the class room. The members of the club were sorry to learn at this time that Dr. Fountain will not be on the Hill next year, as he has accepted a position at the University of Georgia.

Through the courtesy and efforts of Mr. Lorey the club had the great pleasure of visiting the plant of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, where they witnessed the entire process of window glass manufacture from the melting of the sand to the packing of the finished product. Especially interesting is the machine process of blowing glass cylinders about thirty-five feet in length and two and one half feet in diameter. This process has been the subject of experiment for about four years, but is now considered fairly perfect. Altogether the sight was intensely interesting and highly instructive.

THE END

The present issue of the Collegian brings to an end the labors of the Editorial Staff as now constituted and in parting we wish to add but a few words.

With our first issue of the Collegian last June we set before us two main objects: to have the paper represent true college interests and to make it appeal to the alumni. We have not accomplished either of these desires wholly, but from student expression and from interested alumni we are led to believe that in some measure at least the Collegian has this year fulfilled this twofold purpose; and where we have failed it has not been for lack of good motives.

The new editor, Mr. David W. Bowman, is in every way qualified for the position, and has shown throughout his college course genuine ability and much interest. It is therefore with every hope and trust for the future good of the Collegian that we consign it to the careful and capable hands of Mr. Bowman. And here the Editor wishes to thank most cordially that part of the staff which has given him such hearty and valuable assistance during the past year, as it has been through their efforts mainly that anything like a creditable paper has been published this year. May Kenyon and the Collegian live forever.

THE CLIMAX

We feel that the time has arrived when something must be done to rescue our class entertainments from the clutches of degeneracy. A year ago every one looked forward with pleasure to the shows and concerts of Prom and Hop weeks. Now the alluring prospect of such entertainments has given place to a dismal nightmare and an almost hopeless resignation to fate. Scarcely three months had been allowed us in which to recover from the effects of the Junior Frolic, when without reasonable warning the Cabaret Show sprang upon us with all its terrors. Nothing in the world except sheer indifference and a sense of irresponsibility could permit the presentation of two such farces in close succession. It seems that Kenyon men have forgotten that at least a semblance of entertainment must be offered in return for money expended. Though we are anxious to support the Assembly, we have grown weary of stale jokes and forced humor. They have no place on the Kenyon stage. When our souls yearn for burlesque and pointless vaudeville, we prefer to curb our feelings and wait until we can see such things in the theatres where they belong.

There is nothing wrong with the talent in college. It is simply a matter of lack of preparation. We hope in the future to see creditable productions staged in Rosse Hall and we see no reason for disappointment in this respect, for the Kenyon men of today can do what those of two years ago did. Let us cast off our lethargy and redeem ourselves.

TRADITIONS

The recent attempt to revive the custom of stacking Ascension calls for attention, while the plea offered in defense of the project demands an examination.

The last such prank was perpetrated three years ago, and the fact that two classes have refused to participate in affairs of that kind is ample proof of its folly. The old fashioned "rah-rah" type is rapidly disappearing from the American college campus, and the loud, boisterous, destructive youngster is becoming identified with the preparatory school. Only in backwoods colleges do we find the rowdy. The idea of "raising Cain" will soon be obsolete among college men, and the misguided youth who destroys property to give vent to his nervous energy is to be pitied as an irresponsible child just released from the confining bond of his mother's apronstring. Either that or a plain "rube."

The fact that this custom was once observed annually is no excuse. Progress lies in the ability to break old customs and substitute new ones. While we on the Hill have many wholesome traditions which deserve respect and perpetuation, it is time that judgment be made between the good and the bad.

The cane rush, the song of "Webb," freshman mail service, the "Cannonball," cane Sunday, "Last Chapel" and many other local traditions add to the distinctive features of Kenyon life; but the gonk, the stacking of state-ly old Ascension, the required freshman party each fall, the S. C. I. and kindred customs detract from the welfare of our institution and belong to the boy celebrating his first pair of long trousers. We hope and trust that the age of vandalism, now on the wane in every American college, will never re-appear in the vicinity of Gambier. Kill the bad custom and leave such pranks to college-story sports and grotesque poster rowdies.

THE FINNEFROCK BILL

The following editorial from the Ohio State Weekly on the Finnefrock bill, just passed, is of interest to all Ohio college men:

The Finnefrock bill, prohibiting students from voting at their places of university residence, has become a law. That measure should never have been signed by the governor. It was conceived in bitterness and acted in ignorance. "It is a slam," as one legislator put it, "in the face of intelligence." A few selfish democratic office seekers have in years gone by been defeated and others put in danger of defeat in university towns by the intelligent votes of students. It is class legislation, and if it were put to a constitutional test would be knocked higher than a kite. But aside from that it manifests a most cowardly spirit on the part of men who hold office. It demonstrates that they fear voters who discriminate. The student "thinks too much, such men are dangerous." Since the legislature has committed the error and the chief executive has sanctioned it, it should be tested in the crucible of the courts, that they may see the error of their ways and that this right may be restored to the students untrammelled. Who will be the student to make the test?

in his convictions. His was a busy life, full of faithful services and good works. His mind remained clear to the end and his death was peaceful. He held a deep reverence for his alma mater and proved a loyal alumnus to Kenyon.

The funeral services were held at Hillsboro, Bishop Boyd Vincent and the Rev. L. E. Durr officiating, and the remains interred at that place.

Judge Moses M. Granger

On Wednesday, April 30, Judge Moses M. Granger of the class of 1850, widely known throughout Ohio as a jurist, soldier and author, died at his home in Zanesville at the age of eighty-two.

Judge Granger was born at Zanesville on October 22, 1831, and received the A. B. degree from Kenyon in 1850. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1853, and the same year obtained his M. A. at Gambier. He served successively as city solicitor, prosecuting attorney and judge of the common pleas between 1865-71, and later as supreme court reporter. As Chief Judge of the second supreme court commission, 1883-5, he won distinction as a lawyer. In 1880 he was given the honorary degree of LL. D. at Kenyon.

The military record of Judge Granger was equally notable. At the outbreak of the war he held the rank of captain in the U. S. infantry, serving under Thomas in the West. As major and lieutenant-colonel of the Ohio Volunteers and later as brevet colonel of federal troops he fought under Grant in the Petersburg campaign and with Sheridan at Shenandoah.

In literary lines his activity was confined to personal memoirs of the rebellion. "Washington versus Jefferson: the Case Tried by Battle in 1861-5" appeared in 1898, and "The Battle of Cedar Creek" was written for the Ohio Commandery War Papers.

Brotherhood Receives

On April 30, the Brotherhood of St. Andrew gave a smoker for the college and faculty. The Sterling Room was filled to overflowing, and for two hours there was a rare display of Kenyon spirit. Sandwiches and coffee were served while smokes were also provided.

The reception was a success in every way.

HARCOURT

The members of the Harcourt Dramatic Club displayed their ability recently by giving a series of plays and monologues at Harcourt on Monday evening, April 21. The two plays given were "A Set of Turquoise" and "The Burglar." In these plays the following young ladies took part: the Misses Allen, Jones, Good, Cheever, Arratt and Dittenhaver. Each girl was admirably suited to the part played and the result was that the audience was entertained every minute of the time. No less delightful were the two monologues, "The Eternal Feminine" and "The Musicale," in which the Misses Durst, Armstrong, Hogan, and Stewart took part. The members of the club are to be congratulated on the way in which the various parts were handled.

The annual commencement exercises of Harcourt Place School will occur June 2-4 inclusive, when six girls will be graduated from the institution, three of whom will pass onward to college next year, Miss Dittenhaver going to Sweet Briar college in Virginia; Miss Lanier to Vassar and Miss Pratt to Smith.

The festivities will be formally inaugurated on June 2 with an outdoor presentation of Tennyson's delightful poem, "The Princess." Several solos and duets will be sung herein, chief of which is the immortal "Sweet and Low." Altogether a charming performance is expected.

The following day will be devoted to Class Day exercises while on June 4, the actual commencement exercises will transpire.

Miss Merwin has been peculiarly fortunate in securing Dr. Theodore Irving Reese, the new bishop-coadjutor of the Southern Diocese of Ohio, to deliver the oration on this occasion. Following his talk, President Peirce will present the bronze medal offered by the Ohio Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution for the best essay on a subject relating to the revolution. Then occurs the annual alumnae luncheon, followed, in the evening, by a costume dance which marks the culmination of the ceremonies.

The graduates follow: College Preparatory Course—Miss Esther Dittenhaver of Toledo, O.; Miss Elsie Lanier of Waynesboro, Mississippi; Miss Dorothy Pratt of Cold-

TENNIS TEAM BETTER THAN THE NINE

In Securing the Long Ends of the Scores--Wesleyan, Wooster, Ohio and Capitol Take Honors on the Diamond While State Wins and Miami Loses on Local Court

Kenyon's baseball season up to date has included four games all of which have been defeats and the most hopeful feature of the situation just now must be found in the continued hard work of Coach Mathews and the squad in the face of discouragement. The team was handicapped at the first of the season by the long spell of wet weather, but since conditions have been better, practice has been steady and earnest.

The season opened with a three days trip to Columbus, Athens and Delaware. At Columbus a game was played with Capitol University which the latter won by a score of 3-2. McMaster pitched for Kenyon and the game was an interesting one throughout, though called at the end of the seventh with Kenyon's opponents in the lead.

The next game was at Athens against the Ohio University team. Here Kenyon made the best showing of the season and but for a blow-up in the ninth would have carried off the honors. High Moor pitched and the defeat is in no way to be laid to his charge, as all reports make his twirling the feature of the game. Kenyon made her runs in the early innings. In the first a hit and three errors produced two runs, followed by another in the second, scored by Monroe when his own two-bagger was followed by singles from Moor and Bramble. The last score came in the fourth, Moor hitting for three bases and scoring on Weatherhead's two-base drive.

Until the sixth inning, Ohio went scoreless but at that point free passes and a successful hit and run play brought in the first tally, Gibson crossing the plate. In the ninth Hoodlet was hit, Schaeffer was safe on a fielder's choice, and Renshaw reached first on an error. On Nutting's grounder, the first two scored and Renshaw came in when Gibson hit for two bases. With the help of Wilson and Ross, Gibson also scored and the game was lost for Kenyon.

Score by innings:

Ohio . . . . . 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 4-5
Kenyon . . . 2 1 0 1 0 0 0 0 0-4

The game at Delaware was disastrous. Semans was invincible and most of the Kenyon team were taking an off day as far as fielding was concerned. Fourteen runs were scored by Wesleyan on eleven hits and further details would be painful.

The game with Wooster was one of the events of Hop season, and though the result was never in much doubt, the game was well played and fairly interesting. The Wooster players worked well together and at times put up some pretty fielding exhibitions. For Kenyon, Carr and McMaster probably played the best game. Two hits in the second and one in the eighth produced one run in each case, but for the most part Richards kept the hits well scattered, while bunched hits in the first, fifth and seventh gave Wooster the necessary points.

BEXLEY

Coadjutor Bishops are getting to be quite a la mode. The latest news from the front is to the effect that Bishop Leonard has asked for one in the Diocese of Northern Ohio, the appointment to be made at the next Diocesan Convention. All kinds of rumors have reached us as to the men who are fitted for the place; some mention Dean Du Moulin; others, Dr. Peirce; while still others feel that it is almost necessary to seek a candidate outside of the Diocese.

A few days ago the Reverend J. T. Russell made his annual visit. He delivered six lectures in as many days; while his spare moments were taken up with private instruction to those who were most interested in his work.

Great excitement prevailed among the Seniors when it was learned that Bishop Leonard could not be here for the June ordination. Preparations were quickly made to have canonicals a month or six weeks ahead of time. There was weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth 'till it was found out that Bishop Vincent could attend to all the ordinations in June; then peace reigned once more.

Messrs. Reinheimer and Ablewhite, the efficient promoters of the Scroll, are busy getting ready for the June issue. They promise several great improvements.

For welfare of all Bexley men who read the Collegian and of those college men who expect to come to Bexley in the near future, a word should be said. It is customary to use the Dean's bell to rouse the rest of the Seminary for morning chapel. Don't take the bell to your room by mistake and forget to bring it back, for the Dean may have an eight o'clock breakfast. Some one did it last week, but—well, he won't let it happen again.

It is getting to that part of the year when the Seniors are beginning to wonder where they are going to serve their diaconate. Hadley and Walton seem to be the only members of the class of six who are sure where they will be located next year. Hadley goes to Harpers Ferry and Walton to Wooster. Leslie returns to mission work in Western Pennsylvania, and Burgoon leaves for Colorado. O'Ferrall will be either in Dayton or in Middletown; while Harris is quite uncertain as to the scene of his service.

Tennis Team Better than the Nine

tures of the opening of the tennis season for Kenyon Saturday, May 3. The result of the games, however, was somewhat disappointing and Ohio State carried off a tennis match on the Kenyon courts for the first time in years. Our consolation lies in the fact that all our men showed lack of practice and possibility of development. Moor and Brown will both play better tennis later in the season, while Moor and Jenkins in the doubles need only practice together to acquire the form of last year's teams.

In the first match at singles, Hattock of State started off with a rush by winning a love set from Brown, but was forced to work hard for the second set, winning it 7-5. Runyon played a good consistent game and took two straight from Moor, 6-2, 7-5.

The doubles match was more interesting, at least from a Kenyon standpoint. Moor played a stronger game and nearer his usual speed than in his singles, while Jenkins entered fresh and put up the most aggressive game of the afternoon. Ohio State succeeded in taking the first set but was not dangerous in the next two. This match was marked by poor serving, Runyon of State being the worst offender and losing several games for his team in this way. The scores follow:

Ohio 2, Kenyon 1.

Singles—Hattock 6, 7; Brown 0, 5; Runyan 6, 7; Moor 3, 5.

Doubles—Hattock and Runyan, 6, 4, 3; Moor and Jenkins, 3, 6, 6.

Miami-Kenyon

As pretty an exhibition of tennis as has been seen on Kenyon courts in any season was the match with Miami Thursday afternoon, May 8, postponed from the day before. Kenyon was represented on the home courts by Jenkins and Clark, High Moor and Markley Brown being called to Delaware to defend the mauve against the Ohio Wesleyan players.

"Sherm" Clark drew first blood for Kenyon by defeating Crouse in straight sets, 6-1, 6-4. This was Clark's first appearance in an inter-collegiate match and it was an auspicious start. His serves were good and his play in general strong and consistent.

Jenkins had to go the limit with Ashton but defeated him handily in the end. Jenkins' play was really brilliant and gives hopes for Kenyon victories in the coming All-State. At times he appeared tired and this seemed to be the cause of defeat in the second set, but at the final stage of the deciding set the Kenyon captain came back strong and turned things in his own favor.

The doubles were marked by a show of new strength on the part of Miami, Ashton and Crouse taking the first set by superior play in all departments. Kenyon braced in the next set and forced a close finish, losing 5-7 and falling back on the victories in singles for her share of glory. The tournament goes to Kenyon, winning two out of three matches.

The results were:

Kenyon 2, Miami 1.

Singles—Jenkins 6, 3, 7; Ashton, 1, 6, 5; Clark, 6, 6; Crouse, 1, 4.

Doubles—Jenkins and Clark, 4, 5; Ashton and Crouse, 6, 7.

On May 6, W. H. Shepardson, a Rhodes scholar from Colgate University, New York, won the Gladstone history prize.

J. TOWNSEND RUSSELL

Delivers Illustrated Lecture on Washington for the Benefit of the Assembly Debt April 28

A large number of people gathered in Rosse Hall Monday evening, April 28, to hear the interesting lecture on "Washington, the City Beautiful," given by the Rev. J. Townsend Russell. The lecture was made more interesting on account of the fact that it was illustrated.

The speaker told how, many years ago, plans were made for the city and how it gradually grew into a place of long streets and beautiful buildings. Views of all the important buildings, statues and monuments were shown and much time was devoted to the description of the famous cathedral which is being built in the city and which is to be called the National Cathedral.

Not only did the speaker tell about Washington as it is today, but also about the plans for the future city. These plans consist in tearing down several buildings of old style and erecting new and more beautiful ones in their place. In addition to this some of the streets are to be changed in appearance by placing lagoons and artistic gardens at various intervals along them.

Coburn Players

The Coburn Players, well known in Gambier on account of their production last spring of "Twelfth Night," have been secured for a return date, and will, on Friday, May 23, present "The Taming of the Shrew."

Those who were so fortunate as to see this troupe last year will vouch for the excellence of their interpretation of Shakespearean drama, in which they are specialists. Unless inclement weather prevents, the production will be staged on the campus before Ascension Hall. The company carries special scenery for such outdoor entertainments, and excellent lighting arrangements have been planned.

"The Taming of the Shrew," a delightful comedy in which a determined husband transforms his wife from a high-spirited "grouch" to a gentle and lovable creature, is considered by the Coburn Players as the best bill in their repertoire. The production must be supported as well as last year or better in order to insure a return engagement.

The price of admission will be

PHILADELPHIA CLUB

Organized to Increase Interest of High School Boys in College and University Education

In Philadelphia an organization of college men has been formed to encourage school boys to enter college. Mr. Matthew F. Maury, '04, of Kenyon, is intensely interested in the work and has already gotten hold of one man for the entering class next fall through the club.

The Cairo Club of Philadelphia was decided upon as the name of the organization. This name was selected in honor of the oldest college known to history—the University of Cairo, in Egypt—founded in 988 A. D. The purposes of the club will be to bring the school boy into contact with the various intellectual activities of the colleges through the medium of lectures by members of college faculties; to acquaint him with the best aspects of undergraduate life, through intercourse with college men who have taken an active part in the student life of their institutions; to promote friendship among the college men of Philadelphia and to better acquaint them with the affairs of the colleges of their associates.

Another aim of the Cairo Club will be to arrange a number of scholarships for local school boys in various colleges and universities and to impress on the boys that no matter what their financial condition may be, that if they have the proper ambition it is possible for them to secure the college education they desire. It is believed that many noted educators and lecturers, when they are visiting Philadelphia will be willing to give short talks to the boys in the various public and private schools and special speakers will also be secured for larger and more general gatherings of local school boys.

Afternoon Reception

On Thursday, May 8, President and Mrs. Peirce entertained, from three to five, the faculty and the college men specializing in English, the guest of honor being Dr. Geo. E. Woodberry. Light refreshments were served and an enjoyable afternoon spent by all present.

(Messrs. Bowman, Gregg, Kinder and Tasman) were extended for another year. Mr. Koehnline reported for the committee that a profit of about forty dollars had been realized from the lecture by the Rev. J. Townsend Russell on "Washington." A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Russell and Mr. Koehnline appointed to write him a letter expressing the appreciation of the Assembly. At the suggestion of Dr. Walton a vote of thanks was extended to Mr. F. J. Matthews for his efficient work in securing alumni subscriptions to cover the debt.

The candidates for president as announced by the assembly council were Messrs. R. A. Houston, W. S. Jenkins, W. W. Sant and E. M. Tasman. On the fourth ballot Mr. Sant was elected. For vice president the nominees were Messrs. F. J. Wonders and J. A. Gregg, the latter proving the winner. Mr. D. W. Bowman was the unanimous choice for secretary, being the only nominee. Dr. R. B. Allen was re-elected as Chairman of the executive committee and Dr. L. B. Walton as treasurer.

As there were no contests in the dormitory or executive committees the nominees were elected by viva voce vote. Messrs. E. M. Anderson, D. W. Bowman, D. H. Harper, R. L. Rockwell, W. W. Sant, E. M. Tasman and M. B. Tayler were chosen as the dormitory committeemen, and in addition to the four Juniors previously elected to the executive committee Messrs. S. S. Clark, P. A. McCaughey and R. L. Rockwell were chosen for that body.

The student lecture course committee as elected consists of Messrs. D. W. Bowman, L. B. Dobie, M. B. Tayler, K. W. Cushing and R. C. Marsh, the first three as Juniors and the others Sophomores.

The conduct of the election was extremely gratifying to all members of the Assembly, and the present system appears to meet all objectionable features of the one formerly in vogue. The assembly council deserves a more prominent place in college matters, and should be made a permanent fixture with greater powers and a more extended jurisdiction.

A picture of John Milton has been presented to the library by the men in "English 16," the Milton course. The picture adorns the wall in the north seminar room.

On Saturday evening, April 26, the Harcourt girls very delightfully entertained about twenty Kenyon men with a dance in the Harcourt gymnasium. Music was furnished by Miss Young and Mr. Dobie of Gambier. Punch was served during the evening.

Buchtel College Sold to Akron

After 40 years of successful standing, Buchtel's attendance has increased so markedly over its endowments, that the corporation has offered the entire university without restriction to the City of Akron for $400,000. If the city accepts the proposition the college will be used as a municipal college or university and will be known as the College of the City of Akron. The name Buchtel College, however, is to be retained by the Liberal Arts department.

Dartmouth College has dropped its Medical Course.

Criticism Analyzed

the real lecture he came to Gambier to read.

His idea briefly put in this. The work of art is not a mere historical fact; it is a product of the spirit, hence a spiritual fact. The reader, or creative critic, attends to this fact and weaves about it his own soul stuff, fashions on this art form his own spirit life and thus comes to a knowledge of his inner self. Hence the great variety of interpretation a work of art yields in different minds, though the work is always one. Thus the creative act in the critic is no backward muttering of the poet's spell but an onward progress of the spirit in its work of creation or realization of its own wonderful self. The creative critic then is no mere scholar but a truly appreciative critic — a living spirit.
