LAST ASSEMBLY OF THE COLLEGE YEAR

Disposes of Numerous Problems and Makes Radical Changes in Two of the Cases Considered

Question of Abolishing Baseball Put Aside Until Fall---Seniors Sing
"Swan Songs" in Parting

The last regular Assembly meeting of the year, held June 5, was an especially interesting and important one, as a number of weighty issues were considered.

Mr. Hauck reported a new cut system that has been drawn up by the faculty-student committee on relations. According to the system as proposed, no man can take more than two cuts in a three hour course without doing an extra amount of work, the total number of absences under any circumstances being limited to five. Inasmuch as this proposition offers a less liberal system than the one now in use, the Assembly voted not to endorse it. Mr. Hauck also proposed a constitutional amendment placing the Committee on Faculty Relations on an equal footing with the other standing committees of the Assembly. The amendment was laid on the table until the next regular meeting of the Assembly.

Mr. Matthews read a new set of rules adopted by the Honor Committee. The new rules are more specific than the old and are in general more stringent. They place a definite time limit on the length of examinations, regulate conduct in the examination room and provide severe penalties for infractions of the rules or of their spirit. Save for the time limit, these rules are to apply to tests as well as to regular examinations.

A vacancy on the Executive Committee from the First Constitutional Division was filled by the election of Mr. Tayler.

In view of the fact that the board of managers of the Commons has increased the rates for next year, allowing, however, the old rates to men paying board for ten weeks in advance, a petition was read asking a continuance of this year's charges. Dr. Allen

1913 REVEILLE FAR ABOVE THE USUAL

And Juniors May Well be Proud of the Year-Book---Art Features Evoke Favorable Criticism

After a slight delay, due to the Spring flood, the Reveille of the class of 1914 has appeared, and the many unusually good qualities of the book are more than sufficient recompense for two weeks for which it was delayed. The cover of unfinished red leather carries a seal in gold, on which a "1914" is intermingled with the word "Kenyon," the entire design encircled by a wreath.

The most unique feature of the 1913 Reveille is without doubt its art department. Mr. C. Coles Phillips, '05, to whom the book was dedicated, donated two of the illustrations of the Reveille, and any comment on his work would be superfluous. Fred J. Wonders, the Art Editor, furnished the remainder of the drawings for the various departments and in this respect the volume has had no superior in recent years.

The literary department has likewise received very careful attention, and as a result this usually neglected feature is one of the best in the book. Many of the incidents connected with the life at Kenyon are portrayed in clever bits of verse, while a short story attempts to picture Old Kenyon in 1955. Many of the men now in college are introduced as successful authors, politicians and clergymen. If humor is based on

COBURN TROUPE IN 'TAMING OF SHREW'

Appear Indoors on Account of Rain
---Shakespeare's Comedy Well Presented and Applauded

So seldom is it that Kenyon men and the people of Gambier have an opportunity to see a good dramatic performance that when announcement was made that the Coburn players were coming to Gambier it was received with the hearty approval of everybody. This company, consisting of about twenty players and a large executive staff, has a wide reputation for Shakespeare's plays and it was upheld in a very commendable way on Friday evening, May 23, when they presented "The Taming of the Shrew." Although scheduled to perform out of doors the inclemency of the weather forced the players under the sheltering roof of Rosse Hall.

Promptly at 8 o'clock the performance began with singing behind the scenes. Then the curtain rose and soon the audience was in an uproar of laughter as the various characters appeared and the humorous complications increased. By degrees the plot developed to the point where Petruchio, suitor to Kathernia, the Shrew, comes to marry her. The account of this wedding as told by Gremio was extremely amusing and was presented in a most admirable manner. The scene at the home of Petruchio following his marriage when he storms and raves is probably the most interesting part of the drama inas-

OHIO TOURNAMENT FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Played on Local Courts---Teams of Eight Colleges Struggle for the Tennis Titles of the State

Kenyon Loses Championship for the First Time in Four Years---Fulton of Wooster Wins Out

As a result of the fifth annual intercollegiate tennis tournament, held on the local courts, May 30 and 31, Kenyon was forced to relinquish the tennis championship of Ohio, a title which she has held for the past three years. The honors were split between three colleges, Wooster winning the singles, Ohio Wesleyan the doubles and Ohio State the consolation singles. In the person of Fulton, Wooster put forth a "dark horse" who was early in the tournament recognized as a very dangerous contender for the honors. His work, consequently, was watched with great interest.

Ohio Wesleyan's doubles team, composed of Messrs. Badley and Worley, won out by consistent playing, good team work and accuracy of stroke. Mention must also be made of the adaptability of this team to the style of play of their opponents. It was a noticeable fact that the Wesleyan team played a different sort of tennis each match, and it was this that enabled them to win out.

In the consolation singles, Scarlet of Ohio State had things very much his own way from the outset and captured the title with comparatively little difficulty.

Altogether there were eighteen men entered in the tournament, representing eight Ohio colleges. Play was to have begun on Thursday, but, unfortunately, the elements could not see it that way, with a result that old "Jupe" Pluvius let loose in all his fury, to such an extent as to cause intense worry on the part of the management as to whether there even would be a tournament. Friday morning, however, Decoration Day, dawned clear and fair, so the schedules were rearranged and play was started in the first round of the singles. The most interesting match in this round was that between Moor of Denison and Worley of Ohio Wesleyan. Rarely have two more evenly matched players been seen on Kenyon courts and unusual interest was thereby attached. Moor's powerful strokes stood him in good stead and he won out 6-4, 9-7.

The second round was also devoid of particular interest save that which attached to the match between Fulton of Wooster and Haddox of Ohio State. The latter had the enviable reputation of not having been defeated this season. Also, he had twice defeated Kenyon players and, in the first round, appeared to have a fair claim to championship honors. Fulton was as equally determined and won out by the close scores of 7-5 and 6-3. By this time, it had become a well recognized fact among the spectators that the final round would probably be fought out between Fulton and Ashton, the latter of Miami. Hence attention was concentrated on these two and no little interest accompanied the semi-finals.

In these, Fulton easily won out from Moor of Denison 6-3, 6-4. Ashton was pitted against Badley of Ohio Wesleyan, hitherto undefeated, and a lively match was also expected here. The latter, however, was forced to yield to the more spectacular play of Ashton, the games going to the latter 6-2, 6-3.

As it had been determined that Fulton and Ashton would be the final contenders, a warm match was anticipated. Both play the same style of tennis, consisting of a smashing and forceful game, but Ashton was the steadier and less erratic of the two. Thus it was extremely hard to pick the winner, although the odds were a trifle in favor of Fulton. The match was a distinct surprise to the spectators. From the very outset Fulton took the lead, and, by an odd service and unusually powerful Lawfords, swept Ashton completely off his feet. After the first set, which went 6-1 for Fulton, there was little doubt as to who would win out, though it was thought that Ashton's steadiness might come to his rescue. It did not, however, and Fulton won the next two sets with comparative ease, 6-2 and 6-3, thereby gaining the intercollegiate tennis championship of Ohio.

In the doubles, the chief contenders were Ohio Wesleyan and Oberlin. Both of these teams played practically the same style of tennis, a careful, placing game, with "chop" strokes and effective team work the main points of reliance. Both were forced to work hard to reach the finals, all other teams showing unexpected strength. The team from Denison in particular displayed a firmness which was hard to overcome. In the finals between Ohio Wesleyan and Oberlin, the result was long in doubt, the sets running into five, the highest of the tournament. Oberlin won first, Ohio Wesleyan captured the next two and then lost again, making the set score two all. In the final and decisive set, Oberlin weakened a trifle and lost out, thus yielding honors to the Methodists.

Of the work of Kenyon in the tournament, little need be said. The members of the team had not been able to practice at all since Sophomore Hop, and as a consequence made a rather poor showing save in doubles, where Clark and Brown held the Ohio State team down to 7-5, 6-4. However, we have by no means a monopoly on the title and 'tis only well that the results went as they did, as it will serve as a greater inspiration for next year.

The tournament was a decided success in every respect save possibly financially. The support from the college was surprisingly poor, a general apathy existing. All praise should be given to Manager S. S. Clark and his assistant, Timothy Bradley, for the efficient and smooth manner in which the tournament was carried off. Also it may be remarked that all of the visiting players were well pleased with Kenyon and Kenyon hospitality.

The freshmen are busily engaged in evolving a class song, the words of which have been submitted and accepted. T. E. Davey, R. A. Bowman and B. H. Steinfeld compose the committee in charge.

Work has recently been resumed on the President's house and is making a rapid progress.

MUSKINGUM BEATENBy Kenyon Nine, but Wooster Walks
Away with Lop-sided Game---
Reserve Contest Canceled

In spite of rainy weather and other causes productive of cancellations, Kenyon has managed to go ahead with her baseball season and at last to win a victory. On May 10, the team made the tiresome trip to New Concord and took revenge for the difficulties of the journey by defeating Muskingum by a score of 4 to 3, in a well played and interesting game.

High Moor did the twirling for Kenyon and was very effective, allowing only seven hits in the nine innings. Wonders, Zint and McMaster backed him up with brilliant fielding and effective stick work. Dietz was the opposing pitcher and while he was not hit hard, the visitors made their bingles in bunches and secured the necessary runs.

Hits by Moor and Bramble, aided by Monroe's sacrifice and Muskingum errors, brought two runs in the second, tying the score. In the next three innings as many hits went to waste, but in the sixth three in a row and another sacrifice produced two more runs and the game was out of Muskingum's reach, though a rally in the eighth made the situation tense for a while.

The Reserve baseball team was to have played here May 23, but owing to the absence of some of the men who attended the Big Six field meet, Graduate Manager Reinheimer cancelled the game by telegram the night before. Through some neglect the telegram was not delivered to the Cleveland manager and the W. R. U. team showed up in full force at Gambier the next day. The question now is who pays the bill? Someone should worry!

The game at Wooster, May 16, was not a very brilliant effort on Kenyon's part. Things did not go well from the start and Wooster registered four tallies in the opening round. After that they were able to take things easy. Kenyon scored two runs in the fourth on clean hitting, but Geisel then tightened up and it was all off. Dunlap's hitting and W. Collins's fielding were the features of Wooster's game, while Wickham and Smith did the best work for Kenyon. The final score was nine to two.

STATE COMES FIRSTIn Annual Track Meet of Ohio Conference---Two Big Six Records
Broken at O. S. U. Field

The eleventh annual track meet of the Ohio "Big Six" Conference was held at Ohio field, Columbus, on Friday and Saturday, May 23 and 24. The first day was devoted to the preliminaries and the second to the finals. The track and field were unusually heavy and soggy from the continual rains which preceded the meet, but nevertheless fair time was made in the preliminaries and better in the finals, and in fact two Big Six records were broken on Saturday.

The four men entered by Kenyon left for Columbus Friday morning accompanied by Dr. Walton, Coach Mathews and Manager Black. In the preliminaries Carr and McIntosh were unfortunate in being penalized twice, the former in the hundred-yard dash and the high hurdles and the latter in the four-forty yard dash. Running 122 yards against 120 in the high hurdles Carr was able to push up to second place, failing by a few inches to qualify. Had it not been for this penalization it is certain that he would have taken first place in his heat and altogether probable that he would have placed in the finals.

The only men entered for Kenyon Saturday were Tasman and Williams. The former, entered in the discus, made a throw of 104 feet. This was just a few inches too short to place, the event going to Prouty of Denison with a throw of 110 feet. Williams, in the mile run, failed to place owing partially to his inexperience.

Despite the threatening clouds of the morning, Saturday afternoon was ideal for the meet and the bleachers were crowded. One hundred and eighty athletes were entered in the meet, representing Cincinnati, Case, Denison, Kenyon, Miami, Oberlin, Ohio State, Ohio University, Ohio Wesleyan, Western Reserve and Wooster.

Two Conference records were broken Saturday. Wagner of Cincinnati cleared the bar in the pole vault at 11 feet 5 inches; and Moore of Wooster won the two mile run in 9 minutes and 41 3-4 seconds.

The final score of the meet is as follows: Ohio State 51½; Ohio Wesleyan 32½; Miami 18; Cincinnati 18; Oberlin 16½; Denison 14; Reserve 6½; Wooster 5; Ohio University 2; Case 1.

OUR POLICY

In compliance with a time-honored custom, we take this opportunity to express our policy for the coming year, in the hope that it may meet the approval of our readers.

The best college publications are those which reflect to the greatest degree the conditions and ideas of the institutions whence they emerge. Bearing this in mind, and realizing that the Collegian belongs primarily to the alumni, we shall endeavor to portray in a faithful and graphic manner the activities of the college, and to keep the graduates in touch with conditions as they exist on the Hill.

We hope to produce a more frequent, more regular and more interesting Collegian, but the active support of the readers is the greatest factor in the building of any such enterprise. Among the obstacles which confront us are an old but dwindling debt, an insufficient supply of news matter and a scarcity of fluent, resourceful, reliable writers.

Any proposition for the advancement of Kenyon's interests will find room in our columns. We aim to extend the Collegian to all sons of Kenyon as an accurate, newsy visitor, and we beseech your indulgence and aid in our efforts to accomplish that end.

ONE YEAR OF THE COMMONS

Started as an experiment and opposed at the outset by a great many undergraduates, the Commons has weathered one year of difficulties and emerged safe and sound. In view of the fact that this institution will, as a result of success, undoubtedly become a permanent fixture, it is but fitting that a word of commendation be recorded.

The food at the Commons has been all that any temperate man could demand for twenty cents. At the very reasonable rate of four dollars a week the management has filled the wants of the patrons, giving clean, wholesome, appetizing food amid homelike surroundings.

The objections have come only from men of extravagant tastes. In student days preference should be given to that kind of food which nourishes the body and brings health, upon which largely depends energy and a clear brain. The dishes which yield nothing beyond pleasing taste should be used sparingly.

While the Commons is not in a condition of opulence, the financial end of the problem is not a great cause for alarm. Considering that the first year presented puzzles which have since been solved, and that next year will without doubt bring a larger number of patrons, the future success of the present system is assured.

As for the pleasant times afforded by the life at the Commons, few men will fail to acknowledge that the mixing of the entire student body, the nightly singing of Kenyon songs, the congenial fellowship of classmates, have not strengthened their loyalty and aided their digestion.

NEXT YEAR

At last the tide of Kenyon's affairs seems to be setting towards its flood. For the last year things have looked pretty bad. And they have been bad; so bad that they could do nothing but mend. The number of men has fallen lower than it has been for many years, athletics have been in a more or less unsettled condition, dramatics, glee club, orchestra, have all been dormant or have had at best a temporary activity. Even the canoe club's house has been washed away by the flood. Now comes the reaction.

The number of names now on Dr. Peirce's list of prospective students is the largest it has been for many years, and next year's entering class should and undoubtedly will be much larger than usual. The number of old men who will drop out is negligible. Every man now on the Hill realizes that the college needs him and only a few will disregard that need. With these men back and so many entering there will surely be a general renaissance of all college activities.

Certainly with the bulk of the 'varsity back, with Coach Mathews present, and with next year's favorable schedule, there should be a splendid football season, and all of us realize that a good football season assures a good year all round.

THE CHOIR

Of all the activities that have had a place in Kenyon during the year 1912-13, one of the most gratifying as to results has been the choir. The success of the college choir may be accounted for very easily: it is composed of a small number of interested men who attend rehearsals and Sunday services consistently and who are working under a competent leader. So far as we are able to judge, the policy of the leader has been to get men who really know something of music and are willing to work. Unnecessary absences from Sunday morning services on the part of any one have been invariably followed by that person's withdrawal from the choir.

The amount of new music that has been rendered during the year has been a source of satisfaction not only to the congregation but also to the choir men themselves. That time-honored "Te Deum" known as "64 in the Chant Book," which was sung Sunday after Sunday and year after year in the Church of the Holy Spirit, has been laid reverently aside in favor of other harmonizations that have not been sung to death. The same is true of all the music in the service, the result being an increased interest on the part of every one in the parish. It is our sincere hope that next year's leader may be able successfully to live up to the precedent now so well established.

"HITCHIE'S HOUSE"

Almost every guest on the Hill looks with displeasure at the structure opposite Hanna and inquires: "What's that?" You reply: "That's 'Hitchie's House.'" It was once a professor's house, but isn't in use at all now. That it is old, ramshackle, ugly, and useless cannot be denied, and to the majority of undergraduates there is no reason why it should be allowed to stand any longer and be an eyesore upon our otherwise beautiful campus. It is said to be a landmark of the earlier days of the college. But now that the doors and windows have been nailed up with sickly yellow boards the house is insufferable. Though it is past usefulness and hideous to behold, it is jealously guarded in a way that makes it even more useless and hideous.

Imagine this disgrace removed, and in its place a small garden around a sun-dial. While not useful such a thing would be very beautiful. Or picture a fountain there with benches and tables around it, all under a covering of some sort, where we could spend hot afternoons. Even if nothing but a grass plot were there it would be a decided improvement.

An ancient tradition of the college had it that when Kenyon should win at football from State, "Hitchie's House" would be burned. While such a bonfire would destroy the trees, nearly every student of Kenyon could easily be induced to offer manual labor or real money to effect the razing of the ancient eyesore.

incongruity, it is safe to say that this is a very amusing story.

The calendar of the past year's events at college was kept very regularly and there are few days which lack the account of the serious or grotesque incidents which combine to make history at Kenyon.

The Champlin Press of Columbus, in charge of the printing, produced excellent results and the engravings of photographs were reproduced exceptionally well.

Taken all in all, the Reveille is a book of which the class of 1914 may well be proud, and which is indeed a credit to the college.

In order to make good use of the book as an advertisement and an inducement for new men, letters are being sent to the alumni asking them to subscribe for one or two copies at the reduced price of $2.25, these copies to be sent as advertisements to various preparatory schools throughout the state. The importance of the Reveille if used in this manner cannot be exaggerated, and it is to be sincerely hoped that the manager will receive a great number of subscriptions from the alumni and that these volumes will cause a great increase in the enrollment next fall.

COURSE IN BIOLOGY

To be Offered During the Coming Summer Vacation---Chance for Delinquents to Catch Up

As in the past few years, Dr. Walton will again offer several courses in Biology this summer. The work will begin Thursday, June 19, and close July 25 approximately, and courses will be offered in General, Aquatic, and Advanced Biology. One of the dormitories will be open for the use of the men, and as heretofore all will eat at the hotel.

The course in General Biology is the regular work of Biology 1 and 2, and is open to members of the present freshman class, while the other courses are only open to men who have done previous work in the subject. Aquatic Biology is offered only in the summer, when material is abundant; this course is especially interesting here, as Gambier and the surrounding country are rich in specimen matter.

The most attractive part of the Summer School work is probably the several week-end expeditions in search of material. Last year the entire school went to Buckeye Lake, where two days were spent collecting in the morning and early afternoon and dancing in the evening. The school also saw some spirited baseball en route at Newark. Another expedition was a camping trip to the Walhonding river. These trips are always taken in automobile and are remembered long after the pleasure of having made up several semester hours towards graduation is forgotten. About ten men have signified their intention of taking these courses this summer.

State Press Meeting

The fourth meeting of the Ohio College Press Association was held at Columbus, May 23 and 24, the Ohio State Lantern management acting as host for the occasion. Representatives of eleven college publications were present, including as delegates from the Collegian Messrs. D. W. Bowman and W. S. Jenkins.

The principal feature of the first day's program was a banquet at the Ohio Union. The Hon. James Boyle, former United States Consul at Liverpool, acted as toastmaster and made the evening interesting with reminiscences of his own early journalistic career. Instructive addresses were made by George F. Burba, Secretary to Governor Cox, and Prof. H. F.

DESTINATION OF '13

Appears to be Professional Career ---Law, Theology and Commercial Callings the Favorites

As the day of their graduation approaches, the thoughts of the seniors naturally turn toward the courses which they will pursue after their departure from Kenyon. Some intend to continue student life in other institutions, but the majority have chosen business careers.

Clan Crawford, an attorney-at-law before he came to the Hill, will return to his office in Franklin, Pa. Fitch Matthews expects to study law at Columbia, and Irvin Koehnline is as yet undecided as to whether he shall follow the same plan or wait a year.

Theology, as law, will draw three recruits. Don Wonders, Franklin Hauck and Vernon McMaster intend to continue their work at Bexley.

The commercial world seems to be the favorite. Don Wheaton is slated for New York, where he will sell bonds. "Bill" Koehnline's services have been claimed by the Ft. Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction Company. John Dickinson is looking for any attractive business proposition, while Thurman Sprague has not yet seen fit to worry, though a commercial career awaits.

John Baird and Frank Weida are headed for Johns Hopkins to join the Kenyon colony. Southworth of 1911 and Coolidge, Beaty and McCafferty of 1912. Baird will take up medicine and Weida mathematics. John Wickham intends to study for the Rhodes scholarship examinations and follow "Bill" Bland to Oxford.

Only two of the class of 1913 will teach. "Petey" Bowlus has been selected as professor of biology at DeVeaux College, Niagara Falls, and also as physical director to succeed Weaver, '12. Clarence Black will seek a quiet school in the far West. The ultimate calling of both is, however, business.

Harrington of the O. S. U. department of Journalism.

Round tables for editors and managers, free tickets for the Big Six meet, and a lecture by Dr. Talcott Williams, Dean of the Pulitzer (Columbia) School of Journalism, were the attractions Saturday. This last was the great feature of the meetings and was well worth a trip to Columbus.

NEW HONOR RULES

Drawn Up to Govern Final Examinations---Severe Penalties Specified to Cover Infractions

The following rules, drawn up by the Honor Committee and ratified by the Assembly, will probably be used to govern the coming examinations, although Dr. Peirce has not given them his final sanction:

I. Time.

(a.) Except by special arrangement, the time of examinations shall be from eight to twelve and from two to six.

(b.) Every student must turn in his paper within five minutes after the end of the examination.

(c.) If a special time is agreed upon for an examination by a professor and a student, the latter shall notify the chairman of the Honor Committee of the time and place.

II. Conduct.

(a.) A student shall not be absent from the examination room for more than ten minutes, and shall not enter any other college building than that in which the examination is being held.

(b.) There shall be no remarks, questions or conversations which could in any way effect the answering of an examination question. Specifically, a student shall not ask for a spelling of a word, make any comment or ask any question as to the meaning of an examination question, nor say how much he has written on a certain question.

(c.) No text book, note book, paper, nor anything else containing information that might be used in an examination shall be brought into the building in which the examination is being held, except at the specific request and with the knowledge of a professor.

(d.) Noise or anything that might disturb those taking examinations is prohibited.

III. Enforcement.

(a.) No student shall take an examination without having signed the honor pledge.

(b.) It shall be the special duty of the chairman of the Honor Committee to see that no one stays over time at an examination.

(c.) Penalties. 1. If a violation of these rules involves deceit or dishonesty, the Honor Committee shall recommend to the Faculty that the offender be expelled. 2. If a violation involves wilful disobedience, the Dormitory Com-

In order to complete a file, a member of the Collegian board desires a copy of Collegian No. 1, Vol. XXXVIII, dated June 10, 1911, and will pay a liberal reward for the first one to arrive.

On Sunday, May 11, the Rev. Richard Harriman of Albany, N. Y., occupied the pulpit of the Church of the Holy Spirit. On May 18, Trinity Sunday, the College was favored by a sermon by the Rt. Rev. Theo. I. Reese, the newly elected Bishop Coadjutor of Southern Ohio.

Philip W. Hull, '13, will return from the General Theological Seminary, New York, to take the degree of Ph. B. with his class. J. D. Boylan will take his A. B. at the same time and return to Reserve Medical School.

Kenyon has recently added to the list of amusements a nine hole golf course. This sport proves to be a very popular one among the seniors, who are taking their ease at this time of the year.

LAST ASSEMBLY

stated in explanation of the action of the board that the ruling was made in order to induce more men to pay in advance and thus to insure the Commons management of regular patronage. The Assembly voted that the petition should be presented to the board of managers.

Mr. Kinder presented a resolution that the "Reveille" be financed by an assessment of not to exceed $250, one half to be paid by the junior class, the other half to be distributed evenly among the rest of the men in college, payable before December 1 of each year; provided, however, that each junior class shall have charge of the editing and publishing of the book; and provided that the class of 1914 be exempt from any further assessment for "Reveille" purposes. It was argued against the resolution that the collecting of money from persons not juniors would be difficult. A suggestion was made that the assessment be placed on the term bills, but Dr. Walton expressed his belief that the trustees of the college would not permit such a course to be adopted. In favor of the resolution the point was made that the burdensome junior assessments tend to keep men from completing their courses in college, while the distribution of the expense would obviate any such disadvantage. The resolution was adopted.

Dr. Walton as Treasurer of the Assembly was empowered to replace a note of $450 by one of $300, a part of the original note having been paid.

Mr. Anderson moved that the Senior Reception and the Junior Prom change places in the order of the year's events. The object of this change is to remove a part of the senior-week burden from the graduating class, placing it at a time when the seniors are better prepared to give their reception. The motion was seconded and carried, and will take effect in the year 1913-14.

Dr. Walton proposed that the continuance of intercollegiate baseball at Kenyon and the making of a schedule for next year be left to the discretion of the coach. Dr. Walton stated that there are too few men in college to support a winning team and to finance it, and that baseball is a losing proposition, from a financial standpoint, in all colleges. He urged that immediate action be taken, as the men are too optimistic in the fall to consider fairly such a proposition. It was moved and seconded that the Assembly act according to the suggestion of Dr. Walton. Mr. Wickham moved to lay the motion on the table. He expressed his belief that the coach's knowledge of the feelings of Kenyon students and alumni is not adequate to the emergency in question, and that the feelings of the alumni in particular are to be considered. He then pointed out that we are proud of our maintenance of all branches of college athletics and that this fact is a strong argument to be used in getting men to come to Kenyon. He also advocated the raising of a fund to cover the deficit caused by baseball. After being seconded, the motion to lay on the table was carried by a vote of 22 to 20. It was then voted that a committee of three be appointed to sound the opinion of the alumni on this matter and to ask them for suggestions as to funds.

Dr. Allen presented "K's" as follows: Track: Black (Mgr.); Tennis: Moor, Clark, Jenkins, M. C. Brown, Clark (Mgr.). Baseball: Carr, Weatherhead, Prosser, F. J. Wonders, Bramble, McMaster, Moor, Wickham, Monroe, Zint, Crawford (Mgr.). A graduate manager's "K" was awarded to Mr. Reinheimer.

Several of the seniors were present and gave short talks, expressing their love for Kenyon, their regret at leaving the Hill, their appreciation of the loyalty of our alumni and their willingness to take an interest in the college after graduation, and urging all to work for Kenyon during the coming summer.

On Wednesday evening, May 28, Miss Spangler gave a recital on the subject of "Modes." It was illustrated by songs from Schumann and McDowell.

Miss Tanner, '11, is sailing for America after two years of study in England and France.

Miss Spangler will spend next year in Paris in music study. During her absence her place will be filled by Miss Filmore of Gambier.

Mary Frances Helen of Gambier won the bronze medal, given by the Sons of American Revolution, for the best essay on a subject dealing the struggle for independence.

Seniors' "Last Chapel"

The last chapel service which the seniors were required to attend was that of Monday, May 26. Dr. Peirce in a short address expressed the regret of the college at the departure of '13, after which the "Hymn of the Holy Spirit" was sung as at all "Last Chapels." Instead of disbanding at the end of the service, the seniors marched to the flag-pole and hoisted a banner of orange and black, singing their class-song and the Thrill during the operation.

Social Investigation Proposed

Under the direction of a non-sectarian organization with central offices in New York, a number of the churches of Ohio have undertaken a social survey of rural conditions affecting religious statistics. A map of the state will be prepared, showing exactly the economic, educational and religious situation of each county, with special attention to the percentage of church members and of children in school. Dr. G. F. Smythe will supervise the work in Knox county, and Fred J. Wonders, '14, is to compile the data during the coming summer.

Changes in Football Rules

Few important changes have been made in the football rules for the coming season. Players may be substituted at any time during the last period under the new rules. Additional penalties are provided for delay in starting the second period. This season false moves in starting by the center are subject to penalty, as well as the other linemen. Under last years' rules the center passing back the ball was permitted to make false moves in order to deceive the opponents into starting.

The rule against blocking opponents who have crossed the line of scrimmage to receive forward passes shall not apply until the ball has been thrown. This takes the protection from the end, who under the old rules could not be blocked after passing the line of scrimmage until he had received the ball on the pass. The receiving of forward passes is rendered more difficult under the new rulings.

Kicking may be done anywhere behind the line of scrimmage under the new ruling where before the delivery was only permitted beyond the line of scrimmage five yards. The linesmen shall have jurisdiction over off-side plays and their rulings must be used for the infliction of penalties, where before the officials were not obliged to follow the reports of the linesmen.

Bearing the motto, "If it's for the University, we're against it," the "scandal sheet" at the University of Illinois made its annual appearance recently. The policy of the paper is that the best lie is the one which contains an element of truth, and the issue is one of the most popular the Illinois students have published.—Ex.

much as the actual taming is then accomplished. The way in which Petruchia changed from a raging tyrant to a kind and gentle husband, was very effective and this bit of incongruity served but to add to the humor. The final scene where the suitors and wives are brought together is made very pleasing by the incident of Katharina's obedience to her husband and the wager she so easily won for him.

Unlike most players of Shakespeare, the Coburn troupe gives decided emphasis to the perfection of each part, however small or unimportant it may seem. It is due to this fact that all their plays attain the definite unity intended by the author and make the company so popular and successful.
