MUCH DISCUSSION IN THE ASSEMBLY

Commons, Student Spirit and Reveille Assessment Form Basis of Speeches

Baseball, Track and Tennis K's
Awarded --- Honor Committee Elected

Philo Hall was well filled, Monday evening, November 2, when the president called the second regular assembly to order. The meeting included a forceful speech by President Peirce in behalf of the Commons, the presentation of baseball, track and tennis K's by Dr.
Allen as well as some business of minor importance. More enthusiasm was seen at this meeting than at any other meeting so far this year.

By way of introduction, Dr.
Peirce spoke humorously of the ultimate effect of the war on Kenyon, reading a small article from the newspaper to substantiate his remarks. Then in a more serious way he discussed the matter of lack of support at the Commons.
He showed by a brief review of the situation how it came to be formed and further that it was essentially a part of the college and therefore should receive support from the students. Not being intended for gain or profit, there could be no reason for anyone's raising the objection that every student was not getting value received under the arrangement as it has been run from the beginning.
There has always been a deficit in the final report, consequently the college has been the loser and the student the gainer. Failure on the part of students to support the present, somewhat imperfect, system, lessens the chance for a greater and better Commons which would undoubtedly come, and come soon, if properly supported.
There is always a certain amount of inefficiency in any eating establishment but if a college inn were made according to present plans all inconveniences would be reduced to a minimum.

VARSITY DEFEATS MUSKINGUM ELEVEN AMID LARGE GROUP OF KENYON ROOTERS

Changes in the Lineup Largely Responsible for Increased Efficiency of Team Work---Score 14-7 Result of Hard Fighting---Consistent Work in Case Game Gains One Touchdown, But Line Weakness Loses in Finish---Akron and Wooster Prove Too Strong for Kenyon Eleven

In one of the hardest fought games of the season Kenyon defeated Muskingum 14-7 Saturday, November 14, at Mt. Vernon.
The lineup of the Kenyon team had been shifted, and this fact no doubt was in a large measure responsible for the victory.

Kenyon got both touchdowns in the first half, the first one coming after 4½ minutes of playing when long end runs by Vance and Stout carried the ball to the 4-yard line where Schafer plunged it over.
Stout kicked goal. A long spiral punt by Schafer in the latter part of the second quarter was fumbled by Garges and Ader fell on it when it rolled over the line.
Stout kicked goal.

The visitors secured their only touchdown in the first minute of play in the fourth period, after a series of well-executed forward passes had carried the ball to the 1-yard line. Garges kicked goal.

Although Muskingum had the heavier team, with the exception of the latter part of the third quarter they were playing on the defensive. They showed a flash in this period that raised the hopes of the Muskingum rooters, but after their touchdown, Kenyon again took the offensive, and were within a few yards of the goal when the game ended.

In forward passes the visitors showed up well, and the inability of the Kenyon team to break them up was a feature of the game. They were unable to gain through the line, however, and with the exception of a few end runs, were quite ineffective in advancing the ball.

Schafer at quarter for Kenyon deserves praise for the way he managed the team and ran back punts. He never failed to carry the ball back at least 10 or 20 yards.

At left end Ader brought repeated cheers from the crowd by his brilliant defensive work, time after time picking the runner out of his interference.

The hard tackling of McGorm-ley was another feature of the game. Kenyon's burly left tackle was in nearly every play, and besides tackling with unerring accuracy, he threw himself so violently that the man was forced back considerably from the spot where he caught the ball. In the third quarter his knee was hurt,
and he was replaced by England.

Vance and Stout gained consistently for Kenyon on end runs, and Galberach made repeated gains through the line. He was replaced by Hallwood in the fourth quarter, who was plunging the pigskin in long gains towards the goal when the final whistle blew.

Gayer played a consistent game
at end, while Zeman at center played a heady game both on the offense and defense. Olenberg at right tackle was even better than fullback. England, Doll and Williams showed up well.

For the visitors, left half Atkinson starred, his long end runs striking terror to the hearts of Kenyon supporters on more occasions than one.

Garges, Muskingum's quarter was responsible largely for the successful forward passes that he shot to left end Sinclair. A succession of passes worked by these two resulted in Muskingum's touchdown at the beginning of the last period.

The success of the Kenyon team is believed to have been on account of the change in positions.
Zeman was placed at center, while Gayer went to right end. Olenberg, formerly right half, went to right tackle, and Ader took end played by Kinder who was forced to quit the game on account of injuries. Stout went to right half, and England was sent to fill the position of left guard vacated by Zeman.

A large crowd witnessed the game and much cheering was in

EXTENSIVE CIRCUIT WILL BE ARRANGED

Kenyon Glee and Mandolin Clubs
Practically Assured Trip---
Steady Progress

New York Trip Cancelled, But Eastern Alumni Support the Present Plan

Little was it thought that the present war in Europe would have its direct effect on the academie plans at Kenyon, but such has been the case.

The Edwin M. Stanton dinner which was to be held in New York City on December 19, has been cancelled. The committee found it necessary to do this for several reasons, chief among which was the fact that President Wilson would be unable to attend the dinner. Besides this, it was thought that the expense of such a dinner should not be undertaken while so many people are suffering and in need in Europe.

That a trip should be planned
known as the "Kenyon-Stanton Trip" was the suggestion of the New York Alumni. Such a trip is being planned now by the manager of the club, together with the help of the New York Alumni.

As planned, this trip will cover considerable territory and will take in those cities, from which Kenyon expects to draw many students in the next few years.

The object of this trip will be primarily, to advertise Kenyon.
With the excellent club we are sure to have this year, there is no reason to doubt that the college will reap a great harvest therefrom.

The club will probably be gone for a week or ten days and will take in the following cities: Cincinnati, Dayton, Toledo, Howe, Ind., Chicago, Ill., Milwaukee, Wis., Sandusky, Norwalk and Cleveland.

A custom has been inaugurated at Oberlin requesting the professors to hand in written opinions concerning the members of the senior class, to be used for further reference.—Ex.

CONCERT ATTRACTS LARGE CROWD

Program Arranged By Barrett, '99
Includes Talent From College,
Bexley and Harcourt

"A spontaneous outburst set to music"—is the phrase with which Dr. W. J. Barrett, '99, described his Pop concert which was given in Rosse Hall, Friday evening, November 12. In a certain sense of the word it was an "outburst," judging from the applause received by each member. The program was arranged exceptionally well.

Beginning the concert, O' Rourke, '18, who was accompanied by Smith, '17, turned out to be a true ragtime virtuoso on the violin. Continuing in the same style Chamberlain, '18, brought forth much laughter by his short, drawing vaudeville songs. L. B. Dobie, '14, displayed his usual ability on the violin.

DeWolf, '17, gave an interesting reading from his inexhaustible supply of selections from Riley. The next number on the program was not only a pleasant surprise, but a real treat. It was the Harcourt glee club. Mrs. Leonard, also of Harcourt, followed the glee club with two delightful solos. "Pigs is Pigs" by Miss Hayes next held the attention of the audience. Don Wonders, '13, showed the wonderful volume of his voice, in two well-known selections.

The program was concluded by an Indian-club exhibition, given by McKechnie, '17. By special request, Mr. Paul Fry who had displayed his ability on the piano early in the program, added an extra number to the program. Rosse Hall was filled to its limit. Another concert this year is already being looked forward to in which Dr. Barrett himself will take part.

The marriage of Malcom C. Platt, '08, took place on Thursday, November 12. The bride was Miss Helen Russell, of LaPorte, Ind., a niece of the Rev. J. Townsend Russell, and is known to Gambier people, having attended various commencements.

evidence. Practically all the Kenyon students were present, while Muskingum sent about 100 supporters. Between halves the Kenyon students sang several familiar college songs.

Kenyon kicked off and Muskingum got the ball on their own 40-yard line and carried it to the middle of the field. After three attempts to make the required 10 yards, Garges punted, and Schafer ran the ball 20 yards to the middle of the field. A succession of plunges and end runs by Vance and Galberach carried the ball 15 yards, when Stout circled right end and was downed on the 4-yard line. Schafer plunged it over on the next play, and Stout kicked goal. Muskingum received the ball on the next kickoff and carried it to the center of the field. The rest of the quarter was characterized by frequent punting in which Stout had a shade the better of Garges.

The second quarter was a good deal like the first, but when the quarter was half over Schafer sent a long spiral to Garges, who fumbled, allowing the ball to roll over the goal line, and it was soon seen that Ader was hugging the ball. Stout kicked goal for the second time. Vance got the ball on the kickoff and was downed on the 40-yard line. After failure to gain Stout punted, and Ader nailed the man in his tracks on the 30-yard line. Muskingum lost the ball on downs, and after a few plays through the line, Galberach ran 40 yards to Muskingum's 1-yard line where he fumbled, Muskingum recovering and immediately punting out of danger. The half ended with the ball in Muskingum's possession in the middle of the field.

Muskingum came back strong in the third quarter and broke through the line repeatedly. Once this quarter Kenyon had a chance to score when Olenberg intercepted a forward pass and ran to Muskingum's 20-yard line. On the next play, however, Muskingum intercepted a pass and Booth carried it 5 yards on the next play. A pass from Garges to Sinclair netted 20 yards, and two more advanced the ball to the 1-yard line.

Booth bucked it over on the first two plays of the fourth period, and Garges placed the ball between the goal posts. The remainder of the quarter was a punting duel until the last five minutes of play when Hallwood was plunging for consistent gains.

The game ended with Kenyon on Muskingum's 10-yard line.

Case 27—Kenyon 7

In a poorly played contest, Kenyon went down to defeat at the hands of the Case eleven to the score of 27-7 Saturday, November 7, at Cleveland. The Kenyon team seemed to have lost its fighting spirit, while Case was not in her usual form.

Case scored her first touchdown
at the beginning of the second quarter, after the ball had been carried to the 15-yard line. Seven minutes later a number of line bucks netted another touchdown for Case, leaving the score 13-0.

Kenyon secured her only touchdown in the third quarter after determined line bucks had carried the ball to the 15-yard line and a forward pass from Schafer to Olenberg had negotiated the remaining distance. Stout kicked goal.

Case secured another touchdown
in this quarter by a series of end runs and forward passes, and obtained seven more points in the fourth period by the same methods.

A comparison of the two teams
is difficult on account of the "off color" playing of each, but it is conceded by all that if Kenyon had possessed the fighting spirit that characterized her 7-6 victory over Reserve, the outcome of the game would have been different.
Kenyon's inability to break up forward passes was largely responsible for her defeat.

Zeman, Olenberg and Schafer, all Cleveland boys, played exceptionally well. Kinder played his usual game, and the way he moved into end runs was disheartening
to the Case rooters.

Wooster 13—Kenyon 0

Kenyon's ability to fumble the ball on all occasions, and Wooster's ability to recover the same,
cost a perfectly good football game
at Wooster on Saturday October 31 by the score of 13-0. Two field goals, one in the third quarter and another in the fourth, and a touchdown in the fourth period constituted the scoring for Wooster. On several occasions Kenyon had the ball within striking distance, but poor judgment and lack of the necessary vim, kept the team in the scoreless column.

To say that Kenyon played poorly is putting it lightly. The work was ragged at all times and the Kenyon backs looked more like high school than college players.
The Kenyon backfield marched down the field at several times during the game, only to fumble the ball and let Wooster push the ball back.

In the first half the play was nearly even, Kenyon perhaps having the better of the argument and throwing three of four opportunities to the winds by poor judgment and fumbles. The half ended 0-0.

In the third period Kenyon fumbled on the second play, Wooster recovering, and after three futile attempts Manchester kicked a field goal. He duplicated this feat in the fourth quarter and Eddy later took the ball over for a touchdown.

LIBRARY RULES

The library rules are so few and so simple that no student should have any legitimate reason for disobeying them.

Simply stated they are, that no reference books shall be taken from the shelves in Norton Hall under any conditions, and, no book shall be taken from the regular shelves without first being signed for. The rule, "conversation not aloud," is principally a matter of politeness and hence is not considered in this column.

Of late, however, flagrant violations of the first rule have come to our attention and seemingly the culprits are not aware of the great trouble they are causing. It often occurs that assignments from a single book are made by professors and hence a student who fails to find his particular book is in a dilemma as to where to seek for it. If the rule is being lived up to, the book will be in the room, and perhaps in use, in which case the one who desires it can be sure of obtaining it when the present user is done. If, however, the book has been taken to the dormitory by an unthinking person the hunter has to give up the search in vain and suffer the consequences at the following recitation. This is not fair and ought not to be tolerated.

More care in regard to this rule and the others will alleviate any further talk on the subject and prevent the adoption of any "lock and key" method.

THE COMMONS AGAIN

In the last issue of the Collegian there appeared an editorial urging the support of the Commons. The Collegian again pleads for its support. At the same time, however, there are certain existing conditions and rules which are helping to keep the attendance at the Commons low. As we believe the columns of the college paper is the proper place to discuss all sides of so vital a question pertaining to student life, this editorial is therefore written for the benefit of those who manage and make rules governing the Commons.

There are two rules, that are especially raising much criticism, and which seem to be rather expensive to the percentage of attendance at the Commons. One is that, relating to rebates. The other concerns credit.

Last year if a man was absent for two days or more, he was given a fair rebate. This year no rebate is given at all. While a good many men leave the Hill for two days or more at a time for various reasons, the members of the athletic teams are chiefly concerned about rebates. They usually leave on Friday and often stay over Sunday, paying board where they are and also for board at the Commons, which they do not get. How does the Commons lose by giving rebates, when informed in advance that a certain man will be away for a definite length of time?

Concerning credit, the Collegian heartily endorses an attempt to do away with any extended credit system. However, it will only result in an injury to the Commons to be too strict on this score. By this we do not mean a man should be encouraged to ask for credit. He should not do so. Nevertheless, it happens with all of us, once in a while, that we are not able to pay in advance, the same day our board is due. Many of the men receive weekly checks while others get checks every month. Should a man be turned away from the Commons if his check is a little late in getting here? We venture to say there is not a man in school who would intentionally run behind in the paying of his board.

We all acknowledge that the Commons is a business proposition, and that money has to come in promptly in order to run it. The college Commons is not a public restaurant or hotel. It is the center of college life. It is the daily meeting place of one large brotherhood, the Kenyon family. Everyone knows everyone else intimately, and there is little prospect of anybody's trying to get something for which he does not pay.

Last year the business management of the Commons collected its money in a most efficient way, and asserted itself among its patrons most effectively. Just rebate was given, and we believe every man paid his board without the necessity of any such signs upon the walls as, "no pay—no eat." The Collegian advocates the removal of these signs. If a man lags in paying his board, let him be informed as an individual, that he must either pay or eat somewhere else. The men will have no hard feelings against the cashier if he does this, for they will realize it is only the Commons speaking through him.

If nothing else can be done as regards rebate and credit, we suggest the use of meal tickets. However, we trust that those in authority will take some action on the matter. It was a hard fight to have the Commons established, and now that we have it, and realize what a big asset it is to college life, let us all work together to preserve the Commons by establishing rules which will be fair to all.

GET THEM IN

It can hardly have escaped the attention of the underclassmen and seniors that a notice has been posted calling their attention to the fact that the Reveille assessments are due in about two weeks. The time is still within the memories of the upperclassmen when the junior year assessments were so excessive as to be—like the straw that broke the camel's back—the cause of several men's leaving college.

To remedy this situation the Assembly took unanimous action two years ago. The assessment for the Reveille is limited to two hundred and fifty dollars, one half of which is to come from the juniors and the rest from the other classes. There was some delay last year in the collection of the apportioned sums but the plan was nevertheless successful.

This year is perhaps the crucial one in the working out of the scheme. The seniors owe it to the juniors to repay them for the help received last year. While the underclassmen will reap the benefits in return during their junior year, Consequently every man should consider it his duty to pay this small assessment and help support the book which faithfully presents life at Kenyon to the world.

ARE YOU LIKE THIS MAN?

Despite thoughts to the contrary, it is a pretty well established fact, that as a student is and acts, in college, so will he continue after he has left the institution. This idea is forcibly brought out in an editorial in a recent copy of the Ohio State Lantern. Speaking of an alumnus who has made good since his graduation in the spring, they added:

"He came to college with a purpose worth while.

He cultivated ways of increasing his efficiency, making use of his time to advantage, always.

He learned how to plan his time so that every minute was used for something.

He took care of his health by proper exercise, good food, recreation and plenty of sleep.

He kept his interests broad by taking an active part in school activities.

He learned how to quit things that didn't make for his betterment.

He was honest in every relationship with his fellow-men.

He kept his mind clean and his conversation free from vulgarity.

He cultivated his sympathies by doing things for his fellows.

He developed his spiritual life by a wholesome interest in things religious."

There is plenty of opportunity for all of us to use some of these rules to good advantage.

The Kenyon College bulletin, No. 39, containing the names of all living matriculates and graduates has recently appeared and is complete in every respect. Beside the alumni register there is a class index and a geographical index. In the class index the line separating the names into two groups distinguishes the graduates from the matriculates respectively. A copy of this useful book may be obtained at the president's office.

On account of the large freshman class the old instrument room for physics apparatus has been vacated by that department and changed into a chemical laboratory. As this room is near the freshmen laboratory and supply room it is very convenient to serve the purpose for which it is now being used.

Enough tables are set up so far to accommodate sixteen students and there is room to build several others along the same general lines.

The Rev. L. E. Daniels, Bex., '02, was a college visitor last week. An ardent supporter of Kenyon and in particular its glee club, he gave words of suggestion and praise for the present musical prospects.

KENYON 'SECOND' DISPLAYS ITSELF

Team of Scrubs Defeated By Mt. Vernon High School---Team Work Lacking

Individual Work of Men Was Feature of the Game---Score 19-0

The Kenyon "second" team was defeated by Mt. Vernon High School Friday, November 6, by a score of 19 to 0. The latter team having issued a challenge to Kenyon's second team, two nights before the game an eleven had been recruited with Sapp, '18, at the lead. A few plays were practiced, and with this preparation, or rather lack of preparation, Kenyon's team lined up against Mt. Vernon.

Kenyon played a good game and the score does not truly indicate the comparative strength of the teams, for two of the opponents' touchdowns were gained by intercepted forward passes and the third only after Kenyon had suffered four successive penalties. Kenyon's men were entirely equal, if not superior to the Mt. Vernon players in defensive work but seemed to be unable to advance the ball with any degree of regularity or certainty. There was no interference given the backfield and what gains were made were due to work of the individuals and not of the team.

It was evident however that Mt. Vernon was getting a harder fight than they had anticipated. They had apparently expected to have an easy walk-away—so easy in fact that they considered the game not worthy of a time-keeper. This fact was suddenly discovered after the game had been in play for 37 minutes without an intermission; but all appreciated the oversight which only added to the good spirit and unquity of the game. At the end of this time Mt. Vernon had but one touchdown and with the substitution of several new men it looked as though Kenyon might still win. But the game was contrary; the opponents intercepted a forward pass which resulted in a touchdown and in the last quarter added another; in addition Kenyon had the disadvantage of having to play up hill during three quarters of the game. When the final whistle blew the score stood 19 to 0, Mt. Vernon

DEATH OVERCOMES AN OLD ALUMNUS

Henry Sparrow Mitchell, '58, Dies at Norwalk---Had a Wide Circle of Friends

Prominent Both in Lodge and Church Work---Was Active Till the Last

With a feeling of sympathy for the bereaved, the Collegian records the death of one of its oldest alumni, Henry Sparrow Mitchell of the class of 1858.

The deceased who resided in Norwalk, was born in Mt. Vernon, September 3, 1837. After graduating from Kenyon he studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1861.

Mr. Mitchell took a prominent part in church and lodge work as well as other minor societies. He was a member of Norwalk commandery, Knights Templar, the National Union and Huron County Humane society. He was also prominent as a churchman, serving as vestryman in St. Paul's Episcopal church.

About a year ago Mr. Mitchell suffered a stroke of paralysis, but seemed in good spirits upon retiring Monday evening. Tuesday morning he was confined to his bed and died about seven o'clock. He is survived by his wife, a daughter, a sister and three grandchildren, besides numerous friends and acquaintances whose respect and love he had won by his kind and pleasing manner.

Chaplain Indisposed

Suffering from a severe attack of rheumatism in one of his legs, Dr. G. F. Smythe, chaplain of the college, has had to enter a hospital in Cleveland for treatment. For several weeks Dr. Smythe has been attending his duties under great personal discomfort and inconvenience until it was found that complete rest of the affected part was necessary. During his absence the daily chapel services will be held by Dr. Peirce or some member of the Bexley faculty.

having kicked one goal.

In spite of their defeat the "second team" made a very good showing in their first game. It is possible that they may secure another game or two before the season closes.

RHODES SCHOLARS CROSS-QUESTIONED

Sant, '14, Requested to Produce Passport---Mistaken for a German

Tells of Experiences as Boat Approaches English Coast---Evidences of War

Friends of W. W. Sant, '14, Rhodes scholar from Kenyon, will be glad to learn that he has arrived safely in England and is now enrolled at Oxford University, only after an exciting and interesting trip into a belligerent nation. Mr. Sant left New York City for Liverpool on the steamer St. Paul, of the American Steamship Line, with thirty-five other Rhodes scholars.

Mr. Sant said in a letter written from Stoke-on-Trent that the first indication of war gained by the passengers was, when nearing the end of their journey, a British cruiser drew up beside their vessel. The man-of-war threw a powerful searchlight on the liner and the excited passengers, both American and English, rushed on to the decks. They waved their hats and handkerchiefs, shouting hurrahs for King George. Their boat was then allowed to proceed without molestation.

"I and some others were held up because our names sounded like German names," Sant writes. "I merely had to show my passport, but one man, who had none, was obliged to open his baggage to produce a letter showing he was a Rhodes scholar."

"The people over here seem more earnest than excited over the war," he writes. "I have seen a lot of recruits drilling. Indeed they are volunteering so fast that the government has had to raise the physical requirements. Fourteen thousand recruits have gone from the Staffordshire potteries alone."

Golf?

Since the leaves have been raked off the Campus interest is again manifested in golf. New cups have been put in the holes and new flags, red banners with white numerals, are being made. The members of the club hope to have several rounds before the winter snows cover the links and welcome any new men wishing to join.

KENYON MAN IN POLITICAL FIELD

Robert Crosser, '97, Returned to Legislature After Successful Campaign

Careful Canvass Causes Him to Ouldo His Opponent---Large Vote Polled

One of the most noble political fights that has been made in Ohio against heavy odds for some years, has been crowned with success in the recent elections. Robert Crosser, '97, Congressman-at-large from Ohio, has been returned to Congress from the twenty-first district.

By fighting vigorously for the right both here in Ohio, and on the floor of Congress, Crosser has earned for himself the name of "Fighting Bob." The consistent struggle against his opponents in Cleveland has made many friends for Crosser throughout the whole country.

The political machine in Cleveland did not endorse Crosser for renomination, because he would not enter into any compact with them. Instead they endorsed a Cleveland millionaire to be his opponent. Determined to fight all the harder, Crosser brought his case direct to the people by going out among them to speak—a thing which his opponent did not deem necessary.

Crosser was renominated at the primaries, and was elected on November 3, running far ahead of his ticket. "Bob" Crosser will now be able to continue his fight at Washington against street-railroad monopoly, and municipal control of street-railroads.

The Science Club

The outlook for the science club is very promising this year. A number of new members have been elected and the membership is now larger than it has been for several years. Meetings will be held every two weeks. The officers of last year, F. E. Thompson, Pres., and R. C. Goode, Sec.-Treas., have been re-elected for the ensuing year.

The object of the club is to increase the interest in the study of science. Two years of science is required for admission and an original thesis must be read before the club before a new member is elected to full standing.

Akron 13—Kenyon 0

On October 24 Kenyon invaded Summit County and was repulsed by the Akron University team to the tune of 13-0. In spite of the score it may be truthfully stated that Kenyon played as well as if not better than her opponents.

The first half was all in Kenyon's favor. Playing was for the large part in Akron territory and fullback Hallwood plunged through their line again and again for large gains. A forty yard run by Stout after a long pass took Kenyon down to the Akron five yard line but an intercepted pass prevented a touchdown.

The second half, played in a fine drizzle, was more favorable to Akron. Repeated line plunging and end circling took Akron to Kenyon's two yard line where they were held for four downs. On the last down however, the head linesman claimed Kenyon offside and Akron was given a penalty of one half the distance to the goal and first down. This incident rather took the heart out of the Gambier men and resulted in somewhat loose playing and two touchdowns for Akron. One goal was kicked and one failed.

Notable features of the goal were Hallwood's line plunging and Kinder's defensive end playing. The Akron rooters were enthusiastic over his good work and gave him a hearty "hand" when he was removed in the last part of the game. Stout got off his punts well and for good distances. Crisp was individual star for Akron.

In addition to the above subject, President Peirce explained the recent rulings of the courts in regard to student voters and urged every man eligible to exercise his right at the election on the following day.

Dr. Allen then presented baseball, track and tennis K's to the following men: baseball K's to Messrs. Eckerle, Schafer, Nicholson, Carr, Zint, Clements, Holt, Prosser and Monroe; Mr. Dobie received a manager's K; track K's to Messrs. Doll, Carr, Goodwin and Snyder; tennis K to Mr. Schafer.

President Gayer and Messrs. McCaughey and Thompson made speeches urging the men to show more enthusiasm for the football team by turning out at practice and by refraining from discouraging remarks in the case of a lost game.

Mr. Smith, as editor of this year's Reveille urged the prompt payment of the respective assessments on the seniors, sophomores and freshmen. Adjournment then followed.

Founders' Day

Following out the time-honored custom, Founders' Day was observed at the morning church service on All Saints' Day.

At this service President Peirce

read the Founders' Memorial, in which are mentioned the names of those who first established the college and those who have since by their services or financial help fostered the institution during its ninety-one years of existence.

As Founders' Day came on Sunday, the service was combined with the regular Sunday one and on this account was not as elaborate as it has been in former years. Bishop Leonard was the college preacher on that day.

Progress on Reveille

The Reveille of the class of 1916 is rapidly taking tangible form. Every member of the board is working hard to put out a book that will equal if not excel any previous number.

The cover will have a red brown color with the seal of Kenyon college in gold stamped upon it. The book will contain two hundred pages and individual pictures of the football team will be a feature. The subject matter will be divided into books, each department having a section. The literary department will be much smaller than hitherto but the art department will be greatly enlarged. It is expected that C. Coles Phillips, ex-'05 and Paul Hann, ex-'10, will contribute drawings. The book is to be dedicated to Dr. R. B. Allen.

Biography Mentions Kenyon

Considerable attention is given to the Kenyon of early days in C. R. Williams' recently published book, Life of Rutherford Birchard Hayes (Houghton, Mifflin Co.) a comprehensive biography of an able president and distinguished Kenyon alumnus.

An interesting account is given of Hayes' student days in Gambier, which as his biographer notes, "were very happy days." A full page illustration of "Old Kenyon," showing Hayes' room, makes the narrative graphic. Extracts quoted from his student diary show the influence Kenyon had in moulding his character and opinions. Mr. Williams tells how Hayes, being interested in debating societies, was a member of Philomathesian and later with several other members withdrew to join Nu Pi Kappa, thus saving the rival organization from extinction.

Hayes graduated in 1842 at the age of twenty, as valedictorian of his class. His oration was on the agreeable theme, "College Life."

The remainder of the two volumes treats comprehensively Hayes' later and distinguished career, and forms a biographic work of great interest and value.

Mandolin Club Busy

While the men are working faithfully to make the glee club a success, there are also indications that a mandolin club, of no small repute, will be ready to accompany the glee club on its trip this year. The material seems to be of the very best. Recently several new men have been discovered who will greatly strengthen the club.

At present there are seventeen aspirants for positions on this branch of the musical clubs. Of this number twelve will be chosen as regulars, with several others for substitutes. In view of the trip planned by the musical clubs this year, competition is becoming very keen.

The leader of the mandolin club, Stevens, '17, will have no easy job when picking his men in about another month. The program to date includes: Salute to Williamsport, The "Chickey" Brigade, Amorita Serenade, and The Lotos Girl.

Here's a Chance

There are a few Reveilles left over from last year which may be purchased for $1.00 a copy. As the Reveille is the best advertisement of the college everyone ought to buy one to use in influencing men to come to Kenyon. One of these put in any high school in the state or country would do much to bring before the people the advantages that Kenyon has to offer and would doubtless result in a larger enrollment next fall and those succeeding. Send $1.00 or more immediately to F. E. Thompson, Manager, Gambier,

Ohio, and book or books will be promptly sent.

Seniors Organize

The first regular meeting of the senior class was held at the Commons, Friday evening, November 13. Besides the election of officers various matters of business were discussed and plans for the coming dance were proposed. On account of the small number of seniors this year it was decided to resolve the class into a committee to take care of the dance, the president being chosen to act as chairman. The election of each officer was unanimous as follows: P. C. Bailey, Pres.; R. C. Goode, Vice-Pres.; E. G. Brunner, Sec.; P. A. McCaughey, Treas.; J. D. Snook, Historian; H. L. Gayer, Toastmaster. The song of '15 followed adjournment.

Brotherhood Banquet

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew introduced a new feature into their activities in holding a banquet for the members of the local chapter on Thursday evening, November 19. The dinner was a thorough success and gave the men of the organization an opportunity to get together in a different atmosphere from that of the regular meetings. Various phases of the work of the Kenyon chapter were discussed as well as the larger work of the national organization.

A good part of the time of each meeting has been given over to the program, which has always been entertaining and instructive. Mr. McDowell read a very interesting paper on "The Life of St. Andrew," the patron saint of the Brotherhood. Other subjects discussed were "Some Favorite Hymns," by Mr. Albright and "The Church and Social Problems," by Mr. Seitz.

You win $500 by writing the best Fatima ad

We believe the College Man who smokes Fatima ought to be able to write a good Fatima ad. He knows from experience that Fatima is of satisfying excellence—that for its superlative quality it is moderately priced. He of all Fatima smokers, should be able to write of Fatima convincingly.

So we are going to pay $500 to the student who prepares and sends to us the best original advertisement for Fatima Cigarettes before June 1, 1915.

Any student of any college may compete for this $500

There are no restrictions, whatever, no strings of any kind, on this offer, other than this—every contestant must be a regularly enrolled student in an American College. We want a student—not a professional ad writer—to benefit from this offer.

Three prominent business men, whose names will be announced later, will act as judges.

$5 for every ad published $500 for the best one submitted

The $500 will be awarded June 1, 1915. In the meantime, some of the ads submitted will be published each month in college publications, together with the name and photograph of the writer—provided the writer will give permission for such publication.

For each ad so published we will pay the writer $5. But, the publication of any ad must not be taken to signify that it stands any better chance to win the $500 than the ads that are not published.

Those who try to earn this $500 should remember that the supreme test of any advertisement is its selling power. Whether your ad consists of only ten words—or runs to a thousand—it should be interesting, truthful, convincing—it should give to the reader the buying impulse. To write such advertisements, that will pass the test of performance, the writer must believe in the product he is writing about.

An Injustice

The following editorial from the columns of the Ohio State Lantern shows to what extent some people will go, in the matter of purloining literary material and passing it out as original—for editorials must be considered original unless a statement bears evidence to the contrary. No one who has read the last issue of the Collegian will fail to recognize the similarity between this editorial and the one entitled "Funny Men" in the aforementioned issue. The plagiarist, for such he seems to be, even went so far as to use the Shakespearian allusion. It often happens that an editorial in one college paper may exactly fit conditions in another college, in which case, a partial or total repetition proves effective, but even then due acknowledgment ought to be made to the paper in which it first appears. "Imitation, (not plagiarism), is flattery." The article referred to is entitled "Being So Funny" and reads thus:

"Ever notice those pseudo-humorous students who breeze in and out, tossing around sentences and phrases of cheap wit that pass for humor, but are really silly? When a person makes a statement, the 'funny' man takes it up, and makes it the excuse for chatter that would make a blue jay's conversation sound like one of Bacon's essays.

It isn't that the few people mentioned are bores that we make mention of the characteristics, but that when such a person continues being 'funny,' he gets a reputation that is hard to overcome. He is thought of as being quite a joke and nothing that he can say in a serious tone will be taken seriously.

Be careful about your use of cheap puns and slang. Frequent jests and an "infinite deal of nothing" get one into a habit that is hard to break. He finds that he cannot ask a question in class without bringing into play a lot of slang. His fellow-students never expect him to say anything worth while, because they expect only that he will "pull something."

"In the Days To Be."

The college statistician has been busy again finding out what Kenyon undergraduates are planning to do after they leave college. Fourteen different professions or vocations are included ranging from the ministry, which heads the list, to the profession of athletic directing. Law still holds a prominent place while the number of future engineers and business men is about the same. The actual result of the canvass, which was rather hurriedly made is as follows: Ministry (P. E.), 22; law, 17; engineering, 14; business 13; medicine, 6; farming, 2; chemists, 3; bankers, 2; forestry, 2; architects, 2; journalism, teaching, military, 1 each; and athletic directing 1. From the above it will be seen that even in a comparatively small college, men with vastly different plans for the future, and therefore different ideas, are found gathered together to glean knowledge from the same source. It shows further, that the work prescribed here is of such a nature and scope as to be of great benefit to any man regardless of what his future plans are.

Further statistics in regard to religious divisions were also gathered. Beside the Episcopal and Roman Catholic Churches six denominations are represented while something over seven per cent of the students have no religious affiliation. The result of this canvass is as follows: Episcopal, 52 per cent; Presbyterian, 16 per cent; Methodist, 12; Congregationalist, 3.5; Roman Catholic, 2.4; Lutheran, 2.5; the per cent remaining is divided between Baptist and Reformed church.

Seniors Will Act

The senior English class in oratorical agglutinations was retarded Wednesday last to discuss the matter of giving a play at commencement. This custom inaugurated by the English department in 1903, is part of the regular course and comprises the work of the entire second semester. On account of the few seniors this year it was thought at the beginning of the year the plan should best be abandoned. Since then, however, it appears that there is a sufficient number to present a play of some sort and so it was decided that the regular custom would be carried out. The class is fortunate in having two or three members of the Puff and Powder Club and should it lack enough men to fill the cast it will be permitted to draft the remaining number from the dramatic club. No definite play was suggested for presentation but it is probable that one of Bernard Shaw's dramas will be used. This will be read and studied critically after the Christmas holidays and during the following semester will be drilled and rehearsed until ready for reproduction at commencement. The seniors are permitted to suggest possible plays and are urged to bring any and all before the attention of the class.

The Rev. T. G. C. McCalla, '00, Bex., '03, has resigned the rectorship of All Saints' Parish, Cleveland, to become rector of St. Thomas' Church, Rawlins, Wyoming. He took up his new duties November 1.

Trend of College Athletics

That athletics holds an important place in most American colleges is a well established fact and it is doubtless responsible for the formation of the National Collegiate Athletic Association. This society while exercising no power over the colleges it represents nevertheless sets the standard and brings its influence to bear throughout the country. The following article from the Oberlin Review has recently come from the association and shows the trend of athletics in all the foremost institutions of learning. It is entitled, "Right and Wrong Views of Athletic Sport":

"Athletic sport, if honorably and wisely conducted, can hold its own in any institution of learning; but to gain a position of dignity, it must be saved from many of its friends, and maintained on so high a level that no reasonable man can question its value. Rightly administered it strengthens the weak, improves the weak places in the strong, clears the brain, teaches boys and young men to respect their bodies and to know the relation of a clean, vigorous body to an active mind and an honorable life. Rightly conducted it is a school of manly skill, courage, honesty, self-control, and even courtesy; wrongly conducted it is a school of bad manners, vulgarity, tricky evasion, brutality—the ideals not of a sportsman but of a sporting man.

"We are constantly told that in England men play for the sake of playing, whereas in America men play for the sake of winning. The more serious the question of winning, the more serious the need of winning honorably. Sport in America is not mere fun; it is a test of character, and nothing that makes the player less a gentleman belongs to it. The football player who wantonly injures his rivals, the baseball player who persists in shouting to rattle his opponents, the schoolboy or student who takes money for summer baseball and conceals the fact, should be put out of the team. Nor should any school or any college have secrets as to the legitimacy of its athletic representatives.

"To maintain high ideals in athletic sport is the chief purpose of the National Collegiate Athletic Association. This Association brings together representatives of more than one hundred universities of more than one hundred universities and colleges in three meetings held on one day every year. Sometimes a group of colleges sends a joint representative; oftener a college sends a man of its own, or two or three men, of whom only one represents it officially. A number of schools and academies have associate membership. Committees working throughout the year prepare business for the meetings, when the delegates listen to addresses from men who know much about athletic sports, and reports from committees on the various athletic sports cultivated at college. The evening meeting is devoted to the discussion of vitally important questions in college athletics.

"The Association encourages 'faculty control of athletics,' believing that the man in charge of physical education should be a member of the faculty and as good a man as any in it; that he should have a thorough acquaintance with athletic sports and a strong sympathy with youth, knowing, and able to teach, the difference between cleverness and trickery, between manliness and brutality, between the amateur spirit and the professional, between the sportsman and the sporting man."

In the convocation held in Gambier, November 3 and 4, the Rev. James H. Young, '87, Bex., '89, was one of the speakers. His subject was, "The Relation of the Rector to the Sunday School." Many college men attended the first number on the program by Dr. Peirce on the subject, "The Present War in Its Relation to the Gospel of Peace." In this paper a very striking contrast was brought between the present philosophy of the Germans with that set forth in the gospels.
