DRAMATIC CLUB WILL GIVE EXHIBITION

"What Happened to Jones" Is to Be Presented Tuesday Evening of Promenade Week

Men Taking Part Show Much Interest and Talent--Many Comic Scenes Presented

The coming Prom week promises many good times and not the least important is the play which is to be staged by the Puff and Powder Club. Already the play has assumed definite shape and the nightly rehearsals that take place in Rosse Hall with great precision are sufficient evidence of the fact that a production of no inferior variety will be put on during the evening of February 2.

Constant and pains-taking care characterizes the men in the cast and through their diligent work a play worthy of a good name will be the result.

The play chosen by the club is, "What Happened to Jones?" The humor in the play promises to make it a great success and the characters are especially well chosen. It rightly deserves the support of every man in college. This play was given in Rosse Hall several years ago. Mr. Tunks, who is the present director of the club, took the leading part in it, the last time it was given, consequently, is ably fitted to direct the members, especially in this production.

Messrs. Ader, Brunner, Downe, Herringshaw, Keicher, Leonard, McKeechie, McKinstry, Stevens, Trotman and Wattleby comprise the cast and deserve credit for their interest shown in the play and their prompt attendance at all rehearsals.

Barring any mishap the play should demonstrate what the dramatic club can do and afford excellent entertainment for visitors during the social events of Prom week.

Clan Crawford, '13, and J. A. Gregg, '14, spent several days on the Hill the first of the week.

Word has been received of the engagement of Eric M. Tasman, '14, to Miss Helen A. Thompson of Gambier.

ALUMNI OF WINDY CITY REORGANIZE

Chicago Men Join to Form the "Kenyon College Club"--Plenty of Ginger

Chicago Alumni of Kenyon in Chicago are now working together for the college with enthusiasm such as they have not displayed for years. The older organization of alumni has been replaced with a new one taking the name of "The Kenyon College Club of Chicago" with carefully drawn up by-laws, and what is more important, a strong and vigorous membership. The members are meeting alternate Tuesdays for luncheon at the Grand Pacific Hotel. Their fortnightly gatherings are proving to be valuable in renewing old and making new friendships. They have brought out the gray haired alumni of the college and the lads just fresh from the Hill and altogether are becoming so enjoyable that the wonder is now, why they were not continued before.

The older alumni organization here is not to be condemned by the foregoing roseate review of the present situation. Credit must certainly be given to the former association for maintaining the interest that has blossomed into the Kenyon College Club. The old standbys are likewise standbys in the new body, together with some new faces, equally loyal sons of Kenyon.

Officers elected to direct the Kenyon College Club are L. M. Pease, '04, president; E. M. Anderson, '14, secretary-treasurer; Frederick Harnwell, '89, Elliott Reynolds, '07, and Frederick W. Carr, '09, executive committee. President Pease's business offices are with the Westinghouse Air-brake Co. in the Railway Exchange Building.

The new Chicago organization proposes really to do something for the college. It realizes that this portion of the alumni representation has not been quite so active as it might, due of course in large measure, to the smallness of the alumni body; but now it has hopes of making up for small numbers by marked activity in turning the feet of Chicago high-school graduates toward the

EARLY LITERATURE RETURNS TO KENYON

Two Philo Record Books and Corner-Stone Sermon Find Way Back to Gambier

At the Philomathesian meeting of January 6, the society regained possession of two old record books of the society dating back to 1833. These volumes were found among some effects of a Kenyon and Bexley graduate of about fifteen years ago, which he had left at Cleveland before leaving for some post out west. Bishop Leonard into whose hands the books passed sent them to President Peirce with the request that the proper officials of Philomathesian send him a receipt for them. In bringing the books before the meeting Dr. Peirce stated that the only loose paper found in the books was his own letter accepting honorary membership into Philo.

The first of these two books contains the original constitution of Philomathesian with the signature of all the active membership. The signature of "R. B. Hayes" inscribed in this book is the only undergraduate signature of the future president which Kenyon College possesses. In addition, the volume contains a record of the fines imposed in accordance with the by-laws for non-performance of duty.

The second book contains a very thorough index of the constitution and by-laws of the society, together a complete list of the members up to 1870.

President Peirce then presented a record of Edwin M. Stanton's activities in Philomathesian, which had been made by a careful examination of the old minute books.

In conclusion Dr. Peirce spoke of the honor which he felt in being a member of the society and the inspiration which he gained from connection with this historic society.

President Bailey then expressed the thanks of the society to Dr. Peirce, after which a vote of thanks was given to Bishop Leonard for his attention to the interests of Philo.

Another interesting piece of literature which has recently been added to the college archives is a

VOTE TO WITHDRAW FRESHMAN RULE

Unanimous Action of Assembly to Return to Original Rules Meets
Faculty's Favor

President Gayer and C. E. Kinder Delegates to Student Government Conference

The chief business which occupied the time of the January Assembly was the action regarding the playing of freshmen during 1915-'16. The motion to withdraw this privilege, made by Mr. Thompson, was taken from the table and a unanimous vote in favor of it was the result.

In the discussion of this subject, Mr. Thompson defined his position, stating that other small conference teams were looking with disfavor at Kenyon's privilege to play freshmen and that we would do well to discontinue this arrangement before being forced to do so by the Conference. In addition, it was clearly demonstrated that the work of the freshmen during the last three years has not been up to the standard which ought to characterize all Kenyon's activities.

An amendment permitting men who enter the second semester from other colleges to use the privilege was lost. The chief argument here was that such an amendment seemed contradictory to the original motion.

Mr. Goode spoke at length of the distressing condition at the Commons due to lack of support. He explained that from a business standpoint the men who failed to support it would be the losers in the end. He showed that should the Commons fail, the restaurants and hotel, since they had a monopoly on the students' board would immediately raise their prices of board.

Mr. Thompson then pointed out that the rate of board at the hotel being lower than that at the Commons had a decided effect upon every man inasmuch as expenses must be taken into account. This, it was shown had much to do with the failure of men to eat at the Commons.

The matter of compulsory attendance at the Commons by freshmen was referred to the faculty for action at their next meeting. A motion to compel freshmen to eat

Following the reading of a letter from the Ohio Conference of Student Government urging the sending of two delegates, a senior and junior, Mr. Kinder, football captain-elect, was unanimously elected as the junior to attend this conference. Mr. Gayer as president of the Assembly was the other delegate. The conference was held at Columbus on the 15th and 16th of this month.

Coach Mathews in emphatic terms spoke briefly to the Assembly, pointing out the necessity of men to take up basketball work. He clearly emphasized the fact that the withdrawal of the freshmen-playing privilege shifted the burden of athletics to the three other classes thereby demonstrating the need for every man of any ability at all to participate in all athletics. To build up athletics is the coach's idea but he said that he could not hope to accomplish this without the cooperation of the students in the three upper classes.

A motion to adjourn was made and carried following the coach's talk.

VIII.

Amendments

The By-Laws may be altered, amended or repealed only by a vote of two-thirds of the members present at a regular meeting of the Club.

Eastern Alumni To Banquet

The annual banquet of the New York Alumni is to be held January 29, at the Hotel McAlpin, New York City. President Peirce who is planning an eastern trip the latter part of the month will be present and speak at this gathering. The Philadelphia Alumni are endeavoring to hold their reunion and banquet on or about the 27th of the month. This will enable Dr. Peirce to attend it also as he is scheduled to speak to the Church Historical Society in that city on January 26. The president's trip will cover a period of a week or ten days and will include other eastern cities of importance.

For the first time in three years, Case will have a basketball team. The completion of the new Case gymnasium will once more make possible the winter game, which has been put aside for hockey.—Ex.

VARSIITY TAKES TWO HARD GAMES

Basketball Five Defeat Wooster and Akron--Denison and Oberlin
Too Difficult

After two hard fought games, the basketball team returned from the second trip with two victories. The first was over the University of Akron by a score of 30-18, and the second over Wooster, 35-23. Because of the cancellation by Hiram, the game with Wooster was arranged.

The team deserves a great deal of credit for the showing made on this trip. In both cases much heavier teams were encountered, playing on their own floors, but with the varsity going at top speed, neither was able to make much headway.

Akron started out with a rush and scored five points before we had started, but through some clever shots by Day and several fouls the half ended 18-11 in Kenyon's favor.

In the second half the close guarding of Steinfeld and Zeman kept Akron from increasing their total much, while Schafer made all the points in this half for Kenyon. Palmer, of Akron, was injured early in the half but remained until he was forced to retire.

Line-up and summary:—

Kenyon—30	Akron—18
Schafer R. F.	Palmer
Day L. F.	Stansfield
Love C.	Knowlton
Steinfeld L. G.	Smith
Zeman R. G.	Crisp

Field Goals: Schafer 7, Day 4, Steinfeld, Crisp 3, Knowlton 2, Stansfield 1, Palmer 1, Kittleberger 1. Foul Goals: Schafer 6, Palmer 2.

Referee—Miller, Purdue.

At Wooster good team-work and success in long shots were largely responsible for the victory. Again the home team started off with a rush, only to be soon overtaken. The half ended 16-11 in Kenyon's favor.

Wooster came back strong in the second half and for a time it looked very badly for Kenyon. Day and Schafer saved the game, however by making several baskets in quick succession.

The team showed great improvement over the games of a week ago, and now prospects look very bright.

Kenyon—35	Wooster—23
Schafer R. F.	Brown
Day L. F.	Gingman

Steinfeld L. G.	Carleton
Zeman R. G.	Donnelly

PRIVILEGE WITHDRAWN

The time has again come when Kenyon takes her place, on equal basis, with other members of the Ohio Athletic Conference by a vote to withdraw the privilege of playing freshmen in inter-collegiate athletics. While the playing of freshmen has not proved entirely satisfactory, the enrollment of the college has not enabled the Assembly to take such action earlier.

This year with a student body of over one hundred and thirty men and with prospects for even a larger number next year such action was almost imperative. This new, or rather, old arrangement will not only be of great advantage to the college itself, but it will also be beneficial to the new men. Statistics of this year and previous years show that football has undoubtedly been detrimental to freshmen in the pursuance of their studies. Practice itself does not greatly interfere, but time lost on the trips puts a man just entering upon his college duties, at a great disadvantage.

By this regulation Kenyon will reap a great benefit. Men who would otherwise come here perhaps for a year in order to play football, will be kept here for two years and most men who stay two years will want to finish. Our graduating classes should become larger. The continuing of this original arrangement will also bring out men in the upper classes who rather than witness weak teams will want to help, and perhaps much good material may be developed among men who do not know what they really can do until they try.

The greatest disadvantage Kenyon has had in developing football teams has been that there was no second team, that is, no trained scrub eleven with which the varsity could scrimmage regularly. The advantage of such a team is unquestionable. It is an indispensable factor in the development of football teams in other schools. A strong freshman team which can oppose the varsity will give Kenyon football a wonderful boost.

It may be that by prohibiting freshmen from playing on our athletic teams, our teams may be weakened to some extent next year and perhaps even for a little longer time. It must be understood that we are not seeking for immediate results. It is for the future we are planning, for Kenyon, and for Kenyon athletics.

The assembly is to be congratulated for the passing of this rule while the student body still numbers less than one hundred and fifty, thereby not taking advantage of the conference ruling, which enabled us to play freshmen until our undergraduates should reach that number. To some of the members of the conference it seemed unfair that we should be allowed this privilege. Hereafter when our teams are victorious we will not have the fact that we are playing freshmen thrust at us by our opponents.

INVENTORY

The semester examinations mark the point at which the first half of this college year ends. The freshmen have completed their first five months in college, the sophomores and juniors have advanced a half year in their collegiate course while the seniors have come to the point where only a short semester remains in their undergraduate career. The examinations in themselves call us in a most realistic manner to an account of how the last semester has been spent. According as our work has been negligent and careless or thorough and painstaking, the results of the examination give ample testimony.

It is beyond our power to alter our acts of the past. Fortunately, however, we can and do determine what the future shall be. It would be indeed advantageous to any of us to to examine carefully his mistakes of the last semester. We should not limit this consideration to our studies alone. Possibly we may be unimpeachable in this particular, and yet by our non-participation in the activities of college have deprived both our alma mater and ourselves of mutual good.

In the new semester which lies before us it should be our resolution and endeavor to get a new grip on ourselves, rectify the mistakes which we have made in the past, and to gain from our life in college all that it has to offer us.

SOCIAL EVENTS

How do you regard social activities here at college, fellow-student? What is your opinion regarding the Prom and its accompanying festivities? There are doubtless a few men at college who look with indifference at such activities or maybe condemn them and it is to such men that these paragraphs are addressed.

Kenyon attempts and succeeds in giving three dances each year that are a credit to her and the men who share the burden of planning and executing them.

Each one comes at a time which does not conflict with regular college work with the result that great pains are spent in the carrying out of a truly creditable social event. It seems best to give the dances in this manner because by this plan all efforts can be concentrated in one place at one time.

No one can rightfully deny that these social events are a necessary adjunct to the success of a college year. They help bring people together in an atmosphere entirely different than that which characterizes the class room. They stimulate the instinct within each of us to mingle and meet people and furthermore, we ourselves gain much by the opportunity afforded us to be a part of an activity which is essentially one of giving and receiving pleasure. Pleasure or play in life is as important as work but like many other things ought not to be carried to excess.

Prom week furnishes many diversions and these can readily be appreciated because they are severed from actual college work. Everyone ought to avail himself of these diversions and then notice how much more easily the beginning of the new semester appears. After the examinations we all feel that we deserve some fun and that is just what awaits us if we will use this privilege. College must not be all books, for unless a man increases his ability to meet and learn to know people, his way in life will be narrowed to a few friends and he will miss many good things that rightfully belong to him and which were meant for the enjoyment of all.

"IN UNISON."

Assembly meetings rarely fail to reveal some phase or condition of student life at Kenyon. The last meeting showed, among other things, that there is at present a certain lack of unity among the whole student body. While this lack of unity has been evident at other times during the present year it was especially so at this particular gathering.

Leaving out the causes of this inability to get together in a general way, its effect upon the college might in time work a great deal of havoc and bring about a state of affairs which none of us would care to witness. Nothing that the college as a whole seeks to do, can be effectually accomplished unless there is more or less unity—more or less exertion on the part of each individual or group of individuals to attain a definite end. And here it must be noted that by the term unity, we do not mean uniformity. The unity of which we speak must be a trend on the part of all the student body to work for and, in course of time, obtain the various things which stand for college improvement.

To be in a state of unity we must put aside personal prejudice and break down all barriers which exist in a figurative sense between different persons or groups of persons. Each man or group of men must be treated with respect and even if one has a personal prejudice, nothing is gained by noising it abroad. In fact, such action only tends to open a breach where none existed before.

Failure to treat a man or group of men with sincerity and the respect due him or members of the group, is bound to lead to ill-feeling and division. This is true at any college but its effect is felt to a greater degree in a small institution. Such a state of affairs should never exist at Kenyon if we wish to carry on and fulfill the best traditions that have been handed down to us.

But there is a more vital reason why we should prevent any disunion from appearing. There are problems to be solved here at college and our ability to solve them will be greatly increased if we are successful. There are crises to be met not only this year but next year and each one succeeding—and they are not financial ones either—though to most of us that question seems most vital. Our athletics need attention and money cannot turn out teams. (Nor would such were the case.) Work, and plenty of it, is what is needed and what will be demanded of us especially next fall. This means

BEXLEY COMPLETED AND OPEN FOR WORK

Formal Dedication to Be on February 4th--Special Service Will Be Rendered

Bexley Hall, rebuilt and beautiful beyond expectation was opened to students on January 4, with evening prayer at 5:30 p. m.

Short addresses by Dean Jones and President Peirce concluded this service, which was marked by its simplicity and absence of ceremony. The Dean stated that while the formal dedication would be held later, the building was now actually in full use. President Peirce made several announcements concerning the date and nature of the dedication services.

As for Bexley itself, the white walled rooms with their polished floors and substantial furniture, the cheerful parlor, and the Gothic chapel with its beamed ceiling and beautiful window and altar make the building a model of comfort and beauty. The new Bexley Hall surpasses all expectations.

The date set for the dedication of the building is February 4, at which time Bishop Leonard, Bishop Du Moulin and Bishop Reese will be present to take part in the ceremony. The hour is set for 3:30 p. m. and it is expected that the students of the college will be in attendance. A social hour will follow the ceremony and full inspection of the building will be permitted.

Football "Scalps" Arrive

The new pennants to commemorate football victories of the year have arrived and been placed in the Commons. They are the gift of Canon Orville E. Watson and are of especially fine grade. The pennants include Western Reserve, Wittenberg, Heidelberg and Muskingum. The Reserve pennant will be given the most conspicuous place in view of the fact that the victory was an exceptionally hard earned one.

Frederick V. Cuff, ex-'15, was one of the five seniors at Ohio State who passed the recent bar examination.

TREATY OF GHENT TO BE CELEBRATED

Literary Societies Plan Program for February 17, Centenary of Ratification

What ought to prove an interesting and impressive program is now being arranged by members of both literary societies for the evening of February 17. This date marks the centenary of the ratification of the Treaty of Ghent, a treaty in which the beginnings of Kenyon College were to a more or less degree somewhat intermingled. Two of the Commissioners of this treaty, Henry Clay and Lord Gambier played no insignificant part in the early story of the college.

The members of the committee are endeavoring to make the program include all events near the year 1814 that have any direct bearing on the foundation of the college as well as others which may logically be mentioned at this time.

The date of the actual signing of the treaty was December 24, but as college was not in session at the centenary of that date it was decided to select the former time.

The meeting at which the program will be rendered will be open to visitors and it is the committee's intention to secure a large attendance on that evening.

Another important event which has gone by uncelebrated is the hundredth birthday of Kenyon's famous son, Edwin M. Stanton. This date was December 19, the beginning of the Christmas recess. It is possible that some observance of this event may be included in the above program. Details of the plan have yet to be completed but it is hoped that all who are asked to take part will cooperate with those in charge to make the event worthy of mention.

Member of Academie Francaise Lectures to Interested Audience in Philo Hall

Philo Hall was well filled Saturday evening, January 16, when Dr. Peirce introduced the speaker of the evening, Monsieur Brieux of the Academie Francaise who had selected as his subject, "Comment on fait une piece de theatre."

The lecturer, speaking in French, told the various experiences a person encounters upon writing a play and endeavoring to have it reproduced in one of the great theatres of Paris. Most of the experiences of which he spoke were his own and from time to time he paused to relate anecdotes bearing upon the subject. Many of these were humorous but toward the end of his lecture the serious side of his subject was emphasized a great deal.

The speaker brought home to his listeners many facts that are not generally recognized by most people. He showed clearly that dramatists are born—no amount of training or development on the part of an individual can make a dramatist of him unless he has innate ability along that line.

In speaking of bringing a play before the people, he showed the many trials that must be endured and overcome. The play must first be copied—sometimes by the author's sister or mother, and then the trip to the theatres is made. One theatre, possibly one of the most noted, keeps the play for several months and then returns it to the disappointed dramatist who tries another theatre. Finally, after several disappointments his play is accepted and after some time has elapsed he begins to reap benefit therefrom.

According to Monsieur Brieux there are no rules in writing a drama. To use his own words a drama is, "the will, showing itself in continued effort to attain a definite result." It differs from the novel in the way it affects its hearers. Where the novel is read, as a general rule, by the individual, the drama reaches hundreds of people during a single performance and reduces them all to one plane of thought. The effect is psychological—for although an audience may be made up of all sorts of people, when they are brought together to witness the working of the will of the hero in the play, they think as one, and display the same emotions accord-

DEATH CLAIMS TWO OLD ALUMNI

The Rev. J. A. Dooris, '62 Dies Followed by J. C. Mulcahey, '60 One Week Later

The death of the Rev. John Andrew Dooris, '62, Bex., '65, occurred December 22 at his home in St. Louis, Missouri. The funeral service, conducted by the Rev. James Wise, was held from St. Andrew's Church where the deceased had ministered faithfully for eighteen years. The service was largely attended and included members of the city clergy together with Bishop Coadjutor Frederick Johnston and Bishop Daniel S. Tuttle of Missouri. Contrary to the usual custom Bishop Tuttle pronounced a eulogy, paying high tribute to the earnest work of Mr. Dooris in and near St. Louis.

The body was accompanied to Urbana, Ohio, by his eldest son, John A. Dooris, where on Christmas Day, at the Church of the Epiphany, the burial service was read. The late priest had first administered in this church after his ordination. The body was later taken and placed in a vault in the cemetery at Urbana. The Committal service and burial will not take place until the return of another son from India who holds a position of Civil Engineer under the British Government. The deceased had been ill for two months and was in his seventy-seventh year.

Holly Springs, Mississippi, was the scene of a loyal Kenyon man's demise, when James Charles Mulcahey, '60, answered the death summons. Mr. Mulcahey, who was seventy-five years old had been sick but a short time with pneumonia when on Tuesday afternoon December 29, death relieved his suffering.

Though born in Dayton, Ohio, Mr. Mulcahey early moved to the south and became a strong sympathizer with the southern cause. He was a staunch confederate and served in the army throughout the whole period of the war. In the first call to arms he enlisted in Captain Nelm's company which was later incorporated in the Twenty-second Mississippi regiment. He served not only as assistant but also as quartermaster and only enjoyed one furlough during the entire time.

Mr. Mulcahey represented a type of man who commanded and received the respect of all who knew him either personally or by casual acquaintance. Well read, courteous, gentle and of pleasing per-

The Senior Promenade

The Prom to be given February 1, 1915, promises to be one of the greatest events in the social life of Kenyon that has ever taken place here. The senior class has taken great pains in selecting their programs, planning the decorations and providing the best music that can be had for dancing. All the details are being completed and nothing ought to prevent the seniors from making their final dance a delightful affair.

The Saturday evening before Prom will be devoted to an informal dance and this dance will in every respect measure up to those of former years. Good music will be provided and an opportunity for Prom visitors to get acquainted with one another will be afforded.

Following is the list of music for the Prom:

Program of Dances

1. One Step—All He Does is Follow them Around.
2. One Step—When its Night-time Down in Burgundy.

Toledo Alumni Banquet

On Tuesday evening, December 29, the Toledo Alumni Association gave a dinner at the Commerce Club in honor of the Toledo delegation now at Kenyon. This delegation consists of ten men, the largest number at Kenyon from any one town.

Covers were laid for twenty-five persons. The familiar songs were sung and a number of interesting talks given. The toastmaster was the president of the association, the Rev. Robert L. Harris, '96. Bishop DuMoulin, who was given the degree of Doctor of Divinity last June, expressed his enthusiasm at being a real Kenyon man, and signified his intention of sending his son to Kenyon. General Hamilton, '59, told about some of the men of his time, and Kenyon influence on their after life. Among the other speakers were the Rev. L. E. Daniels, Bex., '02, the Rev. Kirk B. O'Ferrall, '09, W. F. Tunks, '10, Owen Myers and Pierre McBride, the two latter being first year men.

Among the guests were several prospective men. A telegram of congratulation was sent to the Chicago association holding a similar banquet at the same hour. By the number of men now in the college, it will be seen that the Toledo association is alive and awake to its opportunities in doing something for Kenyon.

Dr. Reeves on Playing Freshmen.

In an interview with Dr. Reeves who represents Kenyon on the Ohio Athletic Conference a member of the Collegian staff recorded the following which shows the opinion of Dr. Reeves on the recent action of the Assembly:

"I am indeed gratified with the decision of the Assembly last night in barring freshmen from athletics.

"It is especially pleasing to me that the student body took this action of their own free will, and without making any reservations. A student body that can be trusted to do the right thing is an admirable institution. I congratulate you gentlemen."

A new system of grading has been inaugurated at Ohio State whereby all grades are based on what the class, as a whole, accomplishes. This, it is thought, will partially eliminate the "kicking" among students and the criticism against the instructor.—Ex.

ing as the hero succeeds or fails. When, however, the performance is over this unity of mind is broken and the opinions of various individuals, if recorded, on parts of the play would be found to be diverse.

M. Brioux is of the opinion that the drama should concern itself with social problems as for example his own play "Planchette." By this means, more knowledge can be disseminated in regard to vital questions, even more effectively than by the use of the novel.

His visit to Gambier made a great impression on faculty and students alike and even though many undergraduates could not understand his lecture, much was learned of this dramatist who has gained such especial renown and reputation in his branch of work.

Special Collegian Meeting

A special meeting of the Collegian staff was held Tuesday evening, January 12, to consider the proposition of passing a rule providing for the election of an assistant editor. Such an election would be held the first meeting of the second semester and the successful candidate without further action on the part of the board would become editor-in-chief at the close of the year. A motion of this sort was made and seconded. Mr. Bailey explained the necessity and expedience of such an arrangement, showing that the editor-in-chief could more readily teach and instruct one man the details of publishing the paper, than spread such information over all the possible candidates for the position. By this arrangement the editor-in-chief for the following year has a good half year in which to learn the ins and outs of the college paper. Under the old system the newly elected editor put out but one paper under the direction of the old editor and naturally he had many things to work out by himself in the following editions.

Several of the members of the board spoke favorably on the matter and it was unanimously voted to adopt the rule. The election of the assistant editor will therefore take place the first meeting in February.

Otterbein's Grading System

Though such a plan might not prove of practical benefit at Kenyon the system about to be adopted at Otterbein possesses many good features and is here given. A number of schools of high reputation have adopted this plan and endorsed it as a successful one. Kenyon has always stood well in the matter of scholarship though of course there is, we must admit, room for improvement.

Among the colleges using this arrangement at present are Harvard, Michigan, Missouri, and Ohio State. The plan is as follows:

The new plan divides the students into five great classes, A, B, C, D, and F, according to their scholastic attainments in the class room. The grade of C means that in a number of students so large as to exclude accidental variations, the students would be found ranking among the medium students of this subject. The grade B means that the student ranks among the great majority of those who are superior to the medium students in this subject. The grade of A means that the student is one of the few most excellent students. Only unusual attainments in a subject shall be recognized by this grade. The grade of D means that the student ranks among the majority of those who are inferior to the medium students in the subject, but whose attainments seem worthy of some recognition. The grade of F means that the student ranks among those whose attainments in this subject are lowest, so that they are excluded, by definition, from the other four grades. To these classes, the faculty has added another one, that of X, which means that the student is conditioned in the subject, either because of sickness, unavoidable absence, or for other reasons. No provision has been made as yet as to how the number of hours a pupil shall be permitted to carry will be determined. This matter will be decided in the near future.

Investigation has shown that class C is the largest class, usually comprising about fifty percent of the student body. Classes B and D are next in size, containing from fifteen to twenty percent of the student body, while classes A and F are the smallest, averaging from three to six percent. In a total of approximately thirty thousand grades, taken from all courses in the University of Missouri 4.3% were A's; 21% were B's; 53.5% were C's; 16.7% were D's; and 4.5% were F's.

More than $200,000 worth of valuable historical relics are housed in the new museum of the Ohio Archaeological and Historical Society, according to Curator W. C. Mills. The building is located on the campus of The Ohio State University.

"No state has a more valuable and interesting collection of archaeological relics than we have here in Ohio," said Mr. Mills. "The specimens we have in the museum, especially the skeletons of the prehistoric animals, gives a complete outline of the natural history of the state. The museum also contains much information about the mound builders, containing models of all the larger mounds of the state, showing their different methods and styles of construction."

Referee—Joliffe.

Kenyon went down to defeat January 8, at the hands of Denison and again the next day to Oberlin, but the defeats were not overwhelming and were the results of lack of weight rather than the lack of skill in both cases.

The Denison game was fast and scrappy throughout. Both teams played good basketball and were on their toes every minute. In the first few minutes of play Denison obtained a slight lead which she held throughout the game. The first half ended 22 to 18. The same style of a game was continued in the second half, both teams playing together well and showing good form. Day and Zeman were removed about the middle of the second half and Sanborn and Wise substituted. Denison had caged 6 baskets before the Kenyon team got together again. This left the score 51 to 31 where it stood when the game ended. Hamilton of Ohio State refereed.

Saturday 9, Oberlin defeated the Kenyon five by the score of 35 to 22. Though Oberlin's team was much heavier than Kenyon's, the game was by no means one-sided in spite of Referee Parrot's attempts to make it so. The end of the first half found Oberlin leading by 6 points. Kenyon rallied at the beginning of the second and tied the score. At this critical moment, however, both Day and Love were ruled out for personal fouls with the result noted above. Schafer starred in both games, dropping the ball into the basket with his usual accuracy.

Kenyon in Inaugural Parade

Battery "D" again stepped into prominence and proudly took its place in the first division of the inaugural parade Monday, January 11. Corporal Keicher and privates Ader, '17, Sadler, '17 and Gunther, '17 formed the Kenyon contingent.

For some unknown reason the promised parlor cars were delayed and the trip to Columbus was made in day coaches. Outside of grooming some fifty head of horses and the inconvenience of lunching in military style, the morning was spent enjoyably despite the dismal drizzle.

EARLY LITERATURE

copy of the sermon preached at the laying of the cornerstone of Old Kenyon, June 9, 1827. Not only is the pamphlet of value but the fact that it is accompanied by the original manuscript makes it all the more interesting. The copy and manuscript were sent to the college by the Rev. H. Usher Munro, '78, who had received them as presents from the late Mary Chase. Her step-father, the Rev. Intrepid Morse of Steubenville, was the author of the sermon.

The sermon itself, entitled, "Literature and Religion," is interesting and scholarly in every respect. The text is taken from Psalm 90, verse 17, and throughout the entire work the idea of the erecting of a building dedicated to learning and religion, is clearly developed. Sufficient scriptural references are used to show the dependence of man on divine power to improve his present condition and maintain and support any institution worthy of its help and guidance. The work closes with a prayer for the country's deliverance from ignorance and sin. A short appendix follows the sermon, giving the form of service used for the laying of the corner stone. The Bishop officiated at this ceremony during which a deposit was made beneath the stone. This consisted "of such public documents as mark the age in which we live, and the literary and religious character of the institution of which this is the first building." The words used by the Bishop, when the stone was being set, seem very characteristic. "I therefore lay the corner stone of the same, in the name of the great Jehovah, who once said, Let us make man in our own image—the holy, holy, holy, undivided Trinity, Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, three persons, but one God, blessed for evermore. Amen."

The pamphlet closes with a note by the editor about a Wesleyan minister from England, the Rev. G. M. West, who after the service gave an address. This minister had been ordained to the priesthood of the Protestant Episcopal Church but no copy of his address had been recorded.

F. L. P. Rhorabaugh, ex-'13' was a recent visitor in Gambier.

The Columbia University Press announces a second edition of, "Platonism in English Poetry," by Dr. John S. Harrison, Kenyon's assistant-English professor. The demand for this book has been very large and it has met with much approval.

Student Governments Meet

No important questions were settled at the Student Government Conference in Columbus, according to the report of Messrs. Gayer and Kinder, the Kenyon delegates.

The session occupied two days, January 15-16. Kenyon, Miami, Cincinnati, Western Reserve, Ohio State, and Ohio Wesleyan were represented. The Friday session followed dinner at the Ohio Union, the headquarters.

Reports on the question of securing money for athletics showed Kenyon to be in the lead in this matter. Western Reserve explained their honor system, the first step of which consists in a physical examination and inquiry into the honesty of each student's ancestors.

A motion was passed admitting all Ohio Conference Colleges to membership.

The Kenyon representatives expected to learn something about a Commons but it appears that Kenyon had the most satisfactory Commons of the colleges represented.

Gayer, of Kenyon, urged that if anything was to be gained by the conference, more definite steps should be taken to secure the spread of real student government, as most of the colleges represented had this in form only. Nothing definite was done, however, and the convention adjourned without fixing the date or place of next year's convention.

Kenyon Man Miami Professor

A recent issue of the Miami Student contains an account of the appointment of R. D. Cahall, '08, to fill the position of professor of history at that institution. That Mr. Cahall is ably fitted to fill the position is evidenced by the fact of his having studied and traveled considerably both at home and abroad. The Student says of him: "Mr. Cahall comes to Miami with excellent recommendations. He received his early education in the Mansfield schools. After graduating from the high school there he entered Kenyon and graduated from that institution in the class of 1908. While in Kenyon his grades were high enough to earn him an election to Phi Beta Kappa. After leaving Kenyon, Mr. Cahall spent some time traveling on the continent of Europe. During his travels abroad he visited France, Belgium, Germany, and Italy.

After returning to America, Mr. Cahall resumed his studies. During the year 1911-12 he studied at the University of Chicago. The following year he went to Harvard, while last year was spent in Columbia.

During his four years at Kenyon Mr. Cahall was very active. He sang in the Glee Club, and took an active part in dramatics.
