KENYON DEFEATS ASHLAND, 11 TO 3

ROBINSON

Pitches Well In Easy Win

Myron Robinson always did have it in for Ashland's baseball club. Someone connected with that team once said he was a wild man, or a rattle brain, or something, and Robbie heard about it. So when Kenyon was playing its return game on the Ashland diamond, June 2, Robbie walked out on the mound calm and dispassionate and proceeded to throw the baseball past the Ashland batters with great frequency and effectiveness. In the meantime, Robinson's support was excellent and his mates were slapping the ball all over the pastures. Kenyon won the game 11 to 3, and there was no monkey business about it.

The first inning gave pitcher Gingrich of Ashland a warning that he was in for an ugly afternoon. With one out Sammon singled to left and Stock drew four wide ones. McElroy forced Stock at second and then stole a base. With two out, however, Ehrbar let a third strike idle by and the rally was over.

EDITOR EXPLAINS THE JUNE ISSUE

The editor of this number feels that some explanation is due Collegian readers for the delay and appearance of this, the final issue of the current scholastic year.

As a matter of fact, its publication is hardly more than a labor of love, since it has been printed without the slightest assistance of the newly appointed editor-in-chief. Because of what was frankly his own carelessness, no attempt had been made to publish this issue three days before Commencement. As a result, a "pick-up" staff—consisting of the ex-editor and business manager and the new associate editor—was forced to make a last minute effort to present this number.

The issue is not only smaller than customary but it comes several days too late to be delivered to the undergraduate body; nevertheless, it is felt that the Kenyon alumni and subscribers have every right to expect the full nine issues every year. The June issue is thus presented with this explanation, but with no apology.

The editor would like to express his thanks to Mr. George Jones, retiring business manager, and to Mr. Louis Strutton, associate editor, for their kind assistance in the compilation and publication of this number.

CINCINNATI ALUMNI IN SPRING REUNION

Sports Precede Regular Evening
Entertainment

Golf and tennis tournaments, the regular semi-annual dinner and the annual election of officers featured Spring reunion of Kenyon Alumni at the Cincinnati Country Club Friday afternoon and evening, June 6. Following the custom inaugurated a year ago, Cincinnati sons of Kenyon started their gathering with outdoor sports, early in the afternoon.

While the attendance was not up to the record, because of unavoidable conflict in the matter of dates, almost all of the "regulars" were on hand, the "party" went well, the singing measured up to the widely-known Cincinnati-alumni standard, and, as the rural press used to say of such events, "a pleasant time was had by all."

Reuben S. Papp, '06, was elected president as a reward for his faithful work during the last four years in the tedious task of secretary. The Rev. Albert N. Slayton, '96, was re-elected vice president and R. Gale Evans, '26, was made secretary.

For the first time in many years President Peirce was unable to attend the meeting of the Cincinnati alumni. Another absentee was James N. Gamble, '54, who at the age of 95 is Kenyon's oldest graduate. Illness kept Mr. Gamble at home.

Guests of the association included Raymond D. Ross, Jr., of Fort Thomas, Ky., a relative of the family of the Lord Kenyon after whom the College was named. He is an alumnus of the University of Alabama. Another was James A. Caldwell, Cincinnati high school official, a graduate of the University of Chicago.

Addresses were made by Mr. Japp and by Robert A. Cline, '15, retiring president; the Rev. Maxwell B. Long, '05; Dr. Henry Stanberry, '96; Thomas Grace, '27; David W. Bowman, '14; James G. Stewart, '02; Milner F. Little, '12; Robert A. Houston, '14, who won the distance record by going from Springfield to attend; Arthur L. Brown, '06 and Thomas O. Youtsey, '98.

Others attending the gathering, in addition to those listed above as speakers, included Franklin Alter, Jr., K. M. A.; Franklin Alter III, Walnut Hills High School; Louis B. Dobie, '14; Lucien B. Layne, '25; John W. Anger, '21; George T. Creelman, '93 K. M. A.; Philemon B. Stanberry, '98; A. S. Harkness, '93; Dr. Albert J. Bell, '95; Harry L. Gayer, '15; Paul D. Japp, '31; W. Wallace Alexander, '26; John R. Harding, '27; Richard Palmer, '28; Alfred Day, Jr., '18; and William A. Hopple III.

..... '11—Ernest Cook Dempsey, '11 A. B., Cleveland attorney and Kenyon trustee, is counsel in the Wheeling & Lake Erie Railroad case pending before the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

KENYON LOSES HARD GAME TO WOOSTER

STOCK LARRUPS HOMER TO NO AVAIL

Because they couldn't hit when hits meant runs, and because they were the victims of some repeatedly distressing umpiring, Kenyon's baseball team closed its 1930 season by losing the closest of close games to Wooster, on June 7, by a score of 3 to 2. The Maue were able to amass just three base hits, and had not "Bennie" Stock been feeling just a wee bit off form so that he only smacked a home run and a single in three trips to the plate, the visiting Kenyonites would certainly have been shut out. Stock's home run came in the first inning with two out; his single in the sixth filled the bases with two out and upset Wooster's pitcher and umpire to the extent of a following base on balls which forced in a run, so you have some idea just how important Dudley was in the attack.

The Maue fielded well, making but one error, which unfortunately was most important in the Wooster scoring, and received some fine hurling from Myron Robinson, but the little base hits that win ball games were absent. Robinson allowed seven hits, three of them scratches, and walked two, which is good enough pitching to win most ball games. He had one bad inning, the second, and that beat him.

The scoring began early. With two down in the first, Dud Stock, who said he was feeling po'ly, slammed a drive so far over the center fielder's head that it would have cost $4.89 to express it home. Stock shambled around the bases for a home run.

That fickle dame, Lady Luck, was very much in evidence when Wooster scored its three runs in the second inning. One was out when Brennan hit a fast ball to center for one base. Buehler duplicated the hit. Schmidt then laced another to the same spot, but it caromed off the board sides of the running track in (Continued on page two)

SENIOR CLASS PLAY IS HOWLING SUCCESS

"Our American Cousin" Wins
Plaudits of Audience

On Saturday, June 14, the Senior Class of Kenyon College presented the annual senior class play, "Our American Cousin" by Tom Taylor. With Culbert Rutenber starring in the title role, and with Harry Maxon making the most of the "fat" role of Lord Dundreary, the Senior Thespians' final collegiate entertainment was accorded a howling success.

The play, a farce-melodrama of the worst kind, provided laughs from the opening curtain until the last and kept the Commencement audience right on the edge of their seats throughout the performance. While Maxon and Rutenber had the star roles, the entire cast carried off their difficult personations with exceeding grace and éclat. This was especially true of those taking female parts in the production, as acting a sweet, demure miss of the crinolene days is no small feat for modern youth.

The cast of "Our American Cousin" follows:

Lord Dundreary—Harry Maxon.
Sir Edward Trenchard—Andrew W. Rose.
Florence his daughter—George Hammond.
Mary Merridith, his niece—George Jones.
Mrs. Montchessington—William Stackhouse.
Georgina, her daughter—Warren Price.
Augusta, another daughter—Maurice Sandberg.
Asa Trenchard, (Our American Cousin)—Culbert Rutenber.
Captain De Boots—William G. Caples.
Harry Vernon—Michael Capito.
Coyle, the Villain—Charles Malcolmson.
Murcott, his agent—Clinton Morrill.
Binney, the Butler—Gordon Pumphrey.
Buddicombe—Henry Losch.
Skillet, the maid—Robert Baltzell.
Sharpe, another maid—Robert Douglas.
John Wickins—William Poese.

PAIR OF LOCAL BOYS HAVE NOW MADE GOOD

Don Wheaton And William Thompson Are The Two

How two Kenyon alumni, who were on the Hill at the same time, have risen rapidly in Wall Street, is told in the following copyrighted feature story, carried on the wires of the Consolidated Press Association to scores of American newspapers June 6:

"When Kenyon College conducts its commencement at Gambier, O., this month, two former Cleveland boys, now important personages in Wall Street, will be on the campus in heart and spirit if not in person.

History

BIGGER AND BETTER

One Hundred And Second Commencement

Forty-five members of the Class of 1930, one of the largest graduating classes in the history of the College, received their hoods and diplomas from the hands of President William Foster Peirce on June 16th, at the one hundred and first Commencement of Kenyon College.

The Commencement exercises came as the conclusion of a week-end of graduation festivities, which began on Saturday evening, when the Senior Class presented a comedy-melodrama entitled "Our American Cousin," by Tom Taylor. On Sunday came the Baccalaureate Sermon by the President, and on Monday the Corporate Communion of the Class of 1930.

The following men received degrees in course:

Bachelor of Arts

Robert Samuel Clippinger.
Robert Kirkwood Fell.
James M. Irvine, Jr., summa cum laude.
George Henry Jones.
Robert E. Kenyon, Jr., cum laude.
Augustus A. Koski, cum laude.
Henry H. McFadden, magna cum laude.
Donald B. Mansfield, magna cum laude.
Clinton L. Merrill, magna cum laude.
George Warren Price.
William X. Smith, summa cum laude.
Dayton Burdette Wright.
George V. Higgins.

Bachelor of Philosophy

Robert A. Baltzell, cum laude.
Kenneth Edwin Bennett.
Philip Monroe Brown.
William Goff Caples, III.
John V. Cuff, cum laude.
Robert B. Douglas.
George Burrell Hammond.
Morris Kent Hughes.
Gordon Elliott Hulman.
Alfred Lucius Lyman.
William B. McClain.
Charles Kenneth Morgan.
William F. Poese.
Joseph Alexander Ralston.
Culbert Gerow Rutenber, summa cum laude.

Bachelor of Science

Stanley P. Sawyer.
George Harvey Sibbald.
Raymond Wells Simmons.
Osborne F. Templeton.
John Webster Thomas, Jr.
Thomas L. Wickenden, Jr.
Carl Herman Wilhelms.
Charles A. Bohnengel.
Michael L. Capito.
Joseph Cole Davis.
Kenneth Adams Drake.
Harry Russell Maxon, magna cum laude.

center, being converted into a triple while two runs scored. Baxter lined a hot one to Stock for the second out, but Swanson failed to touch first base after taking Ehrbar's toss on D. Query's grounder, another run scoring. W. Query fanned for the third out.

At the risk of being labelled a bad loser, something must be said of the "breaks" which followed in the game. The umpiring was decidedly off color. Robinson, who had splendid control, benefited little from it, but pitcher Baxter, who had none, can thank the arbiter for his victory. So many poor strikes were called on Kenyon batsmen, that eleven fanned on wide pitches. Had Baxter been forced to put the ball over the plate hits must inevitably have followed with closer umpiring Kenyon would have scored a dozen runs on bases on balls. That, however, is a lot of "if" and the fact remains that the Mauve did not hit.

The manner in which Kenyon scored its second run in the sixth is some indication of the real class of opposition Kenyon was facing. Vlachos and Robinson were both safe on infield fumbles on the easiest sort of chances. Dawson and Sammon went out on wide third strikes, but Stock scratched a hit to short, filling the bases. McElroy walked on four balls that were too wide even for the umpire, and Vlachos scored. Ehrbar was called out on strikes.

From that point to the ninth not a Kenyon man reached base, while Robinson kept Wooster well in hand. In the ninth, a Kenyon score appeared possible. Stock was purposely passed. McElroy then permitted himself to be knicked by a slow ball. Ehrbar got in the way of his own bunt and was out number one. Swanson fanned for the second out. Webb then hit one on the nose but the Wooster shortstop made his only clean play of the game and contest was over.

Stock was the only batsman on either side to get more than one hit; Ehrbar collected Kenyon's second good wallop with a line single in the fifth.

The Score:

Kenyon ..... 1 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0—2
Wooster ..... 0 3 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—3

Home run—Stock.

Three base hit—Schmidt.

WHEATON—THOMPSON

Alumni, came to Wall street as a junior salesman with Harris, Forbes & Company in 1913. "Curly's" sales ability—perhaps first developed as manager of Kenyon's football team—caused him to be promoted into one sales position after another, until five years ago he was made a partner of Harris-Forbes. For the last three years Wheaton has passed much of his time studying investment trusts, and he represents Harris-Forbes on the directorate of eight of the most successful trusts in this country.

"When Wheaton was managing Kenyon's football team, William Laban Thompson was playing half-back there. "Bill," also a scholarship student, quit Kenyon in 1913 because of business reasons, and returned to Cleveland. Details of "Bill's" rise, between that time and his admission to membership of the New York Stock Exchange, December 1, 1927, are lacking and he dislikes to supply them.

"But he is known to have played an important part in many of Cyrus S. Eaton's industrial coups, because 'Bill' is a partner of Otis & Company, the banking firm handling most of Eaton's affairs."

Wheaton was a member of the class of 1913 and Thompson was a member of the class of 1914.

something else again. Swanson began things by lacing a single to center. Webb drove a double-play grounder to short, but the fielder messed it and all hands were safe. Vlachos then punched a single over first, Swanson scoring and Webb going to third. With the infield in, Dawson rapped to the second baseman. Webb should have been an easy out at the plate but scored when the catcher failed to come up with the ball. Vlachos, rounding third, was trapped half way home, but once more the catcher muffed the throw and Kenyon had another run. Sammon singled to left to score Dawson and scored himself a moment later when Stock's easy roller went through the first baseman's legs. The totals for this comic inning were: 5 runs, 3 hits, 4 errors.

In the third Mr. Gingrich's departure seemed impending, but dizzy baserunning held the Mauve to one run and permitted the Ashland pitcher to stay throughout the contest. Swanson and Webb singled. Vlachos' double scored Swanson and put Webb on third. Robinson sent a long fly to center, but no amount of urging would get Webb off the bag, so one run was all that resulted from the three solid hits.

Meanwhile Robinson had been tossing the ball up to the Ashland batters with considerable éclat. Three singles in five innings was all they could do. In the sixth, however, Robbie got into a jam all by himself and the home colony was given their one chance to howl when all of Ashland's runs scored. G. Workman walked to open the inning. B. Workman was hit in the posterior for the second time. Erb's double and a single by Hodge completed the rally.

It wasn't until the second that Kenyon conceived the idea of doing some more scoring. Sammon opened the inning by slicing a drive over third base. He was roosting on third before the ball was retrieved. Stock's single scored him.

In the ninth the Mauve added four more quite unnecessary but quite pleasing markers. Sammon's fourth hit was a double to center. With the count 3 and 2, Stock then aimed the ball into the next county. The pellet struck a tree two blocks away and bounced back to the fielder, so Dudley had to slide to make his home run. Ehrbar followed with a single and Swanson with a double. With two out Webb popped an easy fly behind first base. After a long consultation—a vote of confidence having been given—Boyer said he guessed he'd take the ball. The confidence was misplaced, however, for he muffed it and two more runs scored.

Robinson was invincible the last three innings.

Sammon's triple, double, and two singles led the hitters. Swanson collected a double and a brace of singles; Stock managed to get a single in addition to his home run.

The fielding gems were turned in by Sammon and Dawson. In the third Marty raced almost into center field to snare Erb's hot drive; in the fifth Dawson paddled many rods to his rear to bring down a tall fly off B. Workman's bat for the third out. Two were aboard the bases at the time. The catching of Vlachos and Stock's sterling infield play also deserve mention.

The score:

Kenyon ..... 5 5 1 0 0 0 1 0 9—11

Ashland ..... 0 0 0 0 0 3 0 0 0—3

*Batted for Gingrich in ninth.

Home run—Stock.

Three base hit—Sammon.

Two base hits—Sammon, Swanson, Vlachos; Erb, G. Workman.

Hits—Off Robinson 7 in 9; off Gingrich 13 in 9.

Bases on balls—Robinson 2; Gingrich 2.

Struc kout—Robinson 7; Gingrich 6.

AND THEY CALL THIS COLLEGE BASEBALL!

Evans Weeps As His Comics Stage Benefit For Muskies

About the seventh inning of Kenyon's return game with Muskingum (May 29 at New Concord) a discerning observer might have seen Coach Bud Evans sink off into the underbrush bordering the Muskie's baseball diamond to indulge in a good, hearty cry. At the moment Muskingum was in the act of scoring its eighteenth and final run in what had been advertised as an inter-collegiate baseball game, and the fans who cared enough to cheer were demanding touchdowns and field goals. Coach Evans' disappearing act may have caused him to miss a six-run Kenyon rally in the ninth inning, but it really didn't make much difference. The horrible totals were: Muskingum 18; Kenyon 9.

BALDWIN HEADS PHILO FOR COMING YEAR

Fox and Eberth Complete New Leaders

At the last meeting of the current scholastic year, June 2, Philomathesian Literary Society elected its new officers and initiated its new members.

The newly-elected officers are:

President—Edward Baldwin.

Vice President—Philip Fox.

Secy-Treas.—John Eberth.

Following the election the formal initiation of the new members took place.

SPRING SHOWERS! GIFT GAME GOES TO CAPITAL

Sammon And Howard Hand Game To Visitors

Capital University's baseball team knocked off work at 5:30 p. m. on May 23rd after beating Kenyon College's diamond aspirants in a ball game, but they aren't bragging about it. The score was 7 to 3, but if it hadn't been for some very generous impulses on the part of the Kenyon fielders, it quite probable that Capital would not have scored six of those seven runs. And speaking of impulses, Kenyon's baseball team has developed a habit of giving way to outbursts of this nature, all of which have proved disastrous in the extreme. Against Capital the Mauve started out well and even looked like winners for a while, but there is evidently a limit to the staying powers of Coach Evans' cohorts. For six innings they looked very much like a ball club, staying on their feet and giving Capital an even argument in a pitchin duel between Myron Robinson and his opponent on the mound, Schnepel of Capital. Then they forgot all they knew about the pastime and presented the visitors with a little shower in the fatal seventh inning. The shower was one of errors, and by the time it had ended Capital was out in front by four runs, more than enough to win the ball game.

The score was tide at 3-all when Capital came to bat in the seventh. Marsh cracked a perfectly legitimate single to right as a starter and was sacrificed to second. Here Robinson, who had been wild the inning before, lost all sense of direction and filled the bases on walks. Coach Evans elected to insert Elliott at this juncture, sending Robinson into left field. "Red" would have come out of this tough spot unscathed, too, had it not been for some sinful conduct on the part of Marty Sammon and Bud Howard. Marty's reputation as a steady, upstanding citizen was almost ruined, by the way, as he committed three costly bobbles. With the bases full and one out, Brideweser tapped an easy hopper straight at Sammon. Marty muffed it and one run scored. Kaeding next sent a short fly to left which Robinson took whipping the ball home so speedily that the runner made no attempt to score. Howard, however, permitted it to escape him, while a second tally counted. Then Cabbage called a single to center for two more runs.

Both Robinson and Schnepel started out as if no one but the two catchers would be needed. Robbie fanned the first three men up and Schnepel duplicated the performance. In the second, however, Robbie's defense began to get impulsive again and two runs resulted. With one out Cabbage drove a ball to left that was intended for a single, but by the time Baltzell got through pawing it, the runner was on second. A mammoth wild heave on Shelgren's roller by Sammon, a single by Steingess, and a passed ball gave the visitors two runs.

It wasn't until the third that the Mauve could even push one of Schnepel's shoots out of the infield, but in that stanza they scored three times and took the lead. It was all rather lucky, however, for none of the hits made by the Mauve were exactly robust. Vlachos opened it with a walk and took second when Robinson grounded out. Rawson pushed a pop fly over first, and by the time the Capital infield had recovered from the shock Vlachos had scored. McElroy forced Dawson at second, but Sammon beat out a dinky roller to short for a hit. The next two runs were mainly the result of some bewilderment in the Capital organization. When Stock followed with a high fly to left center—the first ball hit out of the infield by Kenyon—the visiting outfield went into conference. It was a six story fly ball that descended about forty yards behind second base, and either the left or center fielders could have caught it. After considerable counsel and meditation, however, Brideweser said he guessed he would undertake to catch the fly, but he was too late. It fell safe and went for a double. Meanwhile McElroy and Sammon had reached home and had had a drink of water.

Capital scored once in the sixth without the aid of a hit, yet not without assistance. Robbie walked Brideweser and Kaeding to start the inning. Cabbage fled out, but Shelgren rolled to Swanson, who booted the ball and then threw wild, Brideweser scoring. After that came the Capital scoring and Kenyon flare-up in the seventh as described.

Although Sammon committed three errors afield, he contributed running catches on two fly balls in the ninth that were spectacular in the extreme, and delivered himself of two singles at bat. Stock collected a double and single. The fielding honors go to Dawson and McElroy in the outfield; Bert snagged a pair of long flies, while in the fourth Mark made a shoe-string catch of Steingess' fly and doubled a runner off first.

Schnepel of Capital fanned 11 men, Robinson 8, and Elliott, who did a nice bit of relief work, 3.

The Score:

Capital ..... 0 2 0 0 0 1 4 0 0—7

Kenyon ..... 0 0 3 0 0 0 0 0 0—3

Two base hits—Stock; Cabbage.

Double play—McElroy to Swanson.

Hit—Off Schnepel 6 in 9 innings; off Robinson 5 in 6 1-3; off Elliott 1 in 2 2-3.

Bases on balls—Schnepel 3; Robinson 5; Elliott 2.

Passed balls—Vlachos 3.

Stolen bases—Vlachos; Hinton, Brideweser, Shelgren.

Hit batsman—By Schnepel (Swanson).

Earned runs—Off Schnepel 3; off Robinson 1; off Elliott 0.

HERE'S GOOD YARN FOR CONFERENCE DEVOTEES

Brother Of Cloth Best Digt Of Law In Argument

(Sound's Like Bexley at That)

A Kenyon alumnus who is a clergyman has taught a traffic policeman that a baptism rates higher than a city ordinance.

The rector in question is the Rev. Leland Hobart Danforth, '20 Ph. B., of Kenilworth, Ill. The story, told by the Associated Press, June 11 under an Evanston, Ill., date line, follows:

"A baptism is more important than a city ordinance, and Police-man Kelsh, who didn't know it yesterday, knows it now.

"He arrested the Rev. Leland H. Danforth of the Church of the Holy Comforter in Kenilworth. He said the rector was exceeding the speed limit.

"The Rev. Mr. Danforth explained he was in a hurry to perform a baptismal ceremony. Officer Kelsh replied that the prisoner did "not look like a minister" and that, no matter where he was going, he was going to fast.

"Magistrate Porter set things right. 'A baptism,' he said, severely, to Officer Kelsh, 'is more important than the ordinance regulating the speed of motor driven vehicles.'

"The Rev. Mr. Danforth continued on his way, and Officer Kelsh said he was very sorry about the entire affair."

ALUMNI

19—The Rev. Harold F. Hohly, '19 Ph. B., '29 B. D., has resigned as rector of All Saints' Church, Portsmouth, O., to accept a rectorship in Baltimore, Mr.

25—Marcus Ziegler, '25, of Cincinnati and Miss Russell Pogue, also of that city, will be married June 28.

A number of Kenyon alumni and trustees figure in news from the annual conference of the Diocese of Ohio, in Cleveland, May 21.

Among officers of the Diocese who were re-elected are two Kenyon trustees—Samuel Mather, '01 LL. D., and William G. Mather, both of Cleveland. The former is a trustee of the Diocese and the latter treasurer.

Among men named to serve on the standing committee were the Rev. John R. Stalker, '04 A. B., '07 B. D., Massillon; the Rev. C. C. Bubb, '39 A. B., '02 A. M., Fremont; the Rev. Edwin B. Redhead, '36 A. B., '00 Bexley, '04 A. M., Elyria, and W. G. Mather.

Delegates elected to attend the provincial synod at Springfield, Ill., next October include the Rev. Donald Wonders, '13 Ph. B., '16 A. M., Sandusky. Te and the Rev. J. E. Carhartt, '14 A. B., '15 Bexley, Cleveland, will serve three-year terms on the Diocesan Council.

Two Kenyon alumni who were on the Hill at the same time are rising rapidly among the younger generation of business men in Wall Street. They are Don Carlenos Wheaton, '13 B. L., and William Laban Thompson, a member of the class of '14.

"Curley" Wheaton, former editor of The Collegian, is a vice president of Harris, Forbes & Company, and Thompson is the "floor" member of Otis & Company, representing his company on the New York Stock Exchange.

When Wheaton was a senior he was manager of the Kenyon football team, on which Thompson, then a junior, was a backfield star. Both came to Gambier from Cleveland.

RICHARD LORD SCIENCE CLUB'S NEW PRESIDENT

Wayte, Carle and Janes Form New Officers

On May 25th the members of the Science Club elected officers for the coming year. This was the last regular meeting of the Club until the fall of 1930.

The new officers are:

Richard C. Lord—President.

Hugh Wayt—Vice President.

Milton L. Janes—Secretary.

Stanton Carle—Treasurer.

Following the elections, Harry Maxon delivered a most interesting illustrated lecture on the production of gas and oil. Refreshments were served later.

We offer no comment on the following from the "Lyre Tree" of St. Stephen's College, Columbia University, for fear of arousing a great fight. St. Stephen's College, we explain, is a Church College, sponsored by our great Protestant Episcopal Church. On the subject of Lent, our great contemporary publication says among other things: "The season of Lent began on Ash Wednesday, March 5th. In addition to the early celebration, there was a second Mass at 9:30, with a brief instruction by the Warden. . . . Begin the season with a careful self-examination, assisted by the Sacrament of Penance where it seems advisable. The clergy on the campus will be available for this Sacrament by appointment.

EULOGY TO GEORGE AND HIS KENYON CABARET*Evans Prospers as Trainer Hall Profits Dwindle

Breathes there a man with taste so dead
That never to himself hath said:
"Tonight I'll eat downstairs instead?"

(Kenyon Commons Ballad)

'Mid all the din and battle's flare,
'mid riot and revolution against Commons fare, 'mid assault and battery, one haven of refuge, one oasis in the desert of scrambled desserts, meat pie, and sliced boloney one place safe from the verbal shot and shell remained throughout the year. It was George Evans' Personal Service for Perturbed Patrons.
There, and only there, could peace and quiet, ham and eggs, ice and ginger ale be found. There the beleaguered Kenyon student found solace and sympathy.

Cramped in a space ill-suited to serve one-fifth the number of customers his Cafeteria attracted,
George the Urbane, the Suave, the Calm, and Collected, and the Wise-Cracker, dished up prunes, pies, and peanuts to the extent of $150.00 a day. Of course, the Dining Hall's loss was George's gain, but there can be no reason for extolling less his patience, understanding, and sympathy. Nothing was too small to demand his attention. A glass of water, matches, a few cents more on the bill, an extra slice of toast to the hungry, a sudden pun or wisecrack to the weary, all came within the duties of this masterful maitred'hôtel. And if you don't think so, just ask any Kenyon student!

Free from feminine inhibitions, sympathetic and understanding with the trials and tribulations of the college man, thoughtful of others, helpful to those who needed help,
George Evans undoubtedly wins the Collegian's Palme de Guerre for Bravery Under Fire, for under fire George certainly was.
