FALL DANCE IS PLEASING AFFAIR

New Assembly Committee Functions Well In First Attempt

The Senior Dance, the biggest social event of the fall, was held on Friday and Saturday, November 20 and 21. The formal and informal evening dances were conducted in Peirce Hall and the Leonard Hall Parlors were used for a tea dance Saturday afternoon. The tea dance proved to be a very popular part of the entertainment.

Music for all of the dances was furnished by Morrie Brennan and his orchestra. Brennan was popularly received and was the subject of much favorable comment.

The attendance at the formal was somewhat smaller than usual, but a good crowd was present at the Saturday dances.

HENRY DALTON TAKES MATHER'S POSITION

Donor of Science Hall Named Director of New York Bank

Wall street dispatches of November 17 linked the names of two of the greatest benefactors of Kenyon when Henry G. Dalton, of Cleveland, was elected to succeed the late Samuel Mather, also of that city, as a director of the Bankers Trust Company of New York.

Announcements sent to the press concerning the election of Mr. Dalton to the directorate of the Bankers Trust enumerated his many activities in business and philanthropic work, including his gift of Mather Science Hall to Kenyon. A day later, scores of newspapers throughout the country carried a dispatch from New York, written by Lemuel F. Parton for the Consolidated Press Association. This news service distributes daily, by wire, a column by Mr. Parton, entitled "Who's News Today." The sketch of Mr. Dalton follows:

"The late Samuel Mather, Great Lakes shipping magnate, knew talent when he saw it. He advanced his capable office boy, Henry G. Dalton, until he became a member of the firm of Pickands, Mather & Company, coal and ore shippers, and now, after the death of Mather, his one-time office boy succeeds him as a director of the Bankers Trust Company.

"Versatility marks the career of Dalton. A leader in steel, recently in the limelight in the court battle between the Youngstown Sheet & Tube and Bethlehem Steel, he has been summoned repeatedly to advise Washington on shipping. Pres-

FOOTBALL SEASON IS CLOSED WITH VICTORY

Marietta Downed Easily In Final Game, 26-0

Kenyon closed one of its most successful football seasons in recent years on November 14 by defeating the Marietta football team by a score of 26-0 at Benson Field. The visitors, handicapped by injuries, were at no time a match for the Purple squad which played the best brand of football that any Kenyon team has exhibited for some time. Marietta threatened to score only once and that rally was stopped just before the final gun with the ball in Kenyon's possession on its own ten yard line. However, the Kutler coached squad gained ground almost at will and kept the ball continually in the enemy's territory throughout the game.

For the first few minutes the contest was close, but after that the visitors did not have a chance against Kenyon's effective blocking and hard tackling. During the first quarter the ball was brought to the Marietta goal line several times, but fumbles or a strong defense prevented a touchdown. It was in the second period that Tritsch carried the (Continued on Page Four)

PHYSICS PROFESSOR RECEIVES APPOINTMENT

Dr. E. H. Johnson Honored by History of Science Society

It has recently been announced that Dr. E. H. Johnson of the Department of Physics, who has for some time been a member of the History of Science Society, has been appointed to the National Council of that organization. He is to be in charge of surveys of courses on the history of science in American colleges and universities. This appointment is a singular honor for both Kenyon College and Dr. Johnson, and indicates that he has been recognized as one of the country's foremost authorities on the history of science.

In a paper read before the Ohio Academy of Science, and published in SCIENCE, October 30, 1931, Dr. Johnson outlines a survey which he has recently made of American colleges and Universities. He points out that the study of the history of physics is becoming increasingly popular, both in America and abroad.

B. H. HARVEY, '22, GIVES INFORMAL LECTURE

Philippine Islands Subjects of Recent Talk

The Rev. Benson H. Harvey, '22, spoke on the Philippine Islands, December 14, in Philo Hall. His lecture was an informal one, dealing with the islands in general, and the social customs, morals, etc., of their people. The Rev. Mr. Harvey was well qualified to speak on this subject, as he has just spent several years on the islands engaged in missionary work, and has been closely in touch with the natives. Such a talk is naturally very interesting to people of this country because of the ever-recurring subject of Philippine Independence.

MATHER GENEROUS TO COLLEGE IN WILL

It was announced recently that the will of Samuel Mather, most munificent of Kenyon's donors, has bequeathed $100,000 each to the College and the Seminary. At the time of publication it had not been decided to what use this money would be put.

ALUMNUS STUDIES UNEMPLOYMENT

Stephen M. Young, '11, To Serve On Governor's Commission

A Kenyon alumnus is to play a prominent part in Ohio's efforts to solve the problem of unemployment.

He is Stephen Marvin Young, '11, of Cleveland, and his appointment to a ten-member commission comes from the man who defeated him for the Democratic Governorship nomination last year.

Governor White has named Young and nine others, including educators, social workers and representatives of labor, farm and business interests, to study proposals for an unemployment-insurance system. While the members of the commission are to serve without pay, the state will pay their expenses throughout the research.

Young, a former member of the Legislature and his party's nominee for Attorney General a decade ago has been active in Ohio politics (Continued on Page Two)

BASKETBALL TEAM LOSES TO B. G., TOLEDO

Team Improved In Second Game, Loses By Small Margin

Kenyon dropped its first two basketball games of the season on Friday and Saturday to Bowling Green and Toledo University respectively. Bowling Green with its veteran squad easily defeated the Purple by a score of 38-17, but Toledo had a much harder time conquering in the Saturday night tilt, finally winning out, 34-26.

As yet the Purple cage squad has not developed a good scoring combination. This was especially shown in the Bowling Green game. Kenyon had very few good, short shots, while nearly all were made by long distance shooting. The passing was poor which resulted in few good shots. The Kenyon five was not able to cope with the offense of the squad from Bowling Green and to spectators it appeared as if the latter could score at will. The Bowling Green outfit jumped into the lead at the start of the game and was never headed. Short quick passes brought many short shots. At the half Kenyon trailed 14-6.

Soon after the start of the second half Kenyon was left far behind by a Bowling Green scoring spurt. From then on to the final gun Kenyon trailed by twenty points. Kenyon's scoring was divided rather evenly with two men getting five points, but Lewis of Bowling Green was the high scorer of the contest with ten points.

Not satisfied with the results of the night before, Coach Evans shifted his line-up considerably for (Continued on Page Two)

PHYSICS PROFESSOR CO-AUTHOR OF MEMORIAL VOLUME

"Kepler and Mysticism" Is Title of Paper by Dr. Johnson

Dr. E. H. Johnson, Professor of Physics, was recently honored by the inclusion of an article in a book published under the auspices of the History of Science Society to commemorate the tercentenary of the death of the great German astronomer and mathematician, Kepler. Dr. Johnson's article was entitled "Kepler and Mysticism," and was one of three articles which made up the book, the other two dealing with Kepler as an astronomer and a mathematician.

This essay was originally prepared for the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, held in December, 1930, as were the other articles, which were written by men from the University of Michigan and Massachusetts Institute of Technology, respectively. It deals with Kepler's philosophical speculations and study of mediaeval mysticism.

According to Dr. Johnson, this mystic, superstitious if you will, side of Kepler's life was very important. Too often casual students decry this part of the scientist's make-up as entirely unworthy of scientific consideration. Kepler, Dr. Johnson says, was the forerunner of modern scientists in that he was above all a seeker after truth. He wanted to know how the universe ran and why it ran as it did. If his theories and speculations were influenced by the times he lived in, we should not condemn him, but rather praise him all the more for the remarkable flashes of real astronomical facts that blaze forth from the very midst of useless theories on astrology and mysticism.

At this time the chief speculation of scientists was concerning the laws governing the motions of the celestial bodies. The system of Copernicus was the first that approached the truth and it was upon this that Kepler built, aided by the data from Tycho Brahe's observations. Kepler's character was at first glance an irreconcilable combination of scientific discovery and mystic speculation, but as Dr. Johnson brings out, both were a result of his search for the thing that made the worlds go round. If his theories were influenced by the spirit of the age in which he lived, we can not blame him. Although his "music of the spheres" which was a set of musical phrases carefully worked out to show the song of each planet as it traveled along its course, is little short of ridiculous, his three laws of planetary motion, which he discovered empirically after years of patient work in trying one theory after another, and which he himself did not regard in the light of their true importance, are nothing short of mar-

TO THE ALUMNI

This fall the Faculty took from the Senior Council the administration of the College ruling against drinking on the Hill. It was stated at that time that the College was gaining a bad reputation on account of the drinking that was done here, and that this had influenced many prospective students to go to other colleges. Now, there is not an upper classman on the Hill who will not sincerely state that there is less drinking at Kenyon now than there was when he came here. It follows, therefore, that something else is giving rise to this reputation which is sending men to other schools, and the Collegian feels that the Alumni are somewhat to blame. At least, we offer this suggestion which we feel will help cure this evil:

When you get together with other fathers and talk over your college days do not spend your entire time telling of how much you and your room mates used to drink, nor of how much anyone else used to drink. Rather, speak of the excellent faculty which is Kenyon's, of the fellowship which may be had here without the aid of liquor, and of the benefits which any young man will receive when he chooses Kenyon as his College.

We hope that the Alumni who read or hear of this suggestion will accept it in the spirit in which it is offered, and give it a trial.

the Toledo University game at Toledo. The new combination with Stock and Clark, forwards, Johnson, center, and McIlwain and Swanson, guards, produced a better brand of basketball. The game was close throughout and it was only in the last few minutes that the home team forged ahead. Kenyon led for the first few minutes of the contest, but near the close of the first half, the Toledo five spurted and tied the score at the half, 19-19. From then until the last few minutes the margin in scores was never greater than two points. At the final gun Kenyon trailed by eight points, 34-26. Kenyon showed that it had possibilities in this game and played in a manner much improved over that of the preceding night. The defense was better and the shift in line-up created a scoring punch. Stock starred offensively for the Kenyon team with thirteen points. One of the Toledo guards was tied with him for the evening's scoring honors.

FOOTBALL BANQUET HONORS TEAM, COACHES

Dud Stock Elected Honorary Captain For 1931 Season

By defeating Marietta Kenyon finished the season with a record of having won more games than it lost. Out of the seven games played, the Purple was victorious in four. Ashland, Hobart, Capital, and Marietta fell under the attack of the Kenyon eleven, while Xavier, Baldwin-Wallace, and Otterbein defeated the Mauve. More points 116, were scored than in the last three years. The opposition made twenty less being under the century mark with 96. Stock was given a position on the All Conference team and some writers honored him with a position on the All Ohio team. Sammon received honorable mention.

The season was officially brought to a close November 16 at the annual banquet given in honor of the team and coaches in the Commons. The entire squad, coaching staff, and members of the faculty connected with the athletic work were guests of President Peirce. At this meeting Stock was elected honorary captain of the 1931 team. He with four other seniors, Johnson, Meredith, Sammon, and Swanson, finished his collegiate football with the Marietta game.

At the banquet farewells were extended to Coach Maloney, who after a three years stay, is leaving the College. The record of the team this year has been due in a large part to the coaching of Maloney and consequently, his loss will be keenly felt.

velous. Upon them was founded Newton's law of Universal Gravitation, and they are the basis of modern physical astronomy. Although most of his great discoveries were buried under a mass of mystic theorizing, it is no less to his credit that they are there. It is perhaps the greatest accomplishment of Dr. Johnson's article to show that both sides of his work are a result of the same impulse to find the key to the universe, and it is not strange for this aim, driven also by deep religious convictions that there was some such key, to take him into the realm of metaphysics and mysticism.

STEPHEN YOUNG

ever since he was graduated from the Law School at Western Reserve. In one of the closest contests witnessed in a generation, he came within a few thousand votes of knocking Attorney General C. C. Crabbe out of his second term. Young a liberal, has retained in politics the nickname he won as an officer in the World War, "Daredevil Steve."

The commission appointed by Governor White is authorized to study the causes of unemployment and investigate "the feasibility and advisability of setting up unemployment reserves, or insurance funds," to provide against the risk of unemployment, and to recommend legislation, "suitable to Ohio conditions, which may seem to offer the best preventive remedy for the distress and suffering that are being undergone by citizens unable to find work, through no fault of their own."

The commissioners will submit their report, with recommendations before January 1, 1933, and the Governor will transmit them to the Legislature with such comment, or additional recommendations, as he may deem proper.

Young is the second Kenyon alumnus within a few weeks to receive an important state position from Governor White, for Judge John F. Cuff, '03, of Toledo, has been made Chairman of the new State Board of Pardons and Paroles.

ident Coolidge named him to head his commission on maritime reorganization, and President Hoover made him a member of his Merchant Marine Advisory Board, appointed last year.

"Dalton is profoundly interested in cultural and civic advancement, and has contributed heavily to humanitarian and educational causes in Cleveland. His gift of a $375,000 science hall to Kenyon College at Gambier, O., was a gesture of gratitude to the man who had opened the way for his rise from office boy to a commanding position in the world of finance. He is a patron of the famous Cleveland Symphony Orchestra and Museum of Fine Arts."

The Library was recently the receptor of six autographs of former presidents. They are those of Wilson, Jackson, Van Buren, Cleveland, Roosevelt and Harding. The signatures are attached either to letters or official documents. The first five were the gift of Miss Florence Sullivan, Huntington, Long Island, niece of the late Bishop Leonard. The autograph of President Harding was presented by Mrs. Mary Christian Dambaugh of Marion, Ohio. She is the sister of Mr. George Christian Jr., who was the private secretary of Harding during his presidency.

These autographs were added to the collection made by Bishop Leonard which was given to the Library after his death. The collection is complete from Washington to Hoover with the exception of William H. Harrison, James Polk and Zachary Taylor. It is hoped that these may soon be secured.

In its "Fifty Years Ago Today" column, the Cincinnati Enquirer recently published the following note:

"Florien Gianque, an ambitious young Cincinnati attorney, achieved the first of his many distinctions in the publication of his valuable law book, A Manual for Guardians and Trustees, which won the commendation of the leading jurists of the city and state."

Florien Gianque was a Kenyon alumnus of the class of '59. The 1881 item calls him "an ambitious young attorney," but at the time of his death, more than a decade ago, he was a leading member of the Cincinnati bar and a trustee of Kenyon.

And what do you want Santa to bring you for Christmas, little boy? . . . We hope he brings Uncle Bobbie an engagement book so that he can keep his numerous dates straight . . . Will you ever forget Bud MacNamee sleeping soundly over in the lounge about 4:30 A. M. while poor Ginnie looked on helplessly? . . . We won't . . . Someone says that Dr. Timberlake (otherwise known as Woodenwater) is going around these days with his socks wrong side out . . . It must be a superstition . . . Many peculiar things have happened during 1931 but the recent organization of a cut on Professor West no doubt takes the prize . . . Tite, by the way, is getting right up on his modern slang . . . We thought that he was more interested in the Harcourt faculty than the Kenyon student body . . . If you haven't seen this new mag "Hoocy" you should hop right over and get one . . . Our own Dr. Johnson of the Physics Department has been having honor upon honor heaped upon him (See Page 1) . . . We see that President Hoover recently made a speech in praise of small colleges . . . ### H. C. WOLFE, '22, GIVES LECTURE ON RUSSIA

Alumnus Was Member of Relief Commission

A very interesting and instructive lecture on Russia was recently given in Philo Hall by Henry Cutler Wolfe, '22, of Coshocton. Mr. Wolfe was a member of Hoover's Famine Relief Commission in Russia at the time of the World war, and spoke from first-hand knowledge. He outlined the position of Russia in world affairs, and gave also a number of anecdotes of his stay in Russia, many of them humorous. While disclaiming any intention of prophesying, Mr. Wolfe stated he believed that the Russian situation would ultimately result in another war, perhaps world-wide in scope.

DESIGNER OF COMMONS WINDOWS VISITS HERE

CHARLES CONNICK GUEST OF
DR. PEIRCE AND COLLEGE

The distinguished artist, Charles J. Connick, of Boston, Mass., was recently the luncheon guest of President Peirce at the College Commons. He addressed the student body briefly, stating that on this, his first visit to Gambier, he was agreeably surprised to find such pleasant surroundings and that his designs for the stained glass windows in the Philander Chase Memorial Tower and the Great Dining Hall had been so well executed.

The windows in the tower depict the activities of Bishop Chase in connection with the founding of Kenyon, while those in the dining hall represent the story of our literary heritage. The groups in the middle of the west wall symbolize our American authors and poets, and the others represent significant English poets, novelists, and dramatists. Subjects were chosen for their sustained influence toward wisdom and learning.

Bulletins containing information about the windows have been published and may be obtained by calling at the office of Mrs. C. C. Trainer.

ALMUNUS GIVES LIBRARY INTERESTING BOOK

"To Kenyon College Library, in memory of four happy years. H. Usher Monro, '73-'78." This is the inscription in a book just received at the Library from Dr. Monro. "An Island Bishop, 1762-1838, Memorials of William Ward, D. D., Bishop of Sodor and Mann, 1828-1838" is its title. It was compiled from Dr. Ward's letters by his granddaughter, Edith Caroline Wilson.

This Bishop of the Isle of Mann met and revered Bishop Philander Chase on his English visits, and makes mention of him in family letters. References to Bishop Chase's mission in 1824 will be found in the "Papers of a York Family" where he is described as "a pattern of piety and simplicity and a highly attached Episcopalian."

"Saint Philander's" picture was cherished and many of his letters were copied and circulated. Some of his pamphlets now rest in the Bodleian Library at Oxford.

The Rev. H. Usher Monro, now of Andover, Mass., spent several years in the family of Miss Mary O. Chase, granddaughter, of Bishop Chase. Dr. Monro has been a frequent contributor of historical material to Kenyon.

BASKETBALL PROSPECTS FAIR AS SEASON OPENS

THREE VETERANS ON COACH
EVANS' SQUAD

Although the Kenyon basketball team has lost two games and won none so far this year, there are some indications that this season will be more successful than last. McIlwain, Stock, and Swanson, all members of last year's varsity, are playing again this year, with Jud Johnson and Clarke completing the first team. Crawford, Sammon, Pugh, Thornberry, and Gray are the reserves. In the recent game at Toledo University the combination of Johnson at center, Swanson and McIlwain at the guards, and Stock and Clarke at the forwards worked well, and that will probably be the starting line-up for the rest of the season.

The balance of the schedule calls for fifteen games with seven to be played in Gambier, and eight away. Home and home series will be played with Otterbein, Baldwin Wallace, Capital, Kent State, Ohio Northern and Ashland.

POLITICAL SCIENCE ORGANIZATION ACTIVE

International Relations Club Hears Reports

At a meeting held in the Political Science classroom in Ascension Hall, November 16, the International Relations Club reorganized for the year. Dr. Cahill acted as temporary chairman, and the following officers were elected to lead the club for the next two semesters: President, Albert Preston; Vice-President, Walter Hoskins; and Secretary-Treasurer, Don Barrick. About twenty members and prospective members were present, including several Freshmen.

At a meeting held December 14, reports were given by delegates to three conferences that had been held within the past two weeks. Stan Carle, Dick Stambaugh, and Don Peden reported on the conference held at the University of Miami on Disarmament. Colleges and universities from Ohio, Kentucky, and West Virginia were represented at this conference. Charles Elder, delegate to a conference on the World Court held at Oberlin, reported on the debate between Newton D. Baker and Miss Hope Thompson, which has been given a good deal of newspaper publicity. Burt Crowell reported for himself and Don Barrick on the Chinese-Japanese debate in Columbus.

MARIETTA GAME

ball across after he and Sammon had carried it from midfield on line plunges and end runs. During the remainder of the half Sammon and Stock turned in some nice long runs, but no one was able to tally.

Early in the second half the Marietta passer attempted to complete a throw in Stock's zone. Stock caught the ball and ran thirty yards for an easy touchdown behind good interference. Though the score does not indicate it, from then on the Kenyon team made consistent gains. Passes, line plunges, and end runs were used effectively to advance the ball. Stock caught a long pass on Marietta's twenty yard line and fought his way over for his second touchdown of the day. Near the end of the game one of his long passes was completed on the five yard line. Hiller on the next play carried the ball around end for the fourth and last touchdown.

The Kenyon team played its best football of this year in this last game. It was not only Stock, but the whole team that starred. The Marietta men were blocked hard when Kenyon carried the ball. When the visitors attempted to gain ground they were always stopped by hard tackling. The line worked as it never had before, and opened large holes through which the backs galloped for long gains. Sammon gained more yardage than any one on the field, but others did the scoring. One can not pick out an individual star for this last game, for in this game more than in any other, the whole squad played excellent football.
