YOUNG AND DYE RUN FOR CONGRSS

Two Alumni Are After Congress-At-Large Positions

TWO KENYON MEN

Already In House Of Representatives

Two Kenyon alumni are candidates for the two additional seats in Congress awarded to Ohio as a result of the 1930 census. They are:

Stephen M. Young, '11, of Cleveland.

Paul Dye, '18, of Urbana.

Both are candidates for Democratic nominations, and as there are to be two nominees on each party ticket these Kenyon alumni are not running against each other—hence every son of the college who marks a Democratic ballot in the May primaries can vote for both Young and Dye.

The latter was the first in the field for congressman-at-large, announcing his candidacy January 14. Young followed him into the race a week later, revealing his platform as including submission of the eighteenth amendment to the states, repeal of the Volstead act, revision of income-tax rates and reduction of the Smoot-Hawley tariff schedules.

Young is no novice in Ohio politics, although he is little past the age of 40. He has served two terms in the Legislature, where he retained the nickname which he won as

NU PI KAPPA ELECTS NINETEEN NEW MEN

Literary Society Headed By Paul Edgar

At a recent meeting held in the lounge of Peirce Hall, the Nu Pi Kappa Literary Society added nineteen new men to its membership. As is the custom of the organization only one freshman, Robert Macdonald of East Wing, was elected. The other men chosen are:

Robert Hudson, Stephen Young, West Wing; Austin Mann, Newton Prentice, East Wing; Gilbert Cooper, Birge Thompson, North Leonard; Robert Maxon, David Thornberry, South Leonard; John Adair, Frank Lindsay, Middle Leonard; George Gilbert, South Hanna; Louis Brereton, Frank Johnson, North Hanna; Richard Clippinger, Charles Munson, Middle Hanna; Alfred Perkins, Frederick Poel, Terry Sawyer, Middle Kenyon.

At the annual election of officers, the Society elected Paul Edgar, North Hanna, to be its new president. An effort is being made to outline an interesting program for the coming spring, but, as yet, nothing definite has been arranged. However, excellent lecturers are promised for the society and members of the faculty.

PRESIDENT PEIRCE SPEAKS TO ALUMNI

ALSO ADDRESSES SEVERAL PREPARATORY SCHOOLS

President Peirce has just recently returned from an extended trip through the East and Middle West, where he addressed the students of several preparatory schools and approximately one hundred and fifty Kenyon men in Alumni Association meetings upon activities at Gambier during the past year and the constantly increasing recognition of Kenyon in the scholastic world.

On the afternoon of January 11 the Milwaukee Alumni Association, with George F. Russell, '01, as host, gave its annual banquet in honor of President Peirce. President Peirce also spoke to the Country Day School the same day.

The next day was spent in Minneapolis, where he talked to the students of Breck School in the afternoon.

HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS TO BE GUESTS MAY 31

Alumni Council To Give Prizes To Divisions Winning Contests

Arrangements are now being made to have the second high school guest day of the college year on May 21, two weeks after the annual May Hop. Very few accepted the invitation to come to Kenyon last November 14 because of the bad weather and numerous high school and college football games, but the Alumni Council, who is sponsoring the event, feels that with the help of the student body it can make May 21 a big day on the college calendar.

In order to stimulate interest among the students and alumni in singing and the bringing of guests, two inter-division contests are to be held.

Singing has long been a Kenyon tradition, but year by year it seems

NOTED ARCHITECT IS LARWILL LECTURER

Alfred Granger, Designer Of Peirce Hall, Speaks On Modern Vienna

At a lecture in Philo Hall, February 15, Alfred Granger, '27, spoke on modern Viennese architecture, stressing the changes in the homes of the working classes. After some preliminary remarks, Granger presented a large number of pictures. These slides showed the poorer dwellings of the city of a decade ago, when practically all the poorer classes lived in filth and squalor. Then the attention of the audience was taken up by illustrations and plans of the great new "apartment" houses which are being erected by the state to house the working classes. These buildings, one of which is large enough for six thousand families, are the last word in that type of construction. They provide sanitary, up-to-date dwellings at very low rents. They are constructed around large courts, so as to have all rooms open to the fresh air, and many have swimming pools and playgrounds in the courts. There are public kindergartens with highly trained teachers where the children of the working people are left while their parents are away during the daytime.

Mr. Granger showed that he had made a thorough study of the subject while on a recent European tour, and the audience, which completely filled Philo, was much pleased with the lecture. Granger, who is a member of the Chicago firm of Granger and Bollenbacher, designed Cromwell Cottage and the Stephen's Stack Room, as well as the Commons building. Dr. Peirce stated in his introduction.

After the lecture West Wing held a reception for Mr. Granger, who was a member of that group when in residence on the Hill.

KENYON ALUMNUS, ERNEST SIGGINS, NEW MAYOR OF SANDUSKY, OHIO

Was Prominent Student And Athlete While At Kenyon

WORLD WAR

Enlistment Cut Short College Career

A Kenyon alumnus, Ernest V. Siggins, '21, is now Mayor of Sandusky. He took office January 1 as a result of the victory of his party, the G. O. P., in the municipal elections there last November.

Although the advent of the World War, terminating his undergraduate career, prevented the 34-year-old Mayor of the Erie County metropolis giving the college many proofs of athletic ability, home-town newspapers refer to Siggins as "the best football player Sandusky ever produced."

But while his enlistment in the war deprived Kenyon of his gridiron skill, Siggins displayed it in high school and as a professional player after the European struggle closed. News stories from Sandusky, telling of his accession to the Mayorship, relate his rise as follows:

"Back in 1915, at Lorain, an out-weighted and underdog Sandusky high school football team, with its back against the wall, was fighting desperately to prevent what appeared to be a certain Lorain high touchdown.

"A Lorain pass, on what was intended to be a scoring play, was intercepted by a tow-headed youngster who slipped from the grasp of a half dozen Lorain players for an 87-0 victory."

ARCHAEOLOGIST TO GIVE TWO LECTURES IN MARCH

Designers of Commons Windows Also Sought as Speaker

The Larwill Lectureship committee announces that it has arranged for two lectures to be given March 17 and March 18 in Philo Hall by Dr. David M. Robinson, Professor of Archaeology at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Maryland. The speaker, who has been very prominent in his field for the last twenty years, is one of the best known and most authoritative archaeologists in Europe and America.

The first night Dr. Robinson will talk of "Athens in the Light of Recent Discoveries," and on the second night of "Excavations at Olynthos, the City Destroyed by Philip, Father of Alexander."

The Larwill lecture committee is also trying to arrange for an illustrated lecture at Gambier by Charles J. Connick of Boston, designer and worker in stained and leaded glass, typical examples of whose work may be seen in the beautiful windows of Peirce Hall and Chase Tower. A lecture by the designer, who spoke a few words to the students in the Commons dining hall on a recent visit to the College, probably would be received with a great deal of interest by the Kenyon student body.

KEN GILLETT LEAVES COLLEGIAN STAFF

Robert Swanson Is To Fill Vacancy Until May Issue

Ken Gillett of Toledo, who has edited the Collegian since May of last year, fulfilled graduation requirements at the end of the semester. He has appointed Robert Swanson as his successor to issue the paper until May, at which time the Collegian head for the 1932-33 college year will be named.

Gillett entered Kenyon from Carnegie Tech in the fall of 1929. Although he did not join the publication staff until the following year, he did such good work that he was named to fill the position left vacant when Robert Webb graduated. A feature of his papers has been the column "Gambier Hour By Hour."

Gillett is now working on the staff of the Ferro Enamel Company's publication, and is located in Cleveland.

KEN GILLETT SETS UP FOUCAULT PENDULUM EXPERIMENT

Spends Semester on Interesting Experiment Dealing with Rotation of the Earth

Although probably very few of the casual passers-by realize it, the pendulum bob suspended in the shaft in the south end of Mather Hall is used in a very interesting and historical experiment. It is what is known as a "Foucault" pendulum, because such a swinging weight was first used for the particular purpose of this experiment by the Frenchman, Foucault, in 1851, when he hung a bob on a long wire from the dome of the Pantheon in Paris. The purpose of the experiment is a quantitative proof and measure of the rotation of the earth. In Foucault's time this rotation was not as generally accepted as it is today. The French scientist started his pendulum swinging in a certain plane, or direction, and discovered after several hours that the plane of rotation was turning, i. e., that the direction of the swing had changed. He rightly interpreted this to mean that the reason why the pendulum had apparently for no cause changed direction was that in reality the earth, and hence the floor under the bob, had rotated from its original position. It took about 32 hours for the direction of swing to make a complete revolution. It was found that the time required equals 24 hours divided by the sine of the latitude. Hence, at the equator there would be no rotation, a fact borne out by experimentation.

Foucault's experiment has been carried out and studied a number of times since 1851, but at present Gillett's apparatus is possibly the only one in this country. The work was done by him as a seminar in Physics, his major.

The problem is not as simple as it sounds, for there are two great difficulties besetting the would-be experimenter, to keep the pendulum moving long enough, and to prevent the bob from swinging to and fro in an ellipse, as it tends to do in time, rather than in the straight line desirable for this experiment. Working from French photostatic copies of reports of former experiments secured from Paris, Gillett took care of both of these difficulties by one ingenious contrivance. Near the top of the wire a stationary ring is put around it so that at the end of each swing the wire just makes contact with the inner edge of the ring. The tendency of the swing to depart from a straight line is overcome by friction on this ring, and at the same time the contact closes an electric circuit operating a magnet placed directly below the bob, in the center. The periodic impulses of this magnet pull on the iron bob so that its tendency to die down and lose its energy is overcome. By this means the pendulum can be kept swinging for an indefinite period of time. In setting up and operating this apparatus Gillett was assisted by Dr. Cottrell of the Physics department.

yard run—and a touchdown. Sandusky won, 7 to 6.

"That's just one of numerous memory pictures that football fans up this way have of Erney Siggins, regarded by many as Sandusky's greatest gridiron luminary of all time, later an electrical contractor, and now, at 34, his native city's Mayor.

"Mayor Siggins has been out of football now for six or seven years, but whenever Sandusky fans discuss great players and great plays they never fail to mention Erney. He played an end on Sandusky High's teams in 1912 and 1913. In 1914 he entered the employ of the DeMay Electrical Company, of which he is now the owner.

"In 1915, having acquired considerable knowledge of the electrical contracting business, he returned to high school, to become one of the greatest halfbacks Sandusky ever had. Although he did not graduate, he had earned enough credits to enter Kenyon College, and to finance himself he left school, many weeks before commencement, to take a job as fireman on a locomotive in the yards of the Pennsylvania railroad. Continuing this work until the autumn of 1917, he entered Kenyon, where he won the presidency of the class of 1921.

"A brilliant academic and athletic career seemed to be ahead of Erney, but the war interrupted. Siggins quit college and entered the service. When he was mustered out, instead of returning to Kenyon he entered the electrical contracting business. But the lure of football remained. The year following his return from the Army found him shining with a semi-pro team at Fremont.

"In 1921 Siggins was induced to become a member of a semi-pro team at Sandusky with which he played until the end of the 1925 season. Then he hung up his football togs for good. The team with which Siggins had been identified was widely known as "the Maroons." It took on the toughest in the state, and beat the most of them.

"Mayor Siggins was probably as brilliant an open-field runner as there ever was in Ohio. He was a remarkably strong defensive player and possessed uncanny skill when it came to diagnosing the plays of opposing teams. He was effective as a drop-kicker and without a peer as a passer.

"With it all, Siggins was a real sportsman and his influence for clean play helped to make semi-pro football popular throughout Northern Ohio.

"In 1929, Sandusky business interests looked around for a cool, level-headed man to serve as balance-wheel on the five-man commission governing the city. Erney was picked and put across.

"New Year's Day, when the commission met to elect a mayor for two years, Erney was elected. Mayor Siggins is one of Sandusky's most stable citizens, and that he will retire with an administration reflecting great credit is accepted as a foregone conclusion.

"Siggins is married, but has no children."

YOUNG AND DYE

an officer on the French front in the World War—"Daredevil Steve."

A decade ago he was his party's nominee for Attorney General, and came within a few thousand votes of defeating C. C. Crabbe, Republican, for his second term. In 1930 he amazed Ohio politicians by polling more than 50,000 votes against the veteran George White in a Governorship primary election which was lightly attended. And this year the Governor has named him to be one of a commission of ten economists, attorneys and educators studying unemployment problems in the state.

"Steve's" record in politics, like that in his war service overseas, has been featured by aggressiveness, willingness to tackle any and all fights whenever occasion arises, scorn for caution and blunt frankness on all issues. As an attorney, he has risen rapidly in his community. A whirlwind campaigner, he is a formidable opponent on the stump and repeatedly has surprised older politicians by his forceful argument and effective oratory. In the Legislature, opponents who measured wits with "Daredevil Steve" soon learned that he was able to take care of himself in any kind of a fight, and several of his colleagues can testify from experience as to his mastery of biting sarcasm.

Dye, whose nickname on the Hill was "Pinkie," is Young's junior, but he has a powerful advantage in that he is a son of Thomas A. Dye, former Democratic State Chairman. The elder Dye is a power in his party, and one of the three elections carried by Governor A. V. Donahay was turned chiefly by the ability of Chairman Dye. The son, while never a candidate for state office, has been active in party circles in the Seventh Congressional District, where the Democratic committee has endorsed him for Congressman-at-Large.

If either Young or Dye is nominated and elected—and political observers agree that the 1932 election will find the major parties more evenly matched than in any Presidential year of the last generation—it will be the first time a Kenyon man in Ohio has won the title of Congressman-at-Large since 1912. In that year Robert Crosser, '97, of Cleveland, was chosen as a Democrat to represent the whole state. At present Crosser is sitting for the Twenty-first Ohio District, composed of part of Cuyahoga County.

And if both Young and Dye are sent to the House of Representatives, Kenyon will have twice its present quota in Congress. Two alumni of the College are now in the House, the veteran Crosser and John L. Cable, '06, of Lima, Republican, who has attracted wide attention by his many constructive measures in the field of immigration and naturalization.

ANOTHER POSITION FOR HENRY DALTON

Is Head Of Directors Of Youngstown Sheet And Tube Company

Henry G. Dalton, of Cleveland, Kenyon trustee and donor of Mather Science Hall in honor of his business partner, the late Samuel Mather, has become chairman of the board of directors of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company.

Because of the importance of the steel concern in the industrial world, the press throughout the country devoted extensive attention to the election of Mr. Dalton to the chairmanship. An Associated Press dispatch February 6 said, in part:

"Dalton, a partner in Pickands, Mather and Company, ore producing and shipping firm of Cleveland, recently resigned as a director of Bethlehem Steel Corporation. His dual position as director of both Bethlehem and Sheet and Tube was given prominence during Cyrus S. Eaton's successful fight against a proposed merger of the two companies. Dalton was active in the preliminary merger negotiations. He has been first vice president of Sheet and Tube for many years.

"Dalton, once dubbed 'the silent iron king,' is another captain of industry who rose from the bottom step by step.

"As a boy of 16 he scrambled for a livelihood along the iron docks of Cleveland, then became office boy for the late Samuel Mather in Pickands, Mather and Company. At 21 he was taken into the central office of the firm, in recognition of his industry.

"Since then he steadily forged ahead until he became a partner in Pickands-Mather and an important figure in steel and finance.

"In 1925 President Coolidge summoned him as 'trouble-shooter' in the merchant marine tangle. He recommended a centralized authority for control of the fleet, separation of the Fleet Corporation and the Shipping Board and gradual return to private ownership.

"President Hoover made him a member of the Merchant Marine Advisory Board appointed in 1930.

"He is president of the Interlake Steamship Company, which operates the second-largest fleet on the Great Lakes.

"Like many other industrial leaders who were denied a formal education, he was greatly interested in higher education. In 1924 he donated $400,000 to Kenyon College, at Gambler, O. He was a member of the board of the Cleveland Museum of art and a patron of the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra.

"Despite his many activities, he has remained comparatively obscure. He is known as a silent man who does his own thinking and makes his own decisions.

"He was born in Cleveland 69 years ago."

GEORGE EVANS

Now that the student's first semester Coffee Shop accounts have been reestablished, George Evans is once more king of the campus and idol of the Commons. George believes that the best way to win a man is through his stomach (to say nothing of the pocketbook). A glance at the number of overdrawn accounts shows that many a man could not resist the said Evans' sales chatter of "money spent for food is not wasted."

KENYON PROFESSOR HEARD IN MT. VERNON

Dr. Cahall Talks At Chamber of Commerce Luncheon

Dr. Cahall gave an interesting travelogue of the British Isles to the members of the Mt. Vernon Chamber of Commerce at their weekly luncheon on January 20. He sketched interesting features of his three-weeks' stay in London and his eight-weeks' motor trip through the Isles.

He attended sessions of parliament in London and of the house of deputies in Dublin, and his accounts of the discussions pertinent to the crisis of last summer were very good. While in London he heard the well-informed Sir Norman Angell, who spoke at Kenyon only recently, discuss important problems.

The Kenyon professor talked about a number of things that a traveler does not generally talk about or see, especially the way in which the English amuse themselves and why, in his opinion, they love England so much.

Perhaps most interesting were his accounts of the Aldershot entertainment given by the troops from the barracks there, the navy performance presented in front of the summer resort Torquay, the Gold Cup stake race at Ascot, and horse show at Dublin.

In the army and navy performances given at night with the aid of large searchlights, both ancient and modern methods of warfare were shown in magnificent style.

The royal Ascot races lasted for four days, and had as interested spectators the royal family. There was an intermission between races so that the royal family might have its lunch and not miss any of the afternoon's events.

Irish horses took first honors in the great Dublin horse show, as did one in the Ascot races. Nine different nations sent cavalries to compete in the show, but after an hour and a half of competition an Irish horse was named victor.

Dr. Cahall's trip, which was 4300 miles long, took him through the most interesting parts of Ireland, northwest part of Wales, Southern Scotland, and thirty-three of thirty-nine counties of England.

ROBERT GOLDSAND PLEASES CONCERT CROWD

Young Viennese Pianist Shows Great Talent

Robert Goldsand's piano concert given in Memorial Hall, Mt. Vernon, January 27, was well received, not only by the large crowd of Mt. Vernon music-lovers, but by the many Kenyon students and faculty who were present. The program consisted of three sections. The first consisted of two selections of Beethoven, Andante favori and the Turkish March, Schubert's Impromptu, and the Aufforderung zum Tanz of Weber. The second of these numbers was especially well liked by the audience. The second section was entirely Chopin, consisting of three numbers. The third group was more modern, starting with Debussy's La Cathédrale engloutie and including numbers by Scriabine, Albeniz, and Arber. Goldsand obliged with encores at the end each of the last two sections.

The next presentation of the Mt. Vernon Community Music Club will be the Musical Art Quartet, a well known chamber music group under the management of the National Broadcasting Company's Artists Service. This concert will be given April 4.

PHILO MEETS TO HEAR TWO PROFESSORS

Cahall and Reeves Speak On England and Fascism

The Philomathesian Literary Society began the year's program on December 16, in the lounge of Peirce Hall. A good representation of students and faculty were present to hear a very interesting talk on "England" given by Dr. R. D. Cahall. After a very interesting discussion, the society adjourned to the dining hall in the Commons basement, where refreshments were served.

A second meeting was held in the lounge of the Commons building on January 24. Dr. W. P. Reeves of the English department, who has been making a thorough study of Italian conditions, spoke on "Fascism." A general discussion followed the talk, after which refreshments were served to the students and faculty present.

The literary society has not added any new members to its organization this year. However, plans are being made to initiate ten new men a little later in the spring.

KENT STATE IS LOSER IN ONE-SIDED BATTLE

KENYON PLAYS GREAT BALL AGAINST WEAK TEAM

Kenyon's basketball team looked like a million dollars against the weak Kent State five here, January 22. Leading at the half, 15-8, the team went wild the second period to score twenty-eight more points and give it a 43-19 win. The Mauve played great defensive ball, letting no Kent State man score more than four points.

In an effort to uncover a scoring punch, Coach Evans changed his opening lineup considerably. This team was barely able to hold its own, but a substitution of the regulars resulted in a good size lead at the half.

Clarke's fourteen points led the scoring. Stock and Lindsay each made eight. Carl played best for the losers, but could score only four points.

DIVISIONS TO COMPETE IN HANDBALL TOURNAMENT

Due to the unusual amount of interest in handball, this sport has been added this year to Intramural competition. A tournament will be run off as in the other sports and a cup given to the winning division. Each division may enter as many men as it desires in both the single and doubles tournaments.

This is the first year that handball has been played to any great extent at Kenyon. Last fall a court was made in the basement of Rosse Hall, but due to the great demand, the basement has been remodeled recently to provide another court. The two are now being used regularly every day by a great many men, and the tournament should produce some exciting matches.

MAUVE RUNS SEASON'S LOSSES TO EIGHT

Kenyon received another setback when it journeyed to Ashland on February 13 and played Ashland College. The final score was 47-39. Ashland held a ten point advantage, 26-16, at the half, but this lead was cut to four points near the end of the game, only to have Ashland drop in two short ones in the last minute.

Kenyon was weak offensively and defensively in the first period, but both departments were improved after the intermission. Berry was too much for the visitors to handle, however, and his scoring in the second half was Ashland's margin of victory.

As all Kenyon-Ashland games, this, too, was an interesting battle. The last Purple rally brought fear to the Ashlanders, for it was in just that way that Kenyon whipped the home team two years ago. But, the ending was reversed, and Kenyon came back to Gambier with another defeat added to its ever increasing string.

Berry and Emmons were best for the winners; Lindsay and Clarke for the losers.

BALDWIN WALLACE HOLDS KENYON IN LAST HALF

Baldwin Wallace, with the aid of Referee Hazelwood, held (literally) Kenyon to no field baskets in the second half of their game at Berea on January 16. As a result of this excellent wrestling exhibition, the Bereans took a 35-22 victory back to their dressing room.

Due to Clarke's quick breaks for short shots, Kenyon walked off the floor at half-time on the long end of a 16-12 score. However, the winners made twenty-one points to the losers six fouls in the second period to give them the referee's decision.

Clarke and McIlwain were the only Kenyon men to score more than one point. They had fourteen and six. Anderson was high for the winners with eight.

OTTERBEIN TROUNCES PURPLE CAGERS 36-28

Although Stock was on with fifteen points, the rest of the team could not score enough to defeat Otterbein here on January 13. Andrews and Francis, Otterbein stars, came through with twelve and eleven points respectively, which was enough with the rest of the visitor's points to give them the game, 36-28. They also led at the half, 19-12.

The game was hard fought and the score always close, but the ability to sink them from beyond the foul line proved to be the winner's margin of victory. A. B. Long of Purdue did a good job of officiating.

CAPITAL DEFEATED IN POORLY PLAYED GAME

VISITORS' FINAL RALLY FALLS SHORT BY FOUR

After losing its first four games, Kenyon scored a victory over Capital, 24-20, in a poorly played contest at Rosse Hall on January 18. Kenyon was much the superior team, but, because of its inability to make a fair percentage of its shots, failed to turn in a decisive win over the Columbus outfit. However poor Kenyon's shooting was, Capital's was even worse.

The locals led at the half, 13-9, and each team scored eleven markers in the second period to keep the four point margin. McIlwain and Clarke each scored nine points for the winners, with Hirschman making the same for the losers.

CASE BESTS KENYON IN CLOSE BATTLE

Cameron Is High Scorer With 14 Points

Case's good basketball team had a tough time beating Kenyon at the Cathedral Latin gym in Cleveland, January 27. The final score was 24-18.

Kenyon played poorly in the first half, and seemed to be headed for another drubbing. However, soon after the intermission, the Purple's offense began clicking to bring its score within two points of the leader's. But Johnny Cameron proved to be too much for the visitor's defense. After his last two baskets, which gave a six point lead, Case

DEPTH SOUNDERS FOR AIRCRAFT

WITH the application of electricity to aircraft instruments, another chapter was written in the annals of air transportation. To-day's ship is not only swifter but safer and more dependable. Modern depth-sounding devices indicate instantly the height of the ship above the ground surface. A unique feature of General Electric's recently-purchased monoplane is the almost completely electrified instrument panel.

The most recently developed instrument is the sonic altimeter, which provides a quick means of indicating changes in height above ground. Sound from an intermittently operated air whistle is directed downward. The echo is picked up in a receiving megaphone, and the sound is heard through a stethoscope. The elapsed time between the sound and the echo determines the height. Tests show that water, buildings, woods, etc., produce echoes that are different and characteristic.

Besides developing a complete system of aircraft instruments, college-trained General Electric engineers have pioneered in every electrical field—on land, on sea, and in the air.

Kenyon displayed a better brand of basketball than it had in any of its previous games, but failure to score on its many shots from under the basket spelled defeat.

Cameron was the high man with fourteen. Johnson and Swanson each scored five for Kenyon.

KENYON GETS SECOND DEFEAT FROM NORTHERN

In a return game at Ada, February 19, Ohio Northern repeated its early season's victory over the Purple by administering a 33-22 drubbing. Kenyon held a 9-0 advantage at one time, but a late rally gave the home team a two point lead at the half.

For the first ten minutes Kenyon successfully broke up any attempt at scoring by the Ohio Northern team while its own offense functioned smoothly. However, Allen soon found the basket and put his team ahead.

The winners had little difficulty after the intermission, for it soon piled up a comfortable lead and then scored point for point with the losers.

Allen, Ohio Northern's star athlete, set the pace with ten points. Stock and Clarke scored seven points apiece for Kenyon.

SIR NORMAN ANGELL DELIVERS LECTURE

English Crisis Discussed In Interesting Manner

Sir Norman Angell, member of the British Parliament since 1929 and well known in this country because of his frequent contributions to American newspapers and many lectures in American universities, delivered a Larwell lecture on the evening of January 20, his subject being "Behind the English Crisis." Not since the evening when Count Von Luckner told of his war experiences has such a large crowd gathered in Philo hall.

The lecturer's chief point was that the same conditions which produced the world depression had been responsible for the English crisis, except England, being more industrialized and more dependent on her commerce than other nations, felt the depression first and confronted the crisis sooner than all nations.

He went on to say that the world depression has been produced largely through the lack of purchasing power of different nations. This, in turn, has been due to the failure of those nations to get markets for their products. One of the chief fields for sale of goods that has been practically closed to European countries has been the great American market. The last tariff bill and the use of which Hoover has made of the optional clause monopolized the whole market for American industries at the very time that Europe was needing exports to pay her war debts.

The only way, therefore, that America has been able to get anything from Europe has been by loaning her money. This she did to Germany who paid part of it in reparations to the victorious powers, which, in turn, turned part of it over to the United States in the form of debt payments. Now, that Germany's credit with the United States seems to be exhausted, there seems to be little prospect of this roundabout procedure continuing.

Sir Norman, therefore, hinted that the cancellation of war debts would be only a graceful acknowledgment of an actual fact. He whimsically proposed that the United States let Great Britain build this country's annual quota of war vessels for Britain's share of the debt to us. In turn, Germany could build England's war fleet. Whereupon, in the same humor, someone asked if England could be persuaded to keep the American fleet in England and support it.

Sir Norman, like a good free-trader, seemed to feel that economic recovery depends upon the rapidity and ways in which economic restrictions can be removed. The free passage of goods back and forth means the restoration of purchasing power and the revival of industry everywhere.

At the conclusion of his lecture, the speaker discussed economic problems and possible solutions with interested members of the audience.

DRAMATIC CLUB GIVES THREE ONE-ACT PLAYS

Plays Written and Directed By Malcolm Haight

The Drama Club continued its work of last year by presenting three one-act plays in the Lounge on the evening of January 28. These plays were written and directed by Malcolm Haight, who has been very active in the Drama Club since its reorganization in the fall of 1930.

The first was called "Penny Ante," and was perhaps the best of the three. It was a satirical farce on the rushing system at Kenyon and showed extraordinarily clearly what the faults of the system are. It was at the same time instructive and amusing. Clarke, Ibold, DeWeese, and Tritsch took the parts of rushers and Howard, MacNamee and Daly were rushees.

A morning broadcast at a radio studio was the subject of "The Broadcast," the second play. This was enlivened by three feminine beauties, Steve Young, Baker, and Baum. Adair and Brien were the announcer and a preacher, while Doelker played the part of the pianist. Phil also played between plays.

The last playlet was fantastical, and the high spot of the evening, as far as merriment was concerned, was the dance of the Muse, Charley Smith, and his chorus, Coleman, Johnston and Royon. Aills and MacDonald took the parts of two scoffers at the Drama Club, who were converted, partly by their own conversation and partly by the efforts of the Muse, to enthusiastic supporters.

It has been announced that the organization is already preparing another program with which to mirror a cross-section of Kenyon life and amuse its many friends and patrons.

POLITICAL SCIENCE CLUB HOLDS MEETINGS

MODEL CONFERENCE ON DIS- ARMAMENT NEXT

The International Relations Club, under the leadership of Dr. Cahall, has been quite active the past two months. Meetings have been held every two weeks in the Political Science room in Ascension Hall. Most of the time has been spent in discussing the Manchuria question, and debates and lectures have been given on that subject by the members of the club.

On Monday evening, February 29, the club is to hold a model Disarmament Conference in Peirce Hall. Members of the club will represent different nations and give speeches, presenting the views held by the powers today. The model conference will be open to the public.

The program for the semester includes the sending of delegates to the fourth Ohio Intercollegiate Model Assembly of the League of Nations to be held at Ohio University, Athens, Ohio. Last year four students from the club represented India at the Model Assembly. The conference was conducted just as the actual Geneva gathering is handled, so far as program and organization were concerned. Speeches were made to the assembly and committee meetings were held to draft resolutions to be discussed and accepted or rejected by the entire group at a session the following day. Such interesting reports were given by last year's delegates that it is almost certain that Kenyon will again send representatives to the Model Assembly.

HIGH SCHOOL DAY

to be losing its importance. To revive this dying interest, the Council is offering a substantial cash prize to the winner of an inter-division sing to be held on the path, with each division giving two numbers—one of its own and one of Kenyon's.

Another money award is offered by the Council to the group bringing the most high school seniors to Kenyon on May 21. Definite rules have not been made, but it is probable that points will be given for the number of guests and distance traveled to reach Kenyon. Those brought by an alumnus of a division will be credited to that division. Groups will entertain their own guests, but arrangements will be made to have the visitors eat in Peirce Hall.

Details for the program of the guest day are to be arranged by a committee composed of nine juniors. William Raines, Alfred Perkins, Richard Stambaugh, Curtis Gray, Stephen Young, Edward Owen, Gilbert Cooper, Robert Lawrence, and Louis Langdon, chairman, represent the nine different divisions on this committee.

Mr. Lloyd had a long and varied career as a newspaperman. While a political reporter for the Cleveland Plain Dealer, he covered McKinley's famous front porch campaign for the presidency. In 1898 he reported the sinking of the Maine in Havana Harbor. Two years later he went to London, where he was connected with Daily Mail. In London he reported the Queen Victoria jubilee celebration. He also wrote articles on the European tour of Barnum's circus.

It is said that Mr. Lloyd was the first reporter on the scene at the assassination of President Garfield.

Mr. Lloyd was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon.

'85—Alonzo M. Snyder of Cleveland was married to Mae Stafford on January 15.

'85—Martin A. Mayo, a matriculate of the class of '85, was found dead at his home in Chicago, where at one time he was a prominent attorney. He was sixty-nine years old.

He was a close friend of Charles G. Dawes, former Vice President and Ambassador to England. At one time Mayo was counsel for John R. Walsh, banker and publisher, and for the Federated Funeral Directors of America.

Mayo was a widower. His wife was a noted singer, who in the '90's was a member of the Bostonians, a touring opera company. Chicago newspapers reported that the only surviving relative of the attorney was a sister, Mrs. Harry Atkinson, Brookline, Mass.

'90—Frank H. Ginn was recently appointed a director of the Good-year Tire and Rubber Company of Akron. The Cleveland attorney is also a director of the Union Trust Company and a dozen industrial firms of national scope.

He succeeds former Congressman James T. Begg of Cleveland on the board.

'99—Carl R. Ganter of New York spent the Christmas vacation at Circle Z Ranch, Patagonia, Arizona.

'10—Garvey Gale of Coshocton died on Christmas day of injuries suffered in a traffic accident. He was forty-five years old.

Gayle's automobile was struck by a switch engine at a grade crossing in Newcomerstown, near his home city, late Christmas Eve, and his death came the following day.

He entered Kenyon from Cincinnati, but after leaving the Hill settled in Coshocton, where he was secretary and treasurer of the American Arts Works. He was widely known among Kenyon men, being a frequent visitor to the college.

'12—Robert Weaver and family returned from a month's vacation at Circle Z Ranch, Patagonia, Arizona, on January 15.

'13—Another recent marriage was that of Fred G. Clark of Cleveland to Mrs. Sibyl Young Hine of the Savoy-Plaza and Locust Valley, L. I.

Mr. Clark is president of Fred G. Clark, Inc., oil refiners, and of the Conewango Refining Company of Warren, Pa. He is a director of the National Petroleum Association and the Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark left for a wedding trip to California immediately after the ceremony. After their return they will reside in Cleveland.

'14—Louis Boyd Dobie has been appointed secretary-superintendent of the Masonic Employment Bureau of Cincinnati.

'16—Robert A. Cline, former president of the Cincinnati Alumni Association and a member of the Alumni Council, has been elected president of the Cincinnati Real Estate Board, the youngest realty operator ever honored with that position.

"Bob," as he is known among Kenyon men in the Cincinnati area, specializes in business property, and has handled a number of transactions involving realty valued at more than a million dollars. A year ago he conducted the largest appraisal ever made in the Middle-West, for the Emery Estate.

In addition to being one of the most active members of the Kenyon Association in Cincinnati, he is a member of the University Club and similar organizations and is active in the American Legion, having served overseas in the World War. He is married and resides in East Walnut Hills.

'27—Mr. Charles D. Marsh is now associated with Julian M. Andrus in the practice of law, with offices at 1846 Union Trust Building, Cleveland, Ohio.

'29—Alexander U. Spain, a Kenyon alumnus of Warren, Ohio, tied for second place with an average of 90.7 in the recent state bar association examination held at Columbus, Spain, who was elected to the Phi Beta Kappa society at Kenyon, also graduated from Western Reserve. He plans to practice law with Charles E. Anderson.

'31—An announcement has been received of the marriage of John Griffith Hoyt to Miss Mary Louise Herschede at Cincinnati, December 30. Mrs. Hoyt is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Herschede of Cincinnati.

'32—Herbert Wells Nichols, Jr., of Steubenville died from pneumonia on February 7 at the University Hospital in Columbus, after a short illness. He had been in poor health for several months.

Nichols was a student at Kenyon for two years, but had been attending Ohio State University since the fall of 1930. He was a member of Sigma Pi fraternity, and played freshman and varsity football at Kenyon.

CENTRAL OHIO ALUMNI

The Alumni Association of Central Ohio held its annual meeting on Tuesday, February 9, at the University Club in Columbus, Ohio. Approximately twenty-five attended the dinner. Col. Thomas Ferenbaugh, '05, was elected as president for the forthcoming year and John C. Converse, '29, as secretary and treasurer. Kelley Davies, '08, and Col. Ferenbaugh are to represent the Central Ohio Association on the Alumni Council.

Dr. Walton represented Kenyon in the absence of President Peirce. Kelley Davies spoke for the Alumni Council and made an urgent appeal that a greater effort be made to get more high school students interested in Kenyon. Especially pleasing was the support promised by the Association for the High School day to be held May 21.

Robert Hudson, Charles Monsarrat, John Tritsch, and Mr. Rudolph Kutler were among those present.

CHICAGO ALUMNI HEAR DR. PEIRCE SPEAK

On Thursday, January 14, the Kenyon Alumni Association of Chicago held its annual dinner in honor of President Peirce at the University Club. There were approximately thirty-two present. The president of the Chicago Association, Mr. Convers Goddard, presided.

Dr. Peirce gave a most interesting account of the activities at Gambier during the past year. He dwelt particularly upon the high scholastic standards of the College and the constantly increasing recognition of the College in the educational world. As an illustration, he said that while Kenyon in 1930 had stood ninth among one hundred and fifty colleges on the Carnegie Foundation tests, that the result this year is considerably better, and that the final tabulation will give Kenyon a higher comparative standing. The President's statement that the College had completed last year without a deficit was received with enthusiasm by the Alumni.

The other speakers were the general Chairman of the Alumni Council, Mr. Edgar Martin, and Mr. Alfred Granger, Senior Chicago alumnus, trustee, and architect of the new Commons. Mr. Martin's address was devoted largely to the work of the Alumni Council in tying together the interests and the efforts of the alumni throughout the country. He strongly urged the obtaining of a larger percentage of the alumni as active supporters of the Council. Mr. Granger, who returned the past fall from a year spent in Vienna, spoke on the advantages of a Kenyon education. Although he has studied at several universities in this country and abroad, he stated that he now looked on his Kenyon education as the most important and most valuable.

Among those present were William N. Wyant, Vice-President, E. Malcolm Anderson, Chairman of the Executive Committee, Theodore C. Diller, Secretary, William P. Wiseman, Charles S. Greaves, Larrimore Burr, Dr. William Stewart, Overbock, Caples, and Danforth. The following fathers of students now at Kenyon were also on hand: Mr. Macdonald, Mr. Swan, Mr. Read, Reverend Mr. Lee, and Mr. Baum.

Almost an hour after the scheduled time for the dinner, Morgan Smith and Samuel B. Boudreau, both of the class of 1928, came in. They were given a small table in the corner, which Dr. Peirce suggested as the proper place for them.

The Honorable Frank K. Dunn, '78, was unable to accept the invitation of the Association to be its guest at the dinner. Judge Dunn is the senior member of the Illinois Supreme Court and was given an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws by the College last June.

MAHONING ALUMNI MEETS IN YOUNGSTOWN

The annual meeting of the Mahoning Valley Kenyon Alumni Association was held at the Youngstown Club, Youngstown, Ohio, December 29, 1931, with an excellent dinner served in one of the club's private rooms. The meeting was opened by the president, C. B. Senft. After the Secretary, W. C. T. Davis, had read the minutes and treasurer's report, both of which were approved, Mark Gunelfinger, chairman of the nominating committee, was called upon for his report. He put the name of George Fisher before the meeting for President, and that of Leonard Price for Secretary-Treasurer. Mr. Senft called for a vote and both names were approved unanimously. The meeting was then turned over to President-elect "Doc" Fisher, who expressed his appreciation for the election and asked for the cooperation of each member during the coming year. He called upon "Dick" Aubrey, who had been selected to serve as toastmaster for the evening. Many of the members present were called on for remarks, and shortly afterward the meeting was adjourned. The rest of the evening was spent at bridge. Throughout the meeting and afterward many Kenyon and fraternity songs were sung.

ternoon and to twelve Minneapolis alumni in the evening.

At the invitations of Col. Newhall of Shattuck School and Principal Alder of Blake School, he made addresses to the students of those places on January 13, and on the following day spoke to the University School boys at Milwaukee.

The same evening he attended the meeting of the Chicago Alumni Association at the University Club with thirty-five present. (A full account of the banquet is given in another article in this paper.)

In Cleveland on January 23 he was present at the Executive Committee of the Alumni Council luncheon held in the University Club dining hall. About seventy were present at the Cleveland Alumni Association dinner at the University Club in the evening.

On Tuesday, January 26, President Peirce presented, to the convention of the Diocese of Southern Ohio, a report on the College and made an address on it at Springfield, Ohio.

The next evening he dined with the Pittsburgh Alumni Association at the University Club in Pittsburgh. There were over thirty present, including Principal Wilder of Arnold School and Principal Baskerville of University School.

A dinner was given in President Peirce's honor at the Penn Athletic Club in Philadelphia by the Alumni Association of that city. Sixteen were present at the banquet.

Thirty men, including Congressmen Robert Crosser, '97, John Cable, '06, and Ralph West, representative of this district, were present at the dinner given by the Alumni Association of Washington, D. C., at the Hotel Roosevelt.

At the Hotel Roosevelt in New York City, President Peirce dined with the Alumni Association. Among the fifty present were three guests of honor, Monell Sayre of the Church Pension Fund, Catesby Jones, donor of the Brook Memorial windows, and Alvin Duerr, '93, president of the Interfraternity Conference.

Alfred Taylor, '06, brother of Miss Philena Taylor, Assistant Treasurer of the College, was elected president of the Association.

At the University Club in Buffalo twelve alumni met with President Peirce and organized the Alumni Association of Western New York, which includes Kenyon men of Rochester, Buffalo, and towns of western New York. L. P. Hancock, '87, was elected president, the Rev. W. R. McKim, '04, vice-president, and Joseph Dickinson, '25, secretary and treasurer.

BALDWIN WALLACE AGAIN TRIMS KENYON

WEBER AND CLARKE EACH
SCORE 13 POINTS

Kenyon lost its second game to Baldwin Wallace here Tuesday evening in a thrilling battle. The home team again held a first half lead, 15-14, but could not quite keep up with the pace that the visitors set in the last twenty minutes.

Evans used Pugh, Thornberry, Clarke, Swan, and McIlwain as his starting line-up. These men jumped into an early lead by successfully stopping any signs of a Baldwin Wallace offense, while scoring several points themselves. However, in the last eight minutes of the initial stanza, the Bereans scored enough to trail Kenyon by one point. Thornberry and Clarke were off with the opening whistle, but their lead was soon cut down. Several Kenyon substitutions failed to help matters a great deal, although they succeeded in keeping even with their opponents.

In the second period Weber, who had been effectively stopped during the first part of the game, located the basket for eleven points. He scored more than the rest of his team, and these points totaled were enough to give the visitors a 34-31 victory.

The game was fast throughout, but not featured by any particularly brilliant basketball. Kenyon again had several chances to win on short shots, but Dame Fortune always turned her head the other way. Time after time the ball would roll off the rim on the wrong side after resting momentarily on the edge of the basket.

Clarke and Weber were the game's scoring stars with thirteen points each. The latter, however, made eleven of his in the second half. Wing of Baldwin Wallace and Stock were next in line with eight markers.

"STEVE" CLARKE IS LEADING SCORER

An unofficial check-up of the conference basketball scores to and including the game with Baldwin Wallace on February 23 reveals the fact that "Steve" Clarke, center and forward, is high point man on the team. Clarke has scored a total of 83 points in the eleven conference games in which he has seen service, or 7.5 points per game.

"Dud" Stock, leading Kenyon scorer for the last two years, is second. He has collected an average of 5.7 points per game, the result of 63 points made in eleven contests.

Clarke scored his highest against Baldwin Wallace at Berea and Kent State here. He made 14 points in each of these games. Stock's best effort has been 15 points made in the Otterbein tilt early in the season. In no other conference game has he scored more than 10 points.

DELTS WIN ANOTHER VOLLEY BALL CUP

Overcome One Game Lead To Win Over Bexley

In a thrilling finish, Middle Leonard nosed out Bexley, two games to one, for the Intramural Volley Ball Championship of Kenyon. Although hopelessly outclassed in the first game and defeated by the score of 15-4, Middle Leonard found itself in the second struggle, overcame a 9-2 lead, and won out 15-13. The final game was close throughout, with the Delt team holding the upper hand the entire way. However, a bitter duel was staged before the victors finally put over the winning point to end the contest four points ahead of the Bexley outfit.

The winning team used only six players in the entire match, the combination being composed of Crawford, Judge, McIlwain, MacNamee, L. Swanson, and R. Swanson. The losers were Auten, Brown, R. Hargate, Jones, McGinnis, McNairy, and Williams.

In the first round of the tournament West Wing defeated North Leonard in a closely contested game, 2-1; Middle Leonard triumphed over Middle Kenyon, 2-0; South Leonard eliminated North Hanna, 2-1; East Wing defeated Middle Hanna, 2-1; and Bexley shut out South Hanna.

In the second round, after losing the first game by an overwhelming score, Middle Leonard rallied to win by the score of 2-1. East Wing came from behind to defeat South Leonard, 2-1. Bexley drew a bye in the second round and in the semi-finals defeated East Wing, 2-0.

South Hanna won the consolation championship by defeating Middle Hanna and Middle Kenyon. Middle Kenyon had previously won over North Leonard and North Hanna.

BASEBALL DROPPED AS INTERCOLLEGIATE SPORT

Time And Money To Be Devoted To Track Team

According to reports from the Athletic Department, Kenyon is not to be represented by a baseball team this year. A limited amount of funds is given as the reason.

Kenyon is one of the few colleges in Ohio that has sponsored the diamond sport in the last few years. Most colleges dropped it from intercollegiate competition four or five seasons back, but are now taking it up because of the number of students interested in the game.

Mr. Kutler states that the money and time that was spent on baseball before will now be devoted to the placing of a winning track team on the field. According to Kutler the athletic staff has tentatively scheduled six track meets for the Kenyon team.

OHIO NORTHERN DOUBLES SCORE ON KENYON TEAM

In a game at Rosse Hall, January 29, Ohio Northern more than doubled the score on Kenyon. The visitors led at the half, 21-11, and at the end of the contest, 41-20.

The winners jumped into an early lead by running up twelve points before the home team could muster a defense to stop them. The rest of the half was even in scoring, with the leaders content in keeping the ten point margin.

Kenyon's poor attempt at an offense was even worse in the second half, and the losers scored only nine points to its opponent's twenty.

Porosky, Ohio Northern flash, led the scoring for both teams with eleven points. Clarke and Swanson were high for Kenyon with six and seven.

KENYON NOSED OUT BY POWERFUL MUSKIES

Improvement In Mauve's Passwork
Makes Close Battle

A strong Muskingum basketball team was forced to extend itself to the limit to defeat the Kenyon quintet in a thrilling game in Rosse Hall on February 16. The visitors were rated the stronger team and one of the strongest in the Ohio Conference, but it was only by a second-half spurt that they were able to overcome the Purple's lead and win out, 37-32. Kenyon playing its best game of the season and at times displaying a powerful scoring attack, led at the half, 17-14. However, the Muskies forged ahead early in the second period to hold a one time advantage of ten points. This was cut down to five points by a Mauve drive in the last few minutes of the contest.

Kenyon opened the game in splendid fashion, scoring four markers in the first two minutes on clever pass work and Stock's eagle-eye shooting. For the next twelve minutes it was all Muskingum, for that team made ten points while holding its opponents at four. Here the Kenyon outfit went on another scoring spree to give it a margin of three points at half-time.

In the second period, Zeyher, Muskingum's star forward, bombarded the basket with long tosses from past the foul line for a total of ten points. His shooting was the best seen in Rosse Hall since the Wooster game two years ago. The Kenyon combination opened up again late in the game and crept to within five points of the winners, but the gun cut short what appeared to be a successful rally.

The contest was featured by the shooting of McClain and Zeyher, and the much improved offensive work of the Mauve team. Stock and Sutton played excellent ball for the losers.

MT. UNION CAGERS GIVE PURPLE RUDE LESSON

The Purple and White team traveled to Mt. Union, January 23, where it received a rude lesson in the art of basketball. With Raber, Grimes, and Curtis going wild, Mt. Union led at the half, 30-6, and at the end of the game, 55-24. For twelve minutes in the second half the two teams matched scores, but at the end of that time, the home team took another spurt to give it a nine point margin in the second period scoring.

Raber, Grimes, and Curtis led the scoring for the Mounts; Stock and Lindsay for Kenyon.

During the past the Kenyon football team has received a great deal of publicity, mainly through its victory over Hobart. Hobart fully expected to break its twenty-three game losing streak when it met Kenyon this fall. However, Kenyon trounced the eastern school by a 26-7 score, and Hobart had to go on to the last game of the season before it defeated a team. Many newspapers ran articles about the New York college, and in each one the Kenyon game was described.

The best bit of publicity that the Kenyon team received, however, was in an article written by Sid Ziff, Sports Editor of the Los Angeles Evening Herald and Express. He wrote:

"For three years a little midwestern college which goes by the name of Kenyon not only failed to win a football game but was also unable to register a touchdown.

"Last season Kenyon shoved over a touchdown. After the original shock, five alumnus of the college who reside in Southern California got together and had a wild celebration to commemorate the event.

"Next to Kenyon in hard luck came Hobart, which won its last game from Rochester to end a three-year losing streak."

Kenyon's record is somewhat better than Hobart's, however, for the latter won only one game in three years. Kenyon, on the other hand, won eight out of twenty-two games, and scored 233 points during this same three-year period. This will probably be something of a surprise to Sid Ziff and the "five alumnus" residing in Southern California.
