DUDLEY SMITH '71 DIES AT 83

Kenyon Alumnus Was prominent Citizen Of Detroit

Dudley Wetmore Smith, president of the Rayl Company and for half a century a leader in Detroit's business, cultural, and church life, died in his home after a week's illness following a stroke. He was 83 years old.

Besides his business, much of his time was taken up by writing, church work, and extensive, but secret, charities. He has had an active interest in athletics, and up to his eightieth birthday he continued to play golf, a game he helped to popularize in Detroit.

Mr. Smith was born in Delaware, O., December 10, 1849, a descendant of pioneers who played a conspicuous part in settling and developing the United States. In 1867 he entered Kenyon, but after three years left to go into business. He became a clerk in T. B. Rayl's hardware store in Wooster. He then went to Detroit, which he found to be a good place for business, so he persuaded Rayl to move his business there. Mr. Smith became president of the company on Mr. Rayl's death in 1903.

He played a prominent part in the cultural life of the Detroit of three decades ago. He was a gifted writer, writing mostly for Episcopal publications. He was always vitally interested in the affairs of the Episcopal church. He had been a Senior Warden of St. John's Church, Detroit, since 1913.

He always had been interested in sports. He was an early member of the Detroit Cricket Club and the Detroit Archery Society. He was a life member of the Detroit Golf Club, and belonged also to the Ingleside Club and the Detroit Boat Club.

He made his home with his only child, Miss Elizabeth E. Smith. His wife, Susan E. Smith, died in 1918.

WRESTLING AND BOXING IN ROSSE HALL

Part of the space on the north side of the basement of Rosse Hall has been converted into a boxing ring and a wrestling mat. This space was formerly part of the visitors dressing room and the old dressing rooms of the Puff and Powder Club. The creation of these two additions to Kenyon's athletic equipment completes the renovating of the basement which was begun with the Handball Courts that have proved so popular.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB PLANS FOR MODEL LEAGUE ASSEMBLY

Two Delegations To Go To Oxford, Ohio

The International Relations Club met in the Lounge of Peirce Hall Friday evening, January 19. The principle business taken up was the matter of delegations to the Ohio Colleges Model League of Nations Assembly which will be held in March at Oxford, Ohio. It was decided to increase the Club's participation in this Assembly by sending two complete delegations instead of just one. Requests have been sent to the Secretariat in Oxford for the privilege of representing Italy and Japan, the two nations who have signified their intention of dropping out of the League when their time limit for such an action has expired. The delegates will be chosen soon, and work will be started in February.

The first of these Model League of Nations Assemblies was held in Delaware several years ago. Kenyon was represented and has been ever since. Each year a different college acts as host to the others. In 1931 the University of Cincinnati was host, in 1932 Ohio University. Last year it was Oberlin and this spring the meeting is under the joint auspices of Miami University and Western College for Women.

After the business meeting a paper was read by Terry Sawyer on International Conferences. The paper traced their historical development, and discussed conference diplomacy as opposed to secret treaties. It also mentioned the recent conference at Buenos Aires.

HONOR SYSTEM OUT TWO MORE YEARS

ASSEMBLY POSTPONES DECISION UNTIL 1936

On Monday, January 22, the Kenyon Assembly met to discuss the problem of the revival of the honor system. Frank Ake presented the plan which had been adopted by the Senior Council in their meeting on Friday, January 19th. The proposal was to postpone any decision on the question until the end of the first semester in 1936. This was put in the form of a motion and passed. A resolution was also passed to put the proposal before the faculty that a recess period be provided during the three hour examinations at the close of each semester. A second resolution was favorably acted upon. It was proposed to petition the Board of Trustees to relax the rule prohibiting smoking in Ascension Hall, during the aforementioned examinations. The meeting was closed as usual with the singing of "The Thrill."

The second semester starts February 7. Examinations will be held the week of January 28, on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, giving at least a four day holiday between semesters.

Three games have been completed in each league in the Intramural Basketball race. East Wing leads the White League and Middle Hanna leads the Purple. The latter team is the dark horse of the season, based on the records of former years. Under the leadership of Diehl, R. E. Davis, Cadwell, Crumrine, and other Freshmen, Alpha Pi Tau has the best basketball team they have had for some time.

SCIENCE CLUB HOLDS MEETING

Paper On Quantum Theory Heard

The Science Club met in South Hanna parlor December 14. The chief business of the evening was a paper read by Frank Mallett on the Quantum Theory. At the conclusion of the meeting the paper was formally adopted and a copy ordered given to the library.

The Quantum Theory arose largely out of an effort to explain the spectral distribution of radiant energy, that is, to find a relationship between the strength of radiant energy (such as light) and the wave-length (or the color of the light). Under the classical theories it was impossible to derive an equation that satisfied observed data. Formulas were developed by Wien, Thiesen, and Rayleigh, but none were entirely satisfactory. Dr. Max Planck finally showed that an equation could be derived which would be changed into a correct one if one radical assumption were made that had not been made before. This assumption, the basis of the Quantum Theory, was that the energy emitted by a radiating body was emitted not continuously, but in discreet particles, finite, although small, amounts or bundles of energy at once. He also showed that the size of these basic elements of energy depended on the frequency (or on the wave-length) of the energy, thus introducing the famous Planck's constant, $h = 6.554 \times 10^{-27}$.

PRIZE OFFERED FOR ENROLLMENT IDEA

Ten Dollars For Best Idea
For Increasing Enrollment

A prize of ten dollars will be given for a system of increasing the enrollment at Kenyon, according to an announcement made at a special Assembly meeting, December 14. Mr. R. A. Weaver, '12, is the donor of the prize. The meeting was taken up with a discussion of methods of increasing enrollment. It was the opinion of many who spoke that the idea of one big High School Senior week-end is not as good as having smaller groups of visitors on each of several week-ends, for then they can be given more personal attention. The chief objection to this plan is, of course, that it makes a great deal of trouble for the divisions or men who act as hosts several times during the spring.

Four Men Lead In Scoring Team Takes Early Lead

Kenyon College displayed its best basketball wares in Rosse Hall Jan. 11 to win the first conference victory of the season over Capitol University. The final score was 44 to 36.

The visiting team was bewildered by the dazzling attack of basket shooting that found Kenyon 16 points to the good before Gugel netted the first Capitol points from the field. It looked like a rout for the home five, until Gugel made his presence felt more keenly with three more neat baskets before the half ended. When the teams left the floor, the score was 25 to 16 for Kenyon.

Kenyon's well-balanced scoring kept the Columbus team uncertain as to which man to cover. Incidentally, four players accounted for more than four baskets apiece for the winners. Of these, Steve Clarke bested Leon Swanson 13 to 11 for high point honors.

Gugel, the star of the Capitol aggregation, gave a brilliant exhibition of basket shooting to sink six out of ten shots from mid-field. Every goal swished through the cords without touching the rim. It was his timely shots that prevented the game from being a runaway.

Capitol trailed by a margin of nine points or more during most of the game. A last minute rally came too late to cut down the Kenyon lead despite the good work of Heischman and Wolfenbarg.

SENIORS ELECT

At a meeting of the Senior Class, Ben Schram was elected President, Joe Swan Vice-President, and Terry Sawyer Secretary-Treasurer. The plan of election used involved nominations by ballot. The first ballots were filled out freely, without any regular nominations. The highest for each office of this vote were then considered nominated and an election held among them. Besides the election, there was a discussion of the dances for the coming semester.

THE HONOR SYSTEM

It has been decided to postpone further action on the Honor System until 1936. This is perhaps the wisest thing to do, for right now the problem seems very difficult. When the matter is next brought up, the student body will be one that has had no experience with the system, and it may prove possible then to start all over again.

At present we are faced by two desires. We hate to see the Honor System not in operation, because it is one of Kenyon's best heritages from the past and has, in the past, brought her much favorable comment and given her a sort of place above the general run of schools in matters of that sort. And yet we realize that at the time the system was suspended, a year ago, it was not working well at all, so that many of its good features were being nullified. And we feel that were it resumed now, this same condition would still be in existence.

The problem for the future resolves itself to this: If the student body two years from now feels that they can make the Honor System work, we say, by all means adopt it. But if they feel then, as we feel now, that it would not work, then they must reluctantly decide against it.

ASHLAND WINS IN FREE-SCORING CONTEST

Clelan And Shafer Score 39 Points

Swanson Leads Mauve Scoring

Inability to stop two players cost Kenyon College a possible victory over Ashland, when Clelan and Shafer contributed 39 points towards a 56 to 40 victory. It was a free scoring contest throughout.

Kenyon was not without a star either. Leonard Swanson helped himself to nine field goals to keep the Purple and White quiet in the thick of it. In fact, every member of the Kenyon team collected two or more baskets, Bruce Sutton's seven markers being the next best for the losing five.

Setting a fast pace, Kenyon combined accuracy with smooth passing to enjoy a 16 to 6 lead during the early portion of the game. Then the Ashland cagers began to close the gap, finally tying the count at 18-all. From then on, Ashland forged ahead to a 30 to 23 edge at the half, and stayed out in front.

Clelan, towering center, and one of the high scorers of the Ohio conference, was the big threat of the evening. He got ten baskets and a foul shot to gain high scoring honors. Shafer sank 8 field goals and 2 fouls while Swanson made 9 field goals for 18 points apiece.

KENYON LOSES TO WOOSTER

Team Unable To Display Class, Beaten 45-28

Wooster, Jan. 13—Unable to cope with Coach Mose Bole's baffling triple pivot, the Kenyon cagers dropped a fast contest to Wooster by a score of 45-28. Captain Bob Sekerak led the Woosterites with 16 points, while Len Swanson starred for the visitors with 13 markers.

The Black and Gold, with "Wee Willie" Willett, elongated center controlling the tip-off, piled up a lead of 16 points before the Mauve broke into the scoring. Kenyon then began to close in on their opponents, but lost an offensive threat early in the first period, when Joe Swan was forced out of play with an ankle injury.

Clever passing and deadly shooting were the big factors in the Scots' victory. Kenyon's fast break, so dangerous on a small floor, could not get under way on the large court. Harper of the Woosterites and Page of the Kenyon team sparked on the defensive. Score at half-time: Wooster 23, Kenyon 10.

CINCINNATI ALUMNI HOLD MEETING

With three members of the faculty and one of the board of trustees among the guests, the Alumni Association of Cincinnati conducted its Winter meeting at the University Club the night of December 9, elected new officers, and followed the dinner with an old-fashioned singing session of the type traditional among Kenyon men of that city.

MAHONING VALLEY ALUMNI GIVE PARTY

Early in November The Mahoning Valley Alumni Association of Kenyon College held a party in the shack in the rear of Burt Smith's home, at 234 Norwood Ave., Youngstown, Ohio. We had 19 men at our party and it was a success from start to finish (with singing in the wee small hours of the morning). We had a few games of ping-pong and a few games of cards but the greater amount of time was spent about the old fashioned keg telling of old experiences and cheering and singing, and eating. The following men were present: Mark Ganefinger '01, A. J. (Dick) Aubrey, D. L. Parsons and H. D. Wright '02. George (Doc) Fisher and Burt Smith '06, J. H. Ewalt (Sarge) '07, L. Cardillo (Tony) '10, C. B. Sentt '11, W. T. Sprague '13, J. M. Young and C. B. Rettig '14, T. L. Davey (Tom) '16, W. C. T. Davis (Bud) '21, L. E. Price '25, R. E. Wiandt '28, Joe Roseppe '33, John Saunders '36 and Derr Gilmer K. M. A. Everybody had a good time.

THE PEOPLE'S BANK

TO WILLIAM PETERS REEVES

Knickerbockered man of culture,
Seeks old volumes, wrinkled vulture!

Talks of youth with bursting pride
In solemn tone one can't deride.

Of Chaucer too he knows his stuff.
That man was tasty, spicy, rough,
And like old Pete he strives to say
What'er he thinks in frankest way.

With hand in pocket near his loins,
He loves to jangle 'bundant coins.

"And when you speak," he says with pomp,
Never let your knuckles romp.

Through your lips and over teeth,
For that will ruin any speeth."
We sit and giggle as scrawny didgits

With his nose and 'stachio fidgit.

Mumbled words do tumble out Of fingered, bothered, covered mouth.

But he's a dandy, and he would fain
Sport tweedy cap and modish cane.

TO DAVIE CABLE —WHO SLEEPS IN

Massed-up blanket, crumpled sheet,
Frowled head, protruding feet,
Open-mouthed, drivling babe,
Slept our darling, pudgy Cable!

Wind did howl, rant, and tear,
Whipping trousers and blowing hair,
But in his cradle, safe and snug,
Lay little Davie, warm and smug.

He dreamt and wiggled, pitched in fear,
Groaned in horror, squeezed a tear, Rolled and wrestled, grunted and rasped,
Then on the head of his bed he grasped.

He broke the supports with a twist
and a bend,
And laid them in rows, end to end.
He swallowed a pillow, hiccupped
a feather,
And shrieked in his sleep, "What terrible weather!"

'Twas then that Sherkie sneaked
into the room,
And planted with force a whallo-ping broom
With a swish and a rustle, a smack and a crack Right in the middle of Davie's back.

"Hu!" he snarled, and without any fuss Handed poor Kinder a slap in the puss.
"P. T." arrived, his last name is Jones,
They set upon Cable and broke all his bones.

They place a leg here, his chest

And draped his bowels on the back of a chair.
Of skin there was plenty, and blood
did rain,
But search as they would there wasn't no brain.

So into his guts with a lustful cry,
Dove Frankie and Sherkie to plunder and pry.
A lung collapsed and blew them down.
And they jumped to their feet,
faces afrown,

For coming towards them, his eyes
full of thunder
Was that little Davie they'd just torn asunder!
"Ta-ta ta-ta" screamed Frankie with glee,
And with antelope bounds jumped into the lee.

Of a couple of ribs, from whence he peered
Into a face that grimaced and leered.
But Kinder remained, frozen with fright,
Too scared to run, never to fight.

Then Cabie drew from out of his eye
A sword, a pistol, a greenbottle fly.
The sword he swallowed and threw up again
And punctured Sherkie's quaking hind-end!

The trigger he pulled and sent forth a ball
And spattered poor Frankie all over the wall
And thus we end this tale of woe,
For she that wrote it, wrote no mo'.

Smartly Correct Stationery

One is prone to think any sort of paper will do. And what a

For your letters reflect your taste and personality as definitely as do your frocks—your choice in gloves.

We suggest Montag's Fashionable
Writing Papers
as a delightful way to be smartly correct
