Kenyon Drafts Peace Pledge

Lords Battle Bluffton First Encounter Saturday

Capt. Ioanes Leads Squad In Initial Tilt

On Saturday evening the Kenyon Football Team opens the current season against Bluffton. The game will be played in Lima and will serve to open a new stadium there. Kenyon's gridmen will leave for Lima at the evening.

Bluffton, though largely an unknown quantity, will present rugged opposition for the revamped Kenyon squad. Bluffton boasts a victory over Wittenberg on last year's slate whereas Wittenberg had little trouble with last year's Lords.

Kenyon will present a line-up which has a fair amount of veteran strength, but which has been re-

Twenty prospects for future Kenyon football teams reported for freshman football last Tuesday afternoon, September 21.

Coach Kutler said of the new men, "They look like one of the best group of freshman players we have had in recent years, and many of them have excellent high school records." Nine of the squad, have in fact, played first string football for their respective high schools. One of the most promising aspects of the freshman football squad is the large percentage of back-field men. One third of the applicants said that they preferred to play behind the line.

Uniforms were issued Thursday and practices will be held daily.

vamped from last year. Captain Ioanes will lead the team from his end post with Lees Borno and Bill Davis to fill the other gap. Svec and McKeown will play at tackle with Marty Shaw to help out when the going gets tough. Wilson, Stevens, and Ventulo, appear to be the outstanding guards, and George Thomas and Fred Palmer will alternate at the pivot post.

Hertl, Pallozi, Amato and McDowell will probably be the starting backfield with Gray, Lindberg and Sammy Curtis almost sure to see action.

Noted Explorer to Address College

First Speaker in New Plan for Student Enlightenment

Subsequent to the Student Assembly Meeting which was staged in Philomathesian Hall last night, Dr. Gordon Chalmers announced that William Montgomery McGovern has been secured to address the College on the subject of American Neutrality.

Dr. McGovern, noted author-explorer, has for many years taken an active and important interest in international affairs. His study of the Sino-Japanese conflict which he made during a stay in China last year has done much to clarify the complexities of this conflict.

In 1922-23 disguised as a Tibetan coolie he made an extraordinary visit to the Forbidden City of Lhasa. He later published a book, "To Lhasa in Disguise," describing his experiences while there.

Dr. McGovern received his Doctor's Degree at Oxford, studied at Sorbonne and later received a special diploma from the University of Berlin. His address before the student assembly represents the inception of a plan of the administration whereby Kenyon will be kept informed of the foreign situation. The lecture will take place Thursday, September 28 at 10 o'clock in Rosse Hall.

Alumni Secretary

Bill Turner, Kenyon '36, begins this week as Kenyon's first paid Alumni Secretary. He surrendered his job in charge of admissions, which he has held since January 1, to Anthony Eastman.

His job is to raise enough money to finance his office through this year, with the view of establishing it permanently. He will work with members of the alumni council to bring closer contact with college affairs, and will travel to meetings of regional alumni organizations.

Dr. Blum Accepts Government Post

Granted Year's Leave To Act On Securities Exchange Commission

During the summer Dr. Jay William Blum of the Department of Economics was invited to join the staff of the Securities Exchange Commission. Dr. Blum has been granted a year's leave of absence to take the post, and he has already begun his work for the Commission in Washington.

In his place for the current academic year Mr. Herbert P. Negus will teach Economics. Dr. Chalmers takes pleasure in announcing Mr. Negus's appointment as Assistant Professor of Economics for the year 1939-40. During the first semester Mr. Negus will teach Modern Economic Society, that is Economics II, and Government and Business, that is Economics 47.

Mr. Negus comes to Kenyon from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he has been teaching in the Economics Department. He is a man of extensive experience in the economics of industry and of government, having carried on investigation and supervised research in connection with market surveys, and studies of the effectiveness of advertising and of industrial organization and control. This last summer he has been working in Washington in connection with the patent study now being made by the American Engineering Council in cooperation with the National Association of Manufacturers and the National Industrial Conference Board, where he has been preparing a report of the social and economic effects of invention.

Mr. Negus was graduated Ph. B. from Brown University in 1937, and M.A. in 1939. His subsequent graduate work he has taken at Harvard University, where he is a candidate for the Ph. D. degree. Mr. and Mrs. Negus and their daughter Anne will occupy Professor Blum's house during the current year.

Baube Follows Drake As College Physician

Dispensary Facilities To Be Increased

Dr. John L. Baube has been appointed as college physician for the academic year 1939-40. He will succeed Dr. John C. Drake who has served in this capacity for the last two years. Dr. Drake was forced to resign his position because of the heavy pressure of numerous other duties. Dr. Baube has been in practice in Mt. Vernon since 1937. He completed his medical work at the University of Buffalo. For a number of years he was resident physician at both the New York Post Graduate Hospital and at King's County Hospital in Brooklyn, New York. In addition to his private practice in Mt. Vernon, Dr. Baube has acted as medical director of the Avalon Sanatorium. Dr. Baube is 34 years old.

Dr. Baube has been highly recommended for the post not only by his colleagues in Mt. Vernon including Dr. Drake, but by physicians at a distance.

Dr. Baube intends not only to increase the drug supply of the dispensary so as to enable the dispensary to treat minor injuries and diseases here rather than hospitalizing such patients, but he intends to improve the dispensary equipment. He has already ordered an ultra violet lamp and a heat lamp.

He will have the same hours at the dispensary as Dr. Drake. He will be in the dispensary daily at 12:30.

Curtis Loan Application, Due, October 14.

Students wishing to make application for Curtis Loans should do so on or before October 14, 1939. The application forms are available at the Treasurer's Office or from the Chairman of the Committee on Scholarships and the Curtis Fund.

Allowance should be made for time required to send the application home for the endorsement by the parent or guardian.

Attention is called to the fact that students are advised to anticipate their needs for the entire year, not just for the first semester. The Chairman of the Committee will be pleased to confer with any student about his eligibility for a loan and the amount he may borrow.

C. M. Coffin, Chairman.

College Adopts Insurance Scheme

Assures Students of Hospitalization And Adequate Medical Care

A new health insurance plan has been adopted by the college which will greatly increase the benefits of the former health plan. All students will be assessed a fee of $1.50. This fee will provide each student with full sickness or accident coverage. Each student will be entitled to fourteen days of hospitalization for each accident or illness. It may also be repeated should a student require hospitalization more than once. A student may enter any licensed and incorporated hospital in the United States for fourteen days at a fee not to exceed $4.00 a day. The students will be protected from September 17 until 24 hours after commencement. This includes vacations. The college has contracted with Mercy hospital in Mt. Vernon to receive Kenyon students.

Health Fee

In order to provide for the new health insurance plan, the health fee will be increased $1.50 per semester. The semester health fee of $6.50 will be posted on the second bill of each semester. The increase in the health fee will provide not only the resources of the new health insurance plan but will make available some increase in the resources of the dispensary.

dents for $4.00 a day. The hospital will provide all ordinary medication and examinations for this fee. X-rays and other technical examination or operations will not be covered by the fee. Ordinary medication, however, was formerly charged to the student. Under the old health system a student was entitled only to a total of three days a semester.

As the policy is a group policy, no one will be exempt. The policy is issued by the Benefit Association of Railroad Employees. The company has been completely investigated by the college. Though the company is a small one, its surplus is adequate. The college lawyer has approved the contract and it is heartily endorsed by one of the college trustees who is an authority on contracts. It is also approved by the Insurance Commission of Ohio.

The $5.00 health fee will now be used to increase and improve the dispensary facilities.

Kenyon Hanger Houses New Planes

Kenyon fliers will again this year have the thrill of flying new airplanes, for two Aeronca Chiefs were delivered straight from the factory last week by Instructor Don Gretzer.

The new planes are of the same type as the ones used last year; the only real change to be made is in the motor. Last year's airplanes had 50 horsepower Continental motors, while the new Continental has an additional 15 horsepower. As a result of the increase, the new planes have high improved rate of climb, and slightly faster cruising speed.

Kenyon's Aeronauts Receive C. A. A. Grant

10 Men Will Begin Training In October

Kenyon College, Gambier, Ohio, has been selected to participate in the Civilian Pilot Training program by the Civil Aeronautics Authority for the academic year 1939-1940, according to Dr. Gordon K. Chalmers, president of Kenyon College. Throughout the entire nation college students will learn to fly at the expense of the government, obtaining sufficient experience by the end of the spring semester to qualify for a private pilot's certificate.

Selected students of Kenyon College will be permitted to receive their flight training under the program of the Civilian Pilot Training board. They will receive between 35 and 50 hours of flight training, dual and solo, in the College-owned airplanes operating from the College airport, Port Kenyon.

Actual flight training will begin sometime between October 15 and November 1. In the meantime the students will have enrolled in the courses in aeronautics wherein they will have been studying the theory of flight and elementary concepts of aerodynamics. They will continue with their studies during the entire flight program. They will be charged a $40 laboratory fee for the ground school program. The College will pay for the medical examination of the students, to be conducted by a C.A.A. approved flight surgeon. It will also provide the student with $3,000 accidental death and dismemberment insurance coverage and $500 hospitalization and medical reimbursement insurance coverage. The coverage will be on a 24-hour basis and will include all ground as well as flight risks in connection with

Review Gains Prominence Abroad

Navin Reports Interest Abroad. Fall Issue Published Soon

Florence, Italy.—Word has been received from T. R. Navin '39 that the fame of the Kenyon Review has reached Florence where a Dartmouth literary prize fellow and protégé of Philip Wheelwright also of Dartmouth enthusiastically praised the quarterly. With the release of the fall issue of the quarterly, the Kenyon Review has completed its first year of publication. During the year such noted writers as Forbes Watson, William Carlos Williams, John Peale Bishop, Forde Madox Ford, Delmore Schwartz, Kenneth Burke, Philip Rahv, Dylan Thomas and other equally well known essayists have contributed to the magazine. The Kenyon Review is the only current quarterly dedicated exclusively to the arts and letters and has received favorable comment in many literary circles and papers.

The work is edited by John Crowe Ransom, and Philip Blair Rice is the managing editor. They are assisted by Norman Johnson who acts as secretary and an advisory board including R. P. Blackmur, Paul Rosenfeld, Roberta Teale Swartz, Allen Tate, Philip Timberlake, Mark Van Doren and Eliseo Vivas. It is hoped that all returning men will resubscribe to the Kenyon Review and all entering men are urged to enter their subscriptions.

Kenyon Assembly Unanimous In Authorizing Proclamation

Peace Plan As Drafted --

We, the undersigned, students of Kenyon College, Gambier, Ohio, do hereby subscribe and declare our support and approval of the following articles, the purpose of which is to put ourselves on record as being against war, with the sincere hope that other thinking people in this country will give us their wholehearted support.

1. We would stay completely and entirely out of any foreign war on foreign soil.
2. We would fight to the last man in the event of an invasion of this country by any foreign power.
3. We vigorously oppose any legislative action that might draw this country into a European war.
4. We sincerely hope that other college men, who feel as we do, will support us by putting themselves on record in some such fashion as we do here.
5. We earnestly desire that parents of college men, as well as parents all over the country who have seen war, will do everything in their power to prevent their young men from going to war.

It is our firm belief that if all college men will declare themselves, individually or in groups, as being against war on foreign soil, their combined influence will go a long way toward keeping the United States of America neutral.

The Kenyon Assembly

Collegian Endorses Plan --

With all the world, combatants and non-combatants alike, watching the grim and doomsday-prophecying that has enveloped Europe, with the newspapers and air waves carrying second-by-second accounts of latest atrocities, Kenyon men stopped last night to talk of peace. At the same time that bombs were dealing destruction along the murderous fronts of this newest war, Kenyon men intelligently, enthusiastically, and unanimously endorsed the above declaration that Kenyon men do not want war, informed the world that Kenyon men "would stay completely and entirely out of any foreign war on foreign soil."

This action was not the result of carefully tutored sentiments brought to expression by faculty or outside suggestion; it was not the result of the often criticized student propensity for sensationalism; it was the result of the inherent war-bred disgust for war natural to persons already paying for one war wished upon them by their fathers. Those who could not speak before, the students who still pay for the last war, now can speak and act for peace.

War in Europe has returned this country to the dangerous times and conditions of 1914. The similarity of our times to those which preceded the last war grows ever more apparent as the intensity of the foreign conflict increases. Kenyon men have grasped their opportunity to work for peace; last night Kenyon men acted.

But though the action has been taken, the work and effort that it implies remains ahead. The resolution must prove itself by inviting further animated discussion. Those who authorized the declaration must reassure themselves of the significance of action by being ever mindful of trends in legislative action which might in some way endanger the peace which their declaration demands.

Rudy Kutler Announces

New Swimming Requirements

"Under the new swimming requirements every freshman must swim one hundred yards freestyle before he can enter the regular physical education classes," Mr. Kutler announced today.

New students must report to the swimming pool at their first regularly scheduled gym class and take the test. There is no time limit on the swim. All men who fail to pass the test must spend all their class time learning how to swim until they can meet the requirement.

In place of the rather elastic physical education program of former years all freshmen who have passed the swimming test will attend regular classes at Rosse Hall and also the freshmen lecture on Thursday afternoons. While the weather is good the men will play touch football, soccer, speedball, and work on outdoor track events. Only those students who are going out for football will be excused from these classes, and then only for the duration of the football season.

WHY YES, PANGO

Little Pango is sitting on the floor shooting bows and arrows at a picture of F. D. R. and singing "You can go where you want to go, do what you want to do, who cares when I throw open the door and throw down the luggage. Say, I begin expansively. Hi there, Bunco, Pango says casually, where ya been since the graduation party. I am glad to see you, I say weakly. That's what they all say, Bunco, Pango says, you been working on a farm like all the rest of us.

No, I say tossing my hat at the bed post, I've been running around Atlantic City, New York, South Longbranch, Provincetown, Bangor. I stop for a quick breath. Doing a little traveling, eh Bunco, Pango interrupts, tell me about it a week next June.

What's new around here, I ask changing the subject. About one hundred freshmen, Pango says, as well as two jokes. A bunch of green freshmen, I muse, what do ya know. I know they're not any too green, Pango says, and there are a couple of them who look a little over-ripe. That's not true, I say boldly, and you shouldn't say it even for a joke. So sue me, Pango says. All right, I will, I say.

After a pause of two hours, I break the ice. Same old place isn't it, I say. Most beautiful campus in America, Pango says, want a drink. Never refuse, I say. Pango whips out two tall glasses, tosses two cubes of ice in each, half a lemon in each, sugar, fill to the brim with sparkling water, a sprig of mint on top. Here you are, Bunco, Pango says tossing the glass to me, welcome home. Is that one of your own recipes, I ask catching the glass, or do all the boys know it. This is rich, Pango says ignoring my thrust, we were shooting it to a freshman yesterday about Line-up and stuff and he came back with This is a charming place, isn't it. What did you say, I ask. I said, Yes, it is, says Pango.

I guess you were both right, I say throwing the empty glass into the waste basket, what did you do this summer. Well, says Pango taking a deep breath, I was in Germany for a month, in France for two weeks, the Isle of Jersey for a month. How did you travel, I ask, by steam ship or vacation folders. Let's talk about something else, Pango suggests. Tell

Eastman Assumes Admissions Post

Will Assist Mr. Hoag As Freshman Dean

Mr. Anthony Dey Eastman, an importation from the Pomfret School, began this week as Kenyon's Director of Admissions and Assistant to Dean Hoag. He will teach one second year German class. During the first semester, Mr. Eastman will be particularly responsible for freshmen, helping them with adjustment and personal problems. His office is outside the Dean's on the first floor of North Ascension.

Mr. Eastman graduated from Amherst in 1931. He has had two years at the Yale Graduate School Germanics Department, and two years at the University of Leipzig as an exchange student. He directed the International School-boy Trip to Europe in 1936. He is married.

Kenyonites are, says Mr. Eastman, "attractive, intelligent, and gentlemanly, and very friendly to a newcomer." He would particularly like to have cooperation from the student body in building up new enrollment. He and Mrs. Eastman are living on Wiggins Street, the extension of Gambier Street, just outside the corporation limit on the east side.

me the new jokes, I say. You will hear them soon enough, says Pango, anyway I forget them.

Well, I ask, what kind of advice have you been giving all these new freshmen. I've been telling them there are two ways to play the game, says Pango, the bold and the meek. Tell me more, I say. The meek shall inherit the earth, says Pango, but the bold will have more fun. What does that have to do with freshmen, I ask. Just this, says Pango, if they are meek and do everything that the sophomores tell them to do, they will get along with a minimum of difficulty. If they are bold and try to do what they want to do and the sophomores be hanged, they will have a maximum of difficulty. Yes, I say, that's the way it is. A maximum of difficulty, continues Pango, is synonymous with fun.

I am just getting ready to ask another question when Pango dives through the open window and begins to run madly down the road. There goes a man we've just got to pledge, Pango yells back to me and he disappears out of sight after one of those large convertible cars.

Hawkins to Open New Club On Site of Fire-razed Cornell's

New Fireproof Supper Club To Replace Ex Kenyon Rendezvous. ... Pete Wilson To Play For Opening Festivities

Jess Hawkins' Sunset Club, built on the site of last year's Cornell Club, three and one-half miles along Route 13, will open Saturday night, September 2, with Pete Wilson's band, a new fireproof building, a floor show, and a fresh crop of detachable grins.

The Cornell Club, as you know, burned last April 22, killing one woman and injuring Phi Kap's Johnny O'Leary. Men from Pittsburgh's Carnegie Hero Fund, by the way, have been here checking up on our Mr. O'Leary's Deeds of Valor during the fire.

The Sunset Club appears reasonably safe, built with cinder-block, the only combustibles being oak pillars. "There's $20,000 in the place," Jess tells you reverently. The bar, with a trough for freshmen, is at the west end now. Jess installed a heating system, hot air blown through fans in four corners, "that'll work — honest it will!" Last year, if you'll recall, it came through the mike alone. Four exits, and, whimsically, mission windows are scattered around the sides. A permanent roof, portable walls, and table service are scheduled for the terrace, along with some general landscaping.

Kenyon-nights are sprinkled through the year, the exact dates to be announced later. Jess, a lover of combat, is planning some little events for the boys.

FLYERS AIM AT HIGH '40 MARK

"We hope to make the Flying Club nearly as successful this year as it was last," declared new Kenyon College Flying Club President Murray Shubin in an interview early this week. Mr. Shubin was doubtless referring to the Club's National Intercollegiate championship, captured in June last year.

With Murray Shubin as president, Ed Scanlon as treasurer, and Hallock Hoffman as Secretary, the club is embarking upon an ambitious intercollegiate aeronautics. Although five members were lost by graduation in June, the remaining fliers leave the club almost as strong as it has been in past years.

To Recruit Freshman Army To Defend Hill Wilson Says

His Excellency, Bill Wilson, President of the Sophomore Class, has called a meeting of "campus" emergency in view of the coming war. The Sophomore Cabinet has declared it necessary that a large armed force of Freshmen be recruited for the defense of "The Hill".

All Freshmen recruits will be required to register on the billboard at the crosswalk situated between Leonard, Hanna, Mather, and Ascension Halls. It is imperative that this registration be completed as soon as possible in view of the impending emergency.

There is great need at the present time for all men who have had military training, that is all who have been in military school, Boy-Scouts, or R.O.T.C., to aid their classmate "fuzzies" in learning drill commands and movements. It is imperative that all trained men enlist immediately.

The Honorable President has declared that the following emergency measures be observed by all Freshmen immediately:

1. Freshmen must at all times wear coats and ties, keep their trousers in press, and their shoes shined.
2. Freshmen must at all times refrain from walking on the grass.
3. Freshmen must at all times wear their Freshman caps and these caps must be worn straight on the head.
4. Freshmen must at all times carry matches and gum in their pockets for the convenience of upperclassmen.
5. Freshmen must at all times address all upperclassmen as sir, and must touch the buttons on their caps in salute when passing upperclassmen.
6. Freshmen must at all times hop the post at the College Gate when they are passing by.
7. Freshmen may never enter the Commons before all upperclassmen are inside.

Any infringement upon these rules will be dealt with by the Sophomore Class according to their own discretion.

All Freshmen will be required to know and be able to sing the "Freshmen Ditty" by line-up Friday night.

Kenyon Student Close To Athenia Disaster

McKinley Within 80 Miles Of Torpedoed Liner, Hears S. O. S. Signal

Heading homeward from a summer spent in England and Germany, Charles McKinley Jr., editor of last year's Reveille, came within eighty miles of the torpedoed Athenia. The freighter, Cairnross, on which he was a passenger, successfully passed through the "danger zone" of the North Atlantic recently. The account that follows was taken from Mac's own report as seen in the Mansfield news, September 16.

"About 8:20 p. m. on Sunday night, Sept. 3, we received the first S. O. S. of the -thenia and learned that she was only 80 miles away and in desperate plight," the Mansfielder said. "But because we were an English ship we dared not go near her or even answer her call. The admiralty had issued orders to this effect in order not to subject additional men and vessels to an enemy sub. So that as we steamed away from the stricken ship, the Norwegian vessel which

Becker Begins New Janitor Service

Mr. Becker has announced that the maintenance department has increased the janitorial staff of the college to provide for not only division repairs, but also the efficiency of the cleaning service. The enlarged staff and repairs are being covered by an increase in the division fees. The old cleaning methods are being supplanted by new methods and an increase in the type of work. Vacuum cleaning, window washing, radiator cleaning and other such work are now being added to the maintenance department's program. The janitor staff of Leonard Hall and Old Kenyon have been supplemented with one man, Hanna Hall now has two panitors in place of one.

Donor Provides Books

Dr. Gordon K. Chalmers is pleased to announce that a generous friend of the College, who prefers to remain unnamed, has offered the College $5000.00 "to be used exclusively for improving the contents of the library from the standpoint of research and reference work on the part of the Faculty and on the part of the students." The money will be used for additional purchases in the library according to the recommendations of the Faculty Committee on the Library. In making this gift, the donor has met one of the two most pressing current needs for extra funds in the educational work of the College. Another analogous need still persists in the science department, where similar generous gifts have been given during recent years for additional purchases of equipment above the normal yearly budget.

Commons Kitchen Now Among Nations Best

The Commons' kitchen equipment has been greatly augmented this summer. A complete new set of 3 stoves with automatic regulators has been added to it. The kitchen will now have two more ovens than ever before. The addition of the new oven space and regulators will enable the dieticians to serve meats without having to reheat them. This will also decrease the shrinkage of the meat and improve its flavor. The utensils have been arranged to increase the working space in the kitchen.

Two new double sized ovens with regulators have been added to the bakery which now has twice as much baking space as last year. The old mixer which was too small to permit the mixing of hot breads often has been supplemented by a large size mixer which is more than adequate.

Both Miss Chard and Miss Kimball are convinced that the commons kitchen is probably the best equipped college kitchen for schools of Kenyon's enrollment in the country.

Intercollegiate Air Meet Final Scoring and Results

Hoffman Presides At Awarding of Trophies. Kuhn Loening, Schroeder Officiate During Events

At the National Intercollegiate Flying Meet held at Gambier on June 27th and 28th the Kenyon Flying Club swept to victory led by president Robert Legg, '39 whose precise flying won him first honors as high-scorer.

The first event was Paper-strafting. At the first crack out of the box Legg, flying with amazing precision, cut the paper streamer (dropped from the plane) twice with the wing of the airplane at a total elapsed time between cuts of 0.97 sec (ninety-seven hundredths of one second) to win first place in the event for Kenyon. Second place was captured by Foster Hannaford, U. of Minn., with a total elapsed time of 1.73 sec. between cuts. Third place fell to Robert Sosenfield, Kenyon '39, with a time of 2.50 sec. The amazing time set by Legg will no doubt, remain as a high mark for paper-strafters to shoot at for some time to come.

In the second event, 360 degree Spot Landing, Earl Rottmayer, Akron, took first, setting his airplane down only 28 ft. 3 in. beyond the imaginary fence. To Dean Triplett, also of Akron, fell second place with a distance of 29 ft. 8 in. Third and Fourth places fell to Robert Sosenfield with 48 ft. 6 in., and to Robert Legg with 59 ft. 9 in.

Legg again snatched first in the Bomb-dropping having a average distance from the target for his two "bombs" of 31 ft. 3 1/2 in. Second was Sosenfield with a 34 ft. 3 1/2 in. average from the target, Minn., with 43 ft. 6 in.

Legg's nice flying won him first in the Bull's Eye Spot landing when he set the plane down only 6ft. 10 in. from the "spot." Second and Third fell to Foster Hannaford with a distance of 11 ft. 6 in. and to Ed Martin, U. of Mich., with 20 ft. 7 in., while Robert Sosenfield caught up fourth place.

Official tallying showed that Kenyon had won overwhelmingly: Team scores —

Kenyon	24
Minnesota	9
Akron	8
Michigan	2
Detroit	1

The Individual Highest Scores—Robert Legg, Kenyon 16
Robert Sosenfield, Kenyon 8
Foster Hannaford, U. of Minn. 8
(Legg's individual score equal to twice that of either of the next highest men.)

A banquet in Pierce Hall concluded the two days of flying with awards presented by Paul G. Hoffman, president of the Studebaker Corporation, who acted as toastmaster. President Gordon K. Chalmers welcomed the fliers and guests, and after reading a message from President Roosevelt in which the President extended "best wishes" to the college fliers, introduced the toastmaster.

Mr. Hoffman complemented the fliers for "flying done well and particularly pleased by the spirit of sportsmanship displayed by the participating teams. He said that in talking with various fliers during and after the meet he was struck by the fact that Kenyon's virtual walkaway with the meet had produced no "beefing". A monotonous procession of Leggs followed during the award of prizes.

Word of the excellence of the Kenyon fliers in paper strafting spread and an invitation was extended to them by the managers of the National Air Races to perform their maneuvers at the Races this year. The Air Race Committee broke precedent in inviting non-professional fliers to take part in the program. "For rath obvious reasons," said Mr. Gretzer, flying instructor, (the invitation was not the program.

The normal flight program and classroom instruction in use at Kenyon College exceeds the minimum requirements set forth by the C.A.A. in every respect, so that no essential changes are necessary or contemplated in order to instruct the students under the government plan. All students will continue to receive the same training.

Applications will be accepted from regularly enrolled students of the College who are at least sophomores in standing and who are also enrolled in the ground courses, or who have already completed them satisfactorily.

"It should be pointed out," said Mr. Don Greizer, instructor of aeronautics, "that the training program is entirely civilian in nature. The participants are in no way obligated to the government or the military services for the training they receive."

The importance of controlled and carefully supervised flight instruction has been recognized by authorities in aviation for many years. It became apparent that colleges and universities were to play an important part in the development of private, commercial and military pilots.

In the past many students attending the higher institutions of learning were unable to afford the commercial rates for instruction at nearby airports because of the expense met with in attending college. Because of that, and in many cases, because of the remoteness of adequate flying facilities, most of the students were unable to fly during the years when they were best qualified to do so. These unhappy circumstances led in many cases to students withdrawing prematurely from academic pursuits to engage in flight instruction.

For some time various colleges and universities had made sporadic attempts to incorporate flying of one sort or another within their student programs, but usually, because the institutions were not able to control the flight instruction directly, they merely sent the students to nearby airports with their blessings, most of the efforts ended in failure. Official recognition of the flying activities of the students was generally implied by the existence of accredited ground school courses in the curriculum of the institutions.

In 1934, Kenyon College adopted a controlled flight program, assuming operation and ownership of all equipment for practical flight instruction. This was made possible by the generosity and foresight of Mr. Wilbur L. Cummings, class of '02, a prominent New York attorney and a trustee of the college. The instructor became a member of the faculty of the College and taught both practical flying and classes in meteorology, navigation, engines, theory of flight and elementary concepts of aerodynamics. These subjects became a part of the curriculum of the College for which regular academic credit was given. They were required of all flight students, but others were permitted to take the courses, which were completed in one year.

Thus Kenyon College, which devotes itself entirely to a liberal education, became the first institution of higher learning to own and operate its own equipment as a complete unit for the purpose of teaching only its undergraduates to fly.

The success of practical aeronautics at Kenyon attracted the attention of other institutions. The members of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, charged with the task of developing aviation within the colleges and universities of the nation were also interested in the program at Kenyon and studied the methods used and the results obtained with care.

An imposing record was established by the Kenyon Flyers, which encouraged investigation. No Kenyon student has ever failed to obtain a license, or certificate of competency, nor has any student ever failed to pass a written examination given by the Civil Aeronautics Authority prior to a flight test. The members of the Kenyon College Flying Club, organized in 1935, became prominent in intercollegiate flying circles, winning the National Intercollegiate Flying Meet in 1937, tying for first place with Leeland Stanford University in 1938, and again winning first place in 1939 by a decisive score.
