Capes Names Financial Goals; Plans

President Caples, Mr. William C. Adams, and Mr. Samuel Lord, the President for Finance met with the Finance Committee yesterday to discuss Kenyon's finances. President Caples spoke about Kenyon's long and short run financial plans.

With reference to Kenyon's plans for expansion, Caples noted that inflation and other factors have raised the cost of the Biology building from $1.6 million to $2.4 million. Estimates of the cost of the 10-year plan for expansion have increased from $8.8 million to $13.5 million to 22 million dollars.

The president also pointed out that air conditioning the library is the college's first short term priority. Remodeling the coffee shop, moving the radio station, additional student scholarships, and providing debt on the biology plant are among the college's other short term priorities.

As the Fall term moved, the emphasis was split and Kenyon's share was about 7.6 million dollars. Several recent gifts to the college's endowment account amounted to about 8 million dollars.

The long term goals of the college include the construction of an art building and the purchase of art supplies as opposed to operate fund sales. In the present campaign, Mr. Thomas pointed out that 2.2 million dollars has been raised of the 3 million dollar goal.

Henderson Decrees Racist Black Studies

by Harold Levy

Last Tuesday morning Kenyon held its 32nd Honor Day Convocation. The Convocation was highlighted by an address by Dr. Vivian Henderson, President of Clark College in Atlanta, Georgia, who was described by President Caples as "an economist, baseball fan, author, and public servant."

In his address, he noted that the current emphasis was considered the major educational issue of the day, and expressed fears that higher education may be "on the way to ruin." Many of the confoundations on campuses, he pointed out, must be attributed to the lack of initiative and reform in the universities. Higher education has been out of touch with current issues, especially race relations.

However, Dr. Henderson cautioned that "black studies" must be clearly defined if it is to be a meaningful concept. Black studies must not be conceived as a political instrument; rather, it must be an intellectual experience which is "part of the wholeness of American institutions." Such programs must not be racially exclusive, or can they be allowed to serve as means for propagating racial ideologies. Dr. Henderson noted that Clark College, which is 100 years old, is predominantly black but by no means racially exclusive. It was E. D. Hinton as saying, "White and black institutions must be side by side and interact with each other."

Dr. Henderson urged those planning black studies, especially black students, that they better understand that intellectualism and scholarship cannot be disagreed by relevance and basic philosophy. Behind black studies must be worried about before the specific plans.

The real issue in education, he concluded, is "the extent to which individual students will be educated." More and more, colored people are going to be your neighbors, whether you like it or not."

The awards announced at the Convocation included: Fullbright Award, Larry Witten; Ashley Cup, Lynn Utter; Paul Newman Trophy, David Samford, and Bookshop Awards, Walter F. Hullsey, Glen Glassworth, Murray Harris, James Price, and Reed Woodhouse.

COD Issues Interim Report

Last Wednesday the Commission on the Disadvantaged issued its interim report. The report is an attempt to fulfill the commission's responsibility to act as a "sounding board" by presenting the views of various members of the community on the role of the college in the education of the disadvantaged.

To date, the commission has been primarily concerned with investigating the issue of admissions, discussing the need of tutorial aid and remedial work for disadvantaged freshman as well as examining the problem of developing a viable black studies program.

The Commission in the course of its investigation contacted James Mappenhagen, Chairman of the Admissions Committee, in regard to the policy of that committee. Mr. Mappenhagen furnished the COD with a statement which indicated that the Admissions Office has visited about 40 high schools this year in urban, social and economically deprived areas and has exercised considerable effort to get students from such schools interested in applying to Kenyon.

Mr. Gomerson proposed that the effectiveness of the Admissions Office could be increased through the establishment of "satellite" admissions centers. These centers, he felt, would assure the admission of disadvantaged students to Kenyon. Though not considered feasible for the present, Mr. Gomerson was pleased to have the consideration of the Commission as part of a future admissions program of admission.

Open Meetings Examine Doroms

In its first meeting last Friday, the Committee on Dormitory Life decided to collect information about residential students from students, according to Professor James M. Stoddard, chairman.

Several upperclass dorms were held last Sunday, and the committee plans to sponsor similar meetings in the freshman dorms as soon as possible.

Senate created the group "to investigate the question of women's quests in the dorm as a part of the larger question of the nature and quality of life in Kenyon's residences." Monday, April 28.

Husband-Wife; Alumnus, Join New Faculty

An expert in animal behavior and perception, a husband and wife teaching team, and a Spanish department are among the new faculty appointments for next year.

Mr. Charles Ilana, who received his Ph.D. in Experimental Psychology from Florida State University will join the Kenyon faculty next fall as a Professor of Psychology.

Currently at Stanford Research Institute, he was previously associated with the National Institute of Neurology where he did his work of a U.S. Navy-funded project studying space perception in blind children. His interest in psychology and his background in research in this field are part of the main interest of interest of this new faculty member.

The Political Science Department adds two new faculty members with the appointment of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dunn. Both are working on their dissertations at the University of Chicago and will join the faculty next fall as instructors. Mr. Dunn will teach two courses in his special field, International Relations, while the Mrs. Dunn will teach Political Science 1.2. As a whole, the college will again be sought on a regular basis with the arrival of Mr. Charles Ilana, an Assistant Professor now at the University of Wisconsin, he will join the newly formed Romance Languages Department, which includes the Spanish Department.

The Spanish Department, along with the Political Science Department, has been added to the Biology Department. Dr. Alfred Wegener, who has a Ph.D. from the University of Texas at Austin, will teach courses in General Biology and Plant Physiology. A recipient of a Doctoral Research Fellowship, he has studied for two years at The University of Turin. He will be located in the biology department.

Frosh Class To Fill Watson

The Admissions Office has announced that 265 freshmen men and 148 freshmen women have been accepted for admission in the Class of 1973. Mr. Kevin Watson, Associate Director of Admissions, is particularly pleased with the surprisingly high percentage of parents who have agreed to come to Kenyon. Though the prospective male freshman class is very large, Mr. Watson explained that withdrawals during the summer, and an attempt to increase giving in housing, freshmen. The Admissions Office has processed the 78 transfer applications, but Mr. Watson expects to accept about 40 transfer students, both men and women.
The Women's Rules

Over the summer, the Administration will formulate the rules and regulations for the Coordinate College. After our brief meetings with Dean Crozier, it seems clear that the rules will be temporary. As soon as the women organize a campus government, they will be encouraged to determine their own regulations.

Even temporary rules, however, will tend to set the tenor of the new college. As Dean Crozier has pointed out, there should not be a great disparity between Kenyon's rules and the rules for the Coordinate College. We feel that consistency in the regulations is in keeping with the college's decision to grant women an equal status in the community.

Because living habits differ, it is reasonable to expect some minor differences in the regulations. In principle, however, the rules should be the same. Men are permitted to have women guests in the dormitory. Likewise, women are allowed to bring male guests into their dormitory rooms. There are justifiable reasons for having somewhat different partials for the women, but the principle of visitation should be valid for both colleges.

It is important that the Administration grant the Coordinate College the same measure of personal freedom and responsibility which has long been a tradition at Kenyon.

Wrestling

A dismal 6-9 season was the mark of Kenyon's wrestling team.

The combined efforts of six Lord tamers established twelve teams, combine to bring Kenyon the victory of Bob Clark's, Bob Mathis' and G. L. Brumman's for the conference this year.

For Tough Weekend Ends

Easy Wins Primetime Nelters

The Kenyon Nelters moved into high gear this past week with two winning events: the Woonsocket and Wolford.

The Nelter boys were at 100 or better on the challenging Oregon course.

Kenyon journey to Oregon is the nearest goal.

Lacrosse Team Falters Again

Yesterday Kenyon again fell to the dust this time at the hands of Ohio State.

In the first half, Kenyon was behind 16-11 but in the second half Kenyon was leading 20-17.

The Ohio State Nelters, who were only 6-6 this year, were Kenyon's biggest gainers.

The Nelter's five seniors were also successful in this match.

Lacrosse Coach Keatons and Dugan will be looking for 38 points and a place in the track and field events.

In this event, the positivity spirit was kept in the A's and the OAC's battle hit for the runner-up spot. 30/1

Cohen To Address Commencement

by Alan Rapoport

The principle speaker at Kenyon College's commencement this year will be Willibald J. Cohen, former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare in the Nixon administration. Cohen graduated from the University of Wisconsin with a degree in economics in 1954. He also received his law degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1966.

In addition, he has received honorary degrees from Adelphi, Yeshiva, and Brandeis Universities. Cohen is a Fellow of Brandeis University.

While in Washington, Cohen served as an Assistant to the Executive Director of the Cabinet Committee on Economic Security and later as Technical Advisor to the Social Security Administration. He was also appointed Director of the Division of Research and Publications in the Social Security Administration.

Continuing as a political consultant and Under Secretary before being named Secretary in 1968, Cohen is presently President of the University of the Philippines.

In addition to Cohen, the following blacks will receive honorary degrees at commencement: Professor Albert Allen Smith, the Yale University School of Art; Dr. Luis W. Alvarez, a Pulitzer Prize winning physicist; Mr. Michael Ferebee Jr., Vice President of the Scientific Research and Development staff at Ford Motor Co.; Mr. Robert H. Mayer, President of Kinetics, a financial investment corporation; the Right Reverend Robert Bruce Hall, the last American Bishop of Durham; and, Dr. Alvin M. Willsburg, director of Oak Ridge National Laboratory.

The men will be honored for their membership without discussion, while the man who had expressed interest in voting was voted down without any attention to his merit. In short, there was no discussion of the relative qualifications of the committee members.

Council composed this from the five abstinence in the 6–5 vote. It is a vote as it must have no place for such abstinence. Those who felt there was not enough information to justify a vote should have called for a vote. The Council has acted without proper attention to the needs of the members with a marked lack of confidence in Council's ability to deal with the issue competently.

The proposal as program would allow the following: a) A monthly colloquium which would consist of the combined number of students who would be partially dealing with black studies, 2) selecting departments that would retain autonomy in the content and conduct of their similar offerings, 3) the development of a forum which would consist of the presentation of not discussion of papers to be given by the participating seminar members and the presentation of the colloquium could invite outside guests to participate in these for the development of. The instructors of the colloquium would work toward a number of the selected students would serve as the co-ordinators of the colloquium.

The program is designed as a serious academic supplement to the various courses which are a part of the regular curriculum. And, no additional academic credit would be given for the courses involved in the program.

Mr. Clar met with the other four faculty members whose courses were involved in the program and they were involved and they were contacted that four colloquia would be held during the second semester next year as was expected and that four would be involved. The COD head, by special permission of the program given by these faculty members and other members of the Council, would allocate $1,300 to support additional disadvantaged students in Kenya.

The COD has prepared an outline of the subject that would be covered in this final report. This outline is now in microfilm and is currently being sent to the week-in-weekout of the Kenya community administration, faculty, students, and the students. The cut-off date, at the end of this year, on which there is a cut-off in the COD's registration and graduate classes.

CFO Needs 52 Students

Fifty-two students are needed a year on faculty, student committees, and staff to improve the College (COD). The COD staff is responsible for the planning of the College and to coordinate the programs.

Thirty positions are regularly filled through student government and the COD. The entire committee is responsible for the planning of the College and to coordinate the programs.
