VERBAL DESCRIPTION:

Fragment of an incised censer lid with a portion of the rim. The interior is quite burnt, so it is impossible to detect the presence or absence of a fire core. There is burning on both sides of the fragment. Hardness: 1.5. Color: paste interior: burnt. paste exterior: 5YR 5.5/4. The grooves are ragged - they may have been made on fairly dry clay. They are shallow, but wide (especially in the upper portions of the grooves, narrowing as they get deeper). The ^{right} diagonal line seems to have been made after the others. There is no paint, slip, or applique. No handle scars.
