When looking at the small pieces of paper, one finds that they are all of one kind. About 100 of these are found on the left side of the page. The rest of the page is filled with a large number of small pieces of paper, some of which are of the same kind as the ones on the left, but many are of a different kind. The pieces of paper are of various sizes and shapes, and some are of a different color. The pieces of paper are scattered all over the page, and some are of a different color.
