NUM. 31

A modeld censer fragment - very crude. Thickness vary quite a bit. The paste has many black and white inclusions, as well as many tiny holes. The firing core is medium sized.

The fragment is curved with a ridge in the middle to emphasize the curve. Above the ridge is an odd lump of clay with two large gouges - looks very much like a nose with nostrils. The bottom part below the ridge is unmarked. The upper edge of the fragment is slightly burnt. The fragment also includes part of a base which is quite flat.

COLOR: 2.5YR 5/4 Reddish brown
