PSB 30/2-4	This is a portion of the rim of a scored censer lid. The paste is very crude. It is dark brown with a very wide firing core. It also has very many both small + medium in size of white, black + shiny material. The inclusions are visible. The unscored surface has been smoothed some but is still crude looking and rough to the touch. There is some residue of red paint up near the rim area. The scored side is also smoothed but not perfectly so. There are 5 three lines of medium depth incision which is not very wide it is hard to get much of an idea of design.
