7B/1-1

Triangular fragment of a <sup>scored</sup> censer lid. The paste is coarse, rough to the touch. It contains a variety of inclusions some clear, shiny like mica or glass (quartz) others white. There is no visible firing core.

The surface is smoothed but without much care: the outside has a direction that appears to follow the lid's curve; the inside is scored. The longer scores of the piece are deeper and were made after the perpendicular ones. The Exterior is ~~light orange~~ (red). The interior is burnt a dark reddish brown.

The interior looks like a turtle shell to me
