This particular scored sensor lid frag. is made of a fine paste w/ no inclusions. There is a firing core: color 5YR 7/10^{light gray}. The top of the paste is 5YR 5/6 or yellowish red. The top of the sensor lid frag. is smooth w/ some sort of edge possibly a chimney of some sort. The bottom side has scored incisions - straight and there are some straight incisions on the chimney. This lip or chimney looks like it would have been a hole which was right in the center of the sensor lid. The incisions are 1 to 2 mm wide & about 1.5 mm deep. The incisions on the chimney part are a little larger deeper about 2 to 3 mm deep & about the same width.
