

ner and there is among them a certain friendly rivalry as to who can prepare and serve best. The Calvary Baptist ladies today revealed themselves as cooks second to none. The menu was:

Roast Veal Dressing
Mashed Potatoes with Gravy
 Creamed Slaw
Rolls Jelly Cherry Pie
 Coffee

The speaker was Mr. William C. McFadden of Fargo, N. D., a former resident of Mt. Vernon. He was presented by Mr. H. C. Devin, who briefly referred to the former residence and acquaintance of the honor guest with Mt. Vernon and Knox county people.

Mr. McFadden himself spoke of his earlier life and association in Mt. Vernon, confessing that at times he became homesick to visit this city and when such times came upon him, he invariably sought for excuses to return to his early home. He spoke upon the the work of the Nonpartisan league in North Dakota, seeking to recite briefly what it has done and is likely to do. North Dakota was described as an agricultural state, prosperous when crops are good and profoundly affected in seasons of crop failure. The admission was made that the farmers of the state have grounds for grievances, some real and others fancied, particularly in the marketing of their grain. Discontent was pronounced and the time was ripe when the Nonpartisan league
