Lord said that the codes of the heating program will not affect the operation of the two buildings. He said that the required permits could be drawn from an existing reserve fund in the future. The program is expected to be completed by the end of the academic year.

First Participants Enjoy Kenyon/Earlham Abroad

By John Maynard

Four women from Kenyon participated in the Earlham Overseas Program in France during the past year. Janet Byrnes, Jacqueline Pustitiup, Jane Hettlinger, and Dr. Robert Schermer all enjoyed the trip. The group of twenty-five students spent four to five weeks in France. They arrived there in late August.

Byrnes and Mower lived with a family on a farm where they worked on the farm and visited with the people. Mower thought the food was very good and the people were very friendly. The group went on several excursions, including a trip to Paris, where they visited the Louvre and saw the Eiffel Tower.

The group spent two weeks in the English-speaking section of the program, which was in Winchester, England. They visited a number of churches and museums, and spent time in the countryside. The group then went on to Paris, where they spent a week visiting the city and its attractions.

Inside Senate

Students Protest Barricades

By Ed Gorenc

Since their installation in mid-November, the barricades on the Hill have caused a considerable amount of friction among Kenyon residents. Last week students representing the House Committee on the student government to the hill. The students are protesting the fact that the barricades are preventing them from accessing certain areas of the hill.

The students' concerns are that the barricades are preventing them from accessing certain areas of the hill. They also claim that the barricades are causing a great deal of inconvenience, as they are blocking off certain areas of the hill.

The students' claims that, if given the chance, students will be responsible enough to prevent further barricades. They also claimed that the barricades are causing a great deal of inconvenience, as they are blocking off certain areas of the hill.

Cobham Concert Shorts Out Due To Power Coup

By Steven L. Lebow

A power coup, caused by a problem with the wire in the Cobham building, forced the Billy Cobham concert last Friday night. According to Social Committee chairman Bess Overlock, Cobham expected to play for at least an hour and forty minutes but left the stage after forty minutes because of severe sound problems.

The night was set to be a musical celebration of the American Dream. "It was all talk and no action," Overlock said, "and they got it in the back of the house." The power was out for about an hour and forty minutes, during which Cobham's power was turned off to make the situation worse.

In theory, there is enough power in the building, said Overlock, "but it all depends on how much power they would need, and how they were going to use it." The power was turned off at 8:00 p.m. to make sure that the building was safe for the people inside.

The power problem was solved when Cobham road crew was able to turn on the power and bring Cobham back to the stage. Cobham's power was turned back on, and the concert proceeded as planned.

Journalist Broder Talks On Politics Tonight in Philo

By Joseph L. Lowry

Newspaper editor and author David S. Broder will speak on the "Career Washington Scene," at 8 p.m. tonight in Philo, sponsored by the Student Government. The talk will be followed by a question-and-answer session with students.

Broder's talk is expected to be well-received by the Kenyon student body, as he has written extensively on the political scene in America.

Cobham Concert Shorts Out Due To Power Coup

By Steven L. Lebow

A power coup, caused by a problem with the wire in the Cobham building, forced the Billy Cobham concert last Friday night. According to Social Committee chairman Bess Overlock, Cobham expected to play for at least an hour and forty minutes but left the stage after forty minutes because of severe sound problems.

The night was set to be a musical celebration of the American Dream. "It was all talk and no action," Overlock said, "and they got it in the back of the house." The power was out for about an hour and forty minutes, during which Cobham's power was turned off to make the situation worse.

In theory, there is enough power in the building, said Overlock, "but it all depends on how much power they would need, and how they were going to use it." The power was turned off at 8:00 p.m. to make sure that the building was safe for the people inside.

The power problem was solved when Cobham road crew was able to turn on the power and bring Cobham back to the stage. Cobham's power was turned back on, and the concert proceeded as planned.

Journalist Broder Talks On Politics Tonight in Philo

By Joseph L. Lowry

Newspaper editor and author David S. Broder will speak on the "Career Washington Scene," at 8 p.m. tonight in Philo, sponsored by the Student Government. The talk will be followed by a question-and-answer session with students.

Broder's talk is expected to be well-received by the Kenyon student body, as he has written extensively on the political scene in America.
Exhaustion Defeats Lords In 80-71 OAC Quarter-Final Loss To Oberlin

By Arthur Berkowitz

Advancing to the quarterfinals of the OAC Basketball tournament via an overtime win over Wooster, the Lords ran out of gas in an emotional exhaustion in losing to Yeomen of Oberlin in the following night.

OAC Opening Round

It was all Tim Appleton and Evan Eisner as the Lords eliminated the Scots of Wooster 75-70 in front of a highly vocal student body last Friday at the Wooster Fieldhouse.

First-half action saw Appleton and Eisner accounting for 28 of the team’s 32 points and 8 of the 16 rebounds while Wooster responded with balanced scoring from guards Chad Sadlak and Manny Stone and forward Eddie Tidman. Wooster was “right”, especially Kenyon, as turnovers and second shots were plentiful and the offensive pressure was intense.

Eisner’s ten-foot jump shot with six seconds remaining was the clock-stopper for the entire second half, the Lords maintained a 10-point cushion behind the strong caping of captain Dave Meyer. Wooster took advantage of the situation by going inside as Stone and Stone scored 15 of the Scots’ 22 points in the lead. Appleton’s ten-foot jump shot with .7 seconds remaining put the score at 69, and pushed the game into an extra five minute period.

In overtime business, Watters, Eisner, and Appleton combined with Wooster’s cold shooting touch resulted in the Lords’ opening round victory.

Statistically, Appleton’s career-high 37 points on 71 percent field goal accuracy and Eisner’s career-high 20 points were the back of the Kenyon attack. More importantly, Evan Eisner, who missed the previous week’s game due to a sprained ankle, was back to his old self. The pair of guards, forcing two into a poor shooting position, was the key to Kenyon’s victory.

OAC Quarterfinals

Obviously tired, the Lords were a step too slow on defense, and sluggish on offense as they hosted in the quarterfinals of the OAC tournament to Oberlin 80-51 last Saturday at Wooster.

The teams’ respective centers dominated first-half action as Evan Eisner’s McBey hit for 16 points and gathered four rebounds while Oberlin’s Matt Miller found the holes and scored seven of his game-high 13 rebounds. Tim Appleton and Eric Eisner combined to dominate their opening round encounter as the effects of playing 35 minutes the night before were evident.

Meyer’s two free throws with one-second remaining brought the Lords within one point, 34-33 halftime.

Second half action saw Oberlin exploit Kenyon’s sluggishness as they built a 40-34 lead and Marek Lamparsky, “tired” Kenyon defenders for ten points and Merrill Friman added 12 seconds later on lay ups and tip-ins. With seven minutes remaining, the game was 58 points down, Tim Appleton took control offensively as he accounted for 14 points in six minutes to pull Kenyon within five of Oberlin. However, with time running out the Lords were forced to foul which resulted in free throw opportunities for the Yeomen. Despite six straight free throws, Oberlin withstood the Kenyon rally and closed out the quarterfinals.

Afterthoughts

Though compiling a 14-11 record and the first winning season in four years, the early elimination from tournament play was as a surprise, and a disappointment to many Kenyon basketball followers. However, the outcome was predictable in light of previous performance in back-to-back game situations. Kenyon’s inability to win in three tournaments this year is attributable to the limited use of reserves, restricting the play of the five or six regulars for the majority of the game.

Such was the case against Wooster; as for award Tim Appleton and Dave Meyer, and guard Evan Eisner now almost 40 minutes of playing time. His efforts were evident the following night in Kenyon’s losing match to Oberlin as a tired Kenyon team was out-rebounded and unable to run their fast break offense.

Cindermen Breeze Past Muskingum

By Frank Fitzgerald

Paired by Jamie Ducett’s three victories, the Kenyon trackmen raced to a 193-102 margin in the second annual OAC Athletic Conference Invitational, held Saturday at Wooster.

The Lords’ 62 points topped Muskingum’s 540 and Wittenberg’s 414, but the outcome wasn’t decided until the next to last event.

The events consisted of a triple with away-first in the mile, cruising in with away-last in the two-mile, and the Kenyon team coming in with away-last in the four-mile, combined with a second and third by teammates Bob Kinney and Bob Metzger, proved an important stimulus for the Lords. Donsett also won the crucial mile, giving away victory to the Lords.

Several other Lords provided first place points in events which can only be called a team victory. Bill Ray and Reynolds came within .5 inches of winning the high jump. Jay Andrews beat the field in the 220 yard dash. Kenyon has in effect 10-0-1 in the top spot, the mile relay team of Mark Schott, Ray, Metzger and Andrews were all in the Kenyon team, the last event with a hard fought tie. This was led by Brian Harrell and John Wilcox.

Evans Eisner (No. 10) shooting against the Wooster Scots in last Saturday’s OAC tournament victory. On the left is Tim Appleton, (No. 29) who shot a one point gam at the game.

Catch 22?

On March 5 The Lords contained the Ohio Athletic Conference Championship unprecedented treacherous crown. The format is that it will be a two up among seven teams; the recruits being the finest and unpredictable conference champions.

Cindermen Breeze Past Muskingum

By Frank Fitzgerald

Paired by Jamie Ducett’s three victories, the Kenyon trackmen raced to a 193-102 margin in the second annual OAC Athletic Conference Invitational, held Saturday at Wooster.

The Lords’ 62 points topped Muskingum’s 540 and Wittenberg’s 414, but the outcome wasn’t decided until the next to last event.

The events consisted of a triple with away-first in the mile, cruising in with away-last in the two-mile, and the Kenyon team coming in with away-last in the four-mile, combined with a second and third by teammates Bob Kinney and Bob Metzger, proved an important stimulus for the Lords. Donsett also won the crucial mile, giving away victory to the Lords.

Several other Lords provided first place points in events which can only be called a team victory. Bill Ray and Reynolds came within .5 inches of winning the high jump. Jay Andrews beat the field in the 220 yard dash. Kenyon has in effect 10-0-1 in the top spot, the mile relay team of Mark Schott, Ray, Metzger and Andrews were all in the Kenyon team, the last event with a hard fought tie. This was led by Brian Harrell and John Wilcox.

Evans Eisner (No. 10) shooting against the Wooster Scots in last Saturday’s OAC tournament victory. On the left is Tim Appleton, (No. 29) who shot a one point gam at the game.

Catch 22?

On March 5 The Lords contained the Ohio Athletic Conference Championship unprecedented treacherous crown. The format is that it will be a two up among seven teams; the recruits being the finest and unpredictable conference champions.
UN Ambassador Florin Asserts
East Germany's Independence

Katie Kindfalk

Culmination will never be quite complete without patriotic celebration. In this spirit, East Germans and Peter Florin, the GDR's permanent Foreign Minister and chairman of the GDR delegation at the United Nations, have initiated a month-long celebration for the unity of the two Germanies.

"The GDR has implemented the agreements reached with the West," said Florin, adding, "This has been a unique feat because the whole world has turned its attention to the two Germanies. It's like a new World Cup for football.

"The unification of the two Germanies is a triumph of peace and justice." Florin pointed out that the GDR had already achieved reunification with West Germany, and that "The Berlin Wall is a thing of the past." He also highlighted the GDR's achievements in areas such as education, healthcare, and sports.

"I believe that the GDR's achievements are not only important for the GDR, but also for the whole world." Florin concluded. "The GDR's achievements are a beacon of hope for a peaceful and just world."
Humane Concern

Even this month, the United States Army declared war on an enemy that can be found in every urban city and town across the nation. The enemy is homelessness. Estimates vary, but it is believed that over 500,000 Americans are homeless at any given time. They live on the streets, in parks, and in abandoned buildings. Many suffer from illness and injury due to the harsh conditions they endure.

The Army's strategy to combat this problem is through a combination of immediate relief and long-term solutions. The immediate relief includes providing food, shelter, and medical care. Long-term solutions include affordable housing, job training, and education.

Student Essays Up For Grab

Students in the English department are preparing for the George Good Awards, given annually for the best essays by undergraduate students. The essays are based on the nature of American life, culture or principles of government. Students are encouraged to submit their essays to the Committee on Awards and be considered for the prestigious title of "Student of the Month." The Army will announce the winners through the Student Affairs Center by April 1.

The Army is committed to recognizing the leadership and dedication of its students. The awards are a testament to the importance of education in the development of future leaders. Students are encouraged to participate in this prestigious event.

Abusive Education

Amused as in Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing," or Joyce's "Annabah," famous lines that spoke of the times we live in. Our education system is broken, as are the minds of our students. The pressures of standardized testing and the constant Comparison of students to others have led to a culture of bullying, harassment, and even abuse. The Army is working to address these issues and provide a safe and supportive learning environment for all students.

A policy debate between the United States Senate and the House of Representatives is being held on the future of education funding. The Army is calling for increased funding for education to support these efforts.

Reporters-at-Large

So What's Your Gripe?

By David L. Bacon

You know what I had to put up with here last weekend? Paying $100 for a concert ticket, then sitting in the hot sun, subjected to hells, the bathroom, the security line. The Sleeping Bag, the PJ-ever, took a toll on me. I had to cut my reappearance, but the Army's going to be coming clean after all. The Army's going to be releasing a statement, and the public is going to be able to read it.

Huntington, you have a gripe? Yeah, I have a gripe. I'm tired of living this way. The Army's going to be releasing a statement, and the public is going to be able to read it.

You know what I had to put up with here last weekend? Paying $100 for a concert ticket, then sitting in the hot sun, subjected to hells, the bathroom, the security line. The Sleeping Bag, the PJ-ever, took a toll on me. I had to cut my reappearance, but the Army's going to be coming clean after all. The Army's going to be releasing a statement, and the public is going to be able to read it.

Huntington, you have a gripe? Yeah, I have a gripe. I'm tired of living this way. The Army's going to be releasing a statement, and the public is going to be able to read it.