POLITICAL

Clubs Have Able Speakers
—Election Night Furnishes Excitement.

On Thursday, October 20th, Judge D. L. Rockwell spoke to the Harmony club of Kenyon college, Mr. Rockwell, who is judge of the probate court of Portage county, is a Kenyon man, a member of the class of 1900. In 1906 he was Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor of the state. The speech was well attended, the entire college turning out to hear the Democratic side of the question. Judge Rockwell, who is a very popular alumnus, was applauded by everyone, and his talk was received with great enthusiasm. He spoke principally of Governor Harmon, and of his successful work in putting down graft.

The speech by Mr. Hodges was one of the clearest ever heard in Philo hall. As Mr. Hodges saw that only a small portion of his audience would vote in this election, he refrained from speaking on the Ohio campaign, of which, he stated, he knew nothing any way. Instead, he gave a talk on "why a young man should vote the Republican ticket," which was as witty and amusing as ever those opposed to him politically were carried away. Mr. Hodges leaves Kenyon with many friends behind him, for his clever talk was enjoyed by everyone who heard it.

WESLEYAN AND CASE

Held to Low Score—Kenyon Improves—Slush Makes Cleveland Game Farcical—Weakness of Team Due to Lack of Weight.

After many years of trying O. W. U. finally succeeded in defeating Kenyon. This, however, occurred at Delaware on Nov. 6. Before the game the Methodists tried to intimidate our bunch of pig chasers by having two teams go through signal practices. Fortunately there were only two at once there little "four flushed" did not have the desired effect.

The moment the whistle blew the Wesleyan team knew they were in a football game and they were forced to play the limit to gain a final 11 to 2 victory. Time after time the Kenyon line piled up their opponent's play. Again and again Patten was forced to punt.

In the first quarter Hike's team was forced to yield a touchdown chiefly because of the magnificent work of Thomissen, Wesleyan fullback.

The second quarter was all Kenyon and it was this time that Axtell blocked a Delaware punt and Wesleyan was forced to give up to points. At the end of the first half many spectators expected to see the Episcopalian team return and run all over the brethren from "Delaware the beautiful."

At the start of the second half Kenyon did start with a rush but Wesleyan's fullback stopped one of our delayed passes in the bud and thus put Kenyon on the defensive. The Wesleyan team was then held twice and on the third trial they finished, after being held. They recovered their famous eight yards nearer Kenyon's goal and with a few more barks they shoved it over for their last touchdown. From this time on in the game was a punting duel in which Kenyon kept Wesleyan on the defensive.

The line work of Kenyon was hampered a great deal by the sickness of Marty, who, although he played, was very ill.

Before the game was completed it became so dark that good football was impossible and both sides welcomed the final whistle.

Wesleyan had the best offense that Kenyon has run up against this season.

Thomissen's bucking, Shepherd's and Little's general play were the features for Wesleyan. No stars showed up for Kenyon, although the work, generally, was a vast improvement over previous games.

LARWILL

Course Opened by Doctor Moorehead—An Illustrated Lecture.

The first of the Larwill Lecture series for the Academic year, 1910-11 was given at Rose hall, November 16, by Prof. Moorehead of Phillips Andover academy as the lecturer, and his talk was illustrated by stereopticon views of the Lewis and Clark expedition.

The earlier of Prof. Moorehead's lecture was an interesting one. The complete story of that famous expedition was given in detail, including the boat trip up the Missouri river to its headwaters and the journey inland from there. Particularly interesting were the views, which vividly portrayed the nature of the land through which the expedition pushed its way, and the trials and hardships the explorers had to undergo. The slides included a large number of original drawings made by members of the party, original letters, and papers from the diaries of Lewis and Clark.

Perhaps as interesting as the lecture itself was the informal meeting with Prof. Moorehead which the college men were allowed to enjoy in the Sterling room afterward. The speaker is a noted archeologist and a student of the American Indian. He is a member of the Indian Commission of the Department of the Interior, and just recently has finished an inquiry into the land and timber rights by the lumber interests against the White Earth Indians in Minnesota. The manner in which these simple red men have been deprived of their true mineral and timber rights is unbelievable, and Prof. Moorehead lays the cause to the improper measures of the United States government in entrusting such wealth to persons as susceptible as the Indian to unscrupulous moneyed interests.

Boxing Becomes Popular

The manly art of self defense has become very popular at Kenyon of late. About three nights of every week are set aside for these bouts and some of the fellows are becoming very proficient.
BACHELLER

Author of "Eben Holden.
Lectured at Rossie Hall,
Wednesday, Nov. 16.

When Kenyon men heard that Irving Bacheller was to lecture in Rossie Hall on Wednesday, Nov. 16, they expected to hear a good speech. Most of them had read his books, and knew that the speaker for the evening was one of the greatest novelists in America today, as well as perhaps the greatest living humorist in the United States. Even these high expectations were far surpassed. From the beginning Mr. Bacheller held his audience entranced listening to a talk in which humor and pathos were exquisitely blended.

The speech was divided into two parts. In the first the speaker gave a definition and a history of New England Yankee life. This was interspersed with quaint stories, some humorous, some pathetic. Mr. Bacheller told of the matchless grit of the New Englander, his ability to cope with any enemy from the savage to the still more frightful enemy, poverty and starvation. The noblest characteristic, in his estimation, was the ability of the Yankee to endure anything that fate thrust upon him, hiding his bitterness and agony from his family and friends and binding a smiling countenance. He told of the warm heart and kindly disposition under the unpenetrable mask of severity. All of this was mixed with a veritable flood of stories and anecdotes which kept his hearers listening to every word. Mr. Bacheller passed over the New England woman, saying that she was too high and too noble a character to be spoken of by mere men. He spoke of the wives who were always working while singing hymns of rest and peace. Part of the lecture which was enjoyed by all hearers was Mr. Bacheller's singing. In order to bring the quaint weird New England folk-songs into the minds and thoughts of the people, he sang some, and this variation made his talk all the more charming.

After a pause of perhaps five minutes Mr. Bacheller went on with the second portion of his speech, in which he portrayed some typical New England characters. This part was masterful, and one could almost see the simple country people as he described them. No one who saw the village shoemaker or the country doctor so ably depicted, will ever forget them. Mr. Bacheller again sang while demonstrating the cobbler, and the peculiar, weird song still lingers in the memory of most of the hearers. The speech was brought to a wonderful climax in the description of the blind old man and his former sweetheart.

When the speech was over there was a short silence, the greatest tribute that can ever be awarded a speaker, and then the applause broke out deafening. Mr. Bacheller appeared as few men do to the Kenyon audiences, and this was certainly demonstrated by the noise, if by nothing else.

After his talk, Mr. Bacheller met the students and faculty of Kenyon college at the East Wing Bull's Eye where a smoker was held in his honor. Although Mr. Bacheller was the guest of honor, he contributed more than any one else to the entertainment. After several Kenyon songs were sung, he got up, as he said, to advertise his books. There were two things he said, in which his books excelled. "When I was giving a lecture in New York some time ago," he said, "an old lady came to me and said to me; 'Mr. Bacheller, your book is delightful. On a little table in my bedroom I keep the Bible and Eben Holden, and almost every night I fall asleep reading your book.' "Hence," said Mr. Bacheller, "my books have proved good for insomnia."

He continued, explaining the other advantage of his books. "Once," he said, "I was in small military post in the Northwest. Here I met a cook, who also told me he admired my work; why the other day," he said, "I was in town and bought Dri and I to give to a friend. Well, somebody shot at me as I was going down the street, and the bullet hit the package I was carrying. When I got home I unwrapped the book, and found that the bullet was in it and had not gone through."

"Thus," said Mr. Bacheller, "even a bullet can't get through my books, and I may unhesitatingly say that they are substantial." He continued with several anecdotes, especially telling of Thomas A. Edison. These were very interesting to listeners. As Bacheller is a college man and a member of Phi Beta Kappa, he was able to appeal to college men, and he left Gambier with the friendship of the entire college.

From the Quills of

PFO SENIORI

One of the professors at his last class in the spring semester, devoted a large part of his hour in giving a little mighty valuable advice to the Junior class of the college, then about to become Seniors. The point of his talk was this, the upperclassmen and the Senior in particular, should be the controlling, directing force in all college affairs. The college community is a family in which the English law of premogotomie should endure. It seems in the last few years that more and more the Senior in Kenyon has come to be a back-number, a nonentity. He has allowed himself to become overburdened with class-room work to such an extent that it is not infrequent and in fact is more often the case, that he necessarily carries twenty-two and twenty-five hours of work; either directly needed for graduation or in order to make honors in scholarship. In either case the ambition is commendable if necessary, but without a doubt it puts the Senior class in the background as far as college activities are concerned, and so we find the so-called honor societies passing to Juniors and to Sophomores, men no doubt competent, but not giving in the fullest sense the return to the college community which only four years residence makes possible. It is in no way a usurpation of authority by the lower classes; the Senior alone is to blame that he has allowed self to be so put out of college activities. We find the athletic managements, the team capitancy and the literary editorships in the hands of men whose college education is but half over. The faculty member's advice should have been to the Freshman or to the Sophomore, not to the Junior, who finds too late that he is a has-been. The missing is to the lower classes—Keep up in your class-room work, enter into college athletics, and strive to gain college honors—a truly laudable ambition. Your reward will come in your Senior year.

PUNCTUALLITY

If there is one attribute that Kenyon men do not possess, it is punctuality. At every lecture, assembly or meeting of any sort held here for a number of years, many come in late. This not only disturbs the audience but also embarrasses the speaker to a great extent. It is only neglect on the part of the student body because the dates are always plainly written and everyone should be on hand promptly.

It goes without saying that it is very annoying to be disturbed in the middle of a speech by a loud chatter of steps on the way to Philo hall or by the cracking of doors at Rossie hall. The same thing is true of committee, class and board meetings. No one seems to think of starting for the meeting until it is five or ten minutes late. Let us be punctual!

THE STATE GAME

What we want now is courage and a lot of red blood. A fellow who has weakened on Thanksgiving proposition is not a true Kenyon man. It is true that the team this year has been a disappointment, not a failure, but at the same time there is no reason why it can't "come back." At various times during the year Kenyon has played a game that would have beaten any team in the state. Now the same kind of a game will be played on Turkey day and the editor confidently expects the team to make a better showing than it made last year. In fact, it must or otherwise State can not afford to hook us for their final attraction for next year. Our finances demand that we get that date and therefore argue in this circle we find that we must make a good showing in order to maintain the high standard of teams, which we have had in the past. O. S. U. is not unbeatable! Every Saturday we read of a new football surprise. Yale with the setting three to one against her, beat back and defeated Princeton. Kenyon also has spirit and it is to this spirit that this appeal is made. Let every man on the team play as he has never played before! Let every undergraduate be on the sidelines to show that the spirit of old Philander Chase stills beats in the bosoms of Kenyon's sons.

THE STRAW BALLOT

The ballot held the other day under the auspices of the Civic club was a great success. Over two-thirds of the men in college voted and this showed that the students are taking an active interest in the politics of the day. It is always a good sign to find college men who are interested in political events.

THE GENERAL ELECTION

Whatever outcome, political, industrial or financial, may arise from the present campaign, 1912, it is the better for it that the many new voters have been given a chance to vote. Whether 1912 is a good campaign or not, 1910 was a bad one. Now that the dust has settled, we find the two most popular candidates to be Bryan and Roosevelt.

The General Election, whatever its outcome, is undeniably a vast improvement on the 1910 campaign, and this, however, does not mean that the candidates of the 1910 campaign were not good men, but rather that the electorate was better informed this year.

The election was an appeal to the higher aims of the country, and it is to be hoped that the people of this country will vote in the spirit in which the campaign was conducted.
THE KENYON COLLEGIAN

KENYON

Men in the Late Election --Quite a Few Being Elected to Office.

A number of Kenyon men were directly connected with the recent election, among them the following.

Hon. Judson Harmon, '08, LL. D., was reelected governor of Ohio by an overwhelming majority.

The political complexion of the Ohio legislature assures the election of a Democrat to succeed U. S. Senator Dick. Prominent among the aspirants for the top is Col. James Kilbourne. Col. Kilbourne was his party's candidate for governor in 1904, and is one of the best known jurists in the state bar.

Since the term of office for the auditor of state is for years, Edward M. Fullington, ex-'96, of Marysville, will continue to serve in that capacity, having been elected in 1908.

The reelection of Governor Harmon insures the appointment to the office of insurance commissioner of Judge David L. Rockwell, ex-'01, of Ravenna.

Congressman Albert Douglas, 72, A. B., '06, LL. D., of Chillicothe, was defeated in the Eleventh district after serving several terms.

Gen. J. Kent Hamilton, 59. A. B., of Toledo, was the Republican candidate against Congressman Isaac R. Sherwood in the Ninth.

Judge James Lawrence, 71 A. B., of Cleveland, was reelected to the common pleas bench in Cuyahoga county.

Tate P. Cromley, 05, A. B., of Mt. Vernon, was elected prosecutor of Knox county.

Arthur S. Thompson, ex-'08, was defeated for reelection as surveyor.

MARTICULATION

The matriculation "exams" worried the Freshmen from Nov. 14, on through the week. The examinations as usual were in charge of the Honor committee. The matriculation exercises occur Saturday morning, Nov. 19.

ASSEMBLY

The Students' Trophy Room to be Furnished by the Undergraduates.

The regular November meeting of the Assembly was held in Philo hall November 7; President Wood in the chair. The report of the Executive committee was read and this report showed that the Assembly was in a very satisfactory condition. Since this was the first report of the committee for the present college year, considerable time was taken up in hearing the report.

The chairman of the Lecture Course committee reported that a speaker for a date before the committee, but the date cancelled on account of the two law will lectures which had been announced. This committee will secure a speaker for a date before the Christmas recess. The Library Fund committee reported that its last meeting arrangements were made to secure the amount of money pledged by the undergraduates toward the furnishing of the Student's Trophy room. These subscriptions will be placed in the hands of the committee at an early date and it is hoped that the entire amount promised by the Assembly may be secured. Coach Pierce and Graduate Manager W. B. Kellem addressed the Assembly on football conditions. President Wood announced that there would be a football rally on Wednesday evening.

Alumni Editor

The alumni news of the College is now in charge of Fred W. Cary, '90, who is doing newspaper work in Cincinnati. News being his line Fred should easily send out live dope about our alumni. Any alumni who can help the department of the paper by sending in items to the editor...

The Straw Vote

In the last issue of the "Collegian" ballots were printed by which the students of Kenyon college could show their choice for the governorship of Ohio. There was a great deal of interest shown by both parties in this event and on the day preceding the election all could be seen all day "counting" up votes for their respective party.

In the evening at the General Assembly meeting the ballots were counted by Gaines, Dem and Wacker. Rep. with Coach Dennis Pierce acting as judge.

The result of Harding 41 and Harmon 22 was announced to the Assembly by President Wood. Naturally the Republicans were jubilant over this result and for some time there was an outburst of applause and yelling.

But "he who laughs last, laughs best" and the Democrats had their turn on the following day.

Chapel Gifts

Many persons, and especially students, were surprised Saturday night and Sunday to hear the chimes of the college chapel peal ing forth in different tunes than is customary. For many years the bells have chimed the old Westminster chimes every quarter of an hour and it is no wonder that the listeners were surprised to hear strange notes. Mr. Kellem, '32, is responsible for this new feature and with some practice this can be made one of the pleasant features of the campus.

Well pleased With Kenyon

The Hon. John E. Hedges of New York city was the guest of Kenyon on Friday, November 3. Mr. Hedges was sent to Gambier the day previous, by Chairman Massie of the Republican Central committee to deliver an address under the auspices of the Harding club of Kenyon college.

This was the first visit of the speaker to Kenyon and the men on the "Hill" cannot but be gratified at the kind and complimentary words of Mr. Hedges. He was a member of the class of '84 of Princeton university and since leaving that institution has devoted his life to the practice of law, to writing and to public service.

He was with private spectators to the mayor of New York at the time that former President Roosevelt was police magistrate, and has filled other offices of trust in New York.

The New York Sun of November 3 contained a column and a half editorial on a recent book from the pen of Mr. Hedges. Before leaving Gambier, Mr. Hedges assured us that he would return to the "Hill," during the early part of next year and deliver an address under the direction of the Student Lecture committee.

During the visit of the Hon. John E. Hedges upon the Hill he was entertained with a dinner at the residence of Mrs. Fillmore. Dr. Mrs. Peric and Mrs. Wood attended this dinner which immediately preceded Mr. Hedges' talk that evening at Philo hall.

Reinheimer and Skyles at halves and Weaver at quarter worked fairly well together. This combination was broken up to let "Reiny" go to end.

Wesleyan’s rooting was good, but even then a few Hika’s cheered up Kenyon.

Axtell’s punts were fine and he easily outpointed Patton, the Wesleyan star.

Marty played the entire game with a very bad shoulder.

Wesleyan made repeated gains through the middle of Kenyon’s line. Thomissen would fake one side and then shoot straight through center.

Another strong Wesleyan play was a tackle around.

THE CASE GAME

Despite the fact that Van Horn field made but a sorry spectacle of a gridiron with its cover of slush, mud and snow, our team last Saturday met Case with the same militant spirit that characterized its playing all this season. Owing to the unfavorable weather conditions, Kenyon mustered up a meager roster of roots on the east side of the field, but this small band was greatly augmented by an enthusiastic bunch of Reserve men whose efforts we all should appreciate.

After dashing themselves in blubber, after the Esquimo style, our team appeared on the shiners’ field, confident of giving Case a fight for every inch of ground. In the short period preceding the game, it became evident that the team which best kept its eye on the wet pigskin would carry away the plum-tree.

During the first quarter, Kenyon defended the north goal and at the end of ten minutes, our men emerged from the flying slush with mud bespattered countenances and soggy suits but with a good line. Axtell’s punts, somewhat fostered by a favorable gale, were responsible in good measure for the result of this quarter.

We were not so successful in the second quarter. The ball was put in play on Kenyon’s 25 yard line with the wind back of the Scientists. Case got first down in three slides but many on the side line held that the head-lineman gave Case the benefit of about six inches in making his decision as to the down. Case’s irresistible mass of weight carried the ball over our goal line in two plays.

Kenyon kicked off to Ruby, Case’s speedy quarterback, who completely fooled our men by a speedy dash to the center of the field and then behind Twichel and Heller down the east line of the field for a touchdown. This score may be registered to the carelessness of the right side of our line for it was pulled to the center of the field before Ruby was downed.

Our defense then tightened up, but Heller succeeded in kicking the ball over the bars from placement. None befuddled Case these three points for it was a pretty kick.

The team came back strong in the second half, and the beefy scientists found much trouble in getting five points in the two succeeding quarters.

During the last five minutes of play Kenyon carried the ball to Case’s one yard line through a short series of forward passes and short punts. We met a strong wall, however, and Case held us to downs.

The score does not express the virtue of Kenyon’s playing nor does it cast any suspicion upon the work of the team for every man fought to his utmost against overwhelming odds.

New Book in Library

The library is in receipt of a set of “Norroona,” Anglo-Saxon classics, the gift of the late Dr. N. P. Andridge of Cincinnati. There are fifteen volumes in all, bound in morocco, with facsimiles of old books for cover designs. They are, in fact, the most beautiful bound works in the library.

There are also twelve volumes on “The South in the Beginning of the Nation.”

A CORRECTION

The Wooster-Kenyon score was not correct, as given in the last Collegian and therefore we wish to inform our readers that the score was only 21-0 instead of 26-0.
FOOTBALL

Rally Held Wednesday Evening, Nov. 9, Was Very Enthusiastic.

In preparation for the Case game, a rally was held in Phile hall, Wednesday evening, November 9. It is safe to say, the spirit at this rally was up to Kenyon's standard and the never-say-die attitude of every man in college cannot but be an inspiration to the members of the team. While the result of the season has not been all that we might wish for, at the same time we are standing behind our team with the same spirit that we would have it a winning team.

Coach Pierce, in his usual straight-forward manner, told the men what he expected of them. He talked at some length, explaining the tactics which would be used the remainder of the season. Professor Newhall and Professor Nichols assured the members of the team that the faculty was "with them". Manager Sunderson outlined the arrangements made by the management and urged the men to accompany the team to Cleveland.

Short talks were made by Graduate Manager Walton and by several members of the team. Following the meeting, the cheer leader rehearsed some new cheers, songs were sung and the "Hika" resounded again and again.

Change in Football Captains

At a meeting of the football squad Nov. 10, C. M. Cable resigned as captain on account of his leaving the Hill to enter upon a business career. J. H. Cable was chosen to fill the position. "Jimmie" has played a good game at tackle for three years and will undoubtedly make a fine leader. Everyone disliked to see "Top!" leave and the team cannot but be weakened by his withdrawal.

Baker of Columbus Takes Reveille Pictures

A representative from Baker's art gallery of Columbus was on the hill for three days beginning Wednesday, Nov. 9 and while here took all of the groups and individual pictures for the Reveille as well as many other faces which will not grace the inside of the book. A working studio was constructed in Rossie hall and the man with the camera was kept busy snapping the faces of Harcourt girls and Kenyon men. A feature of the class and other groups was the lack of sameness in background, each picture being taken in front of a different building or door on the campus. Also the taking of the Freshmen with their green hats on was one of the general run of pictures usually taken for the Reveille.

Wildman Loses!!

One o'clock in the morning. Outside the wind whistled shrilly over the dark, dreary campus. Suddenly a wild shriek split the air, a shriek which brought visions of death's agony to the dazed minds of students, awakened from sweet slumber. Out from the old Kenyon sprang a certain Freshman, catatonic and with dishevelled hair, pursued by a fire-eyed looking individual who brandished a long knife in either hand. Down the path went the hopeless Freshman with a burst of speed that soon left behind his pursuer who now seemed to be struggling with spasms of some sort.

By this time fully fifty heads were "out" in old Kenyon and Hanna hall, while it is hinted some students locked themselves in their rooms behind barricaded doors. Another Freshman, brother of the uncanny youth who used to make tables "walk" and use to do sundry other stunts, had suddenly gone insane, and was seeking the life of the aforesaid person. Prominent searching parties were started to find and bring back to college the Freshman, but nowhere could he be found.

About six o'clock in the morning, the hapless youth returned, after telephoning to see if the way was clear. He had broken into the house of a certain Beasley professor and there had found refuge, dreaming all night of being pursued by a wild man, while the instigators of the trouble were nervously awaiting his return.

Election Returns

Dr. and Mrs. Pierce held open house election night and delightedly entertained both the college men and the Harcourt girls. Returns were received over the telephone and immediately posted so that everyone could see how things were going. Light refreshments were served during the whole evening and altogether it was an enjoyable affair.

Yale-Harvard Game

The annual Yale-Harvard game will be played before Thanksgiving. Both teams have been practicing and are confident of winning. The rules, as usual prohibit any one from playing who has been on either the Varsity or Freshmen squads this year.

Coach Pierce and a number of the men will take pointers on the State-Oberlin game.
