The Commons which has been the center of interest of late, was the Committee was made and accepted and the plan made at the February Assembly. The speech was a direct appeal made to the students to support the Commons as a business proposition, as a center of college life and activity, and to maintain it as a permanent institution.

The plan of compulsory attendance at the Commons, as suggested by the previous Assembly, has been referred to the Board of Trustees, said Dr. Peirce, such a question does not come under faculty jurisdiction. Attention was also called to the fact that the quarters at the Commons are only temporary and when it is properly supported, new and better quarters will be forthcoming.

Plans have already been discussed for the building of a magnificent Commons of Gothic architecture. Just as soon as the student body offers the funds necessary.

Among the most interesting social affairs held at Kenyon, the success of the promenade week deserves first place. The prom this year was a great success in spite of the fact that there was lack of support from men in college-

The Hotel McAlpin in New York City was the scene of a lively and enthusiastic gathering on Friday, January 28, when the members of the New York alumni association met to hold their annual banquet and reunion. Though the number did not quite approach that of former years, the spirit of loyalty was not seriously impaired thereby.

The Hon. James L. Wells, '94, was the guest of honor. Ohio's Congressman-at-large, the Hon. Robert Crouser, '97, was unable to attend. President Wm. F. Peirce was there to bring his annual message of progress on the Hill. J. Van Vechten Obott, a "non-in- law" of Kenyon since 1905, acted as toastmaster and kept the enthusiasm at a high pitch throughout the evening.

Less than thirty were able to reach the McAlpin, and a number of "regulars" were missing from the banquet board. Cokes Phillips, '95, was detained by illness. M. F. Murry, '94, failed to be on the first train to arrive, while C. M. Roberts, '06, M. C. Platt, '08, K. F. Lathby, '06, O. C. Kinney, '10, and several others who generally grace the annual dinner were absent and the dinner lost thereby.

There were enough, however, to sing the "Thrill" and other old Kenyon songs with characteristic zest. "Zack!" Taylor, '96, led the singing. And naturally enough, the lively music of the orchestra in the grill below, faded somewhat when the younger generation of Kenyon opened up on songs which always retain their flavor. This might be accounted for by an informal gathering a few days before. Blake Astell entertained a few of the members at his home on East 93rd street to rehearse for the banquet.

Ex-Congressman Obott, donor of the steel flagpole near the Stephen's stack room, presided and called on President Peirce for the first address of the evening.

New York Alumni

The latter described in a faithful and graphic manner the condition in Gambier, and his reports of the large freshman class and of the fact that Kenyon had but twice exceeded the present enrollment brought prolonged applause from the bananaeet.

The new treasurer of the Empire State, J. L. Wells, ’64, was the next speaker. He paid a glowing tribute to Kenyon and stated that his one year on the Hill had taught him principles from which he had never seen fit to deviate. His career in the development of one of the largest residence halls of Greater New York has made him a party to many councils and the patriarch of the Bronx.

Earl D. Babst, ’30, chief of counsel to the National Biscuit Company, told of the “seven lean years” during which the attendance at Kenyon decreased to twenty-eight men. He painted a vivid picture of the tenacity and energy with which the handful of undergraduates kept the activities alive during the early ’90’s and pulled the college through the gravest crisis of its history.

Roy H. Hopkins, ’01, Grove D. Curtis, ’60, and George J. Peet, ’95, completed the list of speakers. After the formal part of the evening was concluded the younger members entertained with songs of the Hill and favorite selections popular in other colleges.

The committee in charge of the dinner was composed of Mr. Curtis, A. K. Taylor, ’06, Don C. Wheaton, ’13, and D. W. Bowman, ’14. Mr. Axtell, the secretary, took an active part in the arrangements and drummed up as large a crowd as could be secured at the time.

The Philadelphia Alumni Association held their annual reunion at the University Club in Philadelphia on January 25, at seven o’clock. The gathering was an inspiring one and the speakers, who included several guests of the association as well as President Peirce, spoke with enthusiasm and pledged their support to the interests of the college on Gambier’s hill.

The officers of the association were re-elected for the ensuing year and are as follows: the Rev. C. H. Arndt, ’89, president; W. B. Bodine, Jr., ’90; M. F. Maury, ’04, secretary. Besides these men the following alumni were present: A. H. Granger, ’87, P. H. Whaley, ’01, J. F. Doddsell, ’94, K. D. Williams, ’15. The visitors included: President Pierce, Dean Groton, of the Philadelphia Divinity School, and R. L. Compertte of the Ohio Society of Philadelphia.

Both the students and faculty of Northwestern University have recently adopted the honor system by a vote of four to one. This system went into effect during the recent examinations. All cases of cheating are to be reported to a committee selected by the student body.—Ex.

"Mental Momentum"

The above phrase was recently used by a professor to explain the force necessary to do a certain piece of memory work and it seems to us to contain possibilities in regard to doing other kinds of work. This momentum is a good thing to have and helps us to overcome difficulties more easily and effectively. If our minds work at a very slow rate of speed we find it difficult to do much reading. Even if we do, that rate of speed gradually decreases. While speed may be stopped entirely and we say we are stalled—and truly we are.

There are hard courses at college and there are easy ones—just as there are hard and easy roads in various sections of the country. What we want to watch for, is that our mental machines are carefully geared up to run along the hard roads and that we do not drive too carelessly along the easy ones. In a hard course in chemistry we should try to have plenty of mental momentum to carry us over all the difficult passages so that in the finish we may make at least a fair showing. Without sufficient momentum we are apt to lose. If we become stalled it is not only embarrassing but it is somewhat humiliating to have our friends pass us by.

In practically every branch of college work this same thing applies. Very little is accomplished unless there is that force behind it to insure its success. One must first get plenty of energy and attain a certain uniform rate of speed and then both the hard and the easy task will result in labor well done. No matter whether they be large and small, sufficient kernels in the mill at once, the resulting product is uniform because the momentum caused by the wheels is sufficient to grind them all.

"Try yourself out and see if you are going fast enough to exert any force on your work. Speed up and don't be afraid of the first impression. The most serious you may rate ought you not to stop."

SERIOUS BUSINESS

During the last two years the management of the Collegian has been devoting their best efforts to ward removing the balance of the debt which was inherited from an earlier period. Their work has been through and their methods business-like. As a result of this consistent endeavor the intentions are that the Kenyon Collegian will be free from debt by the end of this year. This goal cannot, however, be attained unless the management of the Collegian has the co-operation of the students and the alumni.

The former we urge to patronize those who by their advertisements make the paper a possi- bility. We are glad to be able to say that the student body as a whole have been loyal as far as subscribing and paying for their subscriptions are concerned. The alumni, however, have been especially frequent in this regard.

Surely they should appreciate the opportunity to learn through the agency of the Kenyon Collegian the news of the happenings on the Hill and should also, we think, be willing to help support this college activity. Yet the amount of money tied up in long overdue subscriptions would wipe out the indebtedness of the paper and place it on such a basis that it could contribute a good sum to the support of the Assembly annually. We therefore appeal to the diligent alumni to pay up their old subscriptions and thus both settle up an old debt and contribute substantially to the support of a Kenyon enterprise.

THE NEXT THING

Now that the excitement incident to prom is over, and also the diversion afforded by a couple of holidays, church and state, the pendulum of student life has swung back to its accustomed place and the usual routine is resumed. But what of it? Does that mean that we are to sit back and remain indifferent to college affairs, or does anything demand our attention between now and Easter vacation?

For some of the affirmative answer may serve but those whose names appeared on the glee club list a strong "no" is the response. During the next six weeks our efforts must be large and small so that we put our best energy into producing a successful club and it is only by concerted efforts that this hope can be realized. The suspension of the practices since Christmas was made necessary to give way to the work of the dramatic club, and the results of that organization show that such suspension was well warranted. But now that we are fairly started on the second semester our sole energy should be devoted to this cause.

In the mean time we plan to give our readers the impression that the rehearsals prior to Christmas are negligible. By no means. Much actual work was accomplished and many forms on which to begin to know and make further plans. The coming rehearsals must, however, be even more diligent and this can only be effected by consistent and willing application on the part of individuals.

Nearly all the important colleges in the state recognize the exceptional value of a glee club as an adventuring medium by which we can introduce music to a great body of students; and music is a very practical means of providing entertainment.

The students of all colleges have a right to expect that the glee club will be organized and become affiliated with the National Rifle Association. The only restriction placed on these clubs by the government is that they shall not be increased annually by govern- ment officials. This serves to make the organization more efficient.

At the present time there are ap- parently no arrangements being made to organize a glee club here at Kenyon, and we are greatly concerned that no steps be taken to do so as we are sure that a large number of students would be glad to take part in such an activity.

A LATENT POSSIBILITY

President Wilson recently said that we depended for our national defense upon a nation of marksmen. From this statement it is to be inferred that most Americans are trained in the use of guns. How many college men in our country know how to shoot?

It is true that in many of our colleges and universities there are organized gun clubs. Often these clubs meet in inter-collegiate shooting competition. But should there not be more organizations of this kind among college men, both for developing the individual and to train more of our educated men in the use of the chief weapon of defense?

The purpose of this article is not to enumerate the benefits one may receive by using a gun as a means of steering the nerves, and becoming more accurate and con- centrated. Nor by any means should a military spirit be fostered. It is merely suggested that a gun club may be a profitable organization for any college.

At Kenyon the conditions for es- establishing a gun club are ideal. It is true the student body is comparatively small. But a large gun club is impracticable. Perhaps there is no other college in the country which has at its immediate command such extensive terri- tory affording so many suitable rifle ranges.

There is no need of a gun club's interfering with any other organization, whether athletic or not. There are several parts of the school year when only an organiza- tion of this kind could be active. On the other hand there is no time during the year in which target practice could not be carried on.

For the sake of information, it has been found that an average amount of Range Hall is large enough for a twenty-five yard indoor range. A gun club need not be confined to the United States government is quite willing to furnish guns and ammunition to duly organized gun clubs, and even urges the establishment of more. Several of our neighboring colleges become affiliated with the National Rifle Association. The only re- striction placed on these clubs by the government is that they shall be increased annually by govern- ment officials. This serves to make the organization more efficient.

At the present time there appear- ingly no arrangements being made to organize a glee club here at Kenyon, and we are greatly concerned that no steps be taken to do so as we are sure that a large number of students would be glad to take part in such an activity.

"DON'T DO THAT"

Again it is necessary to call the attention of people who are making library books. The persons are perhaps, thoughtless, who persist in cutting pictures out of current magazines. The books are put on the reading shelf for the benefit of everybody—not that a few may cut out and take away the cuts for scrap books or pic- tures for their rooms. The librarians will, in the future, remove from the shelf any books which have been mutilated.
HARCOURT PLACE CHANGES MANAGEMENT

The announcement has recently been made of the change in management of Harcourt Place School and in the future this institution will be under the direction of Rev. Jacob Streibert. It was made known some time ago that Miss Merwin, the present director of the school, had resigned from her place as principal of the institution and the inside work will now be carried on by Mrs. Streibert and her daughter, Miss Ethel Streibert of Cleveland.

It is the present intention of Dr. Streibert to take but two classes of girls. The first class will be those who wish to prepare for college and who are working for certificate. The second class will be composed of those who have finished High School and wish to broaden their education along special lines. For the benefit of the latter class, a radial change will be made in the Domestic Science department of the school. This branch will be greatly expanded and will undoubtedly be made the most successful in the country.

In addition to this department, the cultural studies, such as French, German, music, etc., will be given considerable attention. A faculty of ten teachers will be supported and it is hoped that the school will attain a membership of fifty girls. The teachers will be graduated from the best colleges in the country and will be experts in their particular lines. Certificates from Harcourt will be accepted by all the prominent colleges for girls such as Vassar, Wellesley and Smith.

It is the intention of Dr. Streibert to keep the relation of the school and the college as far as possible. With his extensive acquaintance throughout the state as well as his pleasing personality, there is little doubt that Dr. Streibert will make a great success of the institution.

A flourishing Student Union is to be found on the campus of Indiana University. The first floor contains a lounging room, a trophy room and a billiard room. While the second floor is given over to the more quiet joy of reading, the union is self-supporting and has a charter membership of over four hundred men. (Why not this at Kenyon?)

PHILO CRUSHES NUPI IN DEBATE

In a keen and lively debating contest in Philo Hall the evening of February 22, the members of Philomathian Literary Society defeated the members of the Nu Pi Kappa arguing on the subject, "Resolved, that the Ship-Purchase Bill Should Be Defeated." The judges were, Dr. Manning, Dr. Smythe and Dr. Davison and it was their duty to vote first as to which side won the debate and secondly who was the most effective speaker. The debaters were, P. C. Bailey, T. T., W. J. White, '17, and R. J. Dool, ’17, for Philo while J. S. Trotman, ’17, R. K. Merton, ’17 and C. J. Ader, ’17, upheld the side of Nu Pi Kappa. Mr. Bailey won the first prize of thirty-five dollars, while the second prize of fifteen dollars was awarded to Mr. Trotman.

President Peine acted as chairman.

The arguments set forth by the affirmative side defended by Philo were more numerous and comprehensible than those set forth by the negative. They included international complications which might arise, inefficiency of government ownership, and the inadequacy of the pending bill to define its powers and provide for possible contingencies. The negative, on the contrary, dwelt upon the arguments of the bill's success, justice and practicality. These subjects, while well handled, were not sufficient to offset the convincing and forcible arguments of the affirmative. Of the rebuttal speeches, that by R. E. Morton was undoubtedly the most successful. Mr. Morton received honorable mention, being only one point behind Mr. Trotman for second prize.

A recent issue of the Columbus Dispatch contained accounts of the Kenyon men prominent in political circles.

Lyle Tate Craneley, ’03, who was famous for his base ball ability in college, will demonstrate that he can play ball at the capital, as well, when the senate and house come together in the spring.

R. M. Fullington, ’86, former state auditor has been selected by governor Willis, to fill the office of budget commissioner. He succeeds Mr. Heffernan and will receive a salary of $4,000. Pictures of both these men appeared in the Dispatch.

RESULTS OF GAMES ARE VARIABLE

In what was probably the hardest fought and closest game ever played in Rosse Hall, Kenyon defeated Miami by the score of 32-30. The game in spots was fast pace but there were many flashes of good playing.

The game did not start out very auspiciously but when the first half ended Kenyon led 18-12. The posses of the Miami team were very good but their shots were wide of the basket and the Kenyon guards kept them from working the ball under the basket. For Kenyon, Schafer made several weird shots.

In the second half Miami came back with a determination to win and for a time it looked as though they would succeed. They soon tied the score, but Love and Day shot several baskets in quick succession and put Kenyon in the lead again. Miami, by some good playing, evened the score again, but two foul goals gave Kenyon the victory. Minich played a star game for Miami.

On the third basketball trip of the season, Kenyon managed to win and lose. On Friday night, February 5, Reserve defeated Kenyon 52-34, while on Saturday night Case went down to defeat 33-32. The Kenyon team was greatly weakened by the absence of Day and McGormley.

In the Reserve game, Kenyon seemed to play in excellent form, leading at the end of the half 25-23. Love and Wood made many spectacular shots. In the second half, however, the strain began to tell on the Kenyon team, while the Reserve team seemed to be playing its best game of the season. Espig and Zwart made seemingly impossible shots from the center of the floor, the former making no less than eleven field goals.

On the following night Kenyon seemed a different team. Playing against the greatest odds, the team held Case to 20 points in 15 in the first half. Every man on the team fought continually and many of Case's scores were from scrimmage under their basket.

In the second half Kenyon came back very strong, and with some exceptional shots by Schafer soon tied the score. The game then turned into a nip-and-tuck battle, first one, then the other leading. When time was called it was found, after some discussion, that Kenyon led by one point. Schafer played a very strong game, making 10 field goals and 9 fouls.

The Kenyon basketball team was outclassed slightly by the Ohio University team, January 30, the final score being 35-27.

The game was rather slow and did not show the ginger which has been displayed in the other games this season. It was featured by long shots and loose playing. Both teams played about even during the first half but Ohio held a four-point lead at its end. At the beginning of the second half Ohio had forged ahead 10 more points before Kenyon had scarcely got organized and she then maintained her lead until the end of the game. Steinfeld's usual consistent guarding was the most redeeming feature of the game.

Pugh of Wesleyan referred.

Kenyon lost both games on the recent basketball trip to Wittenberg and Ohio University. The first game at Wittenberg was a miserable exhibition of basketball. Wittenberg clearly outplayed Kenyon and the result was never in doubt. The final score was 55-7. Dietrick and Bechel, the Wittenberg guards, played exceptional games, while the passing of the same team bewildered Kenyon.

At Athens on the following night, Kenyon was outmanned rather than outplayed. The score was 29-19. There was a complete reversal of form by the Kenyon team. Kenyon's passing was far superior to Ohio's and the team has three shots to Ohio's one, but the ball refused to go through the basket. Hendrickson and Bush scored all of Ohio's points while Schafer playing at guard, made most of Kenyon's.

College Meeting

At the last meeting of the Collegian Board several matters of importance were transacted. The action regarding the election of an assistant editor was adopted as an amendment to the constitution. Messrs. Schafer, '17 and Shannon, '17 were recommended for associate editors which recommendation was supported by the board. The next order of business was the election of an assistant editor with the result that Mr. McDowell, '16, was unanimously chosen.

The matter of awarding medals to senior members of the board was discussed and a committee was appointed to take the matter up with the Executive Committee.

The constitution provides for the awarding of these medals to sen-

Benediction of Beley

The benediction of Beley Hall, which is now completely renovated, was held on the afternoon of February 4, the faculties of Kenyon and Beley, and the students of the seminary taking part in the ceremony. Many visiting clergy, graduates from Beley, were also in the procession. The Bishop of Ohio officiated, reading the prayers of benediction and thanksgiving in the dormitory rooms, the parlor and the chapel. The latter room was dedicated to St. Mary.

Immediately after the ceremony the many people in attendance gathered in Colburn Hall, the semi-library, where addresses were made by the Bishop of Ohio, Dean Jones, President Price, and Bishop DuMoulin. Both Bishop Vincent and Bishop Bowie sent messages of regret at not being able to attend this final service of benediction.

Directly after the addresses, the rooms of the building were thrown open to the inspection of the visitors.

Old and New Students
Nine students, all from the sophomore and freshmen classes, left the college the end of the first semester. The loss of these men is partly compensated by the enrollment of three new men.

Englund, Shoffstall, Johnaton, and Gunther left the sophomore class, the last named going to Ohio State.
Of the freshmen, Matthews, Oleenbro, Sott, Zeman, and Hel- on have withdrawn.
The new men are Allen, '17, of Cleveland, who enters from Ohio State; Douglas, '17, of Massfield, from Reserve and Jordan, '18, of Steubenville.

Honorable Mention
Hereafter, members of the choir who are particularly regular in attending the church services will receive honorable mention in the columns of this paper. During the last semester, only one member received the honor. E. C. Welch, '17, "Spike" missed but three services at which attendance was required.

Phi Beta Kappa
The last month has witnessed an enthusiastic revival of the Phi Beta Kappa Society at Kenyon and already two interesting and scholarly papers have been read by members of the Beta Chapter of Ohio. On January 21, a meeting was held in Ascension Hall at which Dr. Reeves read a paper on the subject, "Arti-Machiavel." This topic was ably handled and was made very interesting as relating to the present governmental theories at work among European nations.

At the second meeting held in the social room at Bexley Hall, Thursday evening February 11, Dr. Davies, delivered a paper on the subject, "The Wesley Ghost." This paper dealt with the peculiar spirit which seemed to haunt the household of that worthy man causing him and his family not a little dismay and at times inconvenience. Following the reading of the paper was a general discussion of it and the various phases of the subject arising therefrom.

Inter-Division Basketball
On account of the lack of interest shown by the constitutional divisions about college the Inter-Divisional Basketball schedule has been suspended. It is hoped that next year a renewed interest will be shown along this line. It is by having such an inter-divisional league that men are sometimes found who are better players than the men on the varsity squad or men who can be developed into being varsity material.

Scotty Fadea d a Mile
"There ain't no use of going to a blacksmith boys, do your own work." This is what a number of the Kenyon men heard when they gathered around one Fred Smith, in the basement of Old Kenyon one evening this month. The possibility of his statement was carried out when, using his mouth as a vice he bent large iron bars as readily as if they had been willow sticks. Some of our husky athletes tried to perform the same stunts with their hands but found that the Smith's jaws were better than their arms.

The heartiest applause came however when "the entertainer" ate with much indifference a glass lamp chimney.

As Smith had just come out of the hospital be was unable to run but other cars through his body as was his custom but proved his ability by showing the boys recent scars.

The marriage of Mr. Harold M. Eddy, '07, to Miss Florence Gil- chrest was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents in Cleveland on Wednesday, February 3. A large wedding reception was given for the couple at the Colon- nal Club after which they left for an extended trip, through the East. Mr. Eddy is a nephew of the college chaplain, Dr. Smythe, who read the marriage service. Several people from Gambier attended the wedding.

The new organ for Bexley Hall Chapel has arrived and is now installed and being used at the daily services. It is an Estey organ and of unusually pleasant tone. The organ is the gift of Miss Florence Sullivan of New York, who also gave the stained glass window over the altar of the chapel.

Ohio State has installed a wire- less station which has a radius of 2,500 miles. The aerial is the second largest in the state, being 200 feet high and 385 feet long.—Ex.
