THE STORY OF THE ALUMNI COUNCIL

Through the courtesy of the Alumni Board, and in conformity with the resolutions of the Executive Committee of the Alumni Council at its recent meeting, the Council has thus far in the year, made no examination of the following

The Council is comprised of three groups elected in separate ways, at present 11 in number, and with several local associations affiliated with the Alumni Board. The officers of the Council are elected by the membership of the Alumni Board, and at the same time the officers are to be decided as officers of the Alumni Board.

Professor Salvemini, in a very lucid lecture, delivered on the evening of the 12th of February, gave an instructive outline of Fascism and its appeal. The lecture was well received, and the student body is well prepared for it. In order to satisfy our depravity for the development of Fascism, Professor Salvemini concluded that Fascism conformed to the Italian school of thought, and that Fascism is essentially a movement of the Italian people. The only thing that is necessary is that Fascism be kept in its true form, and not be permitted to develop into a movement of the Italian people. The only thing that is necessary is that Fascism be kept in its true form, and not be permitted to develop into a movement of the Italian people.

Recent Alumni Dinners

New York

On January 31st, the Association of the East held its Annual Dinner, New York at the University Club. Fifty guests making the largest turnout of Kenyon men in New York for several years. The guest list is too long to be reprinted here, but the New Yorkers were supplemented by the presence of Dr. Michael F. Finn, Mr. Shelzick Ohara, Clark Hammond, ‘93, Dr. Peirce, Mr. Howard Bould of Cleveland, John Arnett, and Matthew F. Murray, ‘94 of Philadelphia, Mr. Philip Hummel, ’23 of Gambier, and Dr. A. D. Rockwell, son, who now owns to his father ‘66—a cavalry veteran of the Civil War, who has never missed a Kenyon dinner—receives the dinner each year from Flushing.

Easy conviviality and enthusiasm lent just the right tone, and the high spot of the evening was the address of David O. Potter on "College Today and Its Deeds," and Dr. Potter who in one of those poetic, dramatic, pat, Ladrian bite of the sort, portraits of and seldom bears, charmed everyone as he did in Gambier on the occasion of his receiving a degree at the Mother Hall dedication last fall. Well attended speeches were also made by the Hon. J. Van Voorhis Abbott, long an honorary alumnus and interested friend of Kenyon; Mr. Macy as President of the Alumni Council, and Mr. Shelzick Ohara, who as guardian in America of the Kawa.

Sakai brothers (of Tokyo in College) has become much interested in Kenyon; while Wilbur L. Cummings, ’92, Pres- ident of the Association, acted as his own toastmaster.

A sum of business was turned over with dispatch, when last year’s officers were re-elected as follows: Cummings, ’92, President; W. L. Fout, ’83, Vice-President; and D. C. Woolston, ’12 (42 William St., N. Y.) Secretary and Treasurer.

The secretary had very thoughtfully carried the box of numerous copings of favorite songs, which aided Walter T. Collins, ’23 in leading songs which fairly made the dinner without bounds of the Club table.

Philadelphia

Somewhat smaller and quite an agreeable was the dinner of the Asso- ciation of Philadelphia at the University Club of that city on February 2nd, with Matthew Maury in the chair as president and committer, heading a single record, intimate table.

President Peirce spoke with relief.

ful informally but infinite conviction and sincerity on the aims of Kenyon College. Mr. Howard Cooper Johnson, a graduate Trustee of Swarthmore Col- lege gave a most interesting talk covering small colleges, and incidentally expressed the desire that Swarth- more and Kenyon should meet in foot- ball, but added that their problem of small gate receipts is akin to ours.

Philip Hummel, ’23, as secretary of the Alumni Council described its work and aims this far. Bishop DaMolin, late of Cleveland and Gambier, and former Trustee, gave a most ingratiat- ing talk, inviting all Kenyon men to attend a special service in his church at which Dr. Peirce was to be the preacher. Bishop DaMolin said that it is beyond conviction that Kenyon College is the best small college in the country, and that he had so advertised it in his priest in preparation for Dr. Peirce’s sermon.

Mr. W. T. Toppin, ’23, who made a special trip from Baltimore to attend, was moved to talk on the future of the college-bred men in politics.

Washington

The annual meeting of the Washing- ton Alumni of Kenyon Alumni over- character this year, owing to the small number of Kenyons men resident there. The recent problems and the present sit- uation were discussed, and a new agenda was made agree- able evening.

Dr. Peirce’s talk, along the same lines as at the other dinners, was car- ried on in very informal style, and brought about discussion of Kenyon affairs which lasted an evening.

During the day, Mr. Douglas and the President called on the Hon. James F. Stone, Vice-President of the Alumni Council, and Mr. Eddie N. D. Stewart, ’85, with whom they were able to attend the gathering of the evening.

Pittsburgh

The Association of Pittsburgh met for dinner on February 9th in a small room of the University Club. Although small, Kenyon claims no more loyal group than this one. As usual, the College occupied the entire conversation of this, for the invariable habit of Kenyon Alumni is to roll their ideas, all most enthusiastically received. Philip Hummel, ’23 had come on from Gambier for the meet- ing, and was asked to call at the Alumni Council, enlisting the support of those present in its workings.

The officers for the past year were unanimously re-elected, being L. H. Burnette, ’96, President; J. M. McAdoo, ’96, Vice-President; and James W. Hamilton, ’96, Secretary-Treasurer.

MANNINGS ENTERTAIN AT BRIDGE

Mrs. Duval also Hostess To South Leonard

Dr. and Mrs. Manning and Mrs. Du- val entertained the inmates of South Leonard at Bridge on Saturday evening, the twenty-second of January. The Faculty was ably represented by Dr. and Mrs. Pierce, Dr. and Mrs. Cahill and Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd. Mr. and Mrs. James Nelson of Mt. Vernon and Miss Ada Newall were also present at this reception. Delightful refreshments were served following a pleasant ev- ening at the card tables.

THOS. A. WILSON
The football season of 1924 was marked by unusual consistency rather than by unusual brilliancy. There were no great teams to watch these representatives of Dartmouth and Michigan in 1925, nor any such star players as Glidden and Lockert, both of whom had left their teams rather than to oportunistic bands. On the other hand there were fewer upsets than in any season since the war, if not since the introduction of the present rules in 1924. Of course some games came out contrary to general predictions because the relative strength of the contestants had all been wrongly estimated, but outside the Missouri Valley Conference there were no real "upsets," which were important teams with the single bewildering and out of season victory of Carnegie Tech's over great Notre Dame team game. There were two or three other cases where the stage seemed set for such a surprise, but each time Fate intervened. The championship Anniepolis edition itself held the essential rival, for in the College game with the score 7 to 0 against them in the final minutes and their opponents about to score another and saved touchdown, only Michigan had scored and enabled them a field goal run-for a touchdown and victory, Michigan-made at the end of a terrific scholastic found herself in an even worse predicament against a Minnesota team which had come fast and far toward the close of the season, but again a flimsy and a lengthy reaching did save "the dogs." Forward passing, which figured so brilliantly in a year ago, was nearly so successful in 1926. This was probably less due to superior defense against it than to the fact that the great passers, such as Michigan and Michigan, had this season no such powerful running offense to combine with it as formerly, and consequently the opposition could concentrate on stopping the aerial game. Notre Dame won two big contests with fourth quarter passes, but otherwise seldom stroked through the air. West Point passed hardly at all. More important games than ever before were decided by success or failure with the try-for-touchdowns, and the largely farrago nature of this method of settling supremacy was thereby disgracefully emphasized.

In consequence of the general consensus of opinion, there is no need to be lavish in praise of the teams which might be expected to be better than usual, but it does happen that lack of means of comparison in some instances greatly complicates the problem. In the Western Conference, Northwestern and Michigan played mutually exclusive schedules. Lafayette had little high-class opposition. It would be generally admitted, however, that Annapaolis and Lockert, both of whom had left to play overseas, who played the one of the hardest schedules of the year, and were undefeated; and her single tie in the final game with West Point may reasonably be attributed to the injury to Caldwell, who until taken out had proved un- stoppable, and whose substitute's fumble gave the southwesterners a touchdown. The one time the offense was enabled, was single-handed, with a great line. Notre Dame would be a clear first but for the debacle before Carnegie Tech, which was no doubt caused as much by the Coach Bookman's nervousness as by its own non-entity. In any case one hardly rate lower than second for a game in which both teams were represented by West Point, which can not be assigned a position lower than third. Fourth and fifth places go jointly to Michigan and Northwestern. The Wolverines defeated much stronger Annapaolis, but the two strongest teams (Ohio State and Minnesota) in their second meeting by the narrowest good fortune, whereas all Northwest- ern's victories were decisively won, and her loss at the hands of Notre Dame was a rather better showing than Michigan made against Annapaolis. Obviously, Ohio State is but a hair's breadth below Michigan, and how soon sees the best games for Lafayette, who won every game of a easy schedule. Perhaps stronger than either of these at the close of the season, were- the University of Michigan, who were slow starters who suffered early season defeats which damage their record as a whole.

Stanford and Alabama follow. Stanford had much better of their tie game, but the long trip required of Alabama and the fact that Warner had secured them personally, whereas their coach had never himself observed Stanford, fully offsets this. That last Tournament of Rose game is another of the coast football reputation—an even larger one than that between Ohio State and Stanford, admitted stronger than the Washington champions of a year ago, and played with all the advantages of the usual advantages. Yet the Ohio State team was obvious- ly weaker than them (in the line better balanced and slightly more powerful, but far weaker in the backfield), it would appear that only the big scalp of initial enthusiasm could be carried through the peculiar vulnerability of the weak southern ends and tackling against superior line of protection. This time Tennessee went from being literally slaughtered in the early going the it is possible to assign definite running are Brown and the University of Southern California. The former, an unbeaten team with victories over distinguished opponents, is customarily ranked high but not as rapidly as Michigan. The present team was over a foe that had been through a stormy struggle the previ- ous Saturday, Yale was caught immedi- ately after having played Dartmouth, Dartmouth after her successor ex- cited a week with Yale and Harvard, and Harvard the week following the Prince- ton game. When Brown finally met Colgate on equal terms in his climax- tic game, a tie was all she could give. Any attempt at further ranking leads one to climax. The next strongest teams in the East appear to have been Syracuse and Minnesota, and Princeton, and Washington and Jefferson, Pittsburgh, Carnegie Tech or Boston College, in a problem impossible of so- cieties. One must content with the following assignments:

Annapolis 5—Ohio State 3, Michigan 5—Notre Dame 3, 4— and 5—Northwestern and Michigan 6 and 7—Lafayette and Penn State 8 and 9—Minnesota and New- burg, Georgetown, 10 and 11—Stanford, and Alabama, 12 and 13—Brown and Southern California.

GAMBERR POPULATION INCREASED BY ONE

It was on the second day of Feb- ruary that the increase in the number of unbaptized boys was rounded hundred and twenty-seven, while the native student body was drastically struggling with that periodical plague known as examination week, that the work was done to take advantage of the unique opportunity of his bitten enemies, the college men, to pay Gambier a most unexpected visit. On this, his most recent trip to our thriving little un- negleable, that agnostic fervor was to pleasant the heathen of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Rigg, and the offering which most seductive of all birds laid at the shrine of the Laced and Penates of the House of Rigg took the form of an infant boy.

This child, who is reported to bear a strong resemblance to his father, for whom he is in name, but not in character, was given, according to the reluctant confession of his god-parents. He is already already a healthy and cheerful young boy, in the infrequent and frequent dis- disposition, and has no yet been committed himself to the line of lampoon and dubbing, of idealism and materialism. It is believed, however, that time and experi- ence will soon fill the gaps left by the nurse.

On behalf of the student body the College wishes to express its sincere and congratulations to Mr. Rigg, and the gambier of Uhinnunvoo voices its hearty appreciation of the substantial increase in its population thus engineered.

State Instructor Appointed Successor to Mr. Olmsted

Charles M. Cluffin, formerly an instructor in freshman English at Ohio State University, has been appointed to the position of assistant to George Pultney Evans, whose resignation was accepted at mid-quarter.

Mr. Cluffin was educated from Ohio State with a B. A. degree in 1925, and in 1924 received his M.A. For two years he has been teaching English at the University of Chicago, where his specialty is the teaching of freshman English in the univer- sity. He has also begun work on his doctorate degree.

During the summers of recent years, Mr. Cluffin has been doing ex- tensive research work in New York city, in literature of the seventy century.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 9th, 1922.

The meeting was called to order by the President, Mr. W. E. Hoag, Jr., President of the Alumni Association, who was at the call of the Council in his capacity as President of the Board of Trustees.

The President announced that the meeting was called to order by telephone from the Executive Committee.

Mr. Hoag then read the report of the Executive Committee, which was approved by the Council.

The President then called for the discussion of the agenda, and a motion was made to adjourn the meeting until Wednesday, June 10th, at 1:00 p.m.

The motion was carried, and the meeting adjourned.

BASKETBALL TEAM SHOWS STRENGTH
Kenyon Five in Conference Fourth Place

Since the defeat at the hands of Mt. Union, which was but the second loss of the season for the Kenyon basketball team and which was sustained over a month ago, the Purple has come back in a strong fashion and has scored four victories in five games.

The week after the Mt. Union affair, Dayton was disposed of at Dayton by a score of 37 to 22. Purum, the flashy guard recruited from the Hopkins move ranks this year, was high scorer of the game with five field goals and two free throws.

A heavy scoring battle with Heidelberg was waged in Rossa Hall during mid-semester vacation. The alumni, who had returned to the Hill for the initiation ceremonies of their respective fraternities witnessed the game. The game itself was a little exhibition in which both good and bad brands of basketball were displayed. The teams were deadlocked at halftime with 15 points apiece. However, in the second half the Kenyon team seemed to take new life and increased its score to fifty-one points, while the Heidelberg team was only able to score forty-four points.

Murie was high scorer with six field goals and oneless fouls goal, for a total of seventeen points.

The following week-end, the teams broke even on a two-day trip, winning from Baldwin-Wallace on Friday night by a 54-42 score and losing the next night to Akron by a score of 37 to 18.

A large crowd of alumni and undergraduate witnesses this last game in Akron and watched the Purple play as poor a game as they have played for many a season.

On Wednesday, February 25th, the team brought their season at home to a successful close by defeating Ohio Northern 55-24. Every man on the squad got into this scoring spree and just as many figures in the official record.

But four games are left on the 1927 basketball schedule, and all of them are away from home. Before these games, Kenyon stands in unfigured fourth place with a conference record of six victories and three losses.

A record of the season to date is given below for alumni who have not had an opportunity to follow each game.

The smoke of the mid-year examinations has cleared and "students again pitch down to enjoy the "four best years" of their lives without the fear of examinations to worry them. In fact, it is rather difficult to find an infringement of the Honor Rule normal in the action of the freshmen here since the Honor System's weakest point. It seems that freshmen, coming from the High Schools where studying in examinations is part of a game to test the ever-vanishing eye of the examining professor, are unable to become accustomed to the new system which we have at Kenyon. It is regrettable that examinations are necessary to impress on the new men the necessity of the Honor System, but we feel that the students are ample time to forget their high school habits.

The alumni support which it has been bestowed on "Olymphics" is highly appreciated by its Board of Editors and Business Department. The Alumni Council, realizing the value of the college publications, is attempting to include every graduate of Kenyon on its list of subscribers --to combine it in a chronicle of student and alumni news. We trust that this will prove a fruitful material result and that the paper will assume an importance of the first rank in the activities of the college.

MATHER HALL

It is interesting to learn from the Academic Departments that Mather Hall has been further recognized as an outstanding laboratory building, as evidenced by the fact that a number of rentals from institutions of science and medicine have already been made to Guaranty for the purpose of inspecting Mather thoroughly.

The genuine cooperation expressed on the part of the many individuals who have been through the laboratory has been most gratifying to the many people who have visited the building. It is estimated that approximately 90% of the students are equally proportioned in various courses, a relatively large proportion for undergraduate work.

DINNER IN HONOR OF EARL D. BAST, '93

Earl D. Dast, '93 (Trustee and member of the Alumni Council) chairman of the board of the American Sugar Refining Company, who recently returned to New York after a trip to Europe which developed into a tour around the world to observe sugar-crop countries, was the guest of honor recently at a dinner in New York at the Union League Club given by Wilfred W. Chisen, Jr., chairman of the New York Sugar Company, etc. Included in the list of forty odd distinguished men and women present were Alfred B. Moore, Chisen, New York; James C. Colgate of J. H. Colgate & Co., New York; R. S. Goodman, vice-president of the Atlantic Refining Co., Philadelphia; E. B. Hines, vice-president, Illinois Royce of America, Inc., New York; Arthur Bridgman, New York American; Walter P. Chrysler, president, Chrysler Motor Car Co., New York; William G. Skelton, president, Pittsburgh Philanthropic Trust Co., Philadelphia; William A. Law, president, Park Mutual Life Insurance Co., Philadelphia; Livingston E. Golf

Dear Sir:

Nina loyal sons of Kenyon gathered for dinner, Thursday, February 16th, in Cambridge, Massachusetts. The following were present—Robert Adams '26, Harvard Business School 1.

James Lloyd '24, M. I. T., Research Laboratory of Applied Chemistry.

Robert Haskell ex '23, Harvard College.

Robert Snyder ex '26, Harvard College.

At the business meeting which followed the dinner, Robert Adams was elected president of the Cambridge Association, and Theodore Diller was elected secretary by acclamation.

Motion was made that Phil Hummel, Alumni Secretary, be notified that the Cambridge Association is solidly behind him, but owing to the failure of the ice crop the association is at present unable and unable to meet its obligations.

It is earnestly hoped by the association that "Fat" will see fit to include this worthy group in his next tour of the alumni organizations.

Announcement is made of the annual Kenyon Brawl to be held at the Copely-Plaza in Boston, the time as yet tentative. All good Kenyon men are invited.

Correspondence should be addressed to the undersigned.

T. C. Diller, Secy.

7 Meilen Street.

Cambridge, Mass.

G. Baxter (Pete) Wasser of the class of 23 is reported to be a shining light in the new game of golf-archery which is sweeping the country. A member of the Mayfield Club group in Cleveland, he recently played on the Mayfield team against an Akron group in the first team contest on record.

His recent best score of 64 is considered to be the World's Record so far officially recorded.

The game is beginning to attract many fans and wide popularity, so it can be played out of doors the year around. The greens of an ordinary golf course are fitted with targets, and the procedure is much the same as in golf, except that shots are made with the historic bow and arrow, red or black arrows being plainly followed if snow is on the ground.

John Falkner Arndt '21 & Company, Advertising Council, of Philadelphia, have sent us very awe-inspiring announcements noting their removal to the Lewis Building, 16th and Chestnut St. This data is reprinted for the special delectation of Kenyon Alumni, who, trying to call on Johnny, the head of the firm and Dave, ex '24, his advertise brother, have complained that they were only to be discovered with great difficulty either by climbing four flights of dubious stairs, or by entrusting one's life to the carslings of an antique Civil War model hydraulic elevator.

To prove its point, the Arndt announcement pictures an impressive modern skyscraper job.

Two Kenyon and Bowdler graduates were elected by the recent Cincinnati Convention of the Diocese of Southern Ohio to membership in the Cathedral Chapter. They are the Rev. Albert N. Slayton, '24, and the Rev. Philip Porter, '29.

The engagement of William Z. Burchenal, '25, to Miss Mary Rogers, has been announced. Both are residents of Glendale, O., a Cincinnati suburb. Miss Rogers is a niece of Colonel William Cooper Proctor.

Kenyon's senior alumni recently was the guest of honor at a testimonial dinner attended by all leading citizens of Cincinnati. He is James Norris Gamble, '12, who with all his years is an active business man, an ardent church worker and a revered leader in civic affairs of the Queen City. He was born in August, 1836.
Fraternities Hold Mid-Winter Initiations

Large Delegations Taken Into Fraternities

The annual mid-winter initiations were held this year on Saturday, the twelfth of February. Prior to that date many of the various alumni began to plan for the big event, and until the previous Friday, there was a large number of rushing in Gambier who had returned to haunt the scenes of their former misdeeds for their recent year's initiates. Varying and returning to attend the initiation ceremonies of their respective fraternities. Very few appetites failed to pass the requisite number of hours to be initiated and, in consequence, there was much rejoicing on the night when the pledges ceased to be neophytes and became undergraduates.

The college was promptly glad to welcome back the largest delegation of the older alumni that has presented itself for some time.

There follows a list of the names of those who were initiated into the various fraternities at this time.

HARRIS, '96, FIGURES IN IMPORTANT EPISCOPAL MOVEMENT

A sweeping program designed to preserve the Protestant character of the Episcopal Church has been adopted unanimously by the National Church League of the Province of Washington, according to a dispatch from Philadelphia.

This action, the first of its kind by an organization of the church, involves a program, the climax of two years of discussion and a debate, based on four main points for conducting a widespread campaign against the ritualistic and hierarchical element in the Protestant Episcopal Church, which it is claimed borders too closely on Romanist forms and ceremonies, both in this country and in England. It was drawn up and presented by Bishop Robert L. Harris of the Diocese of Marquette, Mich.

Dr. Alexander G. Cassings, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., declared the Catholic Party which has long been organizing within the Episcopal Church has exercised a significant political part in the election of Bishops and now is planning a campaign to control the next General Convention two years hence.

Bishop Harris' program recommends an organization to cover the whole American church with a sister organization in England, with a series of very definite steps to preserve Anglican simplicity and ideals, and aid to an ideal vital, progressive, and modern in feeling and scholarship, having an independent American flavor and eliminating the controversial topics.

P. B. (Worley) McBride '16 of Topeka, has recently been appointed Manager and Vice-President of the new Louisville Products Co., Louisville, Ky., which will be put into operation about March 1st.

Mr. Carl Rollins Lectures
On "Art In Printing"

The science of printing is now in the midst of a great revival, according to Mr. Carl Rollins of the Yale University Press. Since 1894, when Morris started the movement, there has been an ever increasing attempt on the part of the printers to restore, to their art, some of the beauty which has been lost. This has largely been attributed to the great mass production of printed matter.

Mr. Rollins, during his lecture on March 1st, traced the art of printing from its very beginning. Before the era of the printed press, books were written by hand by master craftsmen. Not only was the workmanship excellent, but the illustrative feature was marvelous, an example of the printer's skill. By the fifteenth century, the shape of the letters and the form of the page were highly developed and closely resembled the four modern style.

It was therefore necessary to make the early printed works equally aesthetic in order to rival the handmade works. This accounts for the beauty of the first machine-made books. Unfortunately, much of the beauty and virility has been gradually replaced by uniform meanness. This change Mr. Rollins pointed out by means of lantern-slides of illustrative books and styles of printing. The accuracy was especially noticeable in the French printing of the eighteenth century.

The notable examples of the most modern hand-books showed the tendency to return to the early standards of excellence in printing. They are indeed worthy reads for those masterpieces in type, form, and both illustrative and decorative matter.

To obtain these results, the craftsmen have selected the best type from the hand-printing of the past. The essential considerations are this: it shall be legible, and shall make a good contrast on the page. In all good printing, there is a definite impression made in the paper to secure a clear-cut silhouetted.

From a historical point of view, it is interesting to note from Mr. Rollins' statement that the best results are obtained from slightly damaged paper. The machine-made paper can not equal the hand-made sheet.

THE COMPLETE REVOLUTION IN TEACHING AT ANTIQUO COLLEGE

The Complete Revolution in Teaching at Antioch College

By New Student Service

The new "self-directed study plan" of Antioch College (Ohio) has been characterized as the "most daring attempt of an American college in the last ten years." It is based on the plan of their own. The plan has not yet been developed in detail, but the main features have been pointed out in "The Antiochian." At the center of the plan is the idea of abolishing all mass methods and persuading every student to work to his own capacity, at his own pace, with his own resources—his individual setting, his own setting in the pinchion.

The teacher's work in every subject will be carefully outlined and evaluated and guided to meet his own capacity. The only requirement will be that he pass the periodic examinations and cover the work. Lecture rooms will be turned into study rooms, each student's work in each subject will be carefully outlined and every student allowed to master it in his own way. He will be required to cover the work and pass the examinations; not to attend lectures or go through rituals. Lecture rooms will be turned into study rooms where instructors and student assistants will be ready to help in particular cases. No student is to apply for all he has done all by himself. Frequent individual conferences with instructors and group discussions will take the place of classes; but lectures will supplement the other work if it is found they are needed.

Both to help with the extra teaching work required by the plan, and to learn by teaching every student in the upper classes will devote five hours a week to work in his field as assistant instructor, tutor, paper-grader or laboratory helper.

The plan as a whole will apply to the upper classes, but teachers of Froebel and sophomore classes will be free to experiment with features of it.

ASCENSION HALL, the beautiful and historic administration and classroom building of Kenyon College, is to be completely renovated at last, according to a word just received from Gambier, Ohio, seat of the Episcopal college. The work will begin at once in the north wing of the building which the Science Departments vacated last fall when the Master Hall of Science was opened and dedicated. A special fund has been partially raised for the purpose, and about $75,000 will be spent.

This building, since the time of its erection in 1896, has been practically every need of the college. Every living alumna has received all of his instruction within its walls. It has seen the college cleansed by the leaders of the Civil War, when school maters broke up to enlist on their respective sides, and it saw men leave by the score to go into the World War. Its thick, built-up walls and roof will endure through an equal period of service, and perhaps much longer, but the hopelessly antiquated interior is a serious deterrent to the efficiency of the college, and everything must go except the two beautiful oak-panelled debating and lecture halls, dear to the heart of everyone connected with Kenyon since 1896.

When Ascension Hall is entirely restored to the students in September of 1927, it will contain, besides extensive administrative offices, eleven class-rooms, fourteen professor's offices or consultation rooms, two lecture halls, and large storage and workroom. A new entrance at the rear, which is one story lower than the front, will provide accessibility from automobiles—a need not foreseen in 1896. Now many professors and students alike drive their cars, and must get from one place to another speedily if a schedule is to be lived up to. To meet this need, the new entrance is to be added, and an enormous openair entrance on the north side of the building, giving a fine view over the campus. In last fall, the entire building was given a complete renovation, including a total of nearly seventeen hundred square feet of steam heat. The heating system has been entirely reorganized, and the windows have been replaced by the entire.

The work on the building was done by the Wellman-Glessner Co., Wheeling, W. Va.

The firm of Bosen and Hinsley of Columbus have been retained as architects and construction engineers. This operation will realize the fourth item on the building program laid out in 1924, to renovate the Centennial of Kenyon, celebrated in 1924.

HARRY STOYLE
TO RUN BAKERY
Present Lease Expires April 19

When we return to the Hill after the Easter vacation, the Bakery will be under new management. The year lease under which George Evans and Mert Jacobs have been operating expires on April 19. Harry Stoyle, owner of the property, who ran the Bakery for years, will not take over the business. Mr. Stoyle is a friend to many alumni of the College, having been in the restaurant business in Gambler for years. At the time that Dr. Peirce came to Kenyon as President most of the men ate at Stoyle's restaurant, which stood on the corner where Jenkins' store is now located.

George and Mert have not decided what they will do, although both expect to remain in Gambler. We hope that they will; they have many friends in College.

ASSEMBLY MEETING

Football Letters Awarded

The first Assembly Meeting of the second semester of the school year was held on February 1. The business of the evening was to award the annual honors for service on the football team to men who had won them.

Letters were awarded to McElroy, Van Epps, Hororsen, Young, Rowe, Jenkins, Worley, Peirce, Newhouse, Bisbell, Cunningham, Pulinham, Puffenberger, Norris, and ‘Manager and Assistant’ to Aradit and Thomas.

Swaters were given those of the men listed above who had either just won their first Letter, or were sensors and had played for their last time. These men were: Aradit, Bis-bell, Cunningham, Ethert, McElroy, Norris, Rowe, Thomas, Van Epps, Worley, and Worley.

Gold footballs were awarded to the men who were "Three letter men," or who had played on the Varsity for three years. McElroy, Norris, Rowe, Van Epps, and Worley were the men thus honored.

Freshman members were given to: Schenkel, W. Coti, Davis, Hulman, Hinoe, Kweld, McElroy, Robinson, Richardson, Smith, Sorrels, Stick, Stick, Templeton, Updegraff, and Brown. Franklin Managers Farghon, Jones, and Dungo also received them.

MRS. LORD HOSTESS TO SCIENCE CLUB

Short Meeting Held Completed By
Budge and Supper

Dr. and Mrs. Lord entertained the Science Club at bridge on Wednesday evening, February 9th. The bridge was preceded by a short business meeting of the club at which petitions for membership were read. The ev-inuing was then given over to progressive bridge, with Mrs. Lord, Redditt, Allen, Walton, Johnson and Couchman representing the Faculty. Mrs. Ward and Mrs. Walton assisted Mrs. Lord in serving a most delicious supper. The few fortunate members of the club who remained after the departure of the others had an opportunity to show their versatility with club bowls and to do away with the ornamental chocolate cake baked by Mrs. Lord.

Women at Northwestern University are tired of having the minor offices thrown to them as ‘sops’. They are going out to wrest control of campus politics from the men. Twenty-five of the twenty-five university sororities have banded together to fight the fra-ciliess, which, they charge, control all elections.

AND SO IT GOES

"No—" You boys don't know what college is! Now when I was in school back in the old days, we went to school! No radiators for us! We had to split our wood and light our own fires in the morning. Every time we decided to wash our faces we had to fetch our water from the pump. And English—Oh English, what a load of memories you recall. There wasn't any porcine in those days, son! And many a year we stayed on the Hill for a whole semester without scolding away to all part of the country every weekend. Why, a trip to Mt. Vernon was a journey, and now your autos — etc.

30 (Weekly):—Yes, sir.

STUDENT SUICIDES

Nov. Most Philosophy Students, End Life Since January 1st.
By New Student

With the suicide of J. Morgan Derr, Jr., twenty-year-old sophomore at the University of Rochester, the total of student suicides since January 1st reaches nine. Despondency over ill health and dissatisfaction with his marks in mid-year examinations caused Derr to end his life, according to J. Morgan Derr, Sr.

This suicide is closely linked with the first of the series, that of Riley Wile on January 2nd, as Derr and Wile were fraternity brothers and close chums. Riley Wile was son of Dr. Isa S. Wile, director of the Mt. Sinai Hospital mental clinic in New York.

Various reasons have been left by the student suicides. Wile left a note denouncing that he had read all the philosophy, that he 'couldn't see any use in it.' Another killed himself in order to resort to his fraternally brother the phenomenon of the spirit world. Another, a twenty-year-old freshman at James Milliken University (Illinois) declared to his room-mate the night before his death, "If I flunk out, I won't care to live. I'll never be able to go back home to face my parents." As in the Leopold and Loeb case, and other instances of unusual ungraduate behavior, many are engaged in adorning the moral to this student suicide epidemic.

The students lacked faith in the hereafter, in the 'present belief' in God, in the dignity of life," says President Daniel H. Marsh, Boston University. "It is an wonder students commit suicide," Bernard Iddings Bell, president of St. Stephen's College, commented.

"Knowledge and knowledge alone is almost certain to remove from man that courage which results from ignorance without substituting anything for it. Cowards are the besetting sin of our modern life. To be brave one must believe in something. Too much education takes away belief in love and hope, the ruling forces of the universe. Those who believe in nothing become the slaves of everything. If education is to be defined as the accommodation of man in his environment then it is more of a curse than a blessing."

A poor sense of balance resulting from lack of worldly experience is the basis of most of these student suicides, in the opinion of President Mark Donley of James Milliken University.

"A crisis appears which disturbs the vision and destroys the ability to see the relation of the present circumstances to the future. With a larger experience in life, the students would see such a failure as a more evident."

More in consonance with the facts is the opinion of Dr. Charles A. A. Monnict, professor of philosophy at Yale University, "I firmly believe each of the cases was an individual case," he is reported to have said "the outcome of personal troubles or deficiencies of which persons removed from the case cannot possibly be aware. I certainly do not believe there is any general allergy among young American students that would account for a number of deaths such as these."
