Those who have parts in it are J. B. Merrill, Waddington, Charles Howe, Fred Shoaf, Don Henning, and Dayton Wright.

K. M. A. ASSOCIATION ARRANGES GATHERING FOR COMMENCEMENT

After the Alumni luncheon last June, 26 members of the K. M. A. Association, largely the World War Military Art students, went to the University Club to hear a talk by Mr. M. A. St. Vil. At the end of the talk, Col. Elwin, Mr. M. A. St. Vil, was elected President of the Association and Fred H. Zinn, K. M. A. '96, Secretary and Treasurer. The following were named as Vice-Presidents: Karl Beinh, K. M. A. '93, I. C. Merrill, K. M. A. '93, Allemekin M. A. '95, Wm. P. Zinn, Joseph Andrews, Wm. N. Wyatt, K. '03 and George R. Blake.

The purpose of the Association is to bring together men who drifted apart in College and in later years, to reawaken interest in Kenyon in those who have no college affiliation.

The next meeting of the Association will probably be held in Gambier on the Sunday before commencement. It is planned that the members will dine and attend the baccalaureate service together. The leader of the assembly of the Kenyon choir has promised to be on hand with his title, and to bring with him the Kenyon bands and drummers. Dinner and church call will be attended by old academic bugler.

The date of the destruction of the records of the academy in the fire, 1816, has been found difficult to determine; there is nothing like a complete list of former members of the academy. All of K. M. A. who have not already done so are, therefore, asked to write to Dr. Colby, the secretary, 263 Gardner Building, Toledo, Ohio, and to add as well the names of any men who are not likely to see this notice.

COLLEGE HUMOR WILL SPONSOR ART CONTEST

Undergraduate Artists to Submit Drawings-Jan.

James Montgomery Flagg, dean of American Illustration, has consented to criticize and make personal comments to artists who submit drawings of exceptional merit to Kenyon publications and College Humor in the coming contest. Undergraduate artists may submit as many drawings as desired—on any subject, in color or black and white, with a limit of 15. Two other famous artists, Charles Dana Gibson and George Luks, will decide with Flagg on the winning eighty-one drawings.

For more than 37 years Flagg's drawings have appeared on the pages of the nation's leading magazines in America. His compositions and caricatures are eagerly sought by artists and collectors alike, and they are obtainable at any price. If you have not already done so, mail the following with your name and address:

Miss Merwin Sail Boats For Short Trip to France

Miss Merwin, principal of the Harcourt Place School, sailed for France on the N. Y. L. Coair, 9th December, 30. The object of Miss Merwin's trip is to accompany Miss Dalhousie, secretary of the class of '96, to Cannes where she will write articles.

The trip will be a short one for Miss Merwin as she plans to stay only long enough to establish Miss Dalhousie in school, and then return about the middle of January.
The season for Alumni gatherings in the various cities is now in full swing. The autumn meeting and dinner of the Alumni of the class of 1906 was held on December 3rd with thirty men present and Dr. Peirce as the guest of honor. Chicagoans will meet on December 16th, Dr. Peirce and Alumni will be in attendance. Cleveland will hold their dinner on December 14th, and Buffalo Alumni in January, probably followed by New York and Boston. Parties are being arranged throughout early February.

Up to date, the Alumni have been furnished to the local secretaries, so it is hoped that all Alumni will find naturally into territories where they are present an association will receive notice of such meetings and make an effort to attend. If one cannot obey that impulse to drop in on the college as often as he would like, the best substitute is for him to come to him in the person of Dr. Peirce or other representatives.

An eccentric young alumna writes from Chicago, warning us in the use in starting an association anywhere there, which is sure to happen to a surprisingly large number of Kenyon men. If all well-polling Alumni should think of organizing.

FRED ZIEN ADDS TO ALUMNI LIST
The Alumni list has been augmented with the presence of three new men by Fred H. Zinn, 31, Secretary of the Kenyon Alumni Club of Washington, D.C. These men were academic students who joined the Kenyon faculty. It is felt that many will welcome the opportunity to communicate with Alumni in Chicago.

Our inventory of records in the Alumni files of 1906, these names are presented here, even so, constitute a relatively small number of the possible total. Mr. Zinn deserves no end of credit for this difficult work.

NEW PLAN FOLLOWED IN ARRANGING NEWS
There follows a great leap of alumni news in a new dress, which should first find favor with the Alumni. The arrangement by classes supplanted the heterogeneous order which has been in use in selecting those of particular interest at all times.

The success of this method depends upon the interest of the alumni in sending to the Secretary news of themselves and the men they consider or find outstanding in the everyday course of events. When Kenyon men, the conversation usually develops into a series of questions as to what old classmates and associates are doing now. Help us to keep you informed about your friends.

It is the duty of each one of us to maintain and justify our reputation for conduct at the most critical times of our academic year. Such a meeting is expected to hear this responsibility as it approaches the end of the quarter. The Freshman must be taught to feel their obligation and to guard their tradition more highly than they do social and fraternal ties. Only a spirit that high can remain the pride of Kenyon men that it is today.

OUR MUSICAL FUTURE

For the second time in two years, Dr. H. R. Combs has brought a musical attraction of the first rank to the Hall, and so far as we can learn, itself the entire responsibility for the success of the ventures. Happily, the interest of the students and the "College Orchestra," in the Russian Symphony Chorus last year and in the current appearance of the Folsom Street Quartet has justified its broad presence, in the Russian Symphony Chorus last year and in the current appearance of the Folsom Street Quartet has justified its broad presence.

Dr. Combs now announces that after the strength of the previous showing, he has re-engaged the Russian for a concert in January 19th. It is hardly necessary to remind those men who heard the singers at the last concert, of the excellent program put upon the stage. The students have said many times, lately, when the subject of the group has come along to group name.

KENTON WORLD ENJOYS THREE MUSIC CONCERTS

Gambler society was present en masse at the opening of the current concert season. The initial concert was given under the auspices of the Combined Music Club of Mount Vernon. Mary Leslie, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, was the soloist. Her beautiful voice and pleasing stage presence immediately won the applause of the audience.

The Russian Octet, piano, appeared at Noon Hall Tuesday evening. In this concert was made possible through the generosity of the Friends of the Arts Association of Barrack Place School.

The last concert was on the night of Tuesday, Dec. 6, 1927. The cream was drawn from the Rosenthal, Horne, Mirineck and Anski group, by Alfred Rosenthal, the second violinist of the quartet.

The final selection was especially well received by the students. Compared in three parts, each of which was taken from the music of different nationalities, the entire suite carried with it the primitive, barbaric rhythm of octaves.

INTRODUCING--

This is the third of a series of character sketches which the Collegian will present this year.

THAT'S THE TROUBLE WITH THIS PRESENT GENERATION: Little college boys can't understand a few simple sentences.

STUDY YOUR LESSONS. Now Mr. H., present indicative of antebib-- Oh it's a nice day, isn't it? How much time did you put on your lesson, Mr. H.?--Well you certainly couldn't tell it from your childish book. Mr. H.,--suppose you try... Now Mr. G., can you translate that into your Russian language? In three minutes in the class that can do this simple little thing? You men will NOT study your lessons. Here'll be about four men left after the next examination. The men of today simply cannot get anything into their heads.

Mr. L., the third person plural, perfect subjunctive of the same verb. What language is that I said the third person--so it isn't reh, reh. Not.

BOOKS

James Gould Cozzens, the author of "Michael Scarlett," expresses satisfaction that work with his novelistic novel. It is in its sole respect that the story falls short of excellence. The novel Cozzens does not present a uniformly faithful picture of the ten years of the sixteenth century. It is a delightful one, but other and more authentic records fail to verify it. There are one or two anachronisms of time to be found in the story, but they are of minor importance and do little to upset the scheme of the plot.

I have deliberately voiced all my objections to this tale at the outset, in order that I may devote myself wholly to the praise which I believe "Michael Scarlett" to merit. The reader will find much in this novel to please him, but chiefly he will be filled with admiration and pleasure by the mastery and command which Cozzens has over the spoken idiom of Elizabethan England. The theme and story are notable for their harmonious elegance and for the magnificence of their obviously glor-prepared, hey? Nothing unusual, Mr. L., nothing unusual.

Mr. D.--what's that you said? "GOOHEAVENS, Haven!" I told you to think what you're saying time and time again. You read of today simply will not constitute; what's the good of coming to class? Mr. H.--you don't do anything when you get here. What? You were sick? Well if one little word makes you sick, what would you do if you were two? Is anybody here today?

You men get your data in the sciences somehow? Why can't you do it here? You don't know how to study; you don't focus. I'll give you a chance to make a "3" in the next test; just study the verbs and the vocabulary. Oh, you do Mr. S.--just like the rest of the present generation, YOU WILL NOT.

Last month, Dr. W. P. (Pete) Reeves--

OPINION

SHOULD WE DEBATE AT KENYON

Three years ago, through the initiative of Dr. Reeves and interested students, the Student Debating Club at Kenyon College was organized. This club proved successful only so far as the debates themselves were continued. Participation in three inter-collegiate debates held to date has been negligible. What happened? Upon the negative, we shall hazard the guess that for the purpose of recognition, the matter had to be developed by some means.

However, interest did not die, for at present there are studies such that a large number of students are anxious for the organization of a debating society. The college should provide such a body, for it would be necessary to make this wish a reality.

Here are some students who wish to participate in forensic work, but, who will coach them, and will the Kenyon movement recognize the movement if it is inaugurated? Would it be posible for the concrete to set aside a paltry sum—paltry in comparison with the football budget—which would give Kenyon a chance to meet other Ohio colleges and perhaps some extra-Ohicolleges in this activity on an equal footing?

Kenyon will never have a good football team unless it is built. It is impossible to get twenty, or even, or eight football types from a small institution of Kenyon's caliber. This college can never hope to contend with the densely populated football colleges about her. Why not sponsor a movement in which Kenyon may have equal chances with Oberlin College, Wesleyan or even that mammoth Ohio State? Perhaps the fire from Gambier to-gether will be able to lick the eastern institutions also...A. V. S.

PRESIDENT PEASE, OF AMHERST;
DEFINED AIDS OF EDUCATION

Because it is an uncommonly fine statement of the aims of a liber education, we print part of the inaugural address of President Pease, the newly installed president of Amherst. The following was taken from the New York Times:

"There is then the vocation of a liberal college to fit men for life by furnishing them facts and opinions in convenient packages ready for use, nor is it permissible here to teach his croil's work in after-life should lie in some field in which they have given him no direct instruction. What the community demand—must we condo, if it is to justify its existence and fulfill the hopes of its friends? to be alert in thought and speech, to think aright? I do not mean that there should be no opposite of opinions which the college (as represented by its teachers or officers or student body, or some of them) accepts, but rather ability to accommodate and to draw from them conclusions which are logically sound. "In every college course there must be a large place given to the sequention of facts. The all-important thing is that by doing in a single piece of work, the student should develop the ability in creative and controlled data; should learn to coordinate, subsystem-ate and logically intercede them; should be competent to respect the righting principles boldly set on facts, but in calling both them, emotionally and intrinsically, as transfiguring that of the facts alone; and, finally, should be simulta-eous to respect an enthusiasm of work of patient and precise observation, over-passing generation and flesh, of expres-son, whether it own or that of others."

VAGABONDING AT KENYON

A short time ago the person who is giving of this column was asked if a course was being offered this year on which he could lose himself, and to formally enter this course, which will take him away from the immediateness of the college. Accordingly, he sought persuasion of the professor in charge of the class to attend the lectures and behave with the students in the class, without taking any active part in the course, and with the wish of the professor to receive any college credit for his

When Xerxes wept

THE great Persian ruler gazed from a hilltop upon his vast army of a million men. It was the largest army that had ever existed.
And he turned away with tears in his eyes because in a hundred years all trace of it would be gone. That army was a symbol of power, destructive and transient.

Today in one machine, now being built in the General Electric shops, there is combined the muscular energy of two million men. This great machine, a steam turbine, is also a symbol of power—a new power that is consistent and permanent.

Its unprecedented size, a record in construction of such machines, is a pledge to the people that the electrical industry is on the march, ever on the alert to supply plenty of electricity
at a low cost to all.

BEXLEY NOTES

THE BEXLEY SOCIETY ORGANIZES
Up to the present time the organization of the student body of Bexley has been rather haphazard. The constitution to draw up was by the "Student Assembly" but did not definitely define the duties of the officers. The undergraduates realized this fact and have increased the potentiality of each student by establishing a system of self-government, the principles of which are embodied in the following Constitution.

Article I
1. Provision for the common welfare of the students of Bexley Hall.
2. Provision for the enforcement of those self-governing privileges accorded to the students by the College authorities.
3. Provision for the maintenance of the prestige of Bexley Hall, the development of loyalty and affection for the institution, reverence for its traditions and the principles of high scholarship and right living among its members.

The new constitution was presented at the Faculty Meeting on Thursday, November 17, at which time it was duly and formally adopted. The name -The Bexley Society- became at once the official appellation. The new code provided for the following officers necessary to complete the organization:

1. Executive. This is composed of the President (R. Ralph Higgins), Vice President (Herbert W. South), Secretary and Treasurer (John D. Zimmermann), and the Committee:
   - Athletic Committee--Donald O. Clark, Chairman. The duties of this committee is to provide adequate athletic facilities for the students.
   - House Committee--Marvin M. Himes, Chairman. The duties of this committee is to see that the rules and regulations are kept and to see that St. Mary's Chapel is kept in a manner befitting the character of the students.
   - Music and Service Committee--Marvin M. Himes, Chairman. The duties of this committee is to be in charge of the chapel and to maintain the maximum attendance at the services.
   - Publicity Committee--W. W. Sperry, Chairman. The duties of this committee is to provide for an effective program of publicity for the advancement of the institution. In accordance with the present Code of Student Conduct, the policies of the Society are formulated by an Executive Committee. Other committees direct the contact and general conduct of the Society and the several branches of the society work through the Bexley Journal, official organ of the organization.

The Bexley Journal. The Bexley Journal, the official organ of Bexley Hall, made its initial appearance on Monday, December the Twelfth.

The publication of a new magazine is always a venture of faith. There must be faith on the part of those producing it that they are able to carry on the work satisfactorily; there must be faith that their effort will be received with consideration and approval by those who read and who contribute to support the undertaking. In bringing forth this magazine, the Journal Board has that faith, both in itself and in the readers. We believe in Bexley Hall, in the whole-hearted enthusiasm of her students for their ability and in the constant interest and good will of her alumni.

The Journal is to be more than a seminary newspaper or an alumni bulletin; it is to be the embodiment of the spirit of Bexley, the official organ of the Bexley Society.

Our first number is dedicated to the memory of Mrs. Emerson, whose personality makes the publication possible. May all our friends join us in paying tribute to this great and noble woman committed to the good of the institution of God and to spread through the world the spirit of love and mercy she had confidence in Bexley, may the seminary be worthy of her trust, use her gift well, and labor more and more effectively for the welfare of mankind.

The following are the contributors to the first issue of the Journal:

Orville Dunsdon, B.A., professor of New Testament in Bexley Hall, G. F. Specie, professor of Religious Education, The Chaplain; Dean of Students; W. A. Somerville, Dean of Students; R. Ralph Higgins, President of the Bexley Society; and a member of the class of 1884 in Bexley Hall, Ernest X. Risley, a member of the Class of 1880 in Bexley Hall, John D. Zimmerman, a member of the Class of 1889 in Bexley Hall, Maurice A. Potter, Professor of Religious Education for the Diocese of Southern Ohio.

THE BEXLEY JOBS MAKE MERRY
One of the really smart affairs of the winter social season in Gambier occurred when the Junior Class of Bexley Hall entertained the Faculty, Seniors, and Members of the Diuity School, the Postulants at Kenyon, and the heads of the divisions at a dance held at the Woodland Inn on the evening of November 6. Herculaneum Odell and Denison University very kindly loaned some of their staff to make the evening complete. Dr. and Mrs. William R. Peirce, Miss Brooks, Miss White and the Reverend and Mrs. Bailey were guests.

The evening was spent by the frivolous in dancing, by the faculty in playing bridge, and by the intelligentsia in playing cards. The success of the party was due to the energetic work of the whole Junior Class under the direction of their president, Mr. John Pattie, and the committee chairman, Mr. Benedict Wilcox, a member of the Class of 1884.

Delectable rhythms in the newest interpretation of synchronization were furnished by Mr. "Rosie" Harquie and his side assistants.

The Facilities consisting of punch and wafers were on hand throughout the evening—luckily there was no free beer!}

The nation is now really to take up on itself the strenuous task of worrying about the forthcoming presidential election. The tremendous event which has initiated the possibility of any attention being paid to matters of more national politics is now a matter of history.

But one will ever forget the great G_UPPER election of 1927, however. Its result is indelibly impressed upon the annals of time. For several months, an understanding of intrigue and entanglement was perceptible, but only those who were on the knave were equipped to give definite information on the subject—and the home refused to divulge any of the secret machinations of party politics. During the month of October and the early parts of November this soothing uncertainty of suspense and secrecy was fanned by the proximity of its culmination into a

THIRTY MEN FOR BASKETBALL FLOOR

Approximately thirty men answered Coach Evans’ call for basketball candidates two weeks ago. Among this number are six of last year’s letter men, including Captain Rollo Dancey, Muir, Newhouse, Polkman, Johnson, and Walling. Early practice indicates that the Kenyon quartet takes the floor against Ashland at Gambier on December 14th in their first intercollegiate game of the 1927-1928 season, a strong team will represent the Purple.

The main cog in this year’s team will be Biggs, a former Buckeye, and Muir at forwards, and Newhouse and Polkman at guards. At the present time Myron Robinson, former Canton McKinley High School star, gives promise of becoming the one to all-timers. In in the center. Van Rppe, captain of last year’s team, was the only man to be lost by graduation, and there are many who think that Robinson may even surpass that brilliant player before the season expires.

Other seasoned veterans ready to step into the breach at any minute include Johnson, Walling and Dancey, while Polkman and Randeem seem to be the class of last year’s freshman aggregation. The rest of the squad includes Brown, Clappinger, Davison, Rinehart, C. L. Morris, J. L. Merrill, Puffenberger, Scherr, Simmons, Sprankle, Updegrove, and Wootz, and the unit with which the entire squad is working will give Coach Evans, former Kenyon captain and all-conference guard, a fine opportunity to build an excellent team.

KENYON NEARLY DEFEATS MT. UNION

The 1927 football season was terminated by a brilliant dash of the Purple against the strong Mt. Union team in Alliance on November 23rd. For the entire first half and most of the second half Kenyon clung to the Alliance outfit that had boasted of a forty-point victory the night before the game. It was only in the fourth quarter, when the advantage of capable substitutes became apparent, that Kenyon was forced to bear the brunt of a 19-3 score.

During the entire first half the Kenyon team played Mt. Union off their feet. Puffenberger’s knees keeping Mt. Union out of scoring territory. At the half, Kenyon was ahead 6-0 as a result of Puffenberger’s beautiful forty-yard dash off tackle and through a broken field. It was not until the end of the third quarter that the Mountain succeeded in pushing across their initial score. From then on the eleven men who went through the last two games without a substitution were unable to stem the frantic thumps of the desperate Mt. Union team. The Mounts scored twice in the fourth quarter, making the score 19-6 in their favor.
