KNOX COUNTY ALUMNI PRESIDENT DIES

William C. Armstrong, '37, A Life-Long Resident Of Mount Vernon

William G. Armstrong, '97, president of the Alumni Association of Knox County, died New Year's Day at his home in Mount Vernon, after an illness of several weeks. Death was due to pneumonia.

Mr. Armstrong, who was purchasing agent for Mount Vernon Bridge Company, was the son of a pioneer Knox county family. His father managed one of the first grocery stores in Mount Vernon.

He was a vestryman of St. Paul's Episcopal Church and a member of several branches of the Masonic Order.

Before entering Kenyon, he was graduated from Kenyon Military Academy. In college he became a member of a Phi Epsilon chapter.

Although Woodruffe was never chosen after the first few minutes, the game was a thrilling one for the spectators, for both teams were cautious in order to score a few more points. Court

Mr. Armstrong is survived by his wife, Mrs. Marguerite Darby, and two children.

75TH ANNIVERSARY

Although the Collegian has been actually published during only sixty-seven school years, 1851 marks its anniversary. The staff considers it a privilege if only a fraction of its readers will be able to publish the event of its anniversary, this is not the least bit of its existence.

The history of the Collegian is an interesting study for several of its existences are particularly enlightening. It first appeared in 1885. Nearly twenty years before it had been projected by President S. W. Babson. But for some reason the project was abandoned and failed to reach the public. So the editors of the Collegian were able to take advantage of the efforts of the students of 1885. But not until 1888 did it appear in an official college organ. In its first year it included news of the school, sports, and society events. In its second year it included new of the school, society events, and sports events. In its third year it included news of the school, society events, and sports events.

We have endeavored to publish the truest account of our school's past and the editors of the Collegian are proud of their achievements.
