FRATERNITIES HOLD INITIATIONS

April-One Men Taken In to Active Membership

Saturday night, Oct. 19, marked the initiation of forty-one men into the national and local fraternities on the Hill. As usual, the initiation ceremonies at the fraternities were followed by song and gain. Approximately forty-two alumni were back in town for homecoming, and several other guests as well.

The general atmosphere of the day was augmented both by the weather which was mild and bright, and the opposition, Capital, in both Homecoming football games, which obligingly went down in defeat. Kenyon's first Homecoming outing in several years.

Other events of the day included a general gathering of undergraduates and alumni, and noon, with all the tables filled in the Great Dining Hall. The names of several men were among the short address, as well as an Alumni Committee Meeting.

Following is a list of the Initiates:

Along with the rest of the country, Kenyon has given an unusual amount of time to Indian problems in the last few weeks. This is as it should be. The year's presidencies have given the Kenyon man an excellent opportunity to learn about the political organization and issues of his country. This information can be obtained in a number of ways: The Republic, the student newspaper, is now carrying more and more educational material on the subject.

The course is not the panacea for political issues. This does not excuse the man to sit on the fence and watch the situation from a distance. However, the opportunity to learn about political issues is a precious one. Kenyon students have the ability and the interest to learn about the country's political problems. This information can be used to make more informed decisions in the future.

Kenyon has had the opportunity of being in a position to influence the political climate. This is not to say that all political movements are necessarily beneficial, but it is important to understand the issues and to participate in the discussion. Kenyon students have the opportunity to learn about the political climate and to make informed decisions in the future.

By ROSSE HALL

With this issue, the Chieftain introduces its new columnist. You may look forward to a column by Rosse Hall in each new issue of the paper.

First passage as the pilot of a literary cruise such as this, striking the black and blue of the Ohio, we all know that the ride makes comprehensible to the reader the sensations and exhilaration, experienced, possibly, by a drunkard looking up resort hotel windows, above the milling millions of Cincinnati, or of you with its sister city of New York. Do you follow the theme. I believe, is Brother Beery, a man of saying, "Don't ask it, nor", the exclamation, a result of the freedom I shall enjoy to discuss the twin? Ah, that's your affair, mates. With a cast of characters, in a long journey, "the feeling" together with any sense of direction; then we shall have a feeling of the river which sheaves from the eyes of personality, "Manor, scandal, cinema, humid, and politics, drawing, still from the water of each; O.K. Times, Tribune, Sun, and Daily, and by the way, steward, when does the last operate?"

In addition to a visit to the Keeneland, our white sister to the North lies on a level with that of the Ohio with points of regret. No more does she cast pale shadows over the heavens of the same lines in screen, below the season's catch of the suspensio, and complete, or so to drop the "drop" in younger blood. She, too, her face immobile in death as in its last effort, you largely survive.

In using the false masculinity equals worldliness, regards whatever you think of the false in manhood, men at Keeneland have gone for away in the realm of sadness, as do so, so that traditions in the natural amplifications during the current season have a strange and closer resemblance in a modern meeting of pastures Oriental, awaiting Bohemian, to follow through the other. We have reached the poor conclusion that there is a decided drop in the men's store with each show of sanction.

What makes us imagine that we, like women patriotic, are witnessing the greatest of the era? And, that the show is for our benefit? It is necessary to see the ballroom employed by performers of stage-played night, but open up, Cincinnati. The future's letting the screen last year.

Mr. Beery draws upon possess a special direction, and goes farther to prove the contention that no occasion is better times in its inner look-up with the affairs of the several of those "God's children" but expands the idea in another flight of the Memorial. The picture was "Great Minds", one of which Crawford parish, the art of the早点 Berry. Turning to a long solution, slightly that of the sun set the day through a path that is follow. "Boy, ain't she a hoker in that sorta get-up, you know, sorta low in frame. And amuck in the world, what's she doing? Oh well.

The proprietors of Columbus' best and the Southerner have got a bold job last Sunday morning upon the ballroom. For the brave in room 108. Claire and Ted looked like they might have been put through the strong-standards test for brilliancy. All because five of ten or 20 young men got together.

I understand that Fred had to pay ten dollars for the room of Roses.

Hall, I see that the devil is still in the hands of the traitor, however. And now with the President's Habeas run off, are you quite satisfied to return to talk of white people, men, and politics again? The campaign was mentally a bit tense throughout the race, which was held on a muddy track, by the way, yet somewhat gained at the coverages of the two horses, railling Frank, a 3-year-old gelding who whizzed on the road.

Well, main, let's get to work until another day.

Popular, too, any party having ex- pressed power to be dispensed with, to keep itself, to become conservative. The parading and singing of the documents as they conducted the body of James into the Pantheon caused a split between the Radicals and the Socialists. It is the larger middle-class group from public education, that forms the backbone of the Radical-Socialists. (For example, no doubt, are the majority of the afternoon readers in Progress, Demo- crazy, Franklin.)

The lecture largely general and mathematical. Mr. Fay knew better, audiences rather well.

FAY SMITH, Reporter
OTTERBEIN DEFECTS KENYON

The defeat of the Kenyon boys by the team from Wittenburg was quite a surprise for everyone. From the very start of the game it was apparent that the Blue and White team was superior; their attack was stronger, and their defense was tighter. Two of the Otterbein players, Francis and Tritsch, were more responsible for the outcome than any other factor. Francis’ drive was allowed to develop and his passing was really remarkable in its accuracy, its distance, and its slipperiness on their off-tackle plays, and a corresponding score.

During the course of the game, Kenyon made eleven first downs, while Otterbein managed to total seven. Several times it seemed that they were on the verge of scoring, but not by ability, but by over-imaginative play on the part of our own. The Kenyon team would put over several first downs in a row in a better showing of the field, but when they got into Otterbein territory, the plays failed to click, and the expediency of the attack was ruined.

The game was characterized by a great deal of fancy, none of which resulted in a score by either team. Usually they say that the boys are over-trained at present, and that he is allowing them to run for the first part of this week, holding no practices. This will, in all probability, help them to make a better and more consistent showing next week, according to the report.

R. Dumas turned out to be quite a good defensive line, and was a great defensive game, and leaving very little to be desired on the offensive. This was his first game in college competition, and despite his lack of experience, he had not only held his own, but showed up to advantage a man nearly twice his own size, and nearly twice as heavy as his own weight. Hamman, too, was at his best. He is expected to be very strong for a short time, and Hamman, with a strong line behind him, was able to shed off Karl Kayser, with the added incentive of his parents’ presence, and to keep the ground speed as well as he could, for he made several big gains and helped to bring runs to the opposite side of the field.

There were several injuries in this game. Critchfield, who held back his right leg, was able to match the same fashion as did Kayser, received a knee injury, and a beautiful dinner, which is now served around the campus. Garfield and Torrence, both on the Varsity, sustained some tendons pulled in his finger. MacNamee hurt that shoulder in the early part of the game, and was partially incapacitated for the remainder of the time.

KENTON COLLEGIAN

HOMECOMING GAME
A KENYON VICTORY

Kenyon scored on easy victory over the boys from Columbus in its first home game this year. The score was not a true indication of the ease with which Capital was defeated at the Home Coming struggle, as it was only 7 to 0. The superiority of the home team was more than evident in a comparison of Karl Kayser, who made sixteen to two for Capital, and there were none made on Kenyon till the last quarter, when the unskilled guards scrambled and played on an off tackle play.

The play was almost entirely in the territory of the Columbus and only once did they get beyond our forty yard line. The home goal was never in serious danger from the attacks of the Capital men.

The game, as a whole, was rather dull and anti-climactic. The only more of the game was made within the first few minutes, and there were no major thrills during the remaining time of the game.

First Quarter

Kenyon made the initial kick-off, far down into Capital territory. Capital succeeded in making a few yards on its first play, but fumbled on the second. When the play cleared away, it was found that Hamman had recovered for Kenyon. A final breaking off tackle run, and the ball was almost on the goal line. MacNamee went thru the guard for a touchdown with miraculous ease. The place kick, executed by Wood, was touched by the center of the Capital team, but slogged him and went over for the extra point. Kenyon kicked again and then had Capital deep in their own territory for the down. There was an exchange of punts, and MacNamee advantageously to no end, and the quarter soon ended without further excitement.

Second Quarter

In this period the Capital play seemed to be working a little more smoothly and at first they managed to gain some ground. This rally was soon broken up by the practically incomparable defense of the Bobcats. The Columbus team succeeded in keeping the ball in midfield and slightly in our territory for the whole of the period. One of the plays which was especially good, although it did not work the first time it was tried, was a power play around right end, and the play was stopped in the lead by the Kenyon right end. Before, who came in from behind to catch the ball carrier. This play was boosted up a lot more and tried again there might have been a score marked up for Capital.

A great many substitutes characterized this quarter, which ended on the forty yard line.

Third Quarter

This time the kick-off was made by Capital, and started out in much the same manner as did the first quarter. Kenyon touched the ball on the first-play, and it was Capital’s ball on the twenty-five yard line. Then after the Kenyon line rescued itself and the ball tended towards the linemen. MacNamee punted off, but the ball was ruled in no-field, a punting play was carried on but neither touch line was touched by either side. Although Capital made several first downs in this quarter, they were never in a scoring position, and nothing materialized.

Fourth Quarter

Capital started out with the determination not to allow the teams to make a touchdown. They succeeded in making their first ten yard advance of the game, when they fumbled a series of rushes. In desperation they resorted to a passing attack and completed their first try for another first down. The second pass, was intercepted, however, and it looked like the game was over. A surprise was in store for the Bobcats, as Kenyon also began a passing attack, and held the ball as long as possible. The first pass was good, but the second was stopped by Capital. The ball traded hands several times during the last few minutes of the game, but no one made any serious threats on the other’s goal. Capital succeeded in bringing the ball to our thirty-five yard line, but could get no closer before the game closed. Final score Capital 8, Kenyon 7.
