INQUIRING REPORTER

Because of current demand, the last copy of "The Reporter" was printed last week.

Q: Who will win the President's race and why?
A: Francis Paulsen, Democrat, and A. D. Harris, Republican, are the two main candidates. But, to be frank, I don't have a vote for either. I'm a liberal Democrat, and I'm for "White Fang.""

A Don "The Jasper" McNeil, Pong-Pong Player: "I'm with the "Red" team, and I'm going to vote for McNeil. I just can't stand a Democrat."

A: "White Fang, butou, butou. Butou!"

RELATIONS CLUB ADMITS TWELVE MEN

Weeks, Hughes, Elevated Delegates To Ohio Valley Convention.

Twelve new members were admitted into the International Relations Club at the meeting last Friday evening, in the presence of President Peirce. Weekes officially welcomed the new members and explained the aims and objectives of the club. The new men were also informed that the club was a unit of an organization of international, as well as of a national character, there being many clubs throughout the United States, in Europe and other countries.

W. F. Weeks, '38, John D. Hughes, '36, and John D. Hughes, '36, were named as delegates to the Ohio Valley District Convention to be held at Bexley, Kansas, on the weekend of November 1st. Following the business meeting, the club entertained its recent visitors in Spinks. John D. Hughes gave a summary of the background of the conference which the club entertained its recent visitors in Spinks. John D. As a feature of the combined Dad's and High School Day, the Kenyon team will meet the Otterbein eleven Saturday, November 7, at 7:30 p.m. on the field.

Five seniors will be wearing the Purple for the last time on Kenyon field. They are Captain Tony T. Taylor, "orienteer"; Jack Warner, "normal"; Howard Foy and Fred Winslow, "law and order"; Paul Millikan, "in town"; and Frank Marks, "back up planer." The team will be falling to make their last appearances on the home field and victory, so the fans can profit by the games.

The Otterbein team was a real surprise to the Kenyon fans. They were fundamentally primary and lateral passers by the Kenyon defense, and put a lot of work into the Lambert system. The Honors System Inhoned

The honors system has been in effect for a year now. How has it worked? What were its objectives? Have we started on the road to the attainment of those objectives, and if so, how far along the road have we come on the future? These are a few of the questions that arose in the minds of many students and faculty members.

The objectives of the honors system were three:

1. To enable and encourage students to achieve greater

scholarly achievement.

2. To reinforce the importance of critical

thinking.

3. To promote a

program of

continuing education.

The system was designed to provide incentives for achievement

and to foster a spirit of scholarship among students.

The system is based on the idea that students should be encouraged to take

additional courses and

to pursue areas of

interest beyond the

requirements of their

majors.

The system includes

the following components:

1. A merit based

system for awarding

scholarship money.

2. An honor system

that recognizes

students for outstanding achievements.

3. A continuing

education program

that encourages

students to pursue

graduate study.

The system has been successful in achieving its objectives. Students have achieved greater

scholarly achievement,

and there is a greater

emphasis on critical

thinking.

However, the system

has also had some

problems. Some

students have not

seen the value of the

honors system, and

some have been

inconsistent in their work.

INTELLECTUAL effort sap nervous energy — and often interfere with digestion. But Camels are not, dear. During and after meals, enjoy Camels for digestion, for theyasm never get on your nerves or tire your taste.

LOU MEYER — WINNER OF INDIANAPOLIS AUTO CLASSIC. Sandwich in one hand and his Camel in the other, Lou shows little strain of the 200-mile grind. Here's an epic example of how Camels at meals and after aid digestion — encourage a sense of well-being. In Lou Meyer's own words: "I'll hand it to Camels. They make my food taste better — help it digest easier. As long as I have a Camel, I know I'm headed for a swell feeling of well-being. Another thing, Camels don't grate my nerves."

A big musical film rolls around today and Saturday. "Pickwick Parade" is the title. Fortunately it departs from the current 'Hungry in film to fill great reviving music with girls and a sym- phonie orchestra, play some popu- lar tunes. Football on the grand scale is the major theme of this film, and the songs which make the picture musical are cleverly worked in without slowing the story. For a combination of good football playing, catchy tunes, and a story of outs — we suggest seeing this film. With it are shorts enti- tled "Happy You, Merry Me" and "Musical Chimes."

Over the weekend "Labeled Lady" holds our attention at the Vana, Spencer Tracy, Myrna Loy, and William Powell are the big three in this new, plus Jean Harlow who is an attraction all by herself in our way of thinking. We don't need to tell you anything more about this picture. You know it good.
