"MIGHTY LITTLE KENYON" TAKES CINGY
CAVALRY TWICE IN BLOODY BATTLE

1000 See Trainer Escape Serious Injury When Players Crash

It took "mighty little Kenyon" to break the winning streak of the Cincinnati Cavalry riders who with 18 wins and 22 losses faced such teams as Yale, Cornell, Colvin, Detroit, Pittsburgh, and Lehigh.

With James Garland Stewart, Michigan's mayor and Kenyon alumnus, 62, tossing the ball into the arena at the beginning of the first period Wednesday, the Kenyon trio of Trainer, Eberman and Meinlein slanted out on what proved to be their toughest battle this season. A record crowd of over 2,000 thousand spectators saw a Kenyon team on the short end after the first period, only to come back in the last two periods. Three goals were scored by each team during the meantime. The equation was kept Cincinnati in the lead, 63-4, Eberman playing opposite Cincinnati's strongest defense whatbekindler in the first two periods but caught on to his opponent's tricky strategy and nipped him down during the remainder of the game. The final score of 22-22 is the last chance in the last clunker, 18/16.

Saturday's game was a bloody encounter. The home was packed and it witnessed a game marked by rough tactics, dirty playing, bloody noses, reckless riding (and Continued on Page 4)

Dress Rehearsal
Near For Cast
Of "First Legion"

Students will be admitted free to the performance of "The First Legion" which the Dramatic Club will give on March 9 in the Phi Kappa hall. This is in accordance with an arrangement made last year whereby in return for financial support from the Student Assembly, all undergraduates are admitted to every play presented by the Dramatic Club members.

Tickets for all others will cost thirty cents each. However, no one, whether paying or not, will be entitled to a reserved seat. Rehearsals are going on with the players working on the ticket .

Kenyons International Relations club after a successful intellectual and social round of activities at Lake Erie college plans retaliation by playing host to the young lads of that school. The executive committee of the Kenyon chapter is circulating pieces which will include dinner and an afternoon session on the Saturday following. After the business session an evening banquet and an informal function will conclude the activities. Twenty-five members of the Lake Erie chapter will be invited.

On April 4 and 5 the club will have as its guest, Frank O. Darvill, noted English publicist, who will speak on the British Foreign Policy and the German question. Besides being a prominent London publicist, Mr. Darvill is a lecturer on International Relations at Cambridge University in England. As a politician affiliated with the Liberal Party.

James Heath, president of the Kenyon chapter, invites members to attend the meeting, February 27, at 8:00 p.m., in the house of the international "important" basinets will be discussed and full cooperation of every member is necessary to make the activities of the club successful.

RIDING IS PART OF INTRAMURAL

The first week in March has been set aside for the Intramural riding contest. Each participating division must enter at least four entry forms. The riders will be judged in groups and as individuals who will be rated to the four best in individual riders. The maximum number of points a group can obtain for perfect performance is fifty points.

PRE-MED GROUP
INVITES MEMBERS

Applications for membership in the Pre-Medical Club are now being invited. Applications are based on their average in Science grades and their class in college. They also must be pre-medical students. Applications in writing should be turned in to E. L. Sherry, South Hanna, on or before Monday, February 28.

Juniors tell account how they hold the records of present scholarship holders, and considered the applications of those wishing scholarships. Also, there have been four new scholarships added to the list, and eight posse holders will receive raises in the scholarships they now hold.

Dr. C. M. Coffin, head of the committee, remarked that a scholarship is "a reward for intellectual achievement, and not simply a grant, to an otherwise deserving student. He added that a student with a 2.0 average who shows that his general attitude is favorable and has definite need, added a promise made by the members of the scholarship, with good references of repentence people, is eligible for a scholarship. The Dr. Coffin also stressed that the point who is made to a 2.4 or better average will not automatically receive a scholarship, but must fulfill the requirements stated above.

As a point of interest, it may be added that the Junior scholarship holders lead the school with the average grade of 1.74. The Frenc

Jitney Players Will Present "Rivals" Here

Sheridan's famous comedy "The Rivals" will be presented in Gamber on March 22 by a professional company. This announcement was made today by Dr. W. H. Blake, head of the Department of Speech which is sponsoring the event.

In a performance which will be a direct tribute to Shakespeare's immortal work, Sheridan's comedy, the famous Jitney Players will bring to Gamber the first professional production of "The Rivals." GI's troupe, traveling in repertory, will bring a quality of performance not often enjoyed inside the metropolitan areas.

There will be one performance of "The Rivals." That is Sunday evening, March 26! Admission will be free.

SENIORS' NOTICE!

You may not be a Tarzan, you may not be a Lou Gehrig, but you all have a chance to show your stuff in the T. K. A. speech contest this week.

You pour costly spoils may creep out from the minds of others who hit each other with self-made and self-adept a speech, you admire. To be shojk down and made with the nible long enough to specialize in it, in every way, we had to give him opportunity to do his stuff before an audience who really will appreciate his efforts. The audience last year showed that the contest is very popular, so why hold back your knowledge? Lead in your entry to T. K. A. and sling along with the rest of the boys.

Dear Whoever-You-Are:

Do not be discouraged if some sour-puss (indicant Kenny patron) attenuates the form, but it is important that I should hear your opinion of the majority of the students-the intelligent but not too constractive criticism, for this is exactly what we want.

Yours for some successful results,

Last week saw about the last in- tramural basketball games before the final, which is to be played for the championship, between the Mu Kaps and the Betas, which will probably take place Thursday.

In the first game of the night, Phi Big defeated Pail U, 32-14. In this game the high scorers were, for their respective teams, Jones with six, and Reed with five.

In the second game Saturday night, Delta, 18-14. Michael with seven points, for Middle Kenny, and Mc-

Collough, 15a with eight, were scoring leaders.

In the twenty-second, moved out East Wing in the closest of the week's contests, 19-17. Lewis and Caven-

The last game was North Hanxa to the tune of 10-10. As Amato piled up twenty points, this game was starved for Hanxa, but for the losers.

Inspired Ball, Holds Wooster

Undaunted by the 25-point lead which the Scoff the Winds, present Ohio Conference lead- ers, held over them at the half- time of the game played at Woos- ter last Saturday night, Kenny's Lords staged a second half rally which not only turned them into Wooster's 17 and gave them the game, but it was in the second half that the "Lords" emerged the victor with a 44-45 lead.

As might have been expected the names of the stars of the game go to Prussolin of Wooster, noted for his scoring ability, who dropped in fourteen points and those of the "Lords" for a total of 25 points. Gerald "Jug" Roder, displayed a beautiful blend of ball against the term, but the boys for the Lords, with 15 points, piled on a little bottle of the Purple with 13.

Why, Yes, Pongo!

It is eight-thirty and Pongo and I am sitting in our room. I have been here the whole day studying until I look up at the clock and realize that it is practically time for a reading a popular magazine.

Well Pongo, I ask, aren't you studying? Nothing to study, I reply, I'm going to turn you on my magazine. Don't you have any classes tomorrow, I ask. No, replies Pongo, three classes.

Now you can't tell me that your professors have assigned any of the work you have to do for you. They assign it, all right, affirms Pongo, fourteen pages of translation, for my right class, and a half chapter for my nine o'clock, and a quiz for my eleven o'clock.

I am surprised, I tell him, that all this work all day you have nothing to study. Simple, says Pongo casually, put your nose to the grindstone. I say, I am going to study this way. If I study for my first class, then I have a study for my quiz at eleven o'clock, and then I'll bluffer. But if I study for my first class and bluffer, then I'll study for my second class, hence, If I do that, I can't study for my first two classes. And, if you try to study for all of my classes, then the point of going to it in just to ruin my memory. I have enough time to do this, you see, so all my classes, Pongo? So if I don't go to my first two classes tomorrow morning, I'll have enough time to study for my quiz tomorrow, and that's the reason I have nothing to study now.

That doesn't make sense, I say, on one hand you don't have to be enough for this and, on the other hand you have more time than you can use. That, comments Pongo, is the most rudimentary of the mis.

Well, I say, why don't you study for one class and see what it would be that you wouldn't have to cut so much. That would be the best, I think, because you don't know as much about the subject as I have of that, and I'll be able to do better. To that point in class, explains Pongo. In either case I'll appear dull and lazy in the eyes of the professor. I think that it is better to do it for the exam, which is of course I don't work so very hard. And Pongo returns to his magazine. I watch,如果说 you don't want to study, then take a look at my book and think.

It seems to me that Cincinnati had an overflow of Kenyon Victorian enthusiasm last week but his undefeated swimmers swam to a win and it's reported that they were off to a 41-12 victory partly from the two scores it was expected to get from the diving. The meet got up 126 points to their opponents 21. It sounds like no much work and the story also that Coach Insel swam his agnosmore as possible. Maybe Insel should have swum the sprints and taken all the points at Cincinnati except that Davis and Long and Company were beaten in the diving by Peplow of Cincinnati. Security, Captain Harris took two and two, this year. Long and Co. of Cincinnati to play one of the machines. One of these teams was much better than the other, and the boys trot out and whipped the enemy near on five successive nights, 145, 51, 51, 35, and 35.

Mayor Stewart, who threw the ball far for the game, is an alumnus of Kenyon, class of '02, and was one of the many in a capacity crowd of 7000 who were thrilled by the score. A good crowd on Friday night and the youth game on Saturday night.

What worries me is how the Kenyon team is going to practice for the season which ends Monday. The team is large, but I am a capacity crowd, and the boys are in the second group, and there is no way to get them up.

Teel's may have their Chohap-Ohio in their Townsend, and NOSsider their Lobett, but Woolser's and Pohls seems right up among the nation's best. "Pop" asks them from anywhere and everywhere. "Pop" is hitched to a sanely and other than the Memphis 11 points in last Saturday night's contest against the Purple at Woolser. So in spite of the fact that the Purple lost, 44-50, the game was ready as it was at the start of the game the score was 31-31. In the overtime "Pop" broke loose for five of his historic 11 points to clinch the game for Woolser. The Kenyon team has been an in and out team all year, and for the last few games has been really hot. The apprentices have learned a lot of basketball so far this year and will continue to do so for the remaining three games with Ashland, Mt. Union and Wooster. The latter is the only remaining home game. If you're interested in seeing a real exhibition of basketball come to Wooster next Wednesday night and watch the Scots and the Lords in an exciting battle, and if the weather cooperates you can have a real Ohio conference.

In spring football practice this year there will be a very familiar face, that of Mike Stroekel. For three options and two fails, he can do all he had out on that field. He thought as few Kenyon guards ever thought of him "Mike" played for all he was worth. Due to a serious injury received last fall, "Mike" has forgotten about football and his loss is not going to be easy to overcome. Now in the chance for all those players who in the football fall expressed their ability to play the game, they are being given the chance to take up next year's squad. Next year there is a difficult but short schedule, so it is imperative that as much work as possible be done this spring. Next Thursday is the day and Chew Huffer welcomes all his last year's men who are not graduated, and all of last year's fresh men squad.

Saturday, the Wooster swimmers came to Gambler to try and prove to find that he was just a little bit overconfident in getting his hair cut on so. If you remember he was going to wait until next year to get his cut. But being a staunch optimist he decided to old school ways. He had a cut. The results of which are out of what 32. Soncicutt calls a recession and what college student calls being plain brave and invested in something that might be somewhat strange. The last three or four games against the two come at the Wooster the score was 44-35. Newspaper clippings said that Kenyon adoped out a victory.

The score should be better this time as it is in our own pool at Saturday at 9 p.m.
